[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—Capt. A. Vladmir Seferovich, Montenegrin Consul in New York, issued tatement today defending King ias from what he termed charges e monarch had "sold his country to the enemy."

"The Montenegrins have been at for all of 500 years," he said, they never have had peace. The is rocky and poor; there is no ulture and no industries. So our ple always have lived the frugal

"At the beginning of the present our population was about 300,- with an army of 20,000 to which added 10,000 more who arrived America, a total of 30,000 of from 18 to 60. Out of that we have lost a third."

Capt. Seferovich declared that all Montenegrin artillery was of an type and that the infantry was ed with old Russian repeating and guns taken from the Austrians or Turks, while much of the artillery on hand was so old it was useless. "A fortnight after the declaration of war against Austria," he continued, "there was no flour to be bought in any of the little markets of Montenegro. I know instances where the army fighting in the trenches has been left days without bread. Bread has been the cry of the Montenegrin people for centuries. I ask anyone who has a heart to tell me if, under such conditions, a nation as small as Montenegro, surrounded on all sides by enemies, could better have resisted the enemy? What could anybody expect but destruction?

"And still I feel proud to say that notwithstanding all this the little army of Montenegrins who are left, with their king at their head, are making a last stand. If help comes in time perhaps the Montenegrins will be able to prove that they are still worthy of admiration. His Majesty, King Nicholas, who is a soldier and a poet, has reached the age of 75 years and has fought many battles. He loves his people and his people love him.

"We are dividing with our brethren, the Serbians, and we will stand by them as they have stood by us, until the Lord gives us peace again

NEW YORK AUTOS KILL AND MAIM.

Deaths Caused by Machines Far Outnumber Those of Other Vehicles.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—There were 23,980 street accidents in the city of New York during 1915, in which 659 persons were killed and 23,321 injured, according to a statistical report for the year issued by the police today. Of those killed, 44 per cent. were children. Automobiles caused 178 deaths; motor trucks 105; street cars 77; horse-drawn vehicles 100; boarding or leaving vehicles 47; collisions 42; other causes 110. Automobile accidents resulting in death or injury outnumbered every other class, 4865 having occurred.

COMMENT ON THE SITUATION.

On none of the major fronts of the field of war in Europe are notable military operations in progress so far as the official reports show. Not even from little Montenegro have there come additional reports of fighting following the indirect advices on Friday declaring that hostilities had been resumed after rejection of peace terms offered by Austria. The defeat of the Turks by the Russian army of the Caucasus, officially reported by Petrograd, is commented upon in a news dispatch from the Russian capital as an event looked upon as important by the military authorities there, as it caused the retirement of the Turkish forces to Erzerum, which is considered endangered by the Russian success. It is even held that the result may be favorable to the British operations in Mesopotamia as the Turks may have to withdraw forces thence to aid in the defense of Erzerum, one of the important Turkish centers of defense in this region.

The Mexican border situation remains tense as the result of the murder of another American citizen by bandits and the reports brought out of Mexico by a Los Angeles man of still other murders of Americans in the interior of Mexico.

Abduction.

ON HEELS OF PAIR.

Man Pursues Wife and Negro.

Tells Police His Discharged Chauffeur was Madly in Love with Her.

Believes Giant "Lone Wolf," with Threats to Kill, Carried Her Off.

Officers Scouring All the Coast Cities; May Lure Captor into Net.

ARRIVING in Los Angeles last night in hot pursuit of his beautiful young wife and a negro, who, he believes is holding her a captive, Van Lee Hood, a San Diego hotel man, told the police of her abduction from San Diego by Raymond Merrill Dodds, a giant negro and former prize fighter, and their flight to this city.

According to Mr. Hood the negro is a "lone wolf," associating only with white people, and had been infatuated with his wife for many months. He declared that the negro had threatened to kill Mrs. Hood, her parents and himself if she ever disclosed that he aspired to woo her.

The flight of the negro and his supposed woman captive from San Diego to the North and the pursuit of the husband stirred the police of the entire Coast and here a squad of officers searched the negro quarters of the city for a trace of the couple.

The man and woman left an open trail to this city but here they dropped from sight and the police could not pick up the lost thread. According to the information at hand Dodds and Mrs. Hood left San Diego on the United Stage automobile Friday morning at 9:30 o'clock. They came by stage, as the railroads are not running and no boat left the southern city. On their arrival in this city, Mrs. Dodds sent a telegram to her husband which read.

STRANGE TELEGRAM.

"I have taken the only course to keep my family from death and destruction. Am leaving here right now. Will write again soon. Go to mamma. She will tell you all. Brace up. You cannot suffer any more than I have been and am. Tell the people we had trouble and I left. Goodby.

"VIOLA."

This telegram was handed in at the Southern Pacific railroad telegraph station of the Western Union by a woman. The sender of the message paid for the wire with a $5 gold piece. From that time on all trace of the negro and woman was lost.

DRIVER'S STORY.

Harry Pool, of No. 822 West Twentieth street, who drove the stage that carried the couple from Del Mar to Los Angeles made the following statement regarding them.

"At noon Friday I was asleep at Cardiff just this side of Del Mar from where the stage line starts. I was called to the door by a woman who gave the name of Bessie Wood. She asked me how soon I could start the stage, and when I told her that I would have to eat my dinner, she turned to another driver and offered him money if he would get a machine and start at once.

"When I did start I placed the woman in the front seat of the machine and explained to her that one of my passengers was intoxicated and the other a negro. However, the woman complained that she was uncomfortable in the front seat and I stopped at Oceanside and she took a rear seat, the intoxicated passenger climbing up in front.

"In Los Angeles she asked me how near I would go to the Santa Fe station. I said Seventh and Central avenue. She then asked how to get to Santa Barbara and I told her. At Seventh and Central avenue the negro, who was very tall, ordered me to stop the machine and he and the woman alighted. I told her that she was in a lonesome part of the town and that if she would remain in the machine I would drive her to the Santa Fe station. Her reply was to the effect that the colored passenger had agreed to carry her baggage to the depot. They then started in the general direction of the depot and that was the last I saw of them. The negro was dressed in a brown overcoat, was light in color and well over six feet tall. The woman wore a check coat and a heavy green veil."

THREATENS REVENGE.

Mr. Hood, the husband, and a well-known San Diego business man, last evening told Detectives Beaumont, Williams, Glenn and Stevens that the negro had worked for him as a porter in the La Vista Hotel in San Diego. He declared that he had discharged him last September and that thereafter the man worked at various places, cleaning clothing and as a porter. He said he discharged the negro because he suspected him of theft. Thereafter, he said, Dodds frequently called Mrs. Hood on the telephone, complaining of the treatment he had received and threatening revenge. These threats Mrs. Hood conveyed to her mother, who, in turn, told Mr. Hood. They did not attach any significance to the threats, Mr. Hood said.

Mrs. Hood, however, frequently had

Martial Law Declared to Prevent Looting—Money Loss Incalculable—Mayor Succumbs While Directing Work of Rescue—Immediate Appeal to Congress may be Made for Assistance to Repair Damage Done.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

YUMA, Jan. 22.—From 250 to 300 families are homeless, 160 houses are floating down the Colorado River, the town is in darkness and void of water supply, martial law has been declared and the whole of the business section and part of the residential section are under from five to eight feet of water as the result of perhaps the most disastrous flood in the history of Arizona. The flood washed upon Yuma about 5:30 this morning when the government levee east of town broke and permitted the raging torrents of the Gila and Colorado rivers to sweep the town. Later in the day the reclamation levee west of the city also broke, inundating a large portion of the Yuma Valley and driving hundreds from their homes to the mesa. An unconfirmed report says that one ranch woman perished.

The only death which occurred in Yuma was that of Mayor C. H. Moore, who fell dead in the street at the very verge of the rushing waters from sheer exhaustion due to overexertion in trying to save the levee and rescuing families.

The damage in Yuma alone is estimated at one-half million, while that to the irrigation system and Valley farmers cannot be estimated.

At 6 o'clock this evening, the Colorado had risen five inches in three hours standing at 133.5 sea level gauge. About the same time this measurement was taken a fall in the river of three feet was reported 40 miles above Yuma while the Gila has been falling slowly all day.

CAUSE OF FLOOD.

The cause of the flood was a union of the flood waters of the Colorado and Gila rivers two miles above this city. All last night hundreds of men and teams worked hard to save the levee, but the rapidly rising waters and swift currents were invincible. A mass meeting of citizens this forenoon elected an executive relief committee which tonight is feeding hundreds of destitute people.

LOOTING.

Looting commenced early this morning resulting in the establishment of martial law. D Company, Eleventh Infantry, the sheriff and police force with a large number of special officers are patroling all available streets with orders to shoot any person caught in the act of looting. Quiet prevails.

The electric light, gas and water plants are inundated and out of commission. Main street is a few feet below the river and swift current is passing down this street, carrying all kinds of property into the current of the river proper. The Interstate Bridge is safe. But the water is lashing the girders of the Southern Pacific bridge and a few feet rise would greatly endanger this structure.

The highest water heretofore known in the Colorado at this point was 131.4.

Among the structures wholly lost is the Daily Morning Sun Of-

IMPERIAL VALLEY LEVEES ARE UNDERGOING SUPREME TEST.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CALEXICO, Jan. 22.—With the greatest flood in the Colorado River since the record of the renegade river was first tabulated, the structures protecting the Imperial Valley today had their supreme test and remain intact. Tonight the river is leaping and tearing in its wild rush to the Gulf of California, carrying furniture, roofs, lumber, brush and even giant trees on its crest. The discharge at Yuma is estimated between 150,000 and 160,000 feet by reclamation officials.

At Hanlon's Heading, the controlling gate on the intake fifty miles from here, the gauge reading this evening was 120.2. The record high mark before was 118 feet. The water is within four feet of the top of the concrete gate, and within eighteen inches of the approaches. Even though a rise should come, Chief Engineer Allison of the California Development Company, who is in charge of the crew at Hanlon's, said the water could be controlled. By long-distance telephone he reported tonight that half an acre of driftwood and debris was piled before the gate and, while part of his crew of fifty men were removing the obstruction others were reinforcing the structures. It is built in units, and what pressure there is is on individual radial gates, each of which would admit about 3000 second feet.

VIEW OF ENGINEER.

"Only a very decided rise would threaten danger," he said. "The crest is here and the water is receding, very slowly, but receding nevertheless."

On house No. 7, below the intake, where a shoofly was constructed in May, 1914, erosion was feared. Roadmaster John Scheehy of the Inter-California Railway, after making an inspection, declared that the river was not cutting and the current was being deflected to the Arizona side.

No apprehension is felt regarding the abnormal flood by those who understand the situation fully. Winter floods are of short duration, and the carrying capacity of the Alamo and New rivers would lessen damage to a small degree. While the river works received the test today, the waters today only began backing up against the Volcano Lake levee, twenty-five miles south of here. The Colorado about twenty miles below the Imperial intake turns into the channel of the Bee River and cuts westwardly. Still overflow waters back up against the levee, which is in first-class condition. It was raised last year at a cost of $300,000 and the crown is now forty-two feet above sea level, whereas the waters today reached but thirty-five feet.

ROCKWOOD ON THE JOB.

C. R. Rockwood, chief engineer, and Walter O. Hamilton, president of the Imperial Irrigation District, left for the levee and delta country to make personal observations of the rise of the waters. Assistant Engineer Anderson is on the ground with a crew of workmen.

Rockwood tonight telephoned from Volcano Lake to Secretary Berry of the district that the rise against the levee was slow. At Bowker's Gate, which is at the toe of Black Butte and head of New River, the rise was .3 while at Dominguez Slough it was .12 feet. The high water mark will not be reached before tomorrow afternoon or the next day.

LEVEES HOLD SOUTH OF HANLON HEADING.

Col. W. H. Holabird, receiver for the California Development Company, stated yesterday afternoon that the levees from Hanlon Heading southerly were holding in good condition, although the water in the Colorado River was within four feet of the banks' top. Engineer Allison has a force of 100 men, all taken over from the Imperial Valley, engaged in the work of reinforcing the banks with railroad steel.

"Since 12:30 o'clock," said Col. Holabird, "the water level has remained stationary, and this looks like it will soon be receding. I have given orders that no expense is to be spared to protect the levees and Mr. Allison has plenty of men and material at his command. I believe that the Imperial Valley irrigation system will go safely through this test.

"Mr. Allison has telephoned me that this afternoon much drift has been going down the river, and among it there are many articles of household furniture, probably from the flooded districts in Yuma.

"Mr. Allison reports that this is the highest stage of water in the Colorado River since the beginning of record keeping. If there is no further rise it seems certain that the levees will hold."

Supt. Whalen of the Los Angeles division of the Southern Pacific said late yesterday afternoon that the railroad bridge at Yuma was intact. Trains passed over it as usual, following rigid tests. A close watch is being kept on the structure.

PORTO RICO LINER IN A COLLISION.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—The New York and Porto Rico steamship Brazos, which left here today with ninety-four passengers on board, was in collision with a steamer off Barnegat, N. J., at 3:45 p.m. The Brazos was reported later to be returning to New York. The steamer Creole had gone to her assistance.

Franklin D. Mooney, vice-president of the Porto Rican line, said he had received wireless messages from the Brazos, which made confident the damage to the steamer was not serious. He expected the liner to reach her New York pier this evening.

The Brazos arrived at quarantine at 7:30 o'clock tonight and it is believed she will anchor there for the night.

Pledges of the Emperor and Fury of the Populace Make the Move Impossible—All Classes are Apparently United Against the Nobility—Popular Government Suppressed in the Land of the Muscovites.

BY JOHN D. BALDERSTON.

[SPECIAL FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, Jan. 3.—For many weeks past the attention of the world has been divided between the kaleidoscope of the Balkans, conscription in England, the formation of the allied war council, peace debates in the Reichstag, the attitude of Washington toward Germany and Austrian intrigues in America. Russia has been well-nigh forgotten excepting for references to her coming spring offensive and speculations concerning her munitions crisis.

Never since telegraphy came into common use has a great European country so shrouded itself in mystery as Russia has done for the past month. Not a single telegram—other than official and semiofficial communiques—was permitted to leave the empire for twenty-two days in December. All outgoing mails were stopped. No one was allowed to leave the country excepting a few officials on government business.

The veil has been lifted a little way—a mighty little way—within the past few days, and travelers, after being detained for weeks, have reached London. This means, in the view of the autocracy, that immediate danger of a revolution has been averted. The situation remains fundamentally unchanged. The silent struggle between the Czar and his people continues, although the tension has relaxed for the moment and the wild rumors which circulated throughout Western Europe during the twenty-two days when communication was severed have been proved untrue.

An accurate and fairly comprehensive description of the attempt to make use of the war to compel the autocracy to grant free institutions to the people has been obtained and is given below. The point of supreme interest at the moment to the few outsiders who know what is going on is the effect of the coming upheaval on Russian relations with Germany, although in ordinary times the world would follow with breathless attention the fate of a challenge thrown to the Czar by his people in the name of a political and religious freedom, irrespective of its effect on Russia's foreign policy.

GERMANY'S CHANCES.

Germany's chances to obtain a separate peace with Russia went glimmering in the early autumn, when, through the imperial Duma and the zemstvos and urban unions throughout the country, the people made known their determination to expel the invaders. This popular feeling swept before it the court party, which was ready to make peace. The Czar took the supreme command as a pledge to the nation that the war would be continued.

At present the war is being directed by the autocracy, the very body of men whom the Russian people believe would end the war if they could. There is consequently little hope of peace for Germany if the people, through the Duma, oust the autocracy and make of Russia a constitutional monarchy. The avowed aim of much of the propaganda in Russia characterized by the authorities as revolutionary, is to obtain a more vigorous prosecution of the war under leaders known to have no affiliations with Prussian interests.

Internal trouble in Russia may conceivably work to Germany's advantage in two ways. Assuming the overthrow of the bureaucrats, the best intentions of the new officials appointed by Parliament might not avail to prevent a period of disorganization which would demoralize the armies in the field. Russian progressives meet this argument by pointing out the success of the French convention in fighting half Europe after the overthrow of Louis XVI, despite the necessity to create a new governmental machinery and the political inexperience of the delegates. The Kaiser's second hope is that the autocracy, to keep its power, might prevail on the Czar to make a sudden peace and bring the armies home to ruthlessly crush out the movements for liberty. If there ever was a chance of this being attempted—which is doubtful—it has now, in the opinion of my informants, vanished; so bitter is the feeling of the country toward the Germans that retribution swift and terrible would fall on the governing classes if they should attempt such a coup, for the success of which the willingness of the army to make war on the people would be necessary. And today, for the first time in Russia's history, the army is the people.

EXPLANATION.

An explanation of the charge made by the Russian Liberals that the autocracy and the court are "pro-German" was given me by a member of the last Duma. "It would be absurd to say that they want Germany to win," this man said, "for they started the war themselves, hoping to crush the Teutonic power. But they say that the great autocracies of Prussia, Austria and Russia are natural allies. It was their ambition, by beating Austria and Prussia with French aid, to win the leadership in a future union of the three reactionary powers against the liberal trio, France, England and Italy.

"Now the attitude of our oligarchs is that the Teutonic powers have won the war unless they are crumbled to powder by a process of attrition which would last for years. It is far better for Russia, they say, to accept defeat and make an alliance with her enemies, recognizing Prussia as the predominant ally, than to permit Prussia and Austria to be utterly crushed. In the latter case they realize the autocracy in Russia cannot stand against the liberal influences of the victorious western allies. And from the point of view of the autocrats in Russia the aim of this war is the strengthening of autocracy. All else is subordinate to that.

"These schemes have been destroyed by the Russian people, who sensed, even if they did not reason out, the state of affairs. The people realize that in fighting to destroy the power of Prussia they are fighting for freedom at home, and they cling with all their hearts to the entente with the great liberal powers of England and France."

SITUATION IN RUSSIA.

The political situation in Russia at present may be summarized as follows: The Imperial Duma, both the upper and lower houses, has demanded the overthrow of the autocracy and the introduction of liberal government, which would make Russia, under the constitutional rule of the Czar, as free a country as England or France. The Czar's answer to this demand, embodied in a document already known in Russia as "Our Magna Charta," was to dissolve the Duma, forbid the meeting of popular representatives anywhere in Russia, and take military precautions against uprisings. There matters rested at the end of 1915, with a revolutionary agitation going on at one end of the political ladder and at the other a movement amonk the terrified governing class to persuade the Czar to abolish all vestiges of popular control, execute all the popular leaders and announce his intention to rule henceforth by the sword.

There were nine parties in the Duma when war broke out, ranging all the way from revolutionary members, who were later sent to Siberia, to those members of the "extreme right" who are now holding meetings urging the execution of most of their colleagues. In describing the monarchical congress which has just been meeting at a time when all other conferences are prohibited, these ultra-loyalists described all classes of society in Russia excepting their own as "rotting, Jew-ridden, engaged in the seizure of authority, lost for Russia, traitors, rebels."

MILITARY INCAPACITY.

Criticism of the incapacity of generals, the appalling results of grafting on army contracts and of favoritism in political appointments was rife in the Duma from the very beginning of the war. The government paid little heed, knowing that nine parties squabbling among themselves could do nothing. So long as affairs at the front went fairly well the Duma was permitted to talk as it would. But the terrible defeats which began in Galicia in May stirred Russia to its depths, and the people turned to the Duma for self-expression. The Zemstvos, or provincial Legislatures, which have some measures of legislative power, demanded that the Duma organize the nation for victory. Defeat followed defeat; the fall of Warsaw followed the loss of Lemberg; and to crown everything, the rumors that the Czar would yield to the enemy spread like a poison through the veins of the country. For the first time in their history the Russian people, in despair and agony, achieved a political soul. Until last summer the ruling classes did not know the meaning of the phrase, "public opinion." They know now.

Parties in the Duma began to coalesce. The government, like fleeing travelers on the Siberian steppes, who throw babies to the wolves to delay pursuit, sacrified Soukhomlinoff, the War Minister, made changes in the high commands, executed traitors in German pay belonging to the highest court circles. The Duma began to feel its power, and finally the famous "Block" was formed. This "Block," the cause of the present crisis, is composed of six of the nine parties; those abstaining are the revolutionist and the autocratic groups, the extreme left and extreme right. The "Block," which forms an immense majority of both houses, drew up for presentation to the Czar the "Magna Charta." The government, early in October, got wind of what was coming and dissolved the Duma, but this did not prevent the representatives of the "Block" from attempting to submit their demands to the Emperor. The Czar refused to see them, the publication of the demands was forbidden; but since the dissolution the text of the memorial has been circulated all over Russia.

MAGNA CHARTA.

The "Magna Charta" has reached London, and I summarize the all-important document, which represents an overwhelming majority of the Russian people. It is signed by representatives of all classes of society excepting the autocracy. In the upper house, the Imperial Council, V. Meilor-Zakomelsky signed for the group of the Center, which later made a separate declaration that final victory can only be won if the government yields. This group represents the great industrial and banking interests. For the academic group of the council, D. D. Grimm signed the memorial. In the lower house of the Duma, Count V. A. Bobrinsky signed for the Progressive group of Nationalists, V. Lvov for the Center, I. I. Dmiriukoff for the Octobrists, S. Shidlovshy for the group of the Union of October 17, I. Yefremov for the Progressists, and P. Miliukov for the party of National Freedom. Uncouth names, to the western ear, none of them ever heard outside of Russia; but some of those tribunes of the people may, if they live through the coming storm, take rank in history with Cromwell, Mirabeau, Danton and Washington.

The preamble of the Duma's address to the Czar alone was permitted to be published by the Russian censors. It demanded the creation of a united government of individuals enjoying the confidence of the country and in accord with the legislative bodies with regard to the execution of a definite programme at the earliest date. The document further demanded:

Decisive changes of methods of administration, which have hitherto been based upon distrust of public independent action; strict introduction of the principle of law in administration; abrogation of dual authority, military and civil, in questions that have no direct relation to the conduct of military operations; restoration of local administration; a wise and continuous policy directed to the preservation of domestic peace and removal of discord between nationalities and classes.

fice and a two-story brick building adjoining, erected in 1901 at a cost of $12,600. It belonged to J. M. Molina. In it were an auto agency and the New York Store, carrying a $30,000 stock. A lodging-house was upstairs. Numerous large structures must go down unless there is speedy relief.

Most of the supply stores are inundated and the smaller available stores are selling sparingly to make their supply alleviate the greatest possible number. Churches and all other available places have been converted into temporary quarters for destitute people.

TRAINS RUNNING.

Southern Pacific trains are running regularly, the track being several feet above the flooded districts. But one eating-house in eight is available, all the others being inundated. A special meeting of the City Council this afternoon voted an appropriation of all available city funds to repair the levee at the earliest possible moment. It is probable the inundation will last a number of days.

OLD BUILDINGS GONE.

Many of the oldest buildings in Yuma have disappeared beneath the swirling flood waters. It was estimated early tonight that at least 100 houses had been destroyed.

The Catholic rectory was in danger of being carried away at any time, and a squad of men were bracing it with props and sandbags. The building is two stories in height and constructed of adobe.

Wells Fargo Express Company was compelled to move from its building adjoining the office of the Yuma Examiner, which was flooded. The building which the Morning Sun was located was a complete loss, being one of the first to be undermined by the water.

Officials of the Reclamation Service estimated that from 150,000 to 175,000 second-feet of water was passing this point early tonight—the heaviest flood condition ever recorded here.

At least four miles of the government levee was washed out just below here and the waters have broken over the west main canal at several places, which necessarily must flood the greater part, if not all, of the Yuma Valley.

IN SAN PASQUAL VALLEY.

Across the river on the Indian reservation unit of the Yuma irrigation project conditions were equally bad.

Practically every house in the lower half of that section was almost buried under the seething, murky flood waters. It was believed that all the residents escaped.

WANT AID OF CONGRESS.

No estimates of the damage either in Yuma or the surrounding country could be made tonight. Several citizens stated that an appeal probably would be made to Congress for an immediate appropriation to repair the damage to the irrigation project, as serious injury would be done the farms of settlers if prompt steps were not taken.

FIELDS FLOODED.

Thousands of acres of agricultural land, both on the Arizona and the California sides of the Colorado, were inundated. The irrigation canals were filled to the breaking point and it was feared that serious damage would result to the gigantic irrigation project that supplies the Imperial Valley of California.

Communication to the farming sections near here was cut off, preventing the receipt of definite reports on the situation at many communities.

Several thousand head of stock were in the low sections of the Yuma Valley and it was feared that a large proportion of them have been destroyed.

In a bakery shop on the Mesa the Commercial Club has established a provision depot and gave out rations to the 600 persons who formed in a bread line. Most of them lived in adobe huts which were crumbled by the inrushing waters or in frame houses carried away on the river's crest.

Project Engineer Lawson of the Reclamation Service said tonight a two-foot rise in the Colorado has been reported to him by telegraph from Needles. It will be over thirty-six hours before it reaches Yuma, and by that time, he says, the Gila flood will have passed.

The monetary damage to the city alone was tonight fixed by E. F. Sanguinetti, leading merchant of the city, at $200,000, which is said to be a very conservative estimate.

A report that the Arizona, the new two-story brick structure which is the leading hotel of the city, was settling was denied. The report was that the foundation had weakened. Mr. Sanguinetti said the damage was principally confined to the two feet of water in the lobby.

It was recalled tonight that several months ago Mr. Sanguinetti offered to divide the cost equally with the city of building a railroad line on the levee which broke, raising it and rivetting with rock, which, if it had been accepted, would have shut out the combined waters of the Gila and Colorado which converge a few miles above the city.

Mr. Sanguinetti anticipated the flood by removing his stocks from the basements of his stores to higher ground or higher shelves.

OTHER BREAKS.

Besides the break which caused the inundation of the business district of Yuma there are four others reported. Above Yuma the Colorado overtopped the levee protecting the San Pasqual Valley, containing 16,000 acres, a large part of which are the Indian reservation lands.

At Mile Post No. 4 close to a mile of levee is washed out and a big head of water is rushing in. It was hoped that the western canal would absorb the water, but it cut across eastward. This breach is about two miles above Hanlon's Heading on the California side and served to relieve the pressure there.

At Mile Post No. 16 the river overflowed a levee which an official of the Reclamation Service said had not been finished up to grade, which, with a break at Mile Post No. 18, has let the raging waters into the Yuma Valley and they are flowing south back of the levees and a large part of the 80,000 acres will be covered by morning. The town of Gadsen is flooded and Somerton threatened.

The El Centro Chamber of Commerce tonight sent a telegram to the Yuma Commercial Club proffering assistance, which A. L. Verdugo of Yuma, for the present, declined with thanks.

Representatives of the United States Reclamation Service have ordered a cut made in the levee at Willit Siding to drain back into the river the overflow water which came through the break at Mile Post No. 4 today.

Southern Pacific officials stated tonight a washout was imminent at Arab Station, on the opposite side of the river, a few miles from Yuma. If this occurs train service will be blocked until the flood waters subside.

TURK FORTIFICATIONS CAPTURED BY SLAVS.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PETROGRAD, Jan. 22, 1 p.m. (via London, 3:50 p.m.)—The military authorities attach great importance to the defeat of the center of the Turkish army along a sixty-mile front between Lake Tortum and the Gelia River and Shariansou, with the resultant capture of the fortifications of Keupri Keui, which were defended by nearly an army corps.

The importance of Keupri Keui is due to the fact that it is the last natural stronghold on the road to Erzerum, thirty miles to the west, to which the Turks are retiring. It is considered possible that the victory will have an influence on the situation in Mesopotamia and oblige the Turks to withdraw forces thence for the defense of Erzerum.

Fatalities.

FOUR PERSONS DROWNED IN THE ARIZONA FLOODS.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

PHOENIX (Ariz.) Jan. 22.—Repair work on the railroad tracks, telegraph and telephone lines was being made today throughout Arizona, with the various companies using all available men at this work. The rivers and streams were within their banks at most places and flood waters rapidly were receding.

Traffic between Phoenix and Maricopa over the Southern Pacific line probably will not be restored for several days as the large steel bridge over the Gila River was almost totally wrecked by the flood.

The damage from the storm in Arizona will total several hundred thousand dollars. Many buildings in the low sections were damaged, thousands of acres of land flooded, the roadbed and bridges of railway lines damaged and hundreds of telegraph and telephone poles with their wires broken.

Four persons were known to have been drowned. Reports from several communities said that residents in the flooded districts were missing; but it was believed they had taken refuge in homes located on higher ground.

Transcontinental.

SNOWPLOW IS BURIED IN HEAVY LAND SLIDE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SEATTLE (Wash.) Jan. 22.—The Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway's transcontinental line was tied up in the Cascade Mountains today when an avalanche covering a section of the track 450 feet long buried a rotary snowplow near Lake Keechelus on the east slope of the mountains.

According to reports received at the general offices tonight no lives were lost in the snowslide.

The westbound train from Chicago found the track blocked by snow and was sidetracked while a rotary cleared the track. The rotary crew had just emerged from a tunnel when a huge avalanche swept down the mountain, burying the rotary and its locomotive under several feet of snow. The passenger train was not touched and was sent back to Ellensburg, Wash., where it was transferred to the Northern Pacific tracks, over which it continued its journey to Seattle.

FRENCH CENSORSHIP IN FOR CRITICISM.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PARIS, Jan. 21, 9:30 p.m. (delayed.)—Censorship as practiced by the French government was severely criticised by various speakers in the Chamber of Deputies today. No conclusion, however, was reached, the debate at the request of Premier Briand being postponed until Tuesday.

Jules Roche, Republican, proposed as an amendment to the bill a provision that censors should be known, instead of exercising their power anonymously.

Consolidation.

FORM GIGANTIC LEAGUE FOR NATIONAL DEFENSE.

An Adequate Navy and Larger Army Indorsed by Delegates.

Steps to Co-ordinate Organizations Which are Working for Preparedness are Taken at Meeting in Washington, Secretary Garrison's Efforts Encouraged as Far as They Have Gone.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—An indorsement of Secretary Garrison's efforts toward enlargement of the nation's military forces was voted today at the National Security League with the reservations that the regular mobile army should be even greater than that contemplated in the War Department plan, and that adequate national defense would depend ultimately upon "universal obligatory military training and service." A greater building programme for the navy than has been outlined by the Navy Department was urged as essential in another resolution adopted.

Steps to co-ordinate the work of the various organizations seeking greater armament was indorsed, and it was understood tonight that definite plans had been made for a general consolidation of such organizations in a defense league with Robert Bacon, former Secretary of State, as its president. Besides the National Security League, societies expected to enter the new organization include the Navy League, the Army League, the American Defense Society, the Aero Club of America and many others which have joined in the movement for preparedness.

FOR GARRISON PROGRAMME.

Adoption of the resolutions followed indorsement of Secretary Garrison's programme as a first sound step toward adequate preparedness by Elihu Root and Henry L. Stimson, both former Secretaries of War in Republican administrations. At a banquet tonight concluding the three-day meeting of the league, George W. Wickersham, Attorney General in President Taft's Cabinet, advocated universal military service and immediate repeal of the law under which the National Guard would be called into service in advance of volunteers.

Other speakers at the banquet were Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, ranking Republican member of the Foreign Relations Committee, who discussed "America's Danger," and George Haven Putnam of New York.

A set of resolutions, drafted by a committee of which Luke E. Wright, former Secretary of War, was chairman, were adopted almost unanimously. They follow:

"Be it resolved, that the defense of the United States depends upon an adequate navy and a national army founded upon a system of universal obligatory military training and service. This system must be wholly under the discipline and control of the national authorities. We deprecate all steps which tend to obstruct or postpone the adoption of such a universal system.

"That the National Security League indorses the efforts of Secretary Garrison to obtain an increase in the regular army, the correction of our faulty enlistment law, the establishment of an adequate regular army reserve, and the accumulation of an adequate supply of ammunition, artillery and material, but we believe that, in addition to the proposed quota of coast artillery and auxiliary troops, the mobile regular army within the United States should comprise at least four complete infantry [illegible] sions as recommended by the [illegible] College report of 1915.

"That the National Security League recommends the authorization [illegible] Congress of a council of national [illegible] fense as set forth in House Bill [illegible] 1833 of the first session of the [illegible] third Congress, commonly known [illegible] the Hobson bill, for the purpose [illegible] securing more harmonious co-opera[illegible] tion between the executive and [illegible] lative branches of the government with respect to the national defense.

"That the National Security League recommends the establishment [illegible] navy adequate to conserve the [illegible] tional interest in conformity with the following recommendations: That the personnel of the navy be increased [illegible] conformity with the requirements [illegible] the fleet as interpreted by the [illegible] eral Board of the Navy; that [illegible] shall be established for the navy [illegible] general staff, similar to the [illegible] staff of the army, as is customary [illegible] all other navies of the world; [illegible] that the National Security League [illegible] dorses the programme of July [illegible] 1915, of the General Board of [illegible] Navy and urges its immediate [illegible] tion by Congress."

"That a fundamental factor [illegible] problems of preparedness should [illegible] such intensive mobilization of the [illegible] ductive, industrial and commercial forces of the United States as will insure in time of war the [illegible] tion of their fullest resources at [illegible] stricted profit, to be regulated by [illegible] government.

"That in view of the fact that [illegible] great interest in national [illegible] throughout the country has [illegible] number of local and national [illegible] izations aiming to increase the [illegible] ciency of our military and naval [illegible] ice, the National Security League [illegible] mediately endeavors to avoid the [illegible] lapping of the effort and energy of these organizations by seeking [illegible] tive means of unifying and co-ordinating their activities."

KETCHAM OBJECTS.

The only vote against the [illegible] advocating universal military [illegible] was cast by William A. Ketcham [illegible] Indianapolis, who said he represented the Governor of Indiana. Mr. K[illegible] am objected vigorously when [illegible] chairman at first announced that [illegible] resolution had been adopted [illegible] mously.

Although officials of the [illegible] would not indicate tonight what [illegible] gree of definiteness had been [illegible] in the negotiations for amalgamation of the defense societies, it was [illegible] stood that the Navy League and [illegible] eral other bodies already had [illegible] to come in, and that Mr. Bacon [illegible] promised to accept the presidency [illegible] the new organization. Extensive [illegible] for combined campaign for preparedness already have been made, [illegible] said, and steps taken toward [illegible] a $50,000 fund in New York and [illegible] of a like amount in Philadelphia [illegible] sinking fund.

Mr. Wickersham, in his address [illegible] night, emphasized the necessity [illegible] wide publicity, saying he saw [illegible] of a change in the policy of the [illegible] tion "until the weakness and [illegible] ness of our traditional system is sharply brought home to the people."

DUTY OF CITIZENS.

READ THE FOLLOWING ENDORSEMENT FROM
The distinguished Russian Pianist, everywhere recognized as an incomparable master of the pianoforte.

Dear Sir:—I have never before been so completely satisfied with any piano at my public concerts or in my private use as with the Mason & Hamlin, which are remarkable in all the essential qualities which go to make up an instrument of the very first quality. They are, in my opinion, [illegible] all others because of certain important structural features (notably the Tension Resonator) invented and developed by yourselves, which in my judgment give them an exceptional position among the pianos of the world.

The action assists the player in a truly wonderful way. Whether in a crashing blow, or in repetition, staccato, or in the singing of a melody, the action sensitively responds at all times. As for the tone, it is always beautiful, full, with a remarkable clarity and musical quality, and its carrying or singing capacity is phenomenal. (Signed) OSSIP GABRILOWITSCH.

MOVIE REFORMER MAY HUNT A JOB.

NATIONAL CENSORSHIP BILL IS DOOMED TO DIE.

Towner's Substitute Appears to Suit Film Companies and Deals with Situation by Providing Punishment for Shipment of Immoral Pictures from State to State.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Jan. 22.—It looks very much as though the Rev. Wilbur Crafts, the reformer, who yearns to be the head of a national board of censors, will have to hunt some other kind of a job. The Hughes-Smith bill for a national board of censors is due to slide into oblivion.

Congressman Towner of the Committee on Education has introduced a substitute bill which is acceptable to the moving-picture men and meets the evil of immoral pictures. The Towner bill provides that any company sending improper films from one State to another can be punished in the same manner as a violator of the mail or interstate commerce laws. It is said that Congressman Fess and other members whose questions during the hearing indicated their sympathy with the censorship bill favor the Towner bill as a more fitting substitute.

The Hughes-Smith censorship bill, if it does not die in committee, will be fought hard in both the Senate and House. Representative Small of North Carolina said he would lead a fight against national picture censorship.

"The Hughes-Smith bill providing for Federal censorship of all motion-picture films," said Mr. Small, "is only one of the many activities seeking to have the Federal government take over the local police powers of the States, and supervise the morals of local communities. The State of North Carolina and all other States are amply equipped to supervise and censor all exhibitions of motion pictures, and can certainly furnish a commission or other constituted authority as well equipped to supervise the morals of its citizens as any commission appointed by the President or by Congress.

"I freely admit the popularity of motion pictures and their permanency as an educational factor. Like the press and the drama, moving pictures may be obscene, or may violate good morals, but they will be regulated and controlled by the force of public sentiment through the several communities and the States, fortified by such legislative machinery as may be necessary. So far as I can observe, this legislation is mainly advocated by a few ultraenthusiasts, who are accustomed to look to the Federal government for the rectification of any public evil and to hang around Washington instead of devoting their activities to the betterment of their respective communities and States. I will most assuredly vote against the Hughes bill."

REFUSE TO FIX DATE FOR REOPENING CANAL.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—Owing to uncertainty regarding the movement of slides in Gaillard the Panama Canal is not ready reopened, nor can a prediction its prospective reopening be according to a statement is- today by Maj.-Gen. Goethals, of the zone, which reads as intended to reopen the canal until a safe and practically permanent channel is reasonably assured. This can not be assured at present, although the operations of the dredges during the past four months have shown that they are able, when not interrupted in the work by passage of ships or the clearing of the channel for navigation, to gain on the slides, and it is desired to have a reasonable assurance that they can maintain this gain, even with the delay from the above causes."

GOOD ROADS BILL ARGUED IN HOUSE.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—Fifty five-minute speeches on the Shackleford $25,000,000 good roads bill, evenly divided between city Congressmen who oppose it and those from the country districts who support it, were delivered in the House today and more will be heard on Monday. The money would be apportioned to all States, conditional upon local co-operation.

Many opponents of the measure declared the proposed appropriation should be applied to preparedness expenditures.

CALOMEL SICKENS! IT'S HORRIBLE! DON'T STAY BILIOUS, CONSTIPATED.

I guarantee "Dodson's Liver Tone" will give you the best Liver and Bowel cleansing you ever had.

Calomel makes you sick; you lose a day's work. Calomel is quicksilver and it salivates; calomel injures your liver.

If you are bilious; feel lazy, sluggish and all knocked out, if your bowels are constipated and your head aches or stomach is sour, just take a spoonful of harmless Dodson's Liver Tone instead of using sickening, salivating calomel. Dodson's Liver Tone is real liver medicine. You'll know it next morning because you will wake up feeling fine, your liver will be working, your headache and dizziness gone, your stomach will be sweet and bowels regular. You will feel like working. You'll be cheerful; full of vigor and ambition.

Your druggist or dealer sells you a 50-cent bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone under my personal guarantee that it will clean your sluggish liver better than nasty calomel; it won't make you sick and you can eat anything you want without being salivated. Your druggist guarantees that each spoonful will start your liver, clean your bowels and straighten you up by morning or you get your money back. Children gladly take Dodson's Liver Tone because it is pleasant tasting and doesn't gripe or cramp or make them sick.

I am selling millions of bottles of Dodson's Liver Tone to people who have found that this pleasant, vegetable, liver medicine takes the place of dangerous calomel. Buy one bottle on my sound, reliable guarantee. Ask your druggist about me.

"I have used Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey for the past 14 years as a stimulant and tonic. For the three years I was Business Agent for the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, No. 3, N. Y. City, I had no colds, which I had formerly been subject to when not taking Duffy's as directed."—D. H. Armstrong, 96 E. 8th St., Flatbush, N. Y.

Look, Mother! See if tongue is coated, breath hot or stomach sour.

"California Syrup of Figs" can't harm tender stomach, liver, bowels.

Man and His Bride are Found Dead Together in Their Automobile.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

BELLEFONTE (Pa.) Jan. 22.—Victims of petromortis, William H. Noll and his bride of a few days, were found dead in a garage today. Mrs. Noll was sitting in their automobile and the husband was standing alongside the car, leaning over the door. The authorities say they were overcome by the fumes of gasoline and asphyxiated.

and restores us to our homes. There are many children, women and old men who have died of starvation but our people are Christians and they have not yet despaired of final victory.

"I have received communications from my government that put me in a position to protest against false reports from abroad which are aimed to destroy the reputation of my king. These reports are manufactured by the enemy.

"I protest against insinuations that transports loaded with supplies for Montenegro lay at anchor in the harbor of St. John of Medua and that those supplies were rotting in the boats because the Montenegrin government did not interest itself to land them. I declare that if such big supplies were at the disposal of the poor Montenegrins they would have kept our brave soldiers in better physical condition. I must add that the Montenegrins will not betray the allies. They would rather die than surrender."

Capt. Seferovich is the only diplomat or consular representative of his government in the United States.

THE KING AT BRINDISI.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Jan. 23, 12:33 a.m.—King Nicholas of Montenegro has arrived at Brindisi on his way to Lyons, according to a dispatch to the Stefani Bureau. Prince Mirko and three of the Cabinet ministers will remain in Montenegro at the request of the army, which has been placed in command of Gen. Stukovitch and will continue the fight in an endeavor to join the Serbians in Albania and co-operate with their allies defending Albania with its base at Scutari.

THE VIENNA REPORT.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

VIENNA (via London) Jan. 22.—The following official communication from general headquarters was issued today:

"Southwestern theater: The disarming of the Montenegrin army, which is a preliminary condition for further peace negotiations, is proceeding. For this purpose the Austrian troops, refraining from all hostile acts, have begun a march into the interior.

"The Motenegrin soldiers, when meeting our detachments, must surrender. If they surrender without offering resistance, they will be allowed to retain their villages and resume their civilian occupations. Those offering resistance will be forcibly destroyed or marched off as prisoners of war.

"This solution, based on military reasons, the peculiarities of the country, and the condition of the inhabitants, will give peace to Montenegro, which has long suffered under war. The Montenegrin supreme command has been informed of our purposes.

"Russian war theater: Along the entire northeast front artillery encounters occurred yesterday. Near Berestiany, in Volhynia, our troops repulsed Russian flying columns. Early this morning the enemy began an attack against portions of our Bessarabian front."

GIRL'S MIND BLANK.

Protegee of Mrs. Chester Alan Arthur, and Model for Lorado Taft, is Discovered in Portsmouth Railroad Station by Police.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

COLORADO SPRINGS (Colo.) Jan. 22.—With her mind practically a blank and unable to tell who she was Charlotte Rhea James, a beautiful 23-year-old Colorado Springs girl and protegee of Mrs. Chester Alan Arthur, wife of the son of former President Arthur, disappeared from her apartments in New York City several days ago and was found yesterday in the railway station at Portsmouth, N. H., according to word received today.

When found Miss James was attired in light evening clothes and was unable to relate how she came to Portsmouth. It is believed here that she had become mentally unbalanced. Miss James had been studying excessively. In addition to her musical work she posed for many of the pictures drawn by Charles Dana Gibson and other artists. Lorado Taft, the sculptor, used her recently as a model for the figure in his noted fountain, "The Spirit of the Great Lakes."

When her friends in New York were unable to find her in her room three days ago they instituted a search. Meanwhile a girl attired in evening dress was found by the police in Portsmouth, N. H. She had in her possession a letter from Lieut. Burkhardt of the U.S.S. Sacramento stationed at the Portsmouth navy yard. Through the officer her name was learned by the authorities who notified her New York friends.

David Starr Jordan Talks Across Continent.

Alumni of the Institution Banquet in the East.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

STANFORD UNIVERSITY (Cal.) Jan. 22.—President Ray Lyman Wilbur of Stanford University, who was inducted formally to office today, spoke tonight for ten minutes by long distance telephone to about 100 alumni of the institution who were gathered at a banquet in New York.

About 200 were assembled at the Palo Alto end of the transcontinental telephone circuit, all of whom were supplied with receivers which enabled them to hear all that was said from each end. John J. Carty presided for the telephone company at the New York end and introduced the speakers, while Harris J. Ryan acted in similar capacity at Palo Alto.

Chancellor David Starr Jordan of Stanford conversed with President Emeritus John Casper Branner in New York; President Wilbur's address was responded to by Thoreau Cronyn, president of the New York Alumni Club, and cornet solos were played at each end.

Others who exchanged greetings were: At Palo Alto, Leland W. Cutler, president Stanford Alumni Association; J. E. McDowell, secretary Stanford Alumni Association; Dr. A. T. Murray, Dr. C. L. Elliott, Dr. W. F. Durand and Mrs. Elsie Branner Fowler.

At New York, Howard S. Warren, New York Alumni Club; R. J. McClelland, secretary New York Alumni Club; Lindley Murray, Louis Elliott, Worth Durand and Mrs. John Casper Branner.

MANY ASK PAROLES.

State Board of Prison Directors Have Numerous Applications.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN QUENTIN, Jan. 22.—The State Board of Prison Directors held a business session today at the penitentiary here. While in session the directors will consider applications of eighty-nine prisoners for parole.

The attention of the board this afternoon was occupied by the fixing of the price of the 1916 supply of jute bags. It was announced that 25,000,000 bags had been purchased in Calcutta, India, at prices ranging from 12 1-4 to 12 1-2 cents. In order to compete with the foreign-made bags, the directors set a price of ten cents each for the 4,500,000 bags now on hand. According to advices received by the directors 60,000,000 bags will be needed for this year's crops.

HALTS INSURANCE TRIAL.

Alleged Accomplice's Confession Causes Sensation at Olympia, Wash.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

OLYMPIA (Wash.) Jan. 22.—The confession last night of Frank W. Stone, alleged accomplice in the State accident insurance frauds, that he forged the spurious claims halted the trial of Gillies today until Judge Mitchell can rule on the motion of the State to have Stone indorsed as a State witness. The confession came unexpectedly.

Judge Mitchell ruled this morning that before Stone's name could be indorsed as a witness for the State an affidavit would have to be filed making a showing why such action should be taken.

"It's all a lie and a frame-up," Gillies declared today when he read of Stone's confession.

WATER BODY CONSOLIDATION.

Conference at San Francisco Favors An Amalgamation Eventually.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 22.—Ultimate consolidation of all State bodies dealing with water problems was indorsed today by persons appearing before the State Water Problems Conference, but it was agreed that conditions did not make such a course desirable now.

Utilization of county tax machinery for the collection of funds to pay irrigation bonds and coupons was favored.

Members of the conference said lack of funds might impair the usefulness of the conference. It was suggested that if funds were available and authority given it, the conference might employ attorneys to revise the mass of statutes on water problems so as to coordinate and clarify the laws. At present there are 206 statutes relating to one phase of water problems, it was said.

Central control of all water matters was deemed desirable but the proper directing authority was not designated.

STUDENT SELF-GOVERNMENT.

President Wheeler of U. of C. Declares Plan Works Well.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

BERKELEY (Cal.) Jan. 22.—Student self-government really works in the University of California, according to President Benjamin Ide Wheeler in his annual report to Gov. Johnson, which has just been issued.

"Since November, 1899," says Wheeler, "when a case of student discipline was first referred by the president for counsel and advice to an informal committee of the senior class, our system of student self-government has been steadily growing in range and effectiveness and in the confidence felt toward it on the part of the student body. And to the credit of the system it may be said unhesitatingly that in all the various cases which in the sixteen years have come before it there has rarely been one in which the substantial facts were not laid clearly bare. Very seldom has the defendant refused to cooperate in finding out or revealing the facts or sought to hinder the inquiry by concealment, except for a natural inclination to place favorable interpretation upon the conceded facts of his own conduct."

WELSH PRESS BRITONS FOR TERMS OF PEACE.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Jan. 22, 10:10 p.m.—The Welsh branch of the Independent Labor party has passed a resolution asking the government to make a statement with reference to terms of peace.

PERSIA PUZZLE REMAINS UNSOLVED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—The State Department virtually has abandoned hope of determining what destroyed the British steamship Persia, sunk in the Mediterranean with a loss of at least two American lives.

Austria-Hungary and Germany have disclaimed responsibility for the disaster, and affidavits of surviving passengers being inconclusive, but one avenue remains open. This is through the British government, which had in its possession affidavits from members of the crew. The affidavits were turned over to a British consular representative at Alexandria, Egypt, and were forwarded to London. The State Department has not yet been advised that the documents have reached their destination.

It is known that the Persia's crew was on the lookout for submarines for some time prior to the explosion which sank the ship, and the State Department will not finally decide that the cause of the disaster is an unsolvable mystery until the contents of the crew's affidavits are known. The opinion prevails, however, that if conclusive proof that the Persia was torpedoed was contained in the affidavits, mention of the fact would have been made before this time by the British government.

A rejoinder to Austria's latest reply regarding the Ancona case has been held up pending the possible receipt of more information regarding the Persia. Officials consider that there is a possibility the situation may yet so develop as to warrant mention of the Persia in the rejoinder but the Ancona negotiations probably will not be delayed much longer on that account.

The State Department tonight had heard only through press dispatches of the disclaimer regarding the Persia delivered to Ambassador Penfield by the Vienna Foreign Office. A dispatch from the Ambassador momentarily was expected, however.

STORY OF DOWNS.

substance of the story told by follows:

crossed the river into Mexico morning and went down by San Lorenzo, searching the countryside, working our way toward Juarez. Barrios, the Mexican detective, was the only man of us armed. Directed by a dairyman, we finally found a house occupied by some men who, the dairyman said, recently had stolen cattle in the neighborhood. It was an old flat-roofed adobe house about three miles south of the border opposite West Ysleta.

"We rode up to the house. In the corral we saw the Murphy cows. Their ears had been cut off and they had been rebranded to disguise them.

"Barrios knocked on the door. Federico Duran answered. He knew Akers and I were Americans and recognized Akers, having known him in Ysleta. 'Hello, Chappo,' he said. Chappo is Akers's nickname.

"Federico asked what he wanted and Akers replied that we wanted to look at the stock in the corral. Federico said he would have to see his brother Bernardo and turned back into the house.

"I had a hunch something was about to break loose, and asked Barrios if he was going to arrest the men. We went to the corral and by this time could see five men in the house. I told Barrios I thought there were too many for us to tackle. Pretty soon all the men came running out armed with six-shooters. They put up a ladder and mounted to the roof. I shouted to Akers and Barrios to watch out.

"The Mexicans started to shoot and kept popping mainly at Akers and me. Akers had dismounted and had little opportunity to get away. I cut across an irrigated field on my pony and Akers came running behind. The field was soft. My pony was to his knees in mud. Akers, in boots, was laboring hard and shouting to me to wait. I pulled him up on the pony behind me. Barrios had gone around on the other side of the house.

"A heavy-set Mexican, Bernardo Duran, I believe, had mounted Akers's horse and was coming after us, yelling like an Indian and shooting at every jump. My pony jumped one irrigation ditch with his double load. When he tried to jump the next he fell. I went out of the saddle and started afoot. Bert got into the saddle. All the Mexicans now were after us, popping at us from every side.

"I told Bert if he rode, I rode, too, and got on the pony behind him. The biggest Mexican chasing us was now close behind, pumping at us as fast as he could load his gun. I decided I stood a chance on foot and jumped off the pony again, aiming to get behind a tree. We had reached the road by this time.

"When I jumped from the pony I fell. As I got up the big Mexican on Akers's horse pulled up.

"'I will kill you if you run,' he said in English.

"I said I did not intend to run and he said he would kill me, anyway, and fired almost in my face, but missed. The Mexican then took out after Akers. I ran full tilt down the road for about a mile until I came to the house of a Mexican rancher. He was scared almost to death and wouldn't let me in, but I got directions to the house of an American named Smith. I started running again after throwing away my coat and finally reached a two-story red brick house which was the Smith house, where I stopped exhausted.

"Pretty soon a Mexican boy came riding by and told us some Mexicans had just killed a gringo because he had violated an old Mexican custom that forbade prying into private corrals. I told Smith I didn't want to put him in bad and would leave. He gave me a coat and sent his boy to guide me out by a way that would hide me from pursuers. The boy showed me the way to get to the border, which was just a mile.

"I got back across the border about 5 o'clock yesterday evening and told the whole story to a bunch of Texas rangers. The rangers spread along the border, hoping the Carranza troops would make it so hot for the thieves that some of them might cross the line."

CHARGE GERMANY INCITES HOLY WAR.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22. — The British embassy today issued the following: "The Times correspondent at Saloniki reports that the examination of enemy consulates' archives still is incomplete. Among documents found at the Consulate of His Majesty of Austria are 1500 copies of a long Arabic proclamation to Senussi chiefs inciting them to holy war on non-Germanic Christendom. They were found in a sealed parcel addressed to the Austrian military attache at Athens.

"The proclamation contains the following words: 'Of all instruments Allah has chosen for protection of our religion the surest is the German nation. In these circumstances we have realized the imperious necessity of proclaiming a holy war. In Northern Africa the most powerful ruler and one possessing most authority in the Mussulman world is His Excellency the Imaum, illustrious exemplar champion of Islam in the cause of Allah, who is our Lord and Master, the sure guide of all elect. This leader is bred in the truth of the Koranic law and his soul shining with its pure effulgence has undertaken the task of purifying all corrupt souls and directing them in paths of life revealed by the Holy Book given all Mussulmans.'

"There is evidence that this proclamation was produced in Germany, a country whose monarch always is invoking God."

ENTIRE MEXICAN STATE OVERRUN BY BANDITS.

Andrew J. Trumbo of Los Angeles Declares Authorities are Powerless to Preserve Order, that Americans Have been Slain and Gen. Aguilar is Exacting Tribute from Everybody Who Passes Through.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

DOUGLAS (Ariz.) Jan. 22.—The state of Oaxaca, Mex., is overrun with bandits who have been carrying on a campaign of murder and plunder, despite every effort of the Carranza authorities to preserve order, according to an affidavit made by Andrew J. Trumbo of Los Angeles, who arrived here early today from Oaxaca, the capital of that state.

"Twenty miles southwest of Ejutla, I saw the bodies of six men hanging to trees. I was told by Mexicans that they were Americans," Trumbo stated in his affidavit. "No one knew their names.

"About a quarter of a mile further on I saw two more badly decomposed bodies hanging to a tree. I was told they also were Americans, but I could not find out their names. The bodies all were too badly decomposed to attempt to identify any of them or to obtain even a general description."

CONDITIONS UNBEARABLE.

Conditions became so unbearable that he could not remain in the Mexican state with his family, Trumbo declared in his statement in explaining his departure from Mexico. He and his wife were mistreated and insulted, he said.

The affidavit of Trumbo, to which were appended his passports, letters and receipts to show that he had been in localities mentioned in the statement, follows:

"My name is A. J. Trumbo and for eleven months I have been employed by the Indiana-Oaxaca Mining Company, with headquarters at Mina El Carmine. While the government of that state affords all possible protection to foreigners, the country is overrun by bandits and dominated on the north by Gen. Aguilar, a former Federal commander, who exacts ransom from every foreigner passing through his stronghold at Telapa.

"He is fortified there by 300 ex-Federal soldiers armed with cannon and machine guns. Their position is such that they entirely dominate that section of the country, and they can easily stand off an army of 20,000 Carranza soldiers.

"Zapata bandits are evrywhere, within a half mile of the railroad. They frequently dynamite trains and are robbing or killing foreigners at will.

"On one train dynamited just outside of Tehuacan, twenty-three of twenty-four passengers were killed.

"Twenty miles southwest of Ejutla, I saw the bodies of six men hanging to trees. I was told by Mexicans that they were Americans. No one knew their names.

"About a quarter of a mile further on I saw two more badly decomposed bodies hanging to a tree. I was told these also were Americans, but could not find out thei rnames. The bodies all were too badly decomposed to attempt to identify any of them, or to obtain even a general description.

"U. R. Burton, an American mining man, was forced to pay $1000 gold and was then put in jail under penalty of death to extort more money. He refused and was later released. He fled to Tehuacan.

JAP EXCLUSION BROACHED AGAIN

San Jose Congressman Harping on the Same Old String.

Furious Debate in a Secret Session of the Committee.

All Yellow and Brown Men Barred by New Clause.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Jan. 22.—The question of a Japanese exclusion act came up today in an executive session of the House Immigration Committee.

Congressman E. A. Hayes of San Jose brings up this question nearly every session. This was his annual outburst. A somewhat furious debate is said to have taken place at the secret session with the committee pretty evenly divided.

Finally they compromised the matter by a resolution to refer the matter to the Secretary of State for his decision as to whether such an act would be likely to endanger the peace of the United States.

They might as well refer to him the question as to whether water is wet. In the present strained state of affairs, it is considered unlikely that the committee will bring the matter of Japanese exclusion before the House.

DRASTIC RESTRICTIONS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—Drastic restrictions would be thrown about the immigration of Japanese into the United States and both Hindus and Chinese virtually would be barred from the country by a provision that has been written into the immigration bill to be reported to the House next week by the immigration committee.

The new features relating to immigrants from Japan would have their most far-reaching effect in the expectation of committee members in shutting off effectually the influx of Japanese laborers, whose competition with American labor on the Pacific Coast has aroused a pronounced anti-Asiatic sentiment.

As agreed upon tentatively by the committee, the exclusion section of the bill includes a paragraph barring "Hindus and all persons of the Mongolian or yellow race, and the Malay or brown race."

Before a report is made to the House, however, a proposed qualification probably will be added providing that there shall be such exemptions as may be set forth in any existing agreements, as to passports or by treaties, conventions or agreements that may hereafter be entered into.

For several years Representatives from the Pacific States have been fighting for legislation to exclude Japanese, Chinese and Hindu laborers. Two years ago, after a stormy debate, the House Immigration Committee agreed that in order not to burden the pending general immigration bill with an Asiatic exclusion issue, there should be a separate exclusion bill. The measure later was dropped, however, at the suggestion of State Department officials, who held that it would seriously complicate negotiations with Japan over the California alien land law.

Exclusion of Chinese and Japanese students, business men, travelers and certain other excepted classes is not anticipated by members of the committee, but the bill is expected to put into legal form and amplify an informal agreement entered into eight years ago by Secretary Root and the Japanese Emperor, under which Japan agreed not to issue passports to Japanese laborers emigrating to the United States. Other provisions of the bill would raise the head tax on immigrants to $8 and would increase the penalties.

Both fines and imprisonment would be authorized for offenders and any steamboat company bringing an alien later deported would be required to refund the cost of his trip.

Both the Asiatic exclusion section and the literacy test provision of the bill are expected to precipitate a vigorous debate when the measure comes up in the House. The requirement for a literacy test has caused the failure of three previous immigration bills through Presidential veto.

BANANA TRUST SUIT.

United Fruit Company Wins Case Involving Millions of Dollars Under the Sherman Anti-Trust Law at Philadelphia.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22.—A jury in the United States Court here today returned a verdict for the defendant in the suit of the Bluefields Steamship Company against the United Fruit Company. The suit was entered under the Sherman anti-trust law and was known as the banana trust suit. Millions of dollars were involved in the litigation. The jury had the case under deliberation since Thursday afternoon.

Originally the action was for the recovery of $15,000,000, the steamship company alleging that its business had been damaged to the extent of $5,000,000 and the law permitting triple damages, but the amount was greatly reduced by a ruling of the judge that the statute of limitations permitted the collection of damages only from 1905 to 1911.

It was alleged that the defendant violated the Sherman act in acquiring stock control of the Bluefields Company and then throttling the concern as a competitor.

HUE AND CRY FOR MURDERER.

Chicago Police May Carry Revolver in Waist Holster Hereafter.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Jan. 22.—As a result of yesterday's street murder a description of the policeman's assailant was given today to the police of every city within a radius of 500 miles of Chicago.

William La Trasse, who escaped from the Kansas State penitentiary in 1913, was said by the police to answer in many particulars the description of the fugitive, and police were ordered to find him.

Mayor Thompson today, after inquiring into the murder of the policeman, suggested that the hip pocket is the worst place for a policeman to carry a revolver and that a change in uniform be made enabling the officers to carry the weapon in a side pocket or waist holster.

DES MOINES (Iowa) Jan. 22.—The State Supreme Court today ruled that the Des Moines Municipal Court Bill was legally adopted in the recent special election. The legality of the street car franchise awarded the Des Moines City Railway also was upheld.

The principal point decided was whether women were legally entitled to vote in the election. It was the vote of the women which gave the Municipal Court proposition a majority of fifty-six.

Aguilar and robbed of all his money, about 400,000 pesos, which is equivalent to $30,000 gold."

HAMILTON SUFFERS.

A Mr. Hamilton, an American mine owner at Taviche, suffered similarly, Trumbo stated, because he was found to possess a passport signed by Gen. Pablo Gonzales. He was released when he paid the ransom demanded, according to the affidavit.

Trumbo said Clifford Robinson, American consular agent at Oaxaca, knew of the outrages, but was unable to report them because Aguilar censored his mail.

Trumbo named a number of other foreigners in his affidavit, who, he said, had been victims of Aguilar's alleged brigandage.

He declared it was unsafe for any Americans to pass through Aguilar's camp since the latter has learned of the recognition of Carranza by the United States. Trumbo said the people of Oaxaca wanted to turn the state over to some established government and had sent a deputation to Gen. Carranza.

"I was informed that Carranza told those who visited him he intended to take the state by force of arms," Trumbo added.

Bold Hold-up

Four Physicians, a Chinese Doctor, and Christian Science Practitioner Examined the Man.

All shook their heads and stated death was caused from uric acid blood poison. His heart and kidneys failed to work, he grew weak and emaciated, his feet and limbs bloated and turned black. After suffering three months the patient died.

Had the patient taken McBurney's Kidney and Bladder Medicine when he felt the first effect of uric acid poisoning, he would have been promptly relieved.

Dear Reader, if you are suffering with the above symptoms or passing brick dust deposits, purchase from your druggist one bottle of McBurney's Kidney and Bladder Medicine, and see how quickly you will recover.

A SWORN STATEMENT.

Los Angeles, Cal.

Mr. McBurney—

I suffered with kidney and bladder troubles for twenty years. My physicians claimed my trouble to be an incurable case of Bright's disease. They gave me very little relief. One dose of your Kidney and Bladder Cure relieved me, and two-thirds of a bottle cured me of Bright's disease, dyspepsia, and relieved me of chronic rheumatism. I am confident that if I had not taken your medicine I would now be in my grave; the result is I am now able to do most any kind of work in my 86th year.

If you suffer in this way from uric acid poisoning there is no reason for you to continue to do so. Dr. Pierce of the Invalids' Hotel, for over forty years a world-known institution of Buffalo, N. Y., has discovered an antidote for uric acid to drive this poison out of the system. This solvent of uric acid, which is many times more efficient than lithia, and is absolutely mild and harmless, is called Anuric.

Anuric Tested in Los Angeles.

Since its introduction here Anuric has fully proved its value to the many who have called and seen Dr. Pierce's personal representative at the Sun Drug Store, northeast corner of Broadway and Fifth street, where he daily meets all who wish to investigate the merits of the uric acid antidote. If you are a sufferer, go there and see how well it is indorsed by those who have tried it and been relieved.

WILSON TO PLAY IMPORTANT ROLE

President may Act in War at the Proper Moment.

Col. House's Visit to London Causes Speculation.

Responsibility of America the Theme in Europe.

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Jan. 22.—Edward Price Bell cables from London to the News today:

Reports are heard with persistency that President Wilson intends, at what he deems the proper moment, to assume an important role in relation to the war. These reports arise after the visit of Col. House to London. It is said that this role will be acceptable to all states and favorable to law, justice, peace and the liberty of nationalities. By way of explanation of what has taken place in Mr. Wilson's mind, one hears that he has been acutely sensible, first, of the menace to civilization developed by this war, and, secondly, of the responsibility resting on America because of its great actual and greater potential strength to defend civilization against this menace.

It may be said at once that the world generally would welcome with enthusiasm such an initiative and such a policy on the part of the President of the United States. Foreign opinion has been estranged from America and this statement applies to both groups of warring powers. It will not be disputed by anyone acquainted with the facts. Careful consideration leads me to attribute this estrangement fundamentally to the feeling abroad that America thus far in this war has not shown herself sufficiently conscious of her oneness with modern humanity. The world has resented our clinging to our isolation and our parochial traditions when it is believed that civilization is being torn in pieces and when small, helpless nations are being destroyed in circumstances of unspeakable horror. The world, as I understand it from conversations with many of its most intelligent representatives, wishes America to play a part worthy of her in the affairs of humanity—such a part, I imagine, as Mr. Wilson is now contemplating. The ablest men I know have not wished America to come into this war with anything more tangible than the voice of her conscience, but they have wished her to come in with this in trumpet tones. Now these men are beginning to think, in view of the reports concerning Mr. Wilson's prospective policy, that America in the future will contribute to the support of civilization, not only by the intangible but invaluable voice of her conscience, but by the tangible might of an adequate fleet and an efficient army backed by a nation trained for war.

In other words, the conviction is growing that America, realizing that she is a part of the very texture of organized human life on this planet, intends to forsake her tradition of hemispherical isolation and join a league of sympathetic powers pledged not only to peace as a pious aspiration, but to peace as a concrete, permanent fact.

HOUSE SEES SHARP.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PARIS, Jan. 22.—Col. E. M. House, President Wilson's personal representative, had a long talk today with the American Ambassador, William Graves Sharp, at the Embassy, after which he received the newspaper representatives, among them several French reporters.

Numerous questions were asked concerning his mission, but Col. House declined to discuss this subject, referring to the statement given out at the time of his departure. Nor would he talk of his conversations with the Ambassadors at London and Paris.

As to his impressions of Europe now, as compared with those he had gathered on his last visit, he was equally silent.

Col. House will leave tomorrow for Switzerland, where he will spend a day with the American Minister, Pleasant A. Stovall, and will proceed there to Germany and Austria. On his return to Paris he will remain about a week. He expects to sail from Falmouth on February 19.

IN BERLIN TUESDAY.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

BERLIN, Jan. 22 (via London.)—Ambassador James W. Gerard received word today that Col. E. M. House, personal representative of President Wilson, will arrive in Berlin next Tuesday morning and remain until the following Sunday.

Mr. Gerard is arranging a series of dinners in honor of Col. House so that he may be able to meet the most prominent men of Germany, including Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg, Gottlieb von Jagow, Minister of Foreign Affairs; Dr. Walter Rathenau and many others.

INDICTED MEN FIGHT REMOVAL.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—Former Representative H. Robert Fowler of Illinois, Henry B. Martin and Herman Schulteis of Labor's National Peace Council, under indictment in New York for alleged conspiracy to violate the Sherman anti-trust act by restraining the shipmennt of munitions of war to foreign countries, appeared here today before a United States commissioner to fight removal to New York. Arguments were made for the three men but the hearing was not concluded and will be resumed Monday.

It was argued that the indictments against the three men charged not a direct conspiracy to restrain trade as is forbidden by the act, but that they are charged with using other persons for that purpose and that no indictable offense has been shown.

Fowler declared the indictments vague and insufficient and said he would later show they were procured by bribery. David Lamar and Frank S. Monnett, two others indicted in the same case, who have appeared in New York to answer, were spectators.

TO SEND MORE FOOD INTO PETROGRAD.

Autocracy at Stake.

forms which, the declaration laid down, mut be carried into effect before the unity of the Russian people will be attained and a firm, strong and active authority created which can lead the country to victory:

All political and religious prisoners in confinement must be set free by the Czar, and all prosecutions of such a nature stopped, while full political and electoral rights must be granted the persons condemned for such offenses. The only prisoners exempted from this amnesty are those who have committed acts of a "general penal character." This would prevent the liberation of assassins.

All political and religious exiles must be returned.

Temperance must be ratified forever.

Complete and decisive discontinuation of persecution for belief, under whatever pretext, is demanded, and attention drawn to the Czar's violated pledge to this effect extorted during the 1905 revolt.

Entry upon the path of abolition of restriction of the rights of the Jews, in particular further steps toward the abrogation of the pale, facilitation of access to educational establishments and abolition of hindrances in the choice of professions; restoration of the Jewish press. This is not the least important demand.

A conciliatory policy toward Finland, with no more persecutions of local officialism, is demanded.

The immediate passage of a bill for the autonomy of the kingdom of Poland is asked, with the abolition of the restriction of rights of Poles throughout Russia.

The following radical steps for the betterment of the industrial and peasant classes are demanded:

Equalization of the peasants in the rights with all other classes.

Restoration of trade unions; cessation of the persecution of walking delegates on suspicion of belonging to non-authorized parties.

More leisure for commercial employees; redress of grievances of postal and railway workers.

Restoration of the labor press, which has long been suppressed.

After demanding that the government at Petrograd give up direct control over the outlying districts of Siberia, Archangel province, the Don province and the Caucasus, and intrust those vast regions to local legislatures, or Zemstvos, the memorial makes a direct demand for the abolition of the power of the Czar over the army.

The agreement of the government with the legislative institutions is asked for "all bills having immediate connection with national defense, the equipment of the army, security for the wounded, settlement of the lot of the refugee and other questions indirectly connected with the war."

It will be noted that this demand, while ostensibly leaving questions "directly" connected with the war in the hands of the government, secures control over the "equipment of the army," and hence over the finances necessary for carrying on the war. This was the point of the struggle between Charles I and his Parliament over who should govern England.

As has been said, the Czar dissolved the Duma when the "Block" was formed and the "Magna Charta" drawn up. For several days an outbreak was feared; a general strike began in many cities, and even munition workers went out. Troops had been concentrated in Petrograd and Moscow before the dissolution was announced, and nothing happened. The striking workers, urged by their leaders to go back for the sake of the army at the front, returned to work and of their own accord put on so much overtime that in a week they were able to boast that their protest had not cost the army a single shell or overcoat.

During the succeeding weeks, and up to the present time, the autocracy has played for delay. It was announced, when the "Block" was formed and the Duma dismissed, that the prorogation was temporary and that Parliament would be reconvened November 30. During November the provincial parliaments unanimously backed up the action of the "Block" in the Duma, and a great congress of Zemstvos in Moscow was called for December. There is little doubt that if such a congress had met it would have attempted to bring pressure on the government to reconvene the Duma, and the congress has been ordered "indefinitely postponed."

The opinion of Liberals that the Czar had no intention of calling the Duma together was justified when, on November 30, the government again postponed the session. The pretext given was that the budget commission of the lower house had not prepared its reports in time. What happened was that the government dumped fifty-two estimates on the commission for consideration a month later than they are usually submitted, and only a few weeks before the Duma was to meet. The commission, as M. Rodzianko, president of the Duma, courageously announced, discovered a little error of $75,000,000 in the government's accounts and accordingly added that sum to the deficit. The Czar ordered M. Rodzianko to report to him as soon as the budget commission was ready to report, and this was done, but the reassembly of the Duma is still being put off on various pretexts concerning the irregularity of the procedure of the budget commission.

Meanwhile, during December, the sinister monarchist congresses have been meeting in Moscow and Nishni Novgorod. They consist of supporters of the existing regime, and the reactionary Minister of the Interior, M. Khvostoff, sent them his compliments when they met, while the Czar received from representatives of these congresses an address urging him to maintain the autocracy "as the sole means of saving the country from the rising tide of revolution."

ALLIANCE WITH GERMANY.

The leaders of the monarchist organizations were in favor of an alliance with Germany before the war, and are thought to still cherish the same aim. Their leader, M. Maklakoff, urges the total suppression of the press during the war. The congresses petitioned the Czar to entirely abolish all constitutional pledges given in the past. They pointed out in the address to the throne that the demands of the parliamentary "Block" are inadmissible because of the necessity for "guarding the buttresses of Russian public life," and that the memorial of the Duma "is in insolent disrespect of the supreme authority and directed to the usurpation of the prerogatives of the monarch." In any case, the congresses urged, this is no time to raise issues affecting domestic politics.

Far more important than the attitude of the members of these congresses, who are creatures of the autocracy and represent nobody excepting the official class, is the benevolence of the government toward their fiery sentiments of reaction. The Czar was noncommittal when he received the address of the monarchists; but he would not receive at all the "Magna Charta" of the Duma. At the very time when the monarchists' congresses were meeting with the good wishes of the powerful Minister of the Interior, M. Khvostoff, forbade the convention of the representatives of the Zemstvos and urban councils, elected by the people, on the ground that the atmosphere of Moscow was at present unfavorable to such assemblies. M. Khvostoff is a newcomer, but he is already called by the Liberals "the strong man of the reaction," and many expect him to supplant the venerable reactionary Goremykine as Premier.

In this summary of the present situation in Russia the personal attitude of the Czar has not been considered, and manifestly that is of the utmost importance. Under Russian law, the Czar is the supreme boss, and can make peace or fight for a decade just as he likes. The career of the present monarch has shown that he is in sympathy with reactionaries who surround him and take good care that "dangerous" influences are not permitted to approach the royal presence. Judging from his past record, Russian Liberals see no reason to suppose that the Emperor will yield anything to his subjects which he does not have to grant. They have little hope that he will of his own accord become a constitutional monarch by accepting the demands made by the Duma.

On the other hand, there are personal reasons why the leaders of the Duma have little fear that the Czar will make peace with Germany before she is beaten, despite the known anxiety of the court party to conclude an alliance with Germany against the Liberal powers.

When the war broke out, the Czar solemnly pledged his word to his people not to make peace "while a single soldier of the enemy remains on Russian soil." That promise, it is felt, will prevent the Czar from yielding even if his advisers urge peace for the sake of the dynasty. Two other considerations which may influence the Czar have been told me by a Russian politician, and I give them for what they are worth. The charge of the Kaiser that the Czar broke his word, in July, 1914, by mobilizing when he had promised not to, is said so to have infuriated Nicholas that he swore a personal vendetta, and the Czar is said to have told an Ambassador of the Entente during the dark days of last summer that Russia, even if she suffer the fate of Belgium, would show no less heroism, and would die rather than break her pledge to her allies to fight on until victory is won.

THE EASTLAND CASE.

Head of Company that Built the Ship on the Stand.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

GRAND RAPID (Mich.) Jan. 22.—Sidney C. Jenks of Port Huron, Mich., head of the shipbuilding company that constructed the steamer Eastland, which turned over in the Chicago River last July, carrying more than 800 persons to their death, was the principal witness today in the examination of the six men, who were indicted for alleged neglect in connection with the tragedy. He testified that he was told by the first owners of the vessel that they wanted a fast ship for transporting fruit from South Haven to Chicago and he designed a boat to make twenty miles and capable of carrying 500 passengers.

Clarence Darrow of Chicago, of counsel for the defense, asked Jenks if he ever inquired into or worried about the fact that the Eastland had been converted into an excursion steamer with a capacity of 2500 or more passengers when he designed and built the steamer with a maximum capacity of 500 passengers.

"I had no way of knowing the quantity of business after it left our yards," said Jenks. "No, I did not worry about the Eastland."

On Heels of Pair.

nervous spells and when her husband questioned her she would express a deep fear of the negro.

"There never was a time when my wife did not have full confidence and [illegible] she held back anything. She came to me with all [illegible] and when she went to her mother about the negro's threats she [illegible] it to save me worry," Mr. Hood said. "I know that the negro has [illegible] in his power and that she is in fear of her life. Yesterday I learned from Chief of Police Wilson that for more than fifteen days the negro Dodds had been under suspicion of luring three white women into the Mexicali redlight district and that he was suspected of smuggling opium into this country. The police believe that, knowing he was under suspicion he kidnaped my wife and fled, taking the long-contemplated revenge on me and my wife and at the same time fleeing arrest."

STRANGE FEATURES.

There are many perplexing angles to the kidnaping of Mrs. Hood that have not been satisfactorily explained. The husband of the woman stated that she wore an expensive diamond ring and had more than $100 in her possession. At the Del Mar ferry she is said to have been without funds and the negro paid her passage. A few hours later in this city she paid for a telegram and appeared well supplied with money. At Del Mar the woman appeared in the transaction of getting the stage started and during the trip to Los Angeles the negro did not utter a word. When the city was reached the negro apparently took charge of the situation and successfully covered up all trace of his movements.

Detectives Glenn and Stevens, believing that if the negro remained in Los Angeles he would leave some trace of his movements, searched all yesterday and last night, visiting every known place where it was in the least likely the negro could be hiding. They were unsuccessful and although Dodds had been a Pullman porter and was well known he did not appeal to any of his former friends here for aid. Late last night the entire Coast was asked to assist in a search for the couple. The police believe that in leaving this city the negro acted as a servant to the woman and in this manner escaped observation at the depots.

The detectives learned last evening that Dodds is a married man with a wife living in Calexico, but from whom he is separated. A brother and sister also live in the same city. Mrs. Hood has relatives at or near Santa Barbara and there is a possibility, the husband thinks, that she may have attempted to decoy the negro abductor in that direction, hoping for help from an uncle there.

BUYS OWN TICKET.

At the United Stages office at San Diego yesterday it was learned a woman answering the description of Mrs. Hood and a gigantic mulatto of the same appearance as Dodds bought tickets and left there at 9:30 o'clock a.m. Friday for this city. The woman bought her ticket five minutes before the negro appeared. But when the passengers were transferred from one bus to another at Del Mar, because of an impassable bit of road, the negro carried the woman's two suit cases, acting, other passengers said, as though he were a servant.

The actions of the woman believed to be Mrs. Hood attracted the attention of other passengers on the San Diego-Los Angeles stage. The woman bought her ticket at the Fourth-street office of the stage company. After she entered the office she opened a suit case and put on over her blue suit a black-and-white coat, then changed her hat for a turban and tied a heavy green veil over her face. The larger headpiece she placed in a bag. She proceeded to the Third-street office of the company, from which the stages start for Los Angeles.

There the car was delayed fifteen minutes in its starting. The woman became very nervous, according to Mrs. Lee, who sat beside her as far as Del Mar.

"Do you think we will ever get to Los Angeles?" Mrs. Lee reports the woman asked a large negro who was in the stage. Mrs. Lee describes this man as dressed in a dark brown overcoat and well-fitting clothes.

MOTHER PROSTRATED.

Mr. and Mrs. S. B. McFadden, parents of the missing woman, who live at La Vista apartments, San Diego, were grief-stricken yesterday, and the mother was prostrated. She told detectives that her daughter went to her a few days ago, weeping and greatly excited, and showed letters purporting to be from Dodds. These contained threats that the writer would kill Mrs. Hood's father, mother and husband unless she should go away with him.

Mrs. McFadden laughed at the letters and tried to calm her daughter, thinking her needlessly excited. They now think the negro wanted to take her away to "get even" with his former employer.

The Hoods have been married about ten years. They have no children.

WITHOUT an OPERATION
By MY PAINLESS DISSOLVENT METHOD

For twenty-five years I have been curing diseases of the rectum and lower bowel. During that time my experience as hospital and railroad surgeon, as college lecturer and professor, has enabled me to develop a method that is superior to others.

My method is not a "home cure" or a "correspondence treatment" but it is an application of skilled treatments administered under the most rigid antiseptic conditions in my office.

I solicit old, severe and obstinate cases of fistula, prolapsus, fissure and ulceration that have heretofore resisted all treatments employed. If you are a sufferer from rectal trouble I invite you to investigate my method thoroughly by talking or writing to any of my cured patients. If you will call at my office I will be pleased to give you the names and addresses of many well-known Los Angeles people I have cured, whom you may interview in regard to my treatment. I keep a trained lady nurse constantly on duty in my office for the convenience and comfort of lady patients.

GUNS ON CARS TO DEFEND COAST.

INTRODUCES BILL FOR ARTILLERY SYSTEM.

Is for Especially Constructed to Transport Ordnance Can Be Quickly Moved Destroyed at Cost About to that of One Battleship.

WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE Jan. 22.—Senator Works will a bill providing for a sys- artillery to be placed on cars. Congressman John H. of New Jersey has already a similar bill which has referred to the House Commit- Military Affairs. provides for the mounting of fifty 16-inch mortars and ten 14-inch rifles on specially constructed railroad cars, which can be quickly locked to solid concrete foundations at various points along the line for instant use to secure accuracy and rapidity of fire control.

The measure calls for the construction of 150 concrete foundations to be built along the Atlantic Coast.

The cost of the special cars, equipped with two mortars or a 14-inch rifle and two turrets at the ends for use as shelter by the twenty or twenty-five men assigned to each car, is estimated at $150,000 each. The concrete foundations will cost between $3000 and $4000 each.

From these figures it is estimated that at a cost of $9,000,000, or less than the price of a modern fighting ship, the United States could equip its coast defenses with 110 guns, which could be moved to any place desired and when attached to the concrete foundations become more powerful than a fleet of battleships or a chain of permanent forts.

This new plan for coast defenses is the suggestion of Lawrence Luellen, inventor of the paper drinking cup, and Cecil F. Dawson, also of New York. Mr. Luellen is now at the Willard Hotel, where he will remain until some decision is reached on the bill introduced by Congressman Capstick.

Mr. Luellen said today that one of these guns attached to a foundation would have 320 chances to a battleship's one in war. Said he: "The many War Department experts, including Brig.-Gen. M. M. Macomb, Erasmus M. Weaver, William Crozier and Maj.-Gen. Leonard A. Wood, who have helped Mr. Dawson and myself with advice, co-operation and criticisms, have figured that the chances of accurate firing would be eight times as great from one of our foundations as they are from a moving battleship. They have also worked it out that the target offered by one of our cars, guns and foundations would be only one-fortieth of that offered by a battleship. From this it can be easily seen that we have 320 chances to a battleship's one."

GOETHALS TAKES A HAND.

Demands Panama Must Redress Attack on Hotel Manager.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PANAMA, Jan. 22.—Action independent of diplomatic channels is to be taken by the canal government relative to a declared unprovoked attack recently upon Manager McEwen of the Hotel Washington at Colon by members of the Porrista party, who were welcoming Dr. Ramon Valdez on his return from the United States, where he was a delegate to the Pan-American Scientific Congress.

That action was to be taken was made clear today when Maj.-Gen. George W. Goethals, Governor of the Canal Zone, ordered an exhaustive investigation into the affair, declaring that the Panama government must deal adequately with the members of the party, one of whom is said to be Julio Valdez, a cousin of Dr. Valdez.

It is said that the welcoming party gave a banquet for Dr. Valdez and later escorted him to the hotel, where they began a noisy demonstration, which Manager McEwen attempted to quell owing to the lateness of the hour. It is said that McEwen was then attacked.

Dr. Valdez is the candidate of the Porrista party for President.

WOUNDED IN FIGHT WITH CARRANZISTA.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

DOUGLAS (Ariz.) Jan. 22.—H. C. Tanner, a resident of this city, returned here tonight from Mexico City suffering from a bullet wound in the right side of his chest. The wound was inflicted by a Carranza officer, Tanner said, during a scuffle in a restaurant in Mexico City the night of January 1.

He said he was dining with three companions. They were conversing in English. A member of a party of four Carranza officers approached him and upbraided him for using English, Tanner claims.

One of the officers thrust a revolver against his side, he says, and during the struggle for possession of the weapon another officer fired two shots. One of these struck him, Tanner says.

Mr. and Mrs. Millard Haymore of this city aided Tanner in getting to the border from Mexico City, where he went on business in connection with a mining concession. The Haymores were in Mexico City at the time.

If you have not yet entered this campaign, or have just started, here is a chance to equal and even surpass the standing of any candidate listed on this page:

Secure $18 worth of new or old subscriptions to The Times. Bring or send these in, and you will receive, not only the regular votes that the schedule entitles you to, but an additional bonus of 20,000 extra votes. This offer is good only during the opening days, to help you start.

WITH many new names appearing as contenders for the beautiful prizes to be given away in The Times Greater Automobile and Prize Campaign, the second publication of the list today reveals an interesting array of aspirants. Still more are to come, for the classification and districting of those nominations received after the noon hour yesterday could not be included.

The nominating period will continue for some time yet. As the news of this liberal opportunity trickles to distant places, the number of nominations increases. Some, who have hesitated entering for one reason or another, finally brush aside that hesitancy and enter, with their minds made up to win a car.

Opposite each name on this page are given the total number of votes that have been polled by each candidate up to noon yesterday. Pick out several of those with the highest standing. It will be seen that, owing to the liberal amount of votes given on subscriptions, and by the intelligent use of the $18 offer described above, very little effort is required to reach the top.

It will be just as easy to keep up the pace later, for those who half try. It is doubtful if ever before such a chance as this was offered to win so much for so little in return. Consider that there are sixteen automobiles—all, beautiful, fully equipped cars. If there were only one or two cars, the chances might look slim. But—SIXTEEN! The advantage is obvious. Besides, one should not forget that twelve $100 diamond rings and twelve $75 phonographs are also on the prize list. These gifts alone are worth every effort you might put forth in the campaign.

Perhaps no car excels in beauty of line, and sturdy qualities, the Mitchell Six, given as the Capital Prize, to the highest candidate. The same applies to the Moon Six, second in value. Its superior appointments and refinements are indeed likable. Many a candidate has expressed a liking for the beautiful Beardsley Electric Town Car. Its smooth, jarless gait—its finish, lines, poise, proportion and furnishings make it the ideal electric.

The Oakland is a car to admire; roominess of the body, powerful motor, these are but a few of its qualities. Another touring car attractive all over is the Hollier "8." Of the Saxon Six it is said that none excels in power, riding luxury and dependability. The Grant Six is a car to be proud of in any company. And the Pullman—the name itself is a synonym for luxury. In the Briscoe, the owner has a smart car invariably chosen by discriminators. Two model 83 Overlands are included in the prize list. Alike in every detail, they are too well known to need comment.

The Scripps-Booth roadster cloaks in its external beauty a mechanical perfection surpassed by no car in America. The Regal always meets every high requirement of high standards. And, ditto, the Metz, a remarkable combination of beauty and efficiency. Concluding the list are the two Chevrolets. Both are favorite cars.

Are not these beautiful cars worth working for? To receive one as a gift, is to be filled with the very joy of living.

Diplomacy.

JOHN LIND DISAVOWS THE WILSON CHARGES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

MINNEAPOLIS (Minn.) Jan. 22.—In reply to a letter from Henry Lane Wilson, former Ambassador to Mexico, calling on him to disclaim alleged statements made at a church meeting here that Mr. Wilson knew of the plot to murder Francisco I. Madero, John Lind, former personal representative of President Wilson in Mexico, sent to Mr. Wilson the following letter, made public tonight by Charles B. Elliott, Mr. Wilson's local attorney:

"Hon. Henry Lane Wilson,
"Indianapolis, Ind.,

"Dear Sir: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter.

"In the course of the address to which you refer, I commented on the events which led up to and culminated in the death of President Madero. What I said was stated in good faith in the course of that discussion and in the full belief of the accuracy of my information. The press reports of my utterances detached from the other language of my remarks, are misleading and susceptible of misrepresentation. I was not responsible for their publication, assume no such responsibility and disavow them.

"Very respectfully yours,
"JOHN LIND."

VILLA SENDS DENIAL HE INSTIGATED MASSACRE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

EL PASO, Jan. 22.—Tedeore Prieto, who says he is a major in the Villa army, appeared here today and declared that he had been sent in disguise to the border by Gen. Villa to say that Villa had nothing to do with the massacre of eighteen foreigners at Santa Isabel January 10.

"Villa did not know of the tragedy for days afterwards," said Prieto. "He instructed me to say that he will execute the men responsible, even if they prove to be his own men, if they are caught."

Villa was near El Ruico, in the vicinity of Pearson, Chihuahua, when Prieto left him.

Preparedness.

WARRIOR FOR FORCE TO BACK UP POLICIES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—National policies of the United States, particularly maintenance of the Monroe doctrine, an open door in the Orient, supremacy in the Pacific and Asiatic exclusion, can be upheld only if backed by force, Brig.-Gen. Montgomery M. McComb, president of the Army War College, told the Senate Military Committee today. The tradition that entangling allegiances should be avoided, he declared, further emphasized the necessity that the United States should be prepared to fight alone for its ideals.

"Unless there are forces behind these policies," he said, "they will not play an important part in the history of the world."

Gen. McComb, who appeared at a hearing on the army-increase measures, suggested that the Monroe doctrine was tending toward development of a Pan-American entente which "might or might not be a good thing," but did not alter, in his opinion, the urgent necessity of military preparedness.

Gen. McComb said the War College had taken the policies he mentioned as the basis of its study to formulate a definite military policy. With these obligations in mind, he added, the college had produced the plan already made public for a regular army of 500,000 men with the colors or reserve within eight years and a continental army of 1,000,000 men in the same time.

Brig.-Gen. Albert Mills, chief of the War Department division of military affairs, preceded Gen. McComb and indorsed the plans proposed by Secretary Garrison, which are a modification of the war college proposals. He said inherent difficulties in the way of using the organized militia in place of a continental army seemed insurmountable, and outlined many faults of the National Guard system from a national point of view. Among these were lack of proper reserves to supply war wastage; lack of auxiliary arms; inadequate training; constantly-changing personnel, and lack of uniformity of State military codes.

"These conditions produce," said Gen. Mills, "forty-eight little State armies organized without reference to national needs and each clinging jealously to certain State rights."

Gen. McComb differed with a recent statement of the Adjutant-General that 140,000 men was the largest force that could be maintained under present enlistment regulations.

"He states that it is impossible to recruit more men than that," Gen. McComb said, "but that is only his opinion. He doesn't know what he can do beyond that, for he has not tried."

Judging from his experience as a military observer in the Russo-Japanese War, Gen. McComb said most people utterly miscalculated the amount of training necessary for an infantry soldier. On the infantry, he said, depended the final outcome of any fight. He estimated it would take two years of five hours intensive work a day "to make what we call a good soldier."

BRADY MEMORIAL MEDALS.

Anderson, Ind., Company Prevented the Most Accidents.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—The American Museum of Safety announced today that it had awarded to the Union Traction Company of Anderson, Ind., the Anthony N. Brady memorial medals for the best record in accident prevention during 1915. The Chicago Elevated Railroads received honorable mention.

The medals are awarded on a basis of accident prevention among employees and passengers, sanitary conditions of cars and shops and welfare work among employees.

MORE TESTS FOR OKLAHOMA.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

BOSTON, Jan. 22.—The super-dreadnaught Oklahoma, which has been undergoing repairs here as a consequence of the overheating of boiler tubes during one of her trial runs, today left for Rockland, Me., to resume the tests.

A Chance to Make Money.

Mr. A. H. Daves, of Southern Alabama, writes: "As few people know of the wonderful opportunities here, my experience may benefit many. Ten years ago I came here without a dollar, got some free land, cleared one acre and planted Satsuma oranges, which are frost proof. In three years I began selling fruit; that one acre now makes me an annual profit of over $1000. I now have fifty acres of bearing Satsumas. My three and four-year-old trees yield a profit of $300 to $400 per acre, and my annual income is over $18,000 and growing larger every year." Any person can get from 5 to 25 acres of choice land in the Demonstration Plantation FREE, by having oranges or figs and pecans planted on it. For particulars about this free land, address W. A. Roberts, Secretary, 330 Fifth avenue, Block 210, Pittsburgh, Pa. If you can't go South yourself, an authorized company will plant your trees, care for them and market the fruit for a share of the profit.

Defense League.

of national defense," he said, "must be an inquiry into the duty of citizens to render military service to the country in times of peace as well as war. In no other way could we more effectively rid the nation of the incubus of our accursed system of bounties and pensions than by the establishment and maintenance of a system of universal military service.

"But the practical question now presented to the American people is not the immediate adoption of such a system. Our military and naval authorities, both civil and military, with the high authority of the President of the United States and the Secretaries of War and Navy have clearly put before the people a statement of our present deficiencies.

"The condition of our coast defenses has been sharply put before us by the report of the chief of that service; and we are told that artillery, costing upwards of $41,000,000, is without a man to protect it; that the old system of relying upon the States for voluntary military support, under the act of Congress, which provides that one-half of the coast artillery shall be furnished by the States, has failed as it always has failed, throughout our history, to provide us with anything like the stipulated quota of men.

"That law should be repealed and that other enactment of Congressional folly approved May 27, 1908, which provides that the organized militia shall be called into the service of the United States in advance of any volunteer force which it may be necessary to raise, should also be repealed without delay. It is strange that any intelligent student of the history of our country should oppose the plan of military organization which involves placing the sole control and discipline of the forces under the Federal authority. It seems incredible that any responsible member of Congress at this day should advocate a continuance of that divided control which, in the past, has cost the country dearly in lives and property."

HARVARD ELECTION FRAUD.

Jury Out Sixteen Hours Returns a Sealed Verdict.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

CAMBRIDGE ((Mass.) Jan. 22.—A jury which deliberated for sixteen hours over the evidence in a case connected with the alleged Harvard fraudulent election registration, returned a sealed verdict today. It will be opened Monday.

In this case, the first to be tried, Herbert B. Harris, a lawyer, was charged with taking false oath and falsely certifying, to allow Wendell Townsend, a Harvard senior, to vote in Cambridge, although his place of residence was Cohasset.

MOTHER BLOCKS ELOPERS AFTER NIGHT OF VIGIL

WATCHFUL waiting, an all-night vigil relieved by fig bars and milk, a high-powered automobile and an irate parent—these are the ingredients of an elopement that went wrong at Sierra Madre yesterday. With the excitement cooled, a sad bride-to-be was at home with mother and a frustrated Lochinvar was in Los Angeles, declaring the affair will not end till he has broken through the last line of maternal defenses.

He is Carl C. Morris, a sturdy chap of 23 years, now employed in the city but until recently a resident of Sierra Madre. His intended is Miss Nettie V. Hatfield, 22 years old and the possessor of a most alluring voice that won the fancy and then the love of the young man by telephone. For Miss Hatfield is "central" at the suburban town main office switchboard, and Mr. Morris found more and more business to be transacted by wire.

In less than a month plans were made for a wedding. But then entered the element of haste and with it Mrs. W. F. Hatfield, mother of the bride-to-be.

Mr. Morris secured a marriage license here last Thursday and hurried to Sierra Madre with the announced intention of marrying forthwith. But he met opposition and this cryptic notice appeared Friday in a paper of the suburban town:

BLOOD POISONED.

Ezra Schmidt, son of P. G. S. Schmidt of No. 625 Winona avenue, is suffering from blood poisoning as the result of having been bitten on the arm about ten days ago by one of his comrades in a fight over a game of baseball.

He was playing baseball with a number of boys when they got into a dispute and, in an all-around scuffle, one of the boys, whose name has not been disclosed, sank his teeth deep into the arm of the Schmidt boy.

At first young Schmidt thought nothing of it, but yesterday, when he became alarmed over the terrible pain, he consulted a physician, who informed him that blood poisoning had set in.

M. W. Dodd, great-grandson of A. E. Dodd, who was one of the men in the boat which carried George Washington across the Delaware River one blustery night more than 135 years ago, who has been a guest in the home of his daughter, Mrs. C. S. Holland of No. 601 North Chester avenue, left yesterday for San Bernardino to visit a brother.

Mr. Dodd owns a farm in Grand Isle county, Vermont, which belonged to his famous ancestor and which has been in the family continuously for a good deal more than a century and a half. Mr. Dodd has a vast collection of Revolutionary relics which have been plowed up on his farm. Some of the Indian curios which have been found on the old farm would bring fabulous sums if offered for sale.

CITY BRIEFS.

The funeral of Mrs. Hannah M. Linnard will be held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Hotel Maryland bungalow of her son, D. M. Linnard. The services will be private and Rev. S. W. Cummings will officiate. The body will later rest in the California mausoleum in Inglewood Cemetery.

George M. Reynolds, president of the Continental and Commercial National Bank of Chicago, is expected here February 1. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Reynolds and they will be domiciled for two months at the Huntington Hotel. He will be one of the principal guests at the Annual Clearinghouse Association which will be held at the Maryland this year. One of Mr. Reynolds's principal diversions is golf and he can be seen most any fine day on the links at the Huntington, where he meets many of his friends from the East.

MONEY APPROPRIATED.

Santa Monica Commissioners Want to Know How They Stand.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA MONICA, Jan. 22.—By a vote of two to one the City Commissioners have passed a resolution appropriating $500 to defray the expenses of circulating petitions in Los Angeles for an election to decide whether that city will sell Santa Monica Owens River water. The money will be turned over to the Mutual Water Users' Association, of which ex-Councilman Whiffen of Los Angeles is a leading spirit, to obtain 7000 names on the petition.

Commissioner Barretto opposed the appropriation, at the same time asking for time for the local water companies to submit another proposition for the sale of the four plants now supplying the city. He said he understood that the companies are preparing to make the city a better offer than the one that was voted down by a bargin of thirty-one votes in December. The other Commissioners held that the local water companies' proposition did not affect getting the information that the city could or could not get Owens River water.

An ordinance was ordered prepared providing for the $500 appropriation.

RUMOR BOBS UP AGAIN.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONG BEACH, Jan. 22.—Rumors that the Bell Telephone Company would soon absorb the Long Beach Home Telephone Company were current here today, but lacked confirmation from telephone officials interested. It is known, however, that the larger concern made overtures to the Home company some time ago, but the negotiations were supposed to have come to naught, owing, it is said, to the equipment of the local concern. The Bell company has already acquired the United States Long Distance concern, the company which cares for the Home long distance service. There have been two attempts by Long Beach officials to have the franchise of the Home company declared void because of alleged violations of its franchise agreement.

"I don't want to make a will," said she. "I want to see where my money goes."

The Salvation Army had extended negotiations with her. She talked of dividing her wealth among those who had been kind to her.

Though opportunity to give away money and stocks developed upon every hand, though more than one eager recipient was willing to take the money, Mrs. Czarske never parted with anything.

"I am mighty slow to sign my name to any document," said she. So she was. Various organizations that heard she wanted to make them a gift kindly had the papers all nicely prepared for her, but she would never sign.

Last week she was taken ill. She went from the hospital to visit friends, the family of J. E. Armstrong, and there she passed away.

Public Administrator Winbigler will probably seek the administration of the estate. Mrs. Czarske is said to have had a brother in Germany. A man named Jensen or Johnson will assert his rights as a nephew. He lives at Fullerton.

ESPEE PLANS IMPROVEMENTS.

Freight to be Delivered Direct to Angeleno Importers.

Mexican West Coast Quiet, but Interior is Disturbed.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LOS ANGELES HARBOR, Jan. 22. —Extensive improvements are to be made by the Southern Pacific Railroad on its wharves here to permit wharf delivery of freight direct to consignees without the necessity of switching it to the freight depot. This announcement comes to the San Pedro Chamber of Commerce from E. W. Clapp, district freight agent in Los Angeles.

This will save the switching charge of 25 cents per ton that has been charged for years and which has caused considerable complaint. As soon as the improvements are completed trucks and wagons will be able to load freight at the wharf, receiving freight direct from the steamship companies instead of from the railroad company.

The Southern Pacific wharves are conceded to be the best berths in the harbor, but on account of the switching charge considerable business has been diverted to other wharves. By making this concession and improving the facilities for handling freight it is expected that much business will be held there that otherwise would be diverted to other berths.

CONDITIONS QUIET.

The steamer Wapama of the Charles R. McCormick & Co. fleet arrived here today from Mazatlan and proceeded to San Francisco after discharging thirty-one passengers. Capt. Foldat reports that conditions are quiet on the West Coast and that there were no disturbances of any kind. Americans, he found, are held in high regard at all ports.

News was received while at Mazatlan of some minor disturbances in the interior, but all along the coast the people seem glad that hostilities have ceased and are devoting their energies to a restoration of business.

The Wapama took to Mexico a full cargo of lumber and railroad ties and timbers for use in repairing the Southern Pacific lines in Mexico. The Klamath of the McCormick fleet also took a full cargo of lumber for the Southern Pacific and is due here tomorrow. Both steamers are returning in ballast.

Among the passengers on the Wapama for San Francisco is Capt. Jose C. Parra, a veteran who lost a leg in Carranza service. He is on his way to San Francisco to buy an artificial limb, musical instruments for the Mazatlan Military Band and supplies for the army.

OLDEST SKIPPER.

The steamer George W. Elder called today on her first trip to Balboa via Mexican ports in the service of the Southwestern Steamship Company. The Elder has for years been on the run between this port and Portland and is under command of Capt. Jessen, the dean of Pacific Coast shipmasters, who, despite his advanced age of 80 years, is still in active service and will retain his command on the southern run.

The Elder will be replaced on the Portland run by the steamer Breakwater. On account of being in drydock for repairs in San Francisco she will not arrive here Monday on the regular schedule. The Breakwater has been running between Coos Bay and Portland.

The rainfall at CORONADO is less than at other resorts in Southern California.—[Advertisement.

INCREASED FLOW.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PORTERVILLE, Jan. 22.—Deepening of a well owned by the Sunnyside Water Company in the Sunnyside district, north of here, and which is situated in the heart of the show orchard district of Tulare county, has resulted in a flow of 200 inches of water, the largest production from a single well in the Tulare county citrus belt. At a meeting of the officers of the company held here today contracts were let to local machinery dealers for the installation of three new pumps with which the water from the well is to be forced to the top of a hill, which dominates all the orchards, and from which distribution pipes are to be run.

THE WEATHER.

[Official Report.]

LOCAL OFFICE, U. S. WEATHER BUREAU, Los Angeles, Jan. 22.—[Reported by Ford A. Carpenter, Local Forecaster.] At 5 o'clock a.m. the barometer registered 30.29; at 5 p.m., 30.22. Thermometer for the corresponding hours showed 50 deg. and 55 deg. Relative humidity, 5 a.m., 81 per cent.; 5 p.m., 73 per cent. Wind, 5 a.m., northeast, velocity 8 miles; 5 p.m., southwest, velocity 8 miles. Highest temperature, 64 deg.; lowest, 47 deg. Rainfall for season, 13.70 inches; last season, 4.80 inches. Barometer reduced to sea level.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.—The barometer is low over the northern part of the United States and comparatively high throughout the southern portion. This distribution of pressure gives abnormally high temperatures to the eastern half of the country, the thermometer standing at 50 deg. and above east of Illinois and Mississippi. The southwestern area of high pressure continues stationary over the southwestern districts, and it is responsible for the spell of fair and pleasant weather in Southern California. The area of low pressure in Oregon and Washington brought general rain southerly to San Francisco. The influence of this northwestern area of low pressure is noticed in Los Angeles and vicinity by intervals of clouds. Aside from such cloudy periods the weather in Los Angeles and vicinity will continue fair, with increasing cloudiness Sunday.

EVENING BULLETIN.—7 p.m., Jan. 22. Another storm is entering the Northwest and is now central over the mouth of the Columbia River. At that point the wind was blowing forty-eight miles per hour at the time of the night observation. Rain occurred throughout Washington, Oregon and portions of California, but not extending southerly beyond Central California. Over an inch fell at Seattle and Red Bluff, and half an inch at Sacramento and San Francisco, rain being in progress at 5 p.m. Southern California is under the influence of a well-marked area of high pressure, but it is gradually giving way to the general condition of decreased pressure, so that the weather in Los Angeles and vicinity will be cloudy Sunday and threatening weather will rule during the greater part of the day, and showers may occur in the elevated portions of this district.

LOCAL FORECAST.

For Los Angeles and vicinity: Fair, with increasing cloudiness Sunday; westerly and southwesterly winds.

For Southern California: Probably rain Sunday.

STATE FORECAST.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 22.—Weather forecast: San Francisco and vicinity: Rain Sunday; strong southerly wind.

Sacramento, Santa Clara and San Joaquin valleys: Rain Sunday; moderate southerly wind.

Southern California: Probably rain Sunday; light southeast wind.

ARIZONA FORECAST.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22. — Forecast for Arizona: Fair Sunday and Monday; not much change in temperature.

Thirty Million Dollars Estimated Cost of Plan to Make Landing of Hostile Force Practically Impossible and to Provide a Working Base for Augmented Navy — Most ffective, Quickest to Get, Says Engineer.

REPAREDNESS, the topic now uppermost in the mind of every true American is of particular rn to the residents of our Pa- Coast, which in this discussion be considered as that part of our s extending from the Mexican ndary to Cape Flattery, a distance about 1500 miles, embracing the es of California, Oregon and hington.

is is no remote possibility; no eculation but easily within e of military operations of the ent day. Swift transports of large city can in the face of our present force in the Pacific, land upon shores within a fey weeks vast of troops. With no army to them the entire Coast will in their possession, communi- with the East cut off, by for- n of the mountain passes, and orts to dislodge them confined to an expedition through the canal, if it is open, otherwise around South America; in either case the long distance from our base will make the operation a most difficult and costly one.

DANGER OF INVASION.

Considering the effect upon our national prestige of such occupation of our territory, besides the immense loss in men and money entailed the disaster could be viewed in no other light than a calamity. Regardless of expressions to the contrary from perhaps well-meaning but poorly-informed persons, the conditions above outlined constitute a decided menace to the Pacific Coast and unless an efficient remedy is applied the foreign complications of this government may find this portion of our domain in a very sorry plight.

All interests should combine in a concerted effort to obtain for this section the military protection which its importance depends. Short shrift should be meted out to those disciples of grape juice diplomacy who would leave the country utterly unprepared and at the mercy of the world, its sole dependence in its time of need being a few kind words and the Ten Commandments. The methods best adopted to our needs should be determined now, from calm deliberation uninfluenced by panic and executed during quiet times of peace.

Mahan, in "Naval Strategy," says: "Panic, unreasonable apprehension, when war begins will be found in the same persons who in peace resist reasonable preparation. Unless my information at the time was incorrect, a Senator of the United States, who has earned much approval in some quarters by persistent opposition to naval development, was among the most clamorous for the assignment of naval force to the local defense of his own State, which was in no possible danger. In both cases the result is the effect of unreason.

It is better, said a British admiral of long ago, to be frightened now, while we have time to prepare, than next summer when the French fleet enters the channel."

Having outlined the necessity for defense and the misfortune which will certainly follow a continuance of the present policy of indifference it is well to examine the available defensive measures to determine in a general way which is best adapted to

How Coast mortar batteries would operate,

According to Mr. Sellew's plan. The range of each revolving gun, indicated by the circles, intersects that of the mortars on either side in such a way that it would be impossible for a hostile fleet to approach within landing distance of any part of the coast proper. The island batteries would greatly extend this impregnable zone, Mr. Sellew believes.

TO CAMPAIGN FOR WEST COAST TRADE.

STEAMSHIP MAN DEPARTS FOR MEXICAN PORTS.

Believes He will Divert to this Harbor Thousands of Dollars' Worth of Native Products Now Shipped Out by Way of the Border Towns.

En route to Mexico to open an aggressive campaign along the West Coast, whereby it is hoped to bring to Los Angeles thousands of dollars' worth of native products, which are annually shipped to El Paso, Douglas, Nogales and other border cities, W. Stonewall Hunt, vice-president and general manager of the Southwestern Steamship Company, left last night for Nogales. The trip is part of a general campaign carried on by the Chamber of Commerce, the Associated Jobbers, the Merchats' and Manufacturers' Association and individual business men.

Through the efforts of all concerned in the past eight months the volume of business with the Mexican West Coast has been developed from practically nothing to approximately $400,000 per month. Information furnished by local shipping men indicates that practically 75 per cent. is export business. It is to study this condition and provide a remedy that Mr. Hunt went south. It is believed by local business men that the present is the psychological moment to go after the Mexican trade.

"Our business," said Mr. Hunt yesterday, "is most satisfactory. West Coast merchants have finally been educated to the point where they see the mutual advantage in trading with Los Angeles. Shorter hauls, direct shipments and certain deliveries mean economy and satisfaction, consequently the Mexicans now do most of their buying here.

"As yet, however, much of the native produce, which should come here, is shipped to Douglas or other border cities. This is due principally to the past lack of transportation facilities between the local harbor and Mexican ports. Since we started operating ships last May and the Los Angeles jobbers and merchants sent their drummers south, everything has changed and now the greater part of business for the West Coast is done here and in San Francisco.

"Within a few weeks there will be large shipments of native products ready for export. There is no reason why all the hides should be shipped to El Paso, when the Los Angeles Tanning Company can handle them perfectly. There are 3000 tons of blackeyed beans ready for shipment to the Orient and to Spain and they can be handled from Los Angeles as easily as from Galveston. There are 30,000 tons of sugar and 300,000 bags of garvanzas in the territory contingent to ports we serve and we believe a considerable portion should be exported via Los Angeles."

Mr. Hunt has a wide acquaintance along the West Coast, where he spent more than fifteen years. He owns many thousand acres of land in Sinaloa and also has extensive mining interests in Tepic, Sonora and Sinaloa. He is one of the founders of the Southwestern company and has been local manager. He will take charge

GIVES FOOT TO GAIN FREEDOM.

Feline Stoic, Held in a Trap Six Days, Gnaws Leg and Escapes.

Caught in a gopher trap and held a prisoner for six days, most of the time partly submerged in water, a Persian cat, owned by Mrs. A. O. Seabright, No. 138 East Avenue Fifty-four, made desperate by its suffering, yesterday gnawed its right forefoot free from the trap and escaped. The cat returned to the home of its owner and fell exhausted at the door.

Last Sunday the cat disappeared. It was known to be in the habit of going to the foothills to hunt gophers and frequently remained away over night. When it failed to return after several days it was given up for lost. The cat, although almost dead on its return, shows every indication of recovery, although the leg that was mutilated by the trap and the gnawing will probably have to be amputated at the knee.

On Credit Side.

COUNTING THE GAIN IN THE WAKE OF THE RAIN.

Thousands of Jobless Find Work in Busy Reconstruction Period—County and City Rushing Repair Work on Highways and Bridges—Railroads Using Full Crews and Hundreds of Extra Men.

LOS ANGELES and other Southern California communities in the midst of a brief, busy reconstruction period following the storm are counting the gains as well as the losses and find them substantial. Much has been learned of the needs for flood control and storm drains. Old wooden culverts washed away will be replaced by safer, better concrete ones. Many thousands of men have been given employment at good wages. Steam and electric railroads are working full crews in every department, besides hundreds of extra men.

The work it brought to men who needed it is probably one of the most important blessings of the big rain. The municipal employment bureau and privately-conducted bureaus report an unprecedented demand for men. The city's department has been kept busy for the past three days supplying men to corporations and individuals. Before the rain, conditions had improved 25 to 50 per cent. over the same period last year, so far as the ratio of job to man is concerned. Now the figures show there are fewer efficient men out of work in Los Angeles than at any previous time in years.

Los Angeles County Supervisors have given Road Commissioner Joyner carte blanche in hiring men and spending money in order to complete all repairs on county highways in two weeks. The city is working full crews in several districts.

Probably 400 extra men will be used in each of the three road districts in the county—1200 in all. The Southern Pacific is using all its regular men and 800 extra ones. The Pacific Electric has put 300 extra men to work. Local officials of the Santa Fe are unable to say how many hundreds of extra men that road is employing because of the extent of the territory covered, but they say they are putting all the efficient men they can find to work.

MAY HASTEN HARBOR DAM.

The deposit of silt at the harbor, technically a loss chargeable to the flood, is to be used as an object lesson in an effort to convince the Federal government that an appropriation should be made at once for further dredging and for the diversion-dam project. Engineers are studying post-flood conditions and securing valuable knowledge of what should be done in the way of building retarding dams and general flood control work. A marked sentiment in favor of storm-water drains has sprung up in some portions of the city, where residence property has been damaged and is in position to be menaced by abnormal rainfall.

The rains brought a sense of security to owners of fruit orchards for, with so much moisture in the ground, damage from frost became virtually impossible. To measure the heads of the road department. While extraordinary efforts had been put Orange-Los Angeles.

TO LINK TWO GREAT GOOD ROADS SYSTEMS.

THE Orange County Supervisors are endeavoring to secure another connection between their good roads system and that of Los Angeles county. They have paved their road through La Habra into La Brea Canyon, and are seeking the co-operation of Los Angeles county and abutting property owners to have the five or six-mile link to Pomona boulevard built.

Supervisors T. B. Talbert of Orange county's second district and William Schumacher of the third district have been in Los Angeles the past week to confer with local officials.

Both Mr. Talbert and Mr. Schumacher are enthusiastic over Orange county's road system, which is now nearly complete, and the commercial advantages it has brought. Practically every city and town in the entire county now has paved road connection. Outside of incorporated cities the county has 187 miles of paved highways, said to be the greatest mileage in proportion to area of any county in the West.

The county has lately completed a road from Santa Ana, via Tustin, to Irvine ranch-house. Two spurs to Wintersburg and Smeltzer on the Huntington Beach-Santa Ana line have also been built recently. A six-mile stretch from Yorba to Placentia is now in course of construction. A road between Los Alamitos and Artesia connecting with the Long Beach boulevard by way of Westminster and Santa Ana is nearly completed.

The coast road has been built to Los Patos and the east end of the county to Wintersburg. Of the uncompleted portion between Los Patos and Balboa it is proposed to do construction work as far as Huntington Beach soon and the remainder later.

Orange county now has six connections with other county systems, west from Anaheim through Cypress, through La Habra Valley and Whittier, Buena Park and north of Station.

Orange county aided the California Highway Commission by purchasing $400,000 of State bonds, and as a result the State highway between Whittier, La Habra, Fullerton, Anaheim, Santa Ana, Tustin, San Juan Capistrano to the San Diego-county line has been built.

Mr. Talbert and Mr. Schumacher say automobile and motor truck traffic has been doubled in a twelve month as a result of the good roads, and that the investment in paved roads is already returning big dividends to the county by stimulating industries and agriculture.

Episcopal.

EVENING HAVEN FOR SHEPHERDS.

Will Shelter Aged Ministers and Their Wives Here.

Quarter-million-dollar Home Bought and Launched.

Institution's Scope National; Half the Money In.

A national home for retired ministers of the Episcopal church and their wives is to be founded in Southern California. The beautiful Casa Blanca Hotel in Ontario has been purchased for that purpose. The transaction, involving an investment of $250,000, has been practically consummated with the papers now in escrow.

The project's scope includes the entire country, as is indicated by the name to be given the institution—National Episcopal Rectory. Philanthropists in Los Angeles and throughout America have made the venture possible, about half of the required money having been subscribed. Among the local contributors are some of our wealthiest and most prominent business men, including a number of oil and railroad magnates.

Rev. Baker P. Lee, rector of Christ Episcopal Church, is father of the plan and is working zealously for its success. Incorporation papers have been issued in Sacramento under the name of the National Episcopal Rectory, the incorporators being Mr. Lee, Dr. Douglas Long, a retired physician, formerly of Detroit, and T. A. Williams, an attorney who formerly resided in Norfolk, Va. In a few days an application will be made to Washington for national incorporation papers.

The new owners took over the institution yesterday, with their own manager, C. W. Barker, in charge. He is a well-known hotel man, having managed the Leighton, Pepper and other hostelries in the South.

The hotel was purchased from E. A. Parkford, who enthusiastically approved the plan and, according to those behind the humanitarian and philanthropic project, granted substantial concessions in order that the transaction might not fail.

FROM EVERY STATE.

Prominent Episcopalians in every State will be identified with the institution. Many of them have expressed a desire to contribute to the cause while others' names will be used in honorary connection. Among the latter will be Mrs. Woodrow Wilson and others in the public eye.

The Casa Blanca hotel is modern in every respect, practically fireproof and elegantly equipped. It contains fifty rooms, each one provided with bath, private telephone and gorgeous furnishings. For the present the projectors believe the institution is large enough to accomodate all of the men and women who are eligible to admittance, but surrounding the hotel is plenty of space and it is planned to enlarge the building when it becomes necessary.

A Los Angeles philanthropist has promised to furnish the money for the building of a chapel on the rectory grounds. Work is to be started just as soon as there are enough patrons to warrant it. The chapel is to cost $10,000 and will be of classic design.

Mounted on top of the rectory will be an immense electric sign, the name of the institution standing out boldly and capable of being read for miles around. Painted white the name can be seen to advantage in the daytime

Full particulars of the contest are given in today's display announcement. The office is open from 8:30 in the morning until 8:30 in the evening, and contestants or prospective contestants are welcome.

Paradox.

WIFE'S A "WIDOW;" HUSBAND LIVE ONE.

CITY DIRECTORY JOKE BARED BY DIVORCE ACTION.

Woman Who has Worn Weeds, According to the Book, for Two Years Past, Sues Man Who Admits He Just "Got up and Left" Her.

How would you feel if you were a resident of Los Angeles, conducting active business operations, known of many men and women and in their daily contact, yet your wife, who resided in the same city, insisted on appearing in the city directory as your widow?

This is a peculiar situation that came to light yesterday when Daisy H. Goodwin, through her attorney, W. S. Baird, filed suit for divorce from Otis B. Goodwin.

The city directory gives the following:

Goodwin, Daisy H., widow of Otis Goodwin, residence No. 803 Grand View street.

Goodwin, Otis B., No. 5816 La Miranda avenue.

The Goodwins have been residents of this city several years. Three years ago they had domestic trouble and Mr. Goodwin expressed the situation yesterday by saying: "I simply got up and left."

Later an action for divorce was brought, but neither party was given a decree. They continued to go their separate ways, and the last two city directories have shown Mrs. Goodwin as the "widow" of Mr. Goodwin.

"I have known of this statement in the city directory for the past two years," said Mr. Goodwin yesterday. "It simply means that misinformation was given to the directory men. I am very much alive. This is the first I have heard any new action had been filed. After our troubles I simply got up and left. I can scarcely help it, can I, if Mrs. Goodwin wants to appear to the public as my widow?"

Mr. Goodwin is connected with the South Seas Steamship Company and has been in the steamship agency here several years.

ALL HIS LIFE WITH INDIANS.

Southland Visitor Tells of Work Among Sioux.

Born in Their Camp, Later Their Missionary.

Tribes Holding Their Own in Numbers, He Says.

Born among the Sioux Indians and associated with them as a missionary for more than forty-five years, Dr. Alfred L. Riggs, principal of Santee Normal Training School at Santee, Neb., is now spending a quiet winter at a peaceful little wigwam in Claremont. He will be 78 years of age next December and he believes the sunny climate of Southern California will restore him for at least a few more years of activity among the Red Men of the Middle West.

Dr. Riggs has figuratively smoked the pipe of peace until he has reached the age where he no longer has a scalp to lose. He was born in a little Minnesota town, his father being a missionary among the Indians at the time. He went to Knox College in Illinois and graduated. Then he went through Chicago Seminary, married the woman who is now his devoted wife, and began teaching in the Normal School at Santee. His service there has been continuous, except that for the past eight winters he has left his eldest son in charge while he has sojourned in Southern California.

It is the business of Dr. Riggs and his faculty to teach 120 full-blooded Indians. They are given a ten-year course along spiritual and industrial lines. When they complete the work they go out and do missionary work on the many reservations. The enrollment of the Normal School is not confined to Sioux scholars. There are students there from nearly every tribe in North America, although the majority of the pupils come from the Sioux agencies at Santee, Rosebud, Standing Rock and Pine Ridge. There are about 40,000 of them left. Their stamping ground in the roving days included Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, Nebraska and the Dakotas.

Dr. Riggs says people are mistaken if they believe that the North American Indians are dying off like flies, because of tuberculosis and other diseases which have swiftly overtaken them since the government corralled them.

TRIBES NOT DECREASING.

"Government statistics will prove," says he, "that the tribes are increasing in some places; at least holding their own in other places, and only decreasing in some few instances, and that on account of prevailing conditions. The Indians do not have as much tuberculosis as they used to have.

"Among the big medicine men of the tribe I should say that Rain in the Face was of most assistance to the government in establishing peace, after he became civilized. He was a strong, sensible Indian and had great power in the tribe. Spotted Tail was influential in bringing peace about, but he was a politician, a schemer and a scamp. Most of the big medicine men had political axes to grind when they smoked a peace pipe with a paleface. Sitting Bull was more of a medicine man than a warrior. My brother, Rev. Thomas Riggs, who is now a missionary near Pierre, S. D., officiated at the burial of Sitting Bull."

The medicine man of the tribe comes in for a great deal of criticism from Dr. Riggs, who has observed his methods for nearly three-quarters of a century. It is said that one out of ten bucks and one out of thirty squaws undertakes to be a medicine man or woman. The theory of the medicine man game is that whenever any illness or trivial ache overtakes an Indian an evil spirit is after him. At that stage the medicine man is called in, and he proceeds to invoke all his chicanery in an effort to scare away the evil spirits. He jingles his sleigh bells, pounds the tom-tom, whoops and yells, and creates all manner of disturbances, and the patient, if he has any faith in the wahoo, is sometimes relieved in so far as the mental attitude has the power to change physical conditions.

"I don't believe the medicine man ever has done any Indian much good," says Dr. Riggs, "and I feel sure that he has done a lot of them harm. As compensation for his services he collects, and in advance, all he can possibly wring out of the sick Indian.

"In their native state the Indians used to give feasts to various kinds of gods, and in that way use up their wampum to such an extent that they were in danger of starving. A sun dance would impoverish a family for a whole year. The features of such feasts were horrible."

KEEPING THEM SOBER.

One of the things that the government is stamping out is the liquor evil. The Indians still like fire water, but they seldom get it. Perhaps three out of 100 boys at the Santee School will take to the bottle. Constant vigilance is required to keep them from sneaking a bottle in once in a while. When they do get to drinking they create a great uproar and are promptly banished from school.

"The Sioux are nominally a Christian people," says Dr. Riggs. "Nevertheless there is a large heathen element. The Christian religion among those who do profess it is more or less mingled with superstitions and is yet in a crude state.

"Socially the Indians are in a transitional state. They are trying to are more or less influenced by the ruder fringe of whites on the frontier. They are much given to the white dances and spectacular entertainments. The government does vast damage by favoring wild-west shows. The showmen come into the Indian country, take many of the most promising young men, and bring them back broken in health.

"Our Indian pupils are given to cattle-raising, farming, carpentry, blacksmithing and printing. The girls have regular instruction in all departments of housework. The boys print a newspaper in the Sioux language at the school.

"The Indians need a higher standard of life, upheld by a strong public opinion. They are too independent to like to work together, and not sufficiently so to stand alone for the right."

The Riggs family has spent its life among the Indians. Dr. Riggs and his wife have been teaching among them for nearly fifty years. Their eldest son and a daughter are connected with the Santee school. An older brother of Dr. Riggs is a missionary in South Dakota. The Santee school is maintained by the American Missionary Association.

CASE OF INGRATITUDE?

Fashionable Apartment-house Clerk Once Helped Out of Trouble by Proprietress Now Accused of Defrauding His Benefactress.

Patrick Caul broke his probation and is back in the County Jail. He was brought in yesterday morning for having repeated his former bad-check operations, according to Probation Officer May.

Caul, who is reputed the son of a prominent Chicago and Joliet family, who came here originally for his health, agreed with the climate and tried to spend more than his allowance and small earnings would permit. He pleaded guilty to forgery before Judge Craig on June 13, last, and because of a former good record was given another chance.

He had been a clerk at the fashionable Regent apartments on West Sixth street, and Mrs. S. H. Leonard, the proprietress, was largely instrumental in securing commutation of his sentence.

When he was freed Mrs. Leonard reinstated him. Now Caul is accused of having taken rent money from guests and forged Mrs. Leonard's name to the receipts. He is also accused of having passed several worthless checks.

Judge Craig has taken Caul's case under advisement and will decide on his sentence later.

THE TIMES EXCURSION TO IMPERIAL VALLEY.

The next special excursion train to Imperial Valley under the management of The Times will leave the Southern Pacific passenger station Friday night, January 28, next, arriving at Imperial Valley before breakfast the following morning. The tour of interesting sections of the county and leading points in the cities will then be on. Imperial residents have promised the excursionists entertainment and auto rides and an enjoyable time is to be anticipated.

Each member of the last trip to the valley was delighted with the arrangements of the excursion; the reasonable price (which is lower than the regular railroad ticket alone,) with the richness and the potential possibilities of Imperial county; the generous hospitality of the residents, and the interesting entertainments provided during their trip.

The price of ticket is only $14.75, which includes round-trip transportation, sleeping berth and all meals and entertainments in Imperial Valley. This wonderful valley with its flourishing towns is today the richest section of California. Go to see it!

Anyone who wishes to go to Imperial Valley with the purposed excursion should make reservations promptly, because the party, as heretofore, will be limited in number. For further information call, or write to The Times Excursion Department, Times Building, First and Broadway. Telephones 10391, Main 8200.

WOES OF A FARMER.

Amateur Dairyman Finds a Cow May Go Far on Reputation, but Fall Short of Expectations When Test Comes—Gets His Money Back.

Because, he alleged, Mrs. Pearl Faulkner had described a certain Jersey cow in glowing terms, A. M. Schoosian, an amateur farmer, hired an automobile to haul the cow two miles to his own home after buying the animal. He testified yesterday morning before Justice Summerfield that he prized the cow so highly he didn't want to fatigue her by unwonted exercise.

His tale resulted from an effort to recover $45 paid for the cow and $10 paid for automobile hire. Never having raised any cows himself, he took Mrs. Faulkner's word for the excellency of the Jersey. At his own little farm he whitewashed the stable, bought fine shavings and the best straw for stable bedding, in order to receive "bossy" properly.

All the neighbors were invited to drop in and see the prized cow, which it developed met every expectation but to give forth the promised milk. Thinking perhaps that his inexperience in milking had something to do with this failure to provide, Mr. Schoosian called in experts. They, too, were unable to coax forth the lacteal fluid. Then he called in a veterinary.

The cow doctor told him a sad story. "Bossy" had foundered, not only one, but two or three times, and there was no hope of ever bringing her back to a producing stage. "Better kill her and sell her for beef," he advised.

"I'll get my money back for a live cow," declared Mr. Schoosian. A few days later he hired another automobile and hauled the cow over to the East Los Angeles farm from whence she came. Mr. Schoosian alleges that Mrs. Faulkner even went so far as to admit she knew the cow was not good as a milch cow, and that it was up to the purchaser to put an ad. in the paper and sell her to someone else, instead of trying to make her take the animal back.

Crestfallen, Mr. Schoosian took "bossy" home. This time she walked. Evidently the strain was too great. The animal became sick, and two days later the Humane Society officials ordered her killed and the carcass destroyed. The owner decided to bring suit, which resulted in getting back his purchase price in addition to the automobile fares.

Lining 'Em Up.

MORE LEADERS NAMED.

Four Additional Team Captains are Selected for the Forthcoming Campaign to Raise Million Dollars for Occidental in a Fortnight.

With three weeks yet to run before the public launching of the campaign to raise $1,000,000 in two weeks for Occidental College, more than half of the forty captains in the business men's division have already been selected. Chairman Frank P. Flint, at a meeting of the Executive Committee yesterday noon, urged all the members to surge forward in the selection of team captains, so that the lacking ones may be named before February 1.

Four new team captains were announced at yesterday's meeting. They were Charles G. Andrews, vice-president of the Wright-Callender-Andrews Company; Louis F. Vetter, real estate man; Frank O. Bristol, supervisor of insurance agents, and Fred B. McComas, president of the Los Angeles Notion Company.

Each team will consist of a captain and seven workers, and many of the team captains have either filled their teams or have only a few vacancies.

The campaign headquarters in parlors D and E on the mezzanine floor at the Alexandria is becoming a very busy place. Frequent meetings of the Executive Committee are held, but for the time being the committee is confining itself almost exclusively to the selection of team captains.

FIND DUMMY WAS USED.

Land Office Cancels Two Good Claims on General Charge of Fraud.

Register Roche and Receiver Mitchell of the local Land Office have canceled the selection of two pieces of desert land, for 80 acres each, in the name of W. A. Twogood, on the general charge of fraud. The land is located in the vicinity of Oxnard, Ventura county.

The land was originally applied for from the State by J. B. Bateman, who in turn transferred it to F. A. Hyde & Co. of Oakland, and that firm transferred it to Mr. Twogood. The original entry covered land in Santa Barbara county in the San Francisco district, and Mr. Twogood made application to shift the entry to the Ventura county land. This was denied by a decision rendered yesterday.

It appeared from the testimony that Bateman was a mythical person, of whom nobody in the transaction had any knowledge. His supposed address was No. 630 Commercial street, San Francisco, an office at the time occupied by the Hyde company. As the latter already had 640 acres, under the law it could secure no more, and it is alleged by the local land officers that the record shows the entry in the interest of the Hyde company, although in Bateman's name, whom none of the witnesses, even Mr. Hyde himself, could locate.

The local officials find that Bateman was a "dummy," used by the Hyde company to get land when the latter could not of itself qualify, and that the selection made by Mr. Twogood, covering lands in Ventura county, in exchange for lands in Santa Barbara county, should be canceled.

Cottons for Making Underclothes

This month, for years, has been the time set aside in this country for replenishing underclothes and linens. In the East the original "White Sale" was a sale of yard goods — nainsooks, cambrics, long cloths, etc. Later, when manufacturers became expert enough to satisfy fastidious women with underclothes, ready-made, the white sale became a sale of underclothes.

Yet to this day certain women feel that no underclothes can take the place of those made at home—

For such women tomorrow offers great opportunities—for you will find—

White Goods $1.35

Nainsook or longcloth—nice and soft in finish

at $1.75

English Longcloth—42 inches wide.

Nainsook—10 yards to the box—of good quality.

The embroidery remnants are nearby—fine and at remnant prices.

"Satin" Marseilles Bed Sets at $5.00

Next the linen section with the sheets and blankets—This "satin finish" gives great richness to Marseilles, and has come to be the accepted standard the country over. The spread is for a full-sized bed, and the bolster cover matches in design. Both are scalloped, and the spread has cut corners, so that it fits.

Blankets at $5

70x82-inch (double bed) blankets—white with pink, blue or yellow borders—fine, soft, fluffy—warm, with enough cotton combed in to keep them from shrinking.

Women's Silk Stockings 95c a Pair

New Style Blouses

The Season's Newest Models Fashion's Newest Shades

New models in chiffon, crepe de chine and Georgette Crepe. There are crepe de chine blouses, in half-tailored styles at $3.95, $5.75 and $6.50.

Wash silk shirts, of the new tub silks, are $3.95, $5.75 and $6.50. At $5 you'll find some exceptionally fine waists of heavy crepe de chine, in white, flesh-color, corn-color, peach, emerald and navy-blue—wonderfully smart—tucked, box-pleated, hemstitched, with convertible collars.

One style in crepe de chine at $6.50 (and in Georgette crepe at $8.50) is made with low collar, edged with pleating. It has the new Raglan yoke, hemstitched in. Down the front is a double jabot of the pleating.

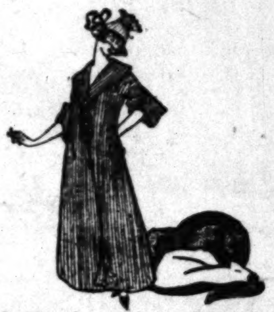
We have it in corn, coral and white, and it is feminine and lovely, and fresh beyond belief.

The new chiffon-lined, chiffon waists are fascinating at $12.50—

They follow the colors of spring, corn, chartreuse green and coral, and have the exceedingly becoming standing collar and turn-back cuffs, sometimes in contrast — a gray collar and cuffs on a coral blouse, etc.

Women's Corduroy Bathrobes, $3.50 --Two Styles



One made with the flat shawl collar, which gradually changes into revers, and turn-back cuffs.

The other style is collarless—has a V-neck, and the sleeves are plain and without cuffs — wistaria, rose, lavender, pink, several blues and a good red.

These are the least costly bathrobes of corduroy we have ever seen—and those we have sold of this make and style (at a much higher price) have been thoroughly liked.

Better qualities, lined with silk, are: $6.50, $10, $13.50 and $18.

The New Cretonnes Have Come

25c, 35c, 40c and 50c a yard, and you are invited to see their fresh, new color beauty.

There's nothing used more than cretonne, for all sorts of purposes—window-cushions, pillows, window-curtains, divans coverings, bed-sets—and the new are unexpected and delightful in their colors.

NOT RELIABLE.

Another United States submarine is on a mud bank near San Diego. We hate to knock, but this seems to be one of the best things that an American submarine does.

NOT NEW IN THE LEAST.

"Death to all Americans!" is now the cry among the bandits of Mexico. There is as little news to this statement as to the announcement that young Gen. Diaz is about to foment, inaugurate and precipitate a fresh revolution by the overthrow of Carranza.

ENVY IS INSUFFICIENCY.

There is really no contest. You are what you are. No other can alter your status. Your position 's assured, resting entirely upon your own realization. What others are does not really concern you, beyond your gentle acceptance of all they claim for themselves. Envy can only arise out of a dissatisfaction with yourself.

NOT A LOCAL SPORT.

Los Angeles is becoming a regular city when sixty detectives will raid fourteen gambling houses in a night. Just because a few sad old skates were driven through the mud in a dirty little Mexican village is no reason why hundreds of people in Los Angeles should lose their heads and their dollars. Chief Snively is on the right track when he assumes that Tia Juana is on the wrong one.

FEEDING THE DIPLOMATS.

President Wilson is possibly neutral, but he admits that a great many diplomats in America are not. In order to receive the ambassadors from foreign countries he has been obliged to arrange for two dinners, inviting the allies to one and the central powers to another. Any man who can prove that he is a neutral ambassador gets invited to both. Virtue is certainly its own reward.

HEAVEN FORBID!

While it is unfair that everybody in Los Angeles should go dry one whole day just because Hollywood wants to vote on water bonds, or Van Nuys or Owensmouth want to vote on a new school fund, this is by no means the worst that could happen. Supposing Watts should be annexed and all the refreshment bazaars would have to be closed every time Watts had an election on the liquor question?

HAS THE FEATURES.

Could Taft have worn a powdered wig like George Washington? No, he would have looked like a polar bear, and Roosevelt in such a get-up would resemble a French poodle, but Woodrow Wilson—there is a man for you—would look better than Washington himself. You may not like the foreign policy of Mr. Wilson nor his Mexican policy, seeing that neither exists, but you must admit that he has the nose and the chin for a powdered wig or any classic pose in which your fancy might care to indulge.

CONSCRIPTING AMERICAN SECURITIES.

The efforts of the British government to conscript American securities by borrowing them, or buying them with its promises to pay, are not meeting with success. The holders of Steel Common or Atchison or Erie, if they are minded to sell at all, prefer to sell direct to the American market where they can get gold for their holdings, for gold in a safe deposit box in an American city is something which thieves cannot steal nor moth corrupt, whereas British government bonds are something which "in the sweet by and by" may be paid and may not. It all depends on the results of the war.

IN GOOD TIME.

E. H. Sothern is to retire permanently from the stage. His beautiful wife, Julia Marlowe, has already done so. With Miss Marlowe the step was artistic necessity. Her popularity has depended upon neither power nor understanding, but upon beauty, magnetism and a golden voice. These fail with youth, and she has preserved an ideal of shining loveliness for her wide public by bidding us farewell while she remained at the height of her success. Mr. Sothern might have remained with us another ten years or perhaps twenty without any diminishing fame, but if he wants to do a little living for himself, now that he has made a living by living so long for others, no one should envy him his happy vacation.

MARRY OR BE SHOT.

The British House of Lords has passed the Commons' conscription bill, notwithstanding the patriotic labor unions, by a vote of five to two, protested against it on the absurd ground that hereafter "conscription might become a permanent institution for capitalists to use against the interests of the masses." The protestants did not take into consideration the fact that both the efforts of the government to force into the trenches the free-born bachelor Briton who had no taste for the feel of a German bullet or the odor of an Austrian stink pot, and the efforts of predatory capital to enslave the unmarried toiling masses who do not want to toil might all be baffled by the unmated males accepting the leap-year solicitations of British maidens and widows and becoming husbands and, in due course, fathers—if the eugenics were all right.

BLOOD-BESPATTERED PROSPERITY.

The Secretary of Commerce at Washington appears to be the "barker" for the Wilson administration. He is an inborn, ineradicable, invincible booster. Ever since the Underwood law struck down the protective policy under which this nation prospered for sixteen years Secretary Redfield has upraised his voice and cried "business is improving," "things are prosperous."

The truth is, and business men know it, that such prosperity as we have in the East is accidental and the offspring of the European war. Our increased trade has been almost entirely with the warring nations. With the nations at peace it has decreased. Our swollen exports are composed in part of food and clothes for soldiers and civilians and in part of instrumentalities of death.

The war in Europe, as great a calamity as it was to the people of six great nations, was a benefit to the industries of the eastern States. It would be a misnomer to call it a godsend, for it was a devilsend.

A comparison of the year of peace from September 1913 to September 1914, which was the first year of the Underwood law, with the year of war from September 1914 to September 1915, which was the second year of the Underwood law—as shown by government data presented by Congressman Humphrey of Washington shows that:

During the year of peace we sold in breadstuffs to Europe $181,484,000 worth. In the year of war we sold $567,607,000, a gain of 213 per cent.

In the year of peace we sold to Europe horses to the value of $3,177,000. In the year of war we sold them horses to the value of $82,276,000, a gain of 2490 per cent.

In the year of peace we sold to Europe mules to the value of $622,000. In the year of war we sold them mules to the value of $18,041,000, a gain of 2795 per cent.

During the year of peace we sold to Europe hay to the value of $790,000. During the year of war we sold to Europe hay to the value of $2,263,000, a gain of 233 per cent.

During the year of peace we sold to Europe meats and dairy products to the value of $138,736,000. During the year of war we sold them meats and dairy products to the value of $243,098,000, a gain of 75 per cent.

During the year of peace we sold to Europe sugar to the value of $4,341,000. During the year of war we sold to Europe sugar to the value of $36,816,000, a gain of 748 per cent.

Prosperity has come to the American farmer because he is feeding 10,000,000 men who are shooting at each other in the trenches and on the battlefields of Europe. Prosperity has come to the mine owner because while during the year of peace we sold to Europe $12,870,000 worth of goods manufactured from aluminum, brass, lead and zinc, in the year of war we sold of the same products to Europe to the value of $66,730,000, a gain of 419 per cent. Zinc is necessary in the manufacture of shells. In this one item alone our sales increased from $785,000 in the year of peace to $26,323,000 in the year of war, a gain of 3253 per cent.

In the year of peace the Underwood tariff law closed many of our woolen mills and we sold to Europe only $4,753,000 of woolen goods. The year of war reopened them and we sold $32,057,000 worth, a gain of 574 per cent.

The greatest advance has been in manufactures of metal.

In the year of peace we sold to Europe steel bars and billets to the value of $7,590,000. In the year of war we sold to Europe of the same products to the value of $21,743,000, a gain of 186 per cent.

In the year of peace we sold to Europe barbed and other wire to the value of $7,472,000. In the year of war we sold to Europe barbed and other wire to the value of $18,882,000, a gain of 153 per cent.

In the year of peace we sold to Europe firearms to the value of $3,171,000. In the year of war we sold to Europe firearms to the value of $11,591,000, a gain of 265 per cent.

In the year of peace we sold to Europe explosives to the value of $6,244,000. In the year of war we sold to Europe explosives to the value of $71,806,000, a gain of 1050 per cent.

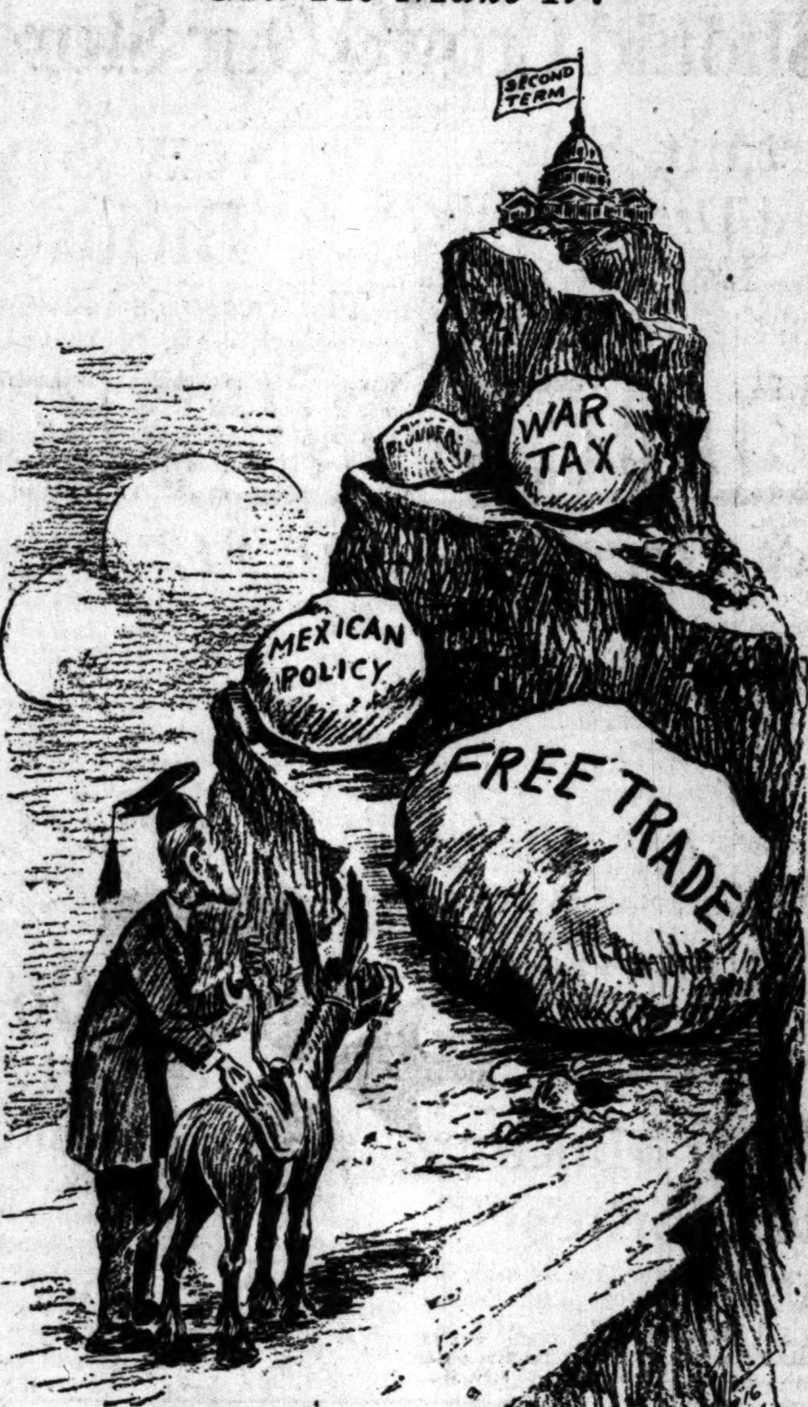
We even made a profit from the wounds inflicted by our guns and ammunition. In the year of peace we sold to Europe medical appliances to the value of $1,571,000. In the year of war we sold to Europe medical appliances to the value of $5,216,000, a gain of 231 per cent.

These statistics show that the present great prosperity in eastern centers is largely derived from the conflict that is now devastating the world. Our trade with Europe during the year from September 1914 to September 1915—the year of war—as compared with the year immediately preceding—the year of peace—increased in "war orders" alone over $1,010,000,000.

Commenting on these statistics Congressman Humphrey said: "Every prosperous mill and mine, field and factory, and workshop in this nation today is directly connected by the sordid threads of gain with the blood-red battlefields of Europe. Cut these connections and our prosperity would wither as does the blossoming harvest before the hot winds of the desert. When the last echo of the last cannon shot dies in Europe then dies our present prosperity." Where do the products of our present prosperity go today? Where are they used? said Mr. Humphrey:

"Go to Europe, visit the front, where is being waged the most costly and bloody struggle in all human history. You ride out in an American automobile to the trenches dug with American tools, lined with American lumber, protected by American barbed wire, manned with American guns, filled with American ammunition, defended by men equipped, clothed and fed with American products. American aeroplanes are scouting overhead, the cavalry dashes to the front on American horses, the light artillery is brought forward by American mules. Wait until the lull of battle comes, wait until the white flag of truce is flying, and then leave the trenches and walk forth upon that awful field of slaughter. Examine the dying, white-faced soldier as he is carried from the field of death. His cap is made from American material. His uniform from cloth made in America. His shoes are made in America. Remove them—his socks are made in America. His underclothes are made in America. His cartridge belt is made in America, filled with cartridges made in America. His knapsack is made in America. It is filled with provisions produced in America. From his dying grasp falls his gun, made in America. His medicine case and contents are from America. Unwrap the bloodstained bandage of first aid; it is made in America. He is taken to the hospital in an American ambulance. There the angels of pity—the Red Cross nurses from America—soothe the agony of his dying hour. He takes American medicine. He is operated upon with American surgical instruments. The anaesthetic of mercy is from America. He is carried to his last resting place upon an American stretcher, placed in a trench dug with an American pick, and the mound above his uncoffined form is heaped and rounded with an American shovel. These are the surroundings and here is the hell where our present prosperity is coined."

Who can have the heart to boast of the prosperity here that is measured by the blood and tears shed across the sea? Our prosperity is measured by the toll of human life taken from the armies of Europe. We want the prosperity of peace and not the prosperity of war. We want the prosperity that tells of happiness and content and joy, and not the prosperity of grief and anguish and despair. Our present prosperity is the prosperity of misery and misfortune. It is the prosperity of murder and passion. Our present prosperity is human life measured in money. Our present prosperity is coined from human hate, stained with human blood, mildewed with human tears, filled with human agony and despair, blackened with shattered hopes and ruined lives and marred with tragic human death. May this terrible truth be burned into the brain of the American people until no man will dare to boast of our battlefield prosperity.



Can He Make It?

WILL ALL NATIONS CHANGE?

Things will never be the same in any of the countries engaged in this (as the Crown Prince of Germany phrased it) most cruel and most idiotic of wars.

Two or three full years of it, should the conflict rage so long, may see psychological changes, fresh ideals, new aspirations, a different national spirit among all the peoples passing through the present waters of bitterness, and the change must color all civilization. In Germany, France and England, the countries that will be most hard hit by the war, the most interesting speculation is whether the spirit of these will be sufficiently strengthened to overcome the physical and material exhaustion.

Germany will perhaps display a less noticeable change of national spirit than will her opponents. To the Teuton the state has long been a living soul to be regarded as men regard their individual souls—only more entirely so, because it is a collective and national soul. Yet in Germany nothing will be just the same as in the spring of 1914.

If humbled she will concentrate with greater vehemence on a closer regime of self-discipline. Each individual will be Spartan in his self-sacrifice for the strengthening of the soul of the nation. With the Teuton arms generally victorious, to what exaltation the national spirit will blaze out no prophet, had he the power, would care to use it in such fearful forecasting.

For the French the war has already developed a new spirit, so startling that those who remember France as she was five years ago and see her as she is today, can hardly believe the transfiguration she has undergone. France is sobered and enthused by a wonderful dream of a new civilization for which a France at arms will have helped to clear the way.

To France the war is cruel but not idiotic. To France it is the opening of a great iron gate from which a more glorified democracy will come forth to heal and uplift the world. So, the French say, today has come to them not of their own seeking, a responsibility that nothing short of national extinction will prevent them from carrying out.

The old order in England seems likely to be entirely smashed up before the end is reached of this cruel and idiotic struggle. England, in spite of her throne and her nobility, was fairly well democratized before her empire was threatened by military disaster. To prevent this tragedy she had to resort to drastic state socialism and the trades unions there, having tasted the dram of power, will try to get hold of the source of supply that they may drink yet more greedily. England will have a harder fight on her own island with her own people, after the war is settled, than she had in the days of the Cavaliers and the Roundheads. And from Britain's confusion may emerge another Oliver Cromwell.

The old boast, "Britons never shall be slaves," already sounds somewhat fantastic to manufacturers whose works have been seized by the government for military purposes, to landowners taxed more than their estates could possibly produce and to business men whose incomes soon threaten to split clean in two to satisfy the ever increasing income tax. The rich will be poorer and the poor richer for a time; afterwards the fate of the empire will be a hazardous venture.

Nothing will ever be quite the same again, anywhere, not even in the United States. Why, in one way and another, the effects of the cruel and idiotic struggle over things that could we know what they were would not affect us in the least, are rousing new thoughts and sentiments in our people and coloring the next Presidential campaign.

RIPPLING RHYMES.

THE GRIP.

Now, when a man has got a cold, that makes him bark and yip, he talks about his aches untold, and says he has the grip. As well to claim when chilblains flirt your toes around about, and cause a picayunish hurt, that you've rheumatic gout. The grip, it is a fell disease, unlike the garden cold, and it was shipped across the seas, from Russia's frozen wold. Oh, it is fierce, and it will cook the goose of any gents, and make the cold of commerce look like twenty-seven cents. The men who've had it should receive due credit for the same, and if they die they ought to leave a long-enduring fame. Alas, distinction for them moulds no laurel wreaths this trip, for skates with common, ten-cent colds all say they have the grip. I've had the real imported thing, indorsed by Nick, the Czar, and I, of course, would like to spring grip stories, near and far. Alas, this world no solace holds for one to whom it's due; for all the skates with tin-horn colds remark, "I've been there, too!"

ABSOLUTISM ALMOST A NECESSITY FOR CHINA.

[CONTRIBUTED TO THE TIMES]

BY DR. FRANK J. GOODNOW,

President, Johns Hopkins University; Until Recently American Adviser to Yuan Shi Kai.

THE issue of the uprising reported in China must determine the wisdom of the recent change in the form of government. The supplanting of the so-called republic by the monarchy at this time is pre-eminently an undertaking which success alone can justify.

So far as I can see, as yet, it is impossible to obtain in China an expression of public opinion by means of the ballot. No organization exists, no facilities are present for voting.

When Yuan Shi Kai, as the incumbent of the Presidency, decided to accept the crown, which had been offered to him by the Council of State, he believed he was acting in accordance with the preponderant opinion as well as for the best interests of his country. The uprising has been regarded in the United States as the country's protest against his act. Should it so prove, and should it prevail against him, his failure must be his condemnation, as his success will be his justification.

At last advices, instead of being a revolution, the disturbance amounts to nothing but a mere rebellion. United States Minister Reinsch has stated that the government troops have not gone over to the rebels. The disorder appears to be confined to the Province of Yunan and is due, not to resentment against Yuan Shi Kai as China's monarch, but to antagonism to the government's drastic measures in suppressing the cultivation of the poppy—measures incident to the relentless campaign against opium, so long the bane of the people. From the South of China I learn that the change to a monarchy has the approval of the responsible classes—the merchants and others who, if anyone does, may be said to voice intelligent opinion. In the North, the people generally favor the change. It would seem, therefore, that Yuan Shi Kai has gauged Chinese feeling correctly, and that his undertaking, marked for success, merits it.

In preparing for Yuan Shi Kai, as President of China, the memorandum which has been so widely criticised—and not a little misapprehended, if not misquoted—I emphasized the mischievousness of any change which would plunge China into disorder. The only course assuring safety in the future lay in securing some form of government that should afford a reasonable security as to the succession to the head of the state. The complete failure of representative government had convinced me that what China possessed was a military autocracy with no adequate provision for succession. It seemed, therefore, that China had about the worst form of government that could exist. As soon as Yuan Shi Kai should die, everything must be in danger of collapse. The only safe course was to plan some form of government giving reasonable security as to the succession. If an agreement could be reached for the establishment of a monarchy, and if the foreign powers were not unfavorable, a change of that nature would be wise. But I laid considerable emphasis on the risks attending any changes which would plunge the country into disorder.

It is difficult for us as a Western people to realize that political institutions, in which we have our being with such accustomed ease as to make their principles and use almost second nature, may be as difficult of adaptation to the Chinese as Chinese customs would be for us. But centuries of development along differing lines have produced different psychologies, especially with regard to government.

China has never developed, to an extent such as is to be noted in Europe, the conception of political authority as interfering with the daily affairs of life. China has been governed, as I remarked in the course of a study of her possibilities for economic and political reorganization, by the precepts of morality and custom, rather than by law and edict. Where laws and edicts have been used to supplement the force of moral precept and customary usage, it has usually been deemed expedient to convince those affected of the reasonableness of the action proposed to be taken.

China's lack of discipline and her lack of appreciation of individual rights make it probable that a form of government which has many of the earmarks of absolutism must prevail until she develops greater submission to political authority, greater powers of social co-operation and greater regard for private rights. Unless a strong government is established, political disintegration is liable to occur and many petty tyrants will probably develop, tyrants in whose presence the growth of the conception of individual private rights will be well nigh impossible.

The advantages of a monarchy, as compared with a republic, lie especially in the fixing of the succession and are conditional very largely upon the adoption of that law of succession which experience has shown to be the best—succession in the oldest nearest male line.

It is, however, very doubtful whether China can derive any permanent benefit from the change to monarchy unless provision is made for the development, under the monarchy, of some form of constitutional government. The government must increase in strength, in order to resist foreign aggression, if China is to take her proper place among the nations; and the people must acquire a greater patriotism, something which cannot come unless they have a larger participation in the government than they have enjoyed in the past. For the present, the Chinese people must have a government which, to their thinking, is of benefit to them and is, to some extent at least, under their control.

These are almost the words of my memorandum to Yuan Shi Kai on the subject of a change to a monarchy. I have seen no reason to alter my opinion.

Overheard on the Elevator.

[Chicago Tribune:] "The cunningest dog came to us this week."

"You don't mean it! What did Baby think of him?"

"My dear, she was frightened to death. She fairly screamed every time he came into the room, and was so nervous all night she hardly slept a wink."

"Then you didn't keep the dog, did you?"

"No, we advertised him, but no one called, so we gave him to a young man in the neighborhood."

"What kind of a dog was he?"

"Oh, just the same kind as Baby, only larger."

Busy Wives.

[Browning's Magazine:] "I'm worn out. I've been breaking in a new cook."

"I've got my hands full, too. I'm breaking in a new husband."

GRAY HAIR TURNS ITS NATURAL COLOR AFTER APPLYING SAGE TEA.

Mixed with Sulphur it Darkens Beautifuly and Takes Off Dandruff.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and luster to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also cures dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome.

Nowadays skilled chemists do this better than ourselves. By asking at any drug store for the ready-to-use product—called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy"—you will get a large bottle for about 50 cents. Some druggists make their own but it's usually too sticky, so insist upon getting "Wyeth's" which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is the best remedy for dandruff, dry, feverish, itchy scalp and to stop falling hair.

Folks like "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur" because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly, says a well-known downtown druggist. You dampen a sponge or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This requires but a few moments, by morning the gray hair disappears and after another application or two is restored to its natural color and looks even more beautiful and glossy than ever.

Secure from Attack.

our needs giving due weight to military efficiency; time for installation and cost. The three general methods are naval force, mobile army, coast defenses.

NAVAL DEFENSE.

The first step in this case is to obtain a navy as no adequate force now exists here and we cannot with safety depend upon a transfer in time of need from other points which may be in equal danger. At present there are opportunities for laying down not to exceed four dreadnaughts at yards on the Pacific Coast; from two to three years will be required for completion and the cost will be about $15,000,00 each or $60,000,000 for the four.

Add to this the necessary cruisers, scouts, torpedo boats, submarines and auxiliaries to make an efficient fighting unit and the cost of the complete fleet will be in the vicinity of $80,000,000. Now this fleet which will be, say three years in building, is not over half that needed if the navy is to be our principal dependence, therefore, if the construction is all done on this Coast at least five years and $160,000,000 will be required to produce a proper fleet.

The history of modern navies shows that the leading ship today will in ten years become a back number relegated to the second line of defense, so when the fleet under discussion is completed half of it will already be second class. It is clear that if we are looking for safety in this direction our shipbuilding facilities must be greatly increased and battleships be continually on the way if we are to retain our position. However, if the creation of ships were the only factor we could perhaps get along, but strategic considerations so modify the problem that a fleet cannot be confined to a given point to defend a specified place.

While the result of the fleet activity is defensive so far as the coast is concerned its method of operation is offensive, for it must be free to attack the enemy at the most advantageous point and prevent the consummation of his plans. The fighting ships must all be kept together, for history shows many defeats due to a division of the battle fleet, consequently the navy can repel an attack in but one place at a time.

It will be said that the necessity of concentration will affect the enemy equally and he can sustain an attack in but one place, which is true, but it must be remembered that the objective of the enemy will be the landing of an army, which, because of the long distance from its base, must accompany the fleet in transports; under such conditions a naval demonstration to attract our battle fleet might be made at one point while the transports, under light convoy, made a landing at a point far distant.

All experience teaches that the navy should not be tied to the home ports for their defense, but on the contrary the coast should furnish a protected base for the fleet from which it may sally forth in attack and to which it may return for a refuge or to repair and refit.

PRESENT FORTIFICATIONS.

Our strategists being fully aware of the needs of the situation have builded as well as the means at their disposal will allow; the Panama Canal has been constructed in order that the fleet can mobilize in either ocean with perfect freedom. To carry out successfully their plans—the canal—which must be regarded as the central position should be so strongly fortified that it can be defended against any foe; the Atlantic and the Pacific coasts must have other means of defense than the navy, which the fortunes of war may place temporarily in other fields, leaving the seaboard to conduct its direct defense.

Further, these coasts must contain, behind sufficient fortifications, yards and docks in which the fleet may be quickly repaired and refitted and to which it may retire in case of disaster. From this brief outline it is clear that while our need of a proper fleet cannot be overestimated it must be a fleet for the entire United States, capable of concentrating at any point to repel an enemy; not separated into geographic units each necessarily inferior to the whole exposed to the danger of being engaged in detail and annihilated.

The efforts of the Pacific Coast, in addition to advocating proper additions to the fleet, should be directed toward a plan for the local defense which not only will provide a port for the naval force but will be of sufficient strength to prevent the landing of a hostile army or if such landing is effected will confine its operations to narrow limits. The nature of the defense should be such that during trying times hysterical communities cannot cause transfers in their own interests.

DEFENSE BY THE ARMY.

As above pointed out San Francisco and Puget Sound are at present the principal fortified points on our western coast; batteries are also under construction at San Pedro and San Diego. If all these places were made impregnable from naval attack they would furnish shelter for our fleet when operating in the Pacific but without the fleet would in themselves be of little assistance in preventing invasion of our western dominion, for once beyond the range of their guns an army could land and immediately begin their investment from the land side.

Take the case of San Francisco, a position of great natural strength which has been so strongly fortified. This place will probably never suffer a naval attack for two reasons—first the small chance of success and second there would be no excuse for it when a landing can readily be made at Half Moon Bay some twenty to twenty-five miles to the south. From this latter point the place could be readily captured by a land force as there are practically no defenses on the land side.

The same fate awaits all the positions enumerated, under present conditions. In fact the general position of the Pacific States with their long coast line and the mountains but a short distance to the rear forcing lines of communication near the sea is one inviting attack with every chance of success unless we have a mobile army sufficient in numbers to cope with such a movement.

Many of those who advocate a continuation of our present indifference regarding self-defense, taking a rosy view of future relations with the world at large, base their optimism upon the assumed efficiency of our citizen army, a rather mythical force supposed to appear when the wand of necessity is waved and dissolve into its civil pursuits once the foe has been disposed of. In 1812 our dependence was largely upon a force of this kind and as a result the Capitol was sacked by a small British detachment. One such experience should be enough to cause our people to look the situation squarely in the eye, estimating the recruit at his face value—very good raw material but requiring months and perhaps years to become a finished soldier.

HIGH COST OF VICTORY.

There is no doubt but in time of need the men of this country will gather for its defense in sufficient numbers to insure ultimate victory but if they come unprepared and, in the face of the enemy we must delay to teach them the business of war, then at what a price will victory be purchased.

The various plans proposed recently for a wider diffusion of military knowledge and the general training of our young men are good and must result in much benefit when the time comes but if we are to be prepared for real war the country must have a nucleus, at least, of a real army, and this can be obtained in but one way—increase in our regulars.

At the present time if all commands were at full strength we could muster perhaps not over 75,000 fighting troops for service in this country. If an increase is authorized we could obtain from voluntary enlistment not over 75,000 per year and allowing for men whose terms had expired the net increase would be about 50,000 annually; at this rate we would have at the end of say three years a fighting force of from 200,000 to 225,000 well trained men, enough to steady a much larger force created by adding raw recruits in an emergency. Whether or not this force will be sufficient for our needs will depend upon the numbers which it may be called upon to meet.

With the large transports of high speed now available it is probable that an invader could place upon the Pacific Coast 200,000 trained men within five weeks from the declaration of war, assuming that he was prepared to strike immediately and that our navy was successfully eluded. If our army is increased we would in three years be prepared to repel such an invasion but at the present time we are not, except with raw troops, so if war is forced upon us, in the near future, we must be prepared to suffer reverses at first.

But whether we have a trained army or not, if the enemy is allowed to land, his expulsion will be attended with great loss of life. It could not be otherwise, so if there are means available which will greatly reduce the chances of a successful landing it should be employed.

COAST DEFENSE.

The batteries constituting our seacoast defenses are of two general types—rifles and mortars. The larger rifles have a range of twelve or fourteen miles with a projectile weighing nearly 2100 pounds, the muzzle velocity being about 2300 feet per second, which, I understand, will be increased in future armament. These guns cost with their carriages about $125,000, and allowing for the emplacement a total of about $150,000 per gun. Because of the weight of the shell and the high muzzle velocities, great stresses are set up in the gun at time of discharge, making them short-lived and demanding extreme care in firing them.

The mortar is a very different type of weapon, using a shell weighing about 1000 pounds—a muzzle velocity from 500 to 900 feet per second, in consequence of which the stresses set up by the discharge are comparatively slight and the life of the piece indefinite. The operation of the two weapons is radically different. The rifle discharges within sight of the target, but the mortar sits in a deep pit out of sight of the object at which it is fired, its direction and inclination being determined mathematically, based upon the position of the ship which it is desired to hit.

The mortar with its carriage costs for the 12-inch about $28,000, in place about $35,000 per gun. Because of their lower cost, cheaper operation, longer life and more secure location, combined with at least equal effectiveness, it is believed that for most locations mortar batteries are preferable for coast defense, and in what follows their use is assumed to the exclusion of rifles. We now come to the principal object for which this article is presented, being the suggestion of a method of coast defense by mortar batteries of long range, so placed that all possible landing places are controlled, the chances of a hostile force getting on shore being reduced to a minimum.

The writer is well aware that the usual treatment of such a case provides for well-fortified ports considerable distances apart, in some instances some hundreds of miles, the prevention of landings between being left to the navy, and in case such landings are made a mobile army is provided for checking the enemy, preventing the capture of the forts from the land side and preserving their communications.

ADVANTAGES OF MORTARS.

Nevertheless, because of the isolation of the Pacific Coast, the absence of an army and the possible needs of the navy at other points, he ventures to suggest this plan of mortar batteries with intersecting ranges as one better adapted to our peculiar needs. As an illustration of what is intended, attention is directed to the map showing the coast from Los Angeles to San Diego, where favorable landings are numerous, probably more so than on any other part of our western shore.

The most southerly battery is on the Coronado Islands, several miles south of San Diego and but a short distance off the coast. These islands now belong to Mexico, but because of their position should be acquired by this country and fortified. The next battery north will be on Soledad, a hill some 800 feet in height about fifteen miles from San Diego. Other batteries are near Oceanside, north of Capistrano and on San Pedro hill in front of Los Angeles.

Batteries are also located on Catalina and San Clemente islands, providing offshore defense and preventing their occupation as a base by hostile forces. The range of these batteries is assumed as twenty miles.

Each battery or unit will contain eight mortars which, with the increased range, are estimated to cost $50,000 per gun, or $400,000 for each unit, the seven units having a total cost of $2,800,000, or, let us say, in round numbers, $3,000,000 for controling 150 miles of sea coast with guns of much greater range than those now possessed by any navy in the world.

North of Los Angeles, and to a still greater degree above San Francisco, the character of the coast prevents landing for long distances and thus much of it is naturally defended, but, assuming it is advisable to cover the entire line of 150 miles, which is ten times the distance from Los Angeles to San Diego, then we have $30,000,000 for effectively protecting our entire Pacific littoral, behind which our fleet can always find a base from which to strike at an enemy, whatever his designs may be.

The above amount is the cost of two battleships, which will be obsolete in ten or twelve years, but, applied to land defenses, will make us immune from attack for years to come.

Another attractive feature of this mode of defense is the dispatch with which it may be accomplished. The batteries being of such long range and located out of the enemies' sight, require but little protective work, the masonry in the emplacements and ammunition passages being about all that is required of that class of work.

Contracts to be executed under the supervision of engineer officers can be let and the entire line of works completed in a short time. During this construction the manufacture of the guns can be expedited, the field work so arranged that the guns may be mounted as soon as delivered, thus assuming a maximum of defense with a minimum of time.

ART UNAPPRECIATED.

San Diego Man Fined for Effort to Entertain Mexicans.

Harry Lockwood of San Diego, a plasterer, made a play last fall, when trade was dull in his line, that cost him $100 in the Federal Court yesterday.

Lockwood conceived the idea that a "hoochie-koochie" dance would be a money-maker in Tia Juana, and he induced Mrs. May Colthrop of San Diego to go to the Mexican town, where she gave an exhibition for which the Mexicans gave two-bits, and was very satisfactory from a scenic point of view.

On their return across the line Lockwood and his companion were arrested, and the former locked in the San Diego County Jail, where he was an inmate until a few days ago, when he secured bond. Lockwood then concluded to change his plea of not guilty to guilty, and Judge Trippet assessed him a century for his effort to contribute to classic art on the other side of the line.

TO DISMISS INDICTMENT.

With the acquittal of Alfred W. Allen and Frank B. Woodruff on a charge of using the mails to defraud, in connection with the affairs of the American Brokerage Company, a motion will be made in the Federal District Court tomorrow to dismiss the indictment still pending against F. W. Courtney, who was a witness for the government at the recent trial.

It is estimated the cost of the two trials has been not less than $30,000 to the prosecution, and that Alfred W. Allen spent $3500. Mr. Woodruff lost nothing but his time, as he was his own attorney at both hearings, and paid nothing for the transcript of the evidence.

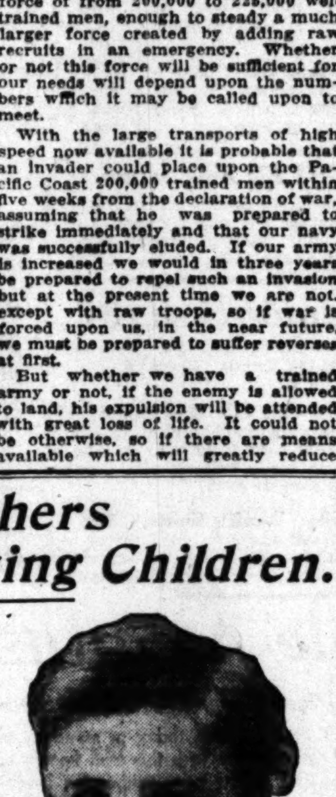
A Hint to Mothers of Growing Children.

A Mild Laxative at Regular Intervals Will Prevent Constipation.

A vital point upon which all schools of medicine seem to agree is that normal regularity of the bowels is an essential to good health. The importance of this is impressed particularly on mothers of growing children.

A very valuable remedy that should be kept in every home for use as occasion arises is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, a compound of simple laxative herbs that has been prescribed by Dr. W. B. Caldwell, of Monticello, Ill., for more than twenty-five years, and which can now be obtained in any well stocked drug store for fifty cents a bottle.

In a recent letter to Dr. Caldwell, Mrs. H. C. Turner, 844 Main St., Buffalo, N. Y., says, "I bought a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin for my baby, Roland Lee Turner, and find it works just like you said it would. It is fine for the stomach and bowels."



ROLAND LEE TURNER.

A bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin should be in every home. A trial bottle, free of charge, can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 454 Washington St., Monticello, Ill.

to Los Angeles last week, according to President Woodman of the Harbor Commission, who reported last night that a careful survey completed late yesterday showed that almost no silt has accumulated in or below the turning basin and it is believed that all danger for the season has passed. In company with President Betkouski, Councilwoman Lindsey and Assistant City Attorney Robertson, Mr. Woodman spent the afternoon verifying the reports on flood damage at the harbor.

"We found that there is thirty feet of water in the turning basin and all the way down the channel," said Mr. Woodham. "Along the sides in some places there is a deposit of about two feet of silt and there will be only about ten feet of water up around the Consolidated Lumber Company's wharf when the silt settles."

Mr. Woodman said that most of the silt is going out Long Beach way and the expense there will be high.

Half a dozen steam shovels working in the harbor district began swinging their heavy buckets day before yesterday after several days' interruption on account of the storm, and so far as outward appearances go business has already returned to normal.

HUNTINGTON PARK

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

HUNTINGTON PARK, Jan. 22.—Estimating the damage to the county roads in his district as above $5000, Charles H. Balzar, road superintendent for the San Antonio township, employed a force of men and teams today in making temporary repairs on the road to Whittier and Downey east of Bell and succeeded in opening the way to Downey by a roundabout route. The road to Whittier is still impassable on account of the washing out of the San Gabriel River bridge.

The Pacific Electric Railway has also been busy with a gang of men repairing the roadbed where the river broke through under the track at Wilcox Station. Through traffic to Whittier has been resumed.

trains cannot be run through before Monday or Tuesday, if then. By tomorrow they will run trains from either terminus and transfer passengers across the bridges.

The landslide on Potrero grade on the Imperial Valley road was removed today, men of that section working day and night. The road to Imperial is impassable, as Cottonwood grade is still washed out.

LEVEE GONE.
TO BE REPLACED.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

OXNARD, Jan. 22.—Wherever permanent roads or protection work was damaged by the recent storm in this locality, repairs will be made immediately and of a nature calculated to withstand future floods. The city of Santa Paula was the greatest sufferer of the towns of the county, 600 yards of the city levee built three years ago at an expense of $30,000 to hold the waters of Santa Paula Creek, being washed out. This will be replaced by the city. The new protection work being put in by the county at this point held in fine shape, and will be completed according to original plans.

Much of the damage to roads, including several bad washouts on the Santa Paula, Nordhoff and Fillmore roads, was done to roads that are a part of the new county highway system. Repair work on these will be of a temporary character, to make them passable until spring, when active construction work on the highway system will begin. Survey work has been stopped on the county highways, but will be resumed shortly.

Among the principal effects of the storm in this seciton is a determination to rush the construction of paved roads in city and county, to complete as many as possible before next winter, and avoid the possibility of isolation due to storm waters.

RELIEF WORK IN SAN DIEGO.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN DIEGO, Jan. 22.—The big work of reconstruction following the damage done by the floods has been begun by County Supervisors, city officials, railroad companies and individuals, and will require many weeks.

Immediate relief for the hundreds of flood sufferers was the first thing undertaken here. Relief headquarters for the Little Landers have been opened in the Spreckels Building and tonight the fund had reached $1165, donated by residents of San Diego. In addition to this, food and clothes and tents have been rushed to the Little Landers colony at San Ysidro.

William E. Smythe, the founder of the colony, stated that they plan to readjust the land apportionment, as many of the farms of the Little Landers will be no more, they being covered by sand and gravel or are in the bed of the Tia Juana River.

Through the police headquarters more than fifty sufferers from the Mission Valley, who lost homes or stock and property, are being cared for by the city. A fund of $2000 for emergency was set aside for them by the city, and it is the plan of the officials to procure work for the men until they can support their families. In the last day or two about 100 additional people who did not report to the city have been found suffering. Some can never return to their farms, as their land was washed away by the waters of the San Diego River.

Over $400,000 worth of damage was done throughout the county to bridges and roads, and to rebuild these a bond issue for this amount will be necessary. Supervisors are arranging to have the immediate work necessary to open up the highway to Los Angeles by Escondido and to Imperial Valley. This will cost about $100,000 and the Supervisors met today to determine on an immediate bond issue and ways and means to secure the money at once.

City Manager F. M. Lockwood has city employees at work on the Torrey Pines grade on the Los Angeles highway, and huge gullies are being filled in the road. Meantime the city gangs have improved the Sorrento Canyon road and travel is being diverted at the foot of the Biological Station grade around the Sorrento Canyon into the city. The small Sorrento bridge has been replaced by the city.

The Santa Fe has suffered the greatest loss, and double crews of men have been working constantly to rebuild bridges and tracks. Two huge pile drivers are being used to drive piles for bridges at Delmar and Oceanside that were swept away. With men working night and day.

Lime and Tuberculosis

Dr. Roberts Bartholow, former professor in Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, says in his Materia Medica (1895,) on pages 215 and 216: "Clinical experience has shown that it (referring to a calcium salt) possesses the ill-defined property known as alterative, removes certain toxic or morbific materials and secures their secretion by the organs of elimination. . . . The testimony which has lately been published in respect to its curative powers in consumption is certainly very striking."

He does not refer to testimony regarding Eckman's Alterative, since the medical profession never publicly recommends proprietary remedies. However, many cases of consumption seem to have yielded to this remedy.

This success may be due largely to the fact that in Eckman's Alterative a calcium (lime) salt is so combined with other valuable ingredients as to be easily assimilated by the average person. It contains neither opiates, narcotics nor habit-forming drugs so is safe.

FOR SHEPHERDS.

"This project is the realization of my life dream," said Mr. Lee last night. "Ever since I entered the ministry my attention has been directed time without number to the pitiable condition of men who have given the best of their lives to the uplift of humanity only to reach the age of retirement and have no place to go. It is one of the distressing features of the ministry. As a rule a minister is poorly paid and when he becomes too infirm for further labor, having no money laid by must depend upon the charity of his fellowman for an existence.

"I have talked the matter over for years and it has been my ambition to some day start a movement that would result in protection and care for the minister who no longer is able to work for himself. Recently Mrs. Lee and I were motoring through Ontario and stopping at the Casa Blanca Hotel for luncheon I was immediately impressed with the beauty of the hotel and its surroundings. That night I decided that I had found the ideal place for the home of my dreams.

"I took the matter up with some influential friends the next day and they readily approved the plan I proposed. From that time on it has been easy. There are many wealthy people who give annually large sums for the support of superannuated ministers and the plan of permitting them to become stockholders, as it were, in this institution, thereby insuring maintenance and a home for their charges with one payment which is not large, appeals to nearly all of them.

FOR WIVES, TOO.

"The National Episcopal Rectory will be different than other institutions intended for the housing and keeping of retired ministers. I have often thought what a cruel situation it would be for me, for instance, to be separated from my wife in old age. I simply could not stand it. I would prefer leaping from the breakwater at San Pedro into the ocean and so would my wife. Other ministers whose wives have withstood the hardships of meager incomes and worked side by side with their husbands in church work, have the same sincere feeling and I decided if the dream ever came true that I would see to it that the ministers and their wives should not be parted.

"The rooms in the Casa Blanca Hotel are of sufficient size for two persons and will make lovely homes for any two old people."

Later on a bronze tablet is to be hung in the lobby of the rectory and upon it will be inscribed the names of persons who have donated funds to the project. Each person giving money toward the purchase and maintenance of the rectory will be confined to a contribution of $5000. As a result there will be but fifty names on the tablet.

OVER HALF SUBSCRIBED.

With more than half of the money subscribed by local men of wealth and influence, Mr. Lee says there will be no difficulty in securing the remainder. In fact, prominent philanthropists of New York, Boston and other eastern cities are interested and it is expected the amount will be oversubscribed in a short time.

Mr. Lee says the rectory will be filled with deserving men and women within six months and soon thereafter plans will be made to enlarge the institution.

"Retiring ministers will jump at the chance to come to this home," Dr. Lee said. "They realize that Southern California is the smile of God and it will be easy to convince them that Ontario is the dimple in the smile."

RECEIVED STOLEN GOODS.

Meyer Henig, junk dealer and alleged "fence" for a group of metal thieves, was convicted of receiving stolen property, by a jury in Judge Craig's court yesterday morning. Jose Garcia, who sold Henig lead which was found buried beneath a pile of rusty horseshoes, plead guilty not long ago of the theft of the lead and was sentenced to San Quentin. Henig will be sentenced tomorrow.

Protect Our Good Name

GOODYEAR

Visitors to the Goodyear factories are always impressed with a framed sign which confronts them at every turn.

In every room in every Goodyear building, they encounter the same message: Protect our good name.

It hangs on the walls of all the Goodyear branches throughout the country, and is being adopted by tire dealers everywhere as an expression of the spirit in which their business is conducted.

We believe that the public will be interested in the analysis of this simple but striking sentiment which is published herewith.

The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., Akron, Ohio

F. A. Seiberling
President

STRIPPED to the waist, his huge torso streaming with sweat, a workman swings the heavy iron core to an iron table, and wrenches off a tire which has just come steaming from the heater.

His eye falls on the legend over his head, and he smiles.

Our good name is also his good name.

The two are intertwined.

He will protect the one while he subserves the other.

His thoughts are—as they should be—chiefly of himself, of his little home, and of his family.

Their good name, his good name, our good name—his good work will stand guard over them all.

Two thousand miles away in Seattle, we will say—the same thought in the same simple words.

An irritating moment has arrived—the temptation to speak sharply to a customer, to fling a slur at unworthy competition.

The salesman, or the manager, or whosoever it may be, looks up, and the quiet admonition meets his eye.

Protect our good name.

In a twinkling it smoothes the wrinkles out of his point of view.

He is himself again—a man with a responsibility which he could not escape if he would; and would not, if he could.

Back two thousand miles again to the factories—this time to the experimental room.

An alluring chance to save—to make more profit by skimping, by substitution. No one will ever know. But—the silent monitor repeats its impressive admonition.

Protect our good name.

What chance to compromise with conscience in the presence of that vigilant guardian?

Thousands of men striving to keep a name clean.

And keeping their own clean in the process.

We Americans, it is said, make a god out of business.

Let the slur stand.

Whether it be true or not it is true that business is our very life.

Shall it be a reproach to us that we try to make business as good as it can be made?

Think of this business, please, in the light of its great animating thought:

Protect our good name.

We are thinking of you, always, when we say it—you American millions, and you millions in the old world.

We think of you judging us—by what we are, by what we do, by what we make.

We think of tens of thousands of homes in which our name can be made to stand for that which is worthy and worth while.

We must not lose your good will—we must not tarnish our good name.

You can call that anything you like.

You can call it business, or sentiment, or idealism, or nonsense.

It may be all of these.

It may even be that which our national critics call making a god of business.

But at least it gives to us a motive that is bigger and broader and deeper than money.

It makes thousands of men happier in their work and more faithful to it.

It has made of this business a democracy of united thought—a democracy of common endeavor—a democracy of purpose and principle.

And here is the oddest thing of all:—

The more we live up to this "impractical" ideal, the greater the business grows.

The more we labor for the future, the more we profit in the present.

The more we strive for character, the greater the reward in money.

The more we put into our product, the more we take out in sales.

Perhaps, after all, there is more than one sense in which it is good to make a god out of business.

We think so.

And we think you think so.

SAYS LUMBER TO BOOM.

Spectacular Rise in Prices with End of Great War Predicted by Kansas Dealer—California to Reap Great Harvest Then, He is Confident.

That the close of the European war will result in the most sensational rise in the price of lumber the world has known is the statement of Frank Hodges of the Hodges Lumber Company of Olathe, Kan., one of the widely-known lumbermen of the Middle West. According to Mr. Hodges, temporary structures of wood will be needed to replace the thousands of edifices destroyed during the war. The great demand and the necessity for an immediate supply, he expects, will send the prices skyrocketing.

Mr. Hodges, who is a brother of ex-Gov. Hodges of Kansas, and is associated with him in the banking business, believes California will reap a great financial harvest when the war ceases, not only because of the boom in the lumber industry, but because of the additional market for all products.

According to Mr. Hodges, who is at the Alexandria, things look dark for the Democrats next fall at the Presidential election. The German-American vote, which is said to be in excess of 4,000,000, will be solid against President Wilson, and this may prove his undoing, states Mr. Hodges.

CANAL DREDGES GAIN.

Big Ditch May be Clear in Three or Four Months, Says Japanese, Who is in America on Quest for Ideas About Efficiency.

Touring the United States and Panama in search of efficiency ideas while studying systems of municipal government, Tatsujiro Takahashi, chief engineer of the Public Works Department of the Island of Formosa, arrived last night at the Alexandria from New Orleans. The distinguished oriental has just completed a trip to Panama, where he spent several weeks studying engineering methods. He states the Cucaracha Slide is moving steadily at a rate of several inches daily, but says the dredgers are gaining rapidly. He expects the canal to be entirely clear within three or four months, if no additional slides of magnitude develop before.

Mr. Takahashi, who is a graduate of the Tokio University, has been with the Formosa government fifteen years. Prior to that he was with the Department of the Interior at Tokio. Ten years ago he made a tour of Europe and America, studying the same subjects as on the present visit.

According to Mr. Takahashi, Japan is interested in the Chinese political situation only because it is feared a change of government will result in grave internal disturbances in which Japanese lives and property may suffer. He states Japan is decidedly averse to endangering her present prospects of becoming queen of the Pacific and a world power commercially by becoming embroiled in war.

NEGLECTS BULLET WOUND

Laborer Tells Police Injury was Inflicted by Highwaymen in Elysian Park — Wanders Streets Two Days After His Breast is Pierced by Missile.

Detectives are investigating the strange case of Joseph Zier, a Polish laborer who collapsed yesterday morning in a Main-street saloon, overcome by a bullet wound in his left lung that had been festering for almost two days. Zier, through an interpreter, declared he had been shot by highwaymen while wandering in Elysian Park last Thursday. The shooting had followed a demand for money.

When Zier emptied his pockets but a few cents were found. This angered the highwaymen, Zier declared, and they deliberately shot him.

Because of the strange details surrounding the case the detectives will investigate. The cause for Zier's wandering about the streets for two days without seeking treatment is inexplicable. Zier declared he did not think he was seriously injured. Physicians at the Receiving Hospital say the wound is dangerous.

BONDSMEN HUNT IN VAIN.

Court Gives Them More Time to Produce Self-styled Nobleman.

Theodore von Traumann, much-wanted self-styled nobleman, who was to appear in Justice Hinshaw's court yesterday morning for a preliminary examination on a forgery charge, failed to come in, which was not at all surprising, owing to the inability of officers to apprehend him on several other complaints during the past week.

Bondsmen of the German were on hand and one of them declared that the German was in hiding within six blocks of the Courthouse. Officers were instructed where to find him, but failed. The court agreed to give them an additional thirty days to produce their man.

Mrs. von Traumann, who had her husband arrested for failure to provide, was on hand and declared that her husband was being persecuted. She admitted that she had made up her quarrel with him and was ready to pay for the hire of an attorney to defend him if he appeared.

President as Hostess.

Mrs. Force Parker, president of the Woman's County Democratic League, will be hostess Thursday afternoon, between the hours of 3 and 5 o'clock at the Friday Morning Club. Assisting her will be Mrs. W. C. Tyler and Miss Mary Foy, whom the league has indorsed as delegate to the national democratic convention in St. Louis. Mrs. Thomas Lee Woolwine and Mrs. B. F. Bledsoe, members of the executive board, will also assist in receiving. Mrs. Guy S. Kuydendall will sing. The suffrage color, yellow, will predominate.

PAYS TO GO TO SCHOOL.

Miss Tilly Koenen, the Dutch contralto, who sang Friday night at Trinity Auditorium to an audience that paid from 50 cents to $2 for their seats, sang yesterday afternoon in the auditorium of the Hollywood High School for students who paid 10 cents for their seats. The programme lasted an house and a half, and consisted of songs in Dutch, Italian and English. Dr. William H. Snyder, principal of the school, has arranged for a series of artists, recitals by arrangement with Mr. L. E. Behymer, the next of which will be Olga Steeb in a piano recital, February 9.

WHEN YOU WAKE UP DRINK GLASS OF HOT WATER

Wash the poisons and toxins from system before putting more food into stomach.

Says inside-bathing makes anyone look and feel clean, sweet and refreshed.

Wash yourself on the inside before breakfast like you do on the outside. This is vastly more important because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing illness, while the bowel pores do.

For every ounce of food and drink taken into the stomach, nearly an ounce of waste material must be carried out of the body. If this waste material is not eliminated day by day it quickly ferments and generates poisons, gases and toxins which are absorbed or sucked into the blood stream, through the lymph ducts which should suck only nourishment to sustain the body.

A splendid health measure is to drink, before breakfast each day, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, which is a harmless way to wash these poisons, gases and toxins from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels; thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

A quarter pound of limestone phosphate costs but very little at the drug store but is sufficient to make anyone an enthusiast on inside-bathing. Men and women who are accustomed to wake up with a dull, aching head or have furred tongue, bad taste, nasty breath, sallow compexion, others who have bilious attacks, acid stomach or constipation are assured of pronounced improvement in both health and appearance shortly.

SOCIAL CLUBS TO TOE THE MARK.

NEW LICENSE ORDINANCE TO BE ENFORCED.

Mayor, Police Commission, City Prosecutor and Chief Get Together on New Restrictions and Decide on Construction and Interpretation of Regulations.

City Prosecutor Williams discovered some new, sharp teeth in the social club liquor ordinance which went into effect yesterday and, following a conference with the Police Commission, the City Prosecutor and Police Chief Snively, Chief Snively was told to enforce the ordinance as it stands, in accordance with a brief prepared by Prosecutor Williams. The understanding before the conference as to payment for meals was not clear and it remains to be seen whether a club member hereafter will be permitted to pay cash for a meal or for any other service other than liquor. The ordinance, if strictly construed, might put an end to tipping more effectively than all the rules ever devised by the boards of directors, for Mr. Clubman, if he wants to slip a dime to the dusky individual who brushed his shoes, must sign a card and pay the tip at the end of the month.

The Police Commission assumes, however, that its jurisdiction over social clubs is constitutionally confined to the sale of liquor and to moral questions and, therefore, it has no right to include the sale of meals in its rulings requiring no cash transactions.

The brief on the ordinance prepared by the City Prosecutor for guidance of the police, makes the following summary of the new requirements:

Members of clubs must pay in advance at least $1 a month in dues.

Only members in good standing and bona-fide visitors holding privilege cards may be served.

No money, checks or tokens may be taken in exchange for services, liquors, etc., excepting regulation club cards or receipts signed by members or bona-fide visitors, which card or receipt must be redeemed by the member or visitor at the end of the month in which given.

Clubs must keep accurate record of members and visitors and complete financial accounts with each member.

Books and records open to Police Commission.

Monthly statements showing all revenues from liquor sales to be furnished Police Commission.

Club must make rules and bylaws regarding sale of liquor, these rules to be approved by the Police Commission.

The Police Commission has full power to revoke or suspend liquor licenses.

Social club liquor licenses limited to twenty-four, but no existing licenses affected thereby.

Liquor may not be carried out of club on Sunday, on election day or between 9 p.m. and 6 a.m. on other days and clubs may not sell liquor on any day between 2 a.m. and 6 a.m. Minors not allowed in rooms where liquor is served.

INSURANCE MONEY AN ESTATE ASSET.

WIDOW CONTESTS CLAIM OF CREDITOR.

Account of Late Salesman's Possessions Ordered Corrected to Show Proceeds of Policies—Court to Pass on Character of Contract Sought to Have Satisfied.

When Hugh A. Jones, selling agent for the Kellastone Manufacturing Company, died in August, 1914, his wife, who was not acquainted with his business affairs, had the responsibility of handling them. One of the first problems that faced her was a claim by the Kellastone people for $1400 for goods furnished Mr. Jones on his contract.

Mrs. Jones approved the claim, subject to certain offsets, one of which was the sale of the contract. The widow and creditors did not get together, and she did not pay the claim. Up to that time she had not filed an account in her husband's estate. The account was finally filed, and it was then discovered there was not sufficient money in the estate to pay the claim.

The Kellastone company filed a claim against the estate, and a hearing on the exceptions took place before Judge Hewitt. The company charged that $6500 life insurance taken out by Mr. Jones, belonging to the estate, was not accounted for. If this insurance money was charged up, they claimed, their bill could be paid.

After a considerable time ascertaining to whom the policies were payable, the court found that the $6500 did belong to the estate, and the account was ordered corrected. The question whether the claim of the Kellastone company is good was taken under submission yesterday.

TELLS HIS SIDE.
WIFE DENIED DECREE.

His version of the episode of the rake and an avowal of love for his sister-in-law won a temporary victory for Charles A. Harpe, a Santa Ana rancher, in a suit for divorce brought by Margaret Harpe yesterday. Mrs. Harpe alleged cruelty, testifying Mr. Harpe had struck her with a rake, and as a further humiliation, told her sister that he loved her more than he did his wife.

The sister corroborated this testimony, but Judge Wood wanted to hear what Mr. Harpe had to say, so he continued the case until yesterday, when the rancher appeared in court. He told his story in a disingenuous fashion. He admitted making love to his sister-in-law, but he said he only did it to tease his wife. He denied striking his wife with a rake.

"It was this way, judge," said Mr. Harpe. "I was in the garden planting and my wife came out and turned on the water. Now, the water at that stage just washed out the plants, and I turned it off. She told a boy cousin to turn it on, and I grabbed the boy, when she up with the rake. In the struggle to take the rake away from her she fell."

Judge Wood denied Mrs. Harpe a decree, holding she had not made out her charges of cruelty, but he instructed Attorney Munro to file an amended complaint, alleging desertion, as Mr. Harpe had left his wife.

DENIES PARENTAGE.
ATHLETE CLAIMS IMMUNITY.

The suit of Miss Esther McLain against Rush Meadows, former college athlete, to compel him to support her son, now 3 years old, was postponed yesterday until next Saturday by Judge Wood on the motion of one of the attorneys for Miss McLain.

Miss McLain claims that Mr. Meadows is the father of her child. He not only denies the parentage, but contends that being a minor, he cannot be made to support the child.

SOLDIER'S CHILD.
SEARCH WAR REPORTS.

Before Mr. and Mrs. Enoch Frey of No. 8746 Beech street can legally adopt Vivian L. Verges, the Juvenile Court must be satisfied that her father, John Verges, is dead. Mr. Verges left home to join the French army and nothing has been heard from him since.

Yesterday Attorney W. S. Baird enlisted the aid of Louis Sentous, French Consul, who will secure information of Mr. Verges's death or activity in the French army. Mrs. Saldoa Verges, Vivian's mother, believes he has been killed.

CONDITIONAL.
WILL FIXES TERMS.

The will of William Lee, who died on the 13th inst., was filed for probate yesterday. The petitioners were his sons, W. W. and Ed M. Lee of Glendale. The estate consists of notes secured by mortgages valued at $25,000, and real estate worth $15,000.

Mr. Lee bequeathed his wife $10,000; to his grandson, Raymond Lee, he gave $2000 in trust to his father, W. W. Lee, until the boy is 23 years old; Genevieve Gannerway, a granddaughter, receives $3000 in trust to W. W. Lee and Ed M. Lee, until she reaches the age of 23; similar conditions were imposed in the legacies of $2000 to Dorothy Lee, a granddaughter; Wilbur Lee, a grandson, $2000, and Kenneth Lee, a grandson, $2000.

The residue of the estate is bequeathed in equal shares to W. W. and Ed M. Lee, who are appointed administrators.

BETTER ANYTHING.
RUNS FROM SILENCE.

E. J. Schalert materially aided Mrs. Maude Schalert to obtain a decree of divorce from him yesterday, when he admitted he had left his wife. He said they quarreled about money matters, but that he was doing the best he could. When the end drew near, he declared, it would have been a relief to have quarreled, but instead he ate his meals in silence.

"My wife cooked the meals, placed them on the table, and we ate without a word passing between us. I packed up and left the house when she was away from home."

They were married in February, 1912, and separated in October, 1914.

ASK LEAVE TO SELL.
SITE OF JESUIT COLLEGE.

The Rosedale Cemetery Association petitioned the courts yesterday for permission to sell a portion of the cemetery tract of twenty-three acres to Albert C. Martin, an architect. The contract of sale calls for a purchase price of $67,000, payable in cash and installments. It is stated that no part of this tract of eleven acres proposed to be sold has been or will be used for burial purposes.

Mr. Martin will have charge of constructing the buildings planned to be put up on the tract for the Jesuit College of Los Angeles. Several of the seven buildings are planned to be erected before the first of next year. These will be used by the teachers and their assistants. The style of architecture will be Tudor Gothic.

IN AND OUT.
ABOUT THE COURTS.

IN NEW QUARTERS. The Presiding Judge's court, commencing tomorrow, will be in the new courtroom on the second floor of the Courthouse. It will still be designated Department Ten, and a new number given to the courtroom on the fourth floor heretofore occupied by the presiding judge. One reason for the change is that the secretary to the courts needed more room for his documents, and the presiding judge better accommodations for the lawyers crowding in with orders to sign.

SMALL DAMAGES. Lucian Clark, a Pacific Electric conductor, was struck by L. D. Hollingsworth's automobile as he was changing the trolley pole on his car, March 20, 1915. He brought suit, asking for $2500 damages. The suit was tried by Judge Taft, who awarded Mr. Clark $100 yesterday. Included in the damages asked for by Mr. Clark was $72 loss of wages while he was laid up.

DURING HER LIFETIME. While the estate disposed of by the will of Robert B. Longstaff amounts to only $1300, it is stated in the instrument which was filed for probate yesterday that he had deeded his wife other property and that the deeds contained instructions as to what was to be done with the estate after her death. Mr. Longstaff died at Long Beach, December 29, 1915.

SUIT AGAINST CITY. Suit for $15,000 was filed by J. H. Smith against the City of Los Angeles, and Lynn S. Atkinson, contractor, yesterday, growing out of the improvement of the North Broadway tunnel. He claims his property in the Fort Hill tract has been damaged.

TROUBLE BREWING FOR ROLLER TOWEL.

MAYOR ANNOUNCES DECISION TO REOPEN SUBJECT.

Council will be Called in Conference with a View to Reaching an Agreement on the Subject of the Ordinance Which was Vetoed Last Week.

Discussion of the anti-roller towel ordinance will be reopened Monday by Mayor Sebastian, who said he will ask the City Council for a conference on the subject with a view to reconsideration of the ordinance which the Mayor returned without his signature last week.

This decision was announced by the Mayor after he received a copy of the resolution passed Thursday by the Los Angeles County Medical Association, asking him to support the ordinance. During the ten days the ordinance against roller towels lay on the Mayor's desk he was importuned by its opponents continually, while the ordinance seemed to have no friends or, at least, they were not in evidence.

Councilwoman Lindsey announced yesterday that if necessary the question will be made an issue before every women's club and civic organization in Los Angeles.

"I understand that the opposition to the ordinance—if that word may be used—comes from two sources only and these are the laundry interests and a few owners of public buildings," said Mrs. Lindsey. "The laundry people say that they will lose money if they lose the roller towel business. Well, so will the hospitals, oculists and undertakers lose money if the roller towel is abolished, but I don't hear them complaining about it. The owners of office buildings also protest, verbally, and it's no wonder, for I understand that in some of the finest office buildings of Los Angeles the owners furnish one roller towel a week for every fifty offices. A delegation of factory girls called on me yesterday to say that in the place where they work there are forty girls employed and they have two roller towels a week for the forty persons. If there is any argument as to why roller towels should be permitted in the public lavatories of department stores, I can cite the time and place last week when a woman took the roller towel off the wall and after washing the eyes of a child suffering from a contagious eye disease, calmly replaced the towel while others waited to use it.

The resolution passed by the Los Angeles County Medical Association asking Mayor Sebastian to reconsider his veto of the ordinance was presented to him officially yesterday, accompanied by a letter from Secretary George H. Kress, in which he says:

It is the opinion of the medical profession, which presumably is in a better position to speak on these matters than others whose work does not bring them into contact with matters of this kind, that the so-called roller towel is a menace to the public health. We trust, therefore, that upon further consideration of this matter you will see your way clear to change your opinion of the subject, and give the ordinance your approval.

THERE'S A REASON.

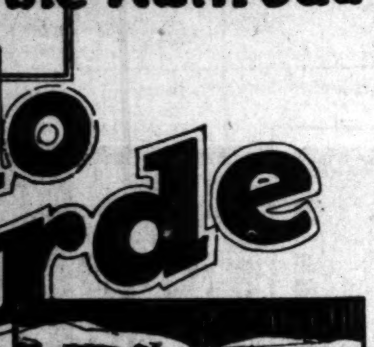
Palo Verde Valley



FARM LANDS
Riverside County, Calif.

THINK of being able to buy splendidly-located farm lands in what is known as the richest valley in California for only $100 per acre! And this includes an unlimited and inexhaustible water supply through a million-dollar gravity system of canals and ditches—all the water you can use—no restrictions. The deep, rich alluvial soil has been built by thousands of years of sedimentary deposits from the Colorado River and will produce two crops from the same land each year—each crop averaging more to the acre than any other place we ever heard of.

Where? Why, at Palo Verde—in the Valley of the American Nile, where every crop that's profitable in the temperate zone will prove doubly profitable. Not oranges, lemons or "frost-risky" crops—but good, old-fashioned staples, like alfalfa, grain and cotton, that you can bank on year after year.

The railroad is making rapid progress—will soon be completed. Prices will go up with a jump when the first train goes through. Don't put it off. If you want a farm—a good, safe investment—now is the time to buy.

GO WITH US ON OUR SPECIAL EXCURSION NEXT SATURDAY

The party will be limited, so we advise making reservation as early as possible—tomorrow, if you can. Train leaves Los Angeles at 2 p.m., giving you time to look over the valley thoroughly and return to this city on Monday. WOMEN'S WORK AND WOMEN'S CLUBS

BY DOROTHY B. JOHNSTON.

A MIGHTY preliminary battle (it is more than a skirmish) is being waged in D.A.R. circles of Los Angeles over the impending election, incidental to the annual State conference to be held February 10-11 at Hotel Green, Pasadena.

The precedent is seemingly established that the office of Regent, together with the recording and corresponding secretaries and treasurer, goes alternately to either the north or south, the Vice-Regent, chaplain, historian and auditor falling to the other part of the State.

Mrs. Maynard Force Thayer, who has reached her eligibility of office with two terms (one year each, according to the by-laws of the National Society of Daughters, to which each State is subservient) as Regent—an office from which she retires, by the way, with great honors due to excellence and fitness of service and unquestioned efficiency—is to be succeeded as head of the State organization by Mrs. John Conant Lynch of Berkeley, now Vice-Regent and a woman fully as well known in clubdom as an officer of Alameda district of the California Federation of Women's Clubs as in the Daughters of the American Revolution.

There will be no other candidate for Regent. It is a courtesy invariably extended the Vice-Regent. And here comes the point of contention. Inasmuch as the north this year is given the office of Regent, the south is to have the Vice-Regent, and two candidates are to be placed in nomination—Mrs. John Hyde Braly of Glendale and Mrs. C. C. Cottle. And whoever wins the plum is scheduled to head the State when the proper time comes. The vote is according to membrship, with each Regent and one delegate for the first fifty members and an additional delegate for each 200 of every chapter. The total representation of the northern district is eighteen chapters, carrying a membership of 570. The south has twenty-seven chapters and a flourishing per capita of 880, and three new chapters will be ready to join by the time the conference opens its session—the Santa Ana chapter with Mrs. A. J. Cruickshank Regent; El Camino Real chapter of Hollywood with Mrs. Harry T. Wright, Regent; and Gen. Fremont chapter of Los Angeles, with Miss Amelia P. Butler.

Both Mrs. Braly and Mrs. Cottle are amply qualified for the office, having had many years service in D.A.R. work. Mrs. Albert M. Babcock of San Jose, who gave a luncheon at the Palace hotel, San Francisco, a few days ago honoring Mrs. John F. Swift, National Vice-President-General of the D.A.R., said in a speech before the women assembled, directly following a tribute paid to the President-General, Mrs. William Cumming Story:

"My second reason for this meeting," said Mrs. Babcock, "is to tell you of one of our candidates for State Vice-Regent, Mrs. John Hyde Braly of Glendale. Mrs. Braly, Regent of the General Richard Gridley chapter in California, has organized two chapters in this State. She is a woman of charming personality, of great dignity and possesses a warm and loving heart. Her knowledge of parliamentary law places her among the best speakers at our congresses. Her executive ability makes her an acquisition to all our committees.

"Mrs. Braly stands for harmony. Her husband, John Hyde Braly, is the father of woman's suffrage in California. He has promised that if Mrs. Braly is elected our next State Vice-Regent that he will accompany her wherever her duties call her and will aid in her good work."

At the conclusion of Mrs. Babcock's address, Mrs. John F. Swift added her strong indorsement to the candidacy of Mrs. Braly for the new State Vice-Regent. Mrs. Swift, known from one end of the country to the other for her loyalty to the causes of the D.A.R. was accorded an ovation when in terms of forceful import she added her interest in the campaign for Mrs. Braly.

Mrs. Frederick Braddock, chairman of the Daughters of American Revolution, and the only California resident of the National Committee, was another speaker at this luncheon. Mrs. Braddock called attention to the conferences which had been held in California and outlined the endeavor of the D.A.R. toward the continuance and expansion of the work among immigrants and southern mountaineers. Mrs. Babcock, who has been one of the most zealous workers in these patriotic educational endeavors, voiced her indorsement of the candidacy of Mrs. John Hyde Braly.

Mrs. Isaac Chapman, former State regent of California, spoke at some length on the immigration question and concluded her address with further indorsement of the California D.A.R. candidate for State Vice-Regent. Mrs. E. P. Lesley, Regent of the Palo Alto chapter, spoke in the same tenor. Mrs. Anna N. Force, Regent of the Sierra chapter, added words of commendation.

Both candidates are lining up strong forces and everyone admits the situation is becoming exciting.

Mrs. Cottle, who was Regent two years of the Los Angeles chapter, succeeding Mrs. Braly, has been prominent in the workings of the society for years, having been especially active in the Children of the American Revolution for Los Angeles and the State, an offshoot of the parent D.A.R. And here is rather a strange coincidence: Mrs. Cottle received her first appointment many years ago in Iowa at the hands of Mrs. Braly, when the latter was appointed, together with President Harrison's daughter, Mrs. MacKee, directors of the children's society, then created with the idea of appointing directors in each State.

Then the ladies came to California, as all live, wise women eventually do; and are the greatest of friends. And whichever candidate receives the nomination the other will be the first to extend, and sincerely, felicitations.

The plans are fast being perfected for the annual meeting, which gives promise of being well attended.

The chairman of the General Committee of Arrangements is Mrs. W. H. Dudley, No. 1447 Malvern avenue. Chairmen of the other committees are: Hotel, Mrs. Edmund D. Barry, Pasadena; Credential, Miss Grace G. Pease, Los Angeles; Press, Miss Alden; Usher, Mrs. Harry T. Wright, Hollywood; Programme, Mrs. C. C. Cottle, Los Angeles; Music, Mrs. Vida L. Bixby, Pasadena; Resolutions, Mrs. Alger W. French, Palo Alto, and Conference Tea, Mrs. W. W. Atkinson, Los Angeles.

The first day's session of the conference, beginning at 10 a.m., will consist of addresses and reports of general interest and will be open to the public. At 3 o'clock the conference will adjourn to attend a tea given by the D.A.R. of Southern California, complimentary to all members of California chapters. Admission is by ticket only, to be obtained of chapter regents. The election is Friday, the last day of the conference.

The two questions presenting themselves, "What is Man?" and "How Shall We Live?"

The programme, which was in charge of the drama section, proved interesting and instructive.

The music section, which meets on the first and third Tuesdays, was compelled to postpone its programme last week on account of the torrential rains until next Tuesday, when "Miscellaneous Russian Composers" will be its theme.

Preceding the regular meeting the literary section, Mrs. Thomas F. Cooke, chairman, met for a discussion of Wells's "Research Magnificent."

The Single Tax.

The Echo Park Mothers' Club will hear Estelle Lawton Lindsay speak on the "Single Tax" next Thursday afternoon, when Mrs. L. A. Beebe, chairman of civics, will be in charge of the programme.

Averill Study Club.

In spite of the storms and floods of the past week, the Averill Study Club had a good attendance at its meeting last Tuesday. Roll call was answered with Bible quotations. Mrs. Charles Logan gave an interesting account of the life and work of Russell H. Conwell.

Current events were led by Mrs. S. T. Exley. Mrs. Juliet Stevers, a charter member and a sister of the dearly beloved Madam Anna S. Averill, the founder of the club, gave a very interesting talk on "The Women of the New Testament." Mrs. Stevers is a close Bible student.

Mrs. Eleanor Jones, librarian, gave a complete review of the book, and Mrs. Davidson and Mrs. Gardner led the ensuing discussion.

The subscription dance was a great success, many clever "hard times" costumes being in evidence. Some old-fashioned dances were revived, such as the Virginia reel and other square dances.

The next meeting of the club next Wednesday will be devoted to a lecture by Alma May Cook on the California Art Club, including an original exhibition of paintings.

The civic section also meets Wednesday at 1 p.m., when the subjects of study will be "California Laws for Women and Children, and Political Primer for Men Voters."

Her subject will be "The Northern Outpost of the British Empire," illustrated with slides, the photographs for which were taken by herself. They give an excellent idea of the development of the Yukon, its peerless scenery, and the conditions of life in that far clime. Mrs. Black walked the White Horse trail in 1898, a distance of forty-three miles, securing many of the pictures to be shown at that time.

Mrs. Black is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Munger of Hobart boulevard. Her son and husband have both enlisted on the side of the allies.

It was ladies' day at the Proximo Club last Friday, when they held a luncheon party at Hotel Westminster.

IF KIDNEYS FEEL LIKE LEAD OR YOUR BACK HURTS, TAKE SALTS.

We eat too much meat, which clogs Kidneys, and they need a flushing occasionally.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a teaspoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which all regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

TRADING DESKS FOR SOAP-BOXES.

HIGH SCHOOL PUPILS PLAY PRACTICAL POLITICS.

Election of Student Body Officers at Manual Arts Approaches Proportion of a City Affair, with Walls Covered with Posters and Air with Campaign Speeches.

Campaigning is proceeding amid a high pitch of excitement among the students of the Manual Arts High School, who will vote tomorrow upon the student body officers for the coming semester. Each student has a favorite candidate for each office and each is electioneering for his or her man every moment of the day. Not a few students have served sentences in the school detention room for campaigning during study periods.

Since the first day when the petitions were issued to the pupils the interest in the election has been growing in volume. On Friday public speeches for the candidates were made in the school auditorium, speeches of the real spellbinding variety.

During the noon period groups of students are to be seen scattered over the entire campus, discussing the issues. One ambitious candidate secured a soap box and addressed a large gathering in front of the auditorium. Other candidates took advantage of the noon roll call to appeal to the pupils in the classrooms.

The walls of the halls and the corridors that connect the school buildings are completely covered with candidates' posters and campaign cards. The latter are being distributed in large numbers among the students.

Before being declared a candidate for any of the student offices a strict examination had to be passed. No fraternity man may run, nor any student who is behind in his scholarship. Certain of the offices call for advanced students.

The office of president alone lacks competition. Fitz MacChandler was the first student to present his signed petition. When it was learned that MacChandler was in the running no other student even presented a petition. MacChandler feels somewhat hurt over not being able to say that he defeated some one, but it is the general opinion among the students that no better man could be found for the position.

The elections are to be held in the various classrooms Monday noon. The classroom teacher will preside over the polls.

The candidates are: President, Fitz MacChandler; girls' vice-president, Lenore Barclay, Katherine Fitch and Elizabeth Armstrong; boys' vice-president, Frank Cresswell, Charles Fitzsimmons, Morton Margolyes, Kenneth Repath and Harry Schoeppe; president of the boys' self-government, Dan McMillan and Ed Hervey; president girls' self-government, Annie Doyle and May Mortley; secretary, Angela Wheeler; student manager, Maynard Crawford, Louis Korn, Sam Mustain, Miles Rienke and Herbert Stanley; editor of the Manual Arts Weekly, Margaret Shedd.

BALM BY COMPROMISE.

Suit of Husband, Who Charged Druggist Made Love to Wife, Dismissed as Settlement is Reached by Payment of Money Out of Court.

The $25,000 heart balm suit brought by W. J. Crawford, manager of one of the Ford automobile departments, against Emory Thurston, an East Side druggist, has been settled out of court. Attorneys Ham and Sims, representing Mr. Crawford and Mr. Thurston, stated that the amount paid approximates $2000.

When the case was called for trial in Judge Wilbur's court last week, the attorneys asked for a continuance in view of a possible compromise. They came into court yesterday and dismissed the suit. The principal witness for Mr. Crawford would have been his father, who is said to have been an eyewitness of the alleged love-making of the druggist and Mrs. Nettie Crawford, the attractive young wife. Attorney Ham stated yesterday that Mr. Crawford will bring suit for divorce.

EDUCATOR FINDS "TIMES" PLANT MODEL OF ORDER.

Ella Flagg Young, noted educator and former superintendent of schools in Chicago, who is spending the winter in Los Angeles, visited the Times Building yesterday and manifested a keen interest in the work in the various departments.

She was especially interested in the large presses and linotype machines, and seemed amazed by their wonderful improvements in the past few years.

Following her visit Mrs. Young said:

"The Times Building is the best in its equipment of any newspaper building I have ever seen. There isn't an old, out-of-date machine used. Everything is of the latest.

"One very noticeable thing is the readiness of each man in each department to explain in full the entire workings of the machinery and their methods. With a woman's eye for housekeeping I cannot pass by the wonderful tidiness on every floor.

"Whether it goes with the custom in Los Angeles of keeping the streets, the stores and the public buildings well swept and in good order, or whether The Times is teaching the people of Los Angeles about being models of neatness, I am unable to say.

"It is the best-kept building I have ever been in."

The accommodations for the reporters and editors she styled such as to give to the paper the best work of these men and women, after they have gathered news from abroad or from the city.

Don't fail to send the incomparable Midwinter Number of The Times to out-of-town friends. Price 10 cents. Postpaid 15 cents.

of the company offices in Mexico with headquarters at Mazatlan, but will first make a tour of inspection of the offices at La Paz, Santa Rosalia, Guaymas, Topolobampo, Altata, San Blas, Las Penas, Manzanillo, San Jose Del Cabo, Magdalena and Ensenada.

Simultaneously with the announcement of Mr. Hunt's trip south word was received from Carranzista sources that a block in the business district of Culiacan, which was confiscated by the Constitutionalist forces some time ago, has been released and under due process of law, title is once more restored to Mr. Hunt. During Mr. Hunt's absence, P. G. Gibson, president of the company, will be in charge of the concern's offices here and in San Francisco.

Watts After the Prize.

WATTS, Jan. 21.—[To the Editor of The Times:] We trust that you have set Chesterton Hay, Esq., right in regard to our little city of Watts. We regret the seeming levity with which, frequently, various newspapers in Southern California have treated our little city, and now, as at all other times, we shall consider every knock a boost. Not to be outdone by Sawtelle class, we wish that you would kindly forward the address of Chesterton Hay, Esq. The Watts Bear Association (not Beer, Bare or Bore Association, as one of our rivals referred to us recently) has appointed a committee of welcome composed of ten of the leading citizens of Watts. This committee, led by the Hon. Billy Bakewell, Uncle Bill H. Thompson and Jack Jenkins, has already begun making arrangements for the entertainment of Mr. Hay's party. The leading cafeteria will be engaged for a sumptuous banquet, and there will be some "sunshine dances," which will be a novelty. The date of the Chesterton Hay, Esq., and party reception now only awaits Mr. Hay's pleasure. So, will you kindly put us in direct communication with Mr. Hay and oblige your friends at Watts?

P. SHERIDAN OAKBURN,
Treasurer of the Watts Bear Association.

On Mr. Hay's Antecedents.

REDLANDS, Jan. 21.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Will you kindly find out if Chesterton Hay, Esq., is of the Juniper Hay family of Chicago? Alf. Hay, the son of Col. Juniper Hay, has just finished his bungalow and would like to invite Mr. Hay out for the housewarming, if he is of this well-known Chicago family. It is possible that Chesterton Hay, Esq., is only very distantly related, for we have it on good authority that our Mr. Hay merely passes through Chicago from time to time.

DICK MOSS.

From Pomona.

POMONA, Jan. 21.—[To the Editor of The Times:] For some days past I have noticed sketches and reference to Chesterton Hay, Esq. I thought at first Mr. Hay was of the ordinary tourist variety, but since noting the exchange of letters between Mr. Hay and my old real estate partner, Walt Simpkins of Sawtelle, I would not let Sawtelle beat Pomona, queen of Southern California, in the matter of invitations. Last night at a special meeting of our Young Men's League we unanimously adopted a resolution for the entertainment of Chesterton Hay, Esq., and his party. We are now waiting for Mr. Hay's address that our committee on arrangements may properly present the invitation. The committee consists of Messrs. Arthur Bird, Huntington Stringer and William T. Scotty. These gentlemen are well known for their private entertainments, and there will be no doubt Mr. Hay's party will be received royally here, as only Pomona can receive. Awaiting your early reply,

H. H. WINKMORE.

Imperial Valley, Too.

IMPERIAL, Jan. 21.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Kindly telegraph address of Chesterton Hay, Esq. Collect. Wish to forward Imperial invitation.

CHARLES PUKATON.

Santa Barbara Bid.

SANTA BARBARA, Jan. 21.—[To the Editor of The Times:] We are sending Mr. Claude Van Sliderhoven with a special invitation for the Chesterton Hay party. Will you kindly obtain Mr. Hay's address, that the mission of our special social envoy will not be delayed? Mr. and Mrs. Hay will be pleasantly surprised here by many old friends.

"LETTY" CAST IS ENLARGED.

Popular Musical Show is to Return this Week.

Anna Held is Topliner at New Orpheum Bill.

Problem Drama Premiere at the Little Theater.

A brilliant and spectacular production of "So Long Letty," with Charlotte Greenwood, Walter Catlett, May Boley, Sidney Grant, as well as some other well-known comedians, added since the show left Los Angeles a few months ago, including Frances Cameron, a Los Angeles favorite, the Cameron sisters and Jack Henderson, and Burrell Barbaretto, will come to the Mason tomorrow night for a week's engagement.

Since the play was seen at the Morosco Theater many new and catchy song numbers have been added, including "Sadie Love," a song by Earl Carroll, who wrote most of the music for the play.

The sparkling little musical comedy is also fitted out with new scenery, now being created for the production.

Orpheum.

Lillian Russell and Mary Shaw, two of the most brilliant favorites of the American stage, make their last appearance during their present engagement at the Orpheum tonight.

Anna Held, the famous comedienne and musical comedy star, who is making her first vaudeville tour, will headline the new bill opening tomorrow afternoon. Miss Held, with her saucy beauty, chic comedy, her talkative eyes, and beautiful gowns and jewels, will present some new songs and some of the old alluring ones.

Others on the bill will be Ben Ryan and Harriette Lee, in a sketch called "You've Spoiled It;" Harry Fern and company in "Veterans," Bayone Whipple and Walter Huston in "Spooks," Ruby Helder, who is said to possess a real tenor voice; Max Le Hoen and Mlle. DuPreece, in a novel shooting act, and the holdovers, including the Hindoo dancer, Roshanara, and Staine's tanbark comedians.

Little Theater.

"Motherhood," a new play by Charles Bolles and Lillian Langdon, and offered by the Berkowitz Producing Company, will be given its premiere tomorrow night at the Little Theater. It is said the play, dealing frankly with problems suggested by the title, promises to create a sensation along with much discussion, especially in its treatment of some advanced views regarding maternity and paternity. Should a man accept the child of another, born out of wedlock, and legitimatize it through marriage to the woman who has flouted him? Should a child's future be considered even above the welfare of its parents? These are questions involved in the new play.

Blanche Hall, much liked here, will have the leading role of Florence, with Jack Bryce figuring largely in the cast.

Morosco.

"Seven Keys to Baldpate" is causing so many people to use their latchkeys late at night that the piece will remain at the Morosco for a third week, with Florence Rockwell and Edmund Lowe appearing in the leading roles, and Grace Travers, Lillian Elliott, James K. Applebee, Warner Baxter and the other members of the company playing their parts in a way to add much to their popularity.

Pantages.

"Colonial Days," a musical offering, is the feature of the Pantages bill for the coming week, on the programme opening tomorrow. It is said that this is one of the most pleasing acts in vaudeville.

Others on the bill will be S. H. Dudley and his mule, assisted by William Ramsey, in "The Stranded Minstrel;" Cree, who does a mystery act by means of which a living woman is evolved from literally "a rag, a bone and a hank of hair;" the Arados, comedy acrobats; Anita Heymans, songstress, and Lasky's hobos, in a new comedy.

Hippodrome.

Paul Pedrini, in "Pastimes on a Battleship," introducing the monkey waiter, said to be a comical and amazingly clever beast, will headline the new Hippodrome bill opening tomorrow. This is an act which promises to please the children as well as the grown-ups.

Others on the bill will be Singer's dogs; Raymond, the juggler; Winifred La France, singing comedienne; La Fara sisters, sprightly dancers; the Light Opera four, in high-class vocal selections, and Josephine Gassman and her Picks, who come for a return engagement.

Republic.

As a special attraction starting tomorrow matinee, Onetta, the sensational whirlwind dancer, comes as the headliner on the new bill at the Republic. Onetta, in her act, is said to give a wonderful impersonation of the whirling dervishes of the Far East.

The photoplay headliner of the week will be a film version of "Little Sunset" from the pen of Charles E. Van Loan. This is a remarkable baseball story, and, while in the main a comedy, is said to be tinged with pathos.

WHO ARE THE MESSENGERS?

Henry Warnack's Analysis of Those Who Purport to Cry Out the Truth in the Drama and in Literature—The Difference Between Sick-Mindedness and Realization.

IN THE drama, as in all literature and in every expression of art or any avenue of human endeavor, there is just one point to which the great always proceed—it is the summit of realization.

No matter what a man's subject may be, there are certain things he must always say, if he has the vision to relate his day to its grand cycle and his age to that wide wing of time on which the eternal drama unfolds before the eyes of man. Every poet sings it, every prophet heralds it, every white priest of truth pleads for its recognition. From the misty mountain top of their inspiration, the great ones are all crying to the rest of us in the little valleys at their feet to come upon the hills of God and view the glories of life.

Now life is not a mystery and its ways are not mysterious. Life is consciousness and whosoever has understanding enters the kingdom of mind to do the wondrous will of life which is the spreading of light. At the heart of life is this one great sea of light to which each must make a complete personal surrender if we are to be channels of light that through us the world may be illumined.

Every unit of energy within this one great central source is interchangeable, its terms having only to do with the instrumentality through which a measure of power is expressed. There is one art, even beauty, but all of its divisions are only fragments and portions of it. Art itself is a term to be interchanged with the inventions of mechanics, the applications of science and the details of business operations. Everything from the raindrop and the snowflake, the sighing wind and the forest to the chemistry of our own bodies, and the invisible atmosphere which they generate and which envelopes them in that mysterious quality called magnetism, is a transposition of this one essence.

It is probable that complete identity with this heart of life would result in an absence of form and motion and it is most fortunate that humanity is able to deal with terms so that we may be here, and not there, so that it may be now with us and not then, and so that we may treat with this object and not with that. Nevertheless, any term that we touch, can only be used as a point at which to identify ourselves with this unity of which we are a part, and with what seems to be the cosmic plan.

Great dramatists are always facing the questions, what is man and how shall he live? Their work seems to be divided between considerations of government and approaches to immortality. They are concerned with establishing order on earth, with preserving a normal relationship between the individual and that order, and of then identifying the personal with the impersonal, of fitting time into eternity, of coupling the now with the forever.

In an effort to bridge the distance between man's present realization and his aspirations, some of the world's very great thinkers have achieved madness. Insanity in such persons is a distinct attainment because their loss of personal identity comes through an overwhelming realization of unity. They approach madness through a disregard for everything but direction. They crash forward with terrific intellectual momentum until they have lost all personal will and all sense of control and correspondence in the fullness of their vision. The result ought to be not insanity but physical death and spiritual translation as with Tennyson, Browning and Ibsen.

It is possible that the healthful scavenger of mental lightning and the white sheet flame of a consuming wisdom like that of a man such as Ibsen was might have saved the world from the shame and shock of the present disastrous war, if only the world would give heed to such messengers of light; but the world had a great sickness and would have none of its physician. He was too grimly truthful. Ibsen was always facing stark realities with inexorable order and placing them, not under the glow of a land of living color like our own, but fixing them with the penetration and the austerity of the north light.

John Synge has a little of this severe clarity, which elevates to the point of tragedy. John Masefield nearly approximates this simplicity of form required of all greatness in his tragedy of man. Masefield, however,

OPERA'S STILL MAIN MAGNET.

LA SCALA COMPANY TO OPEN ITS SECOND WEEK TOMORROW.

"Tosca," "Secret of Susanne," "Love Tales of Hoffman" and "Trovatore" Among Attractions. Concert Today—Gabrilowitsch and Clara Clemmons this Week.

The programme of the local art and amusement world will remain replete with music during the present week, even as it has been during the past seven days. The public has been following the various events with a marked degree of interest, as evidenced in particular by the large attendances at the opera.

The second and last week of the La Scala Company's season at Clune's Auditorium, will afford a number of new features, and the repetition of several of the productions already given by them. The organisation has been exceedingly well received, and there have been strong evidences that the town has grown opera hungry, so to speak, since the last season was given.

Aside from the operatic attractions there will be a recital by the distinguished pianist-composer, Ossip Gabrilowitsch, Thursday evening at Trinity. He will again be heard Saturday afternoon in company with his wife, known on the concert stage as Clara Clemmons, and who is an exceptionally gifted contralto.

Operatic Schedule.

The work of the opera company's principals, as a whole, has been greatly enjoyed by the public during the past week. Some of the singers have shown themselves to be stars of no small magnitude. The principals to be heard this week, it is announced, will include Bernice de Pasquali, Rosina Zotti, Lina Reggiani, Giuseppe Vogliotti, Giuseppe Corallo, Bartolomeo Dadone, Olinto Lombardi, Marino Aineto, Mario Rodolfi, Claude Albright and others.

As a particular attraction, Alice Nielsen is announced to appear in the exquisitely sparkling little opera, "The Secret of Susanne," to be presented as a feature of the double bill with Cavallera Rusticana, Saturday evening.

Chevalier Fulgenzio Guerrieri will preside at the conductor's desk, and his presence assures superior presentations of the various works from an interpretative point. The orchestra has been strengthened by further rehearsals, and will doubtless do exceedingly fine work during the coming week. The chorus has been steadily improved, until it is doing increasingly effective work.

The opening bill for this week will be the ever popular, "Il Trovatore," with a cast composed of Zotti, Albright, Corallo, Aineto and Mackie. Leonora is one of the roles admirably suited to Zotti, who was not heard to the best advantage in "Madame Butterfly" during the past week, while Aineto has been exceedingly successful in the role of the Count de Luna, it is said.

Subsequent Attractions.

Tuesday night the melodious and dramatic "La Tosca" will be given with Alice Gentle in one of her favorite roles, Floria Tosca; Vogliotti as Cavaradossi, Dadone as Scarpia, and Neri as Angelotti.

Wednesday evening, "Lucia" is the feature, with Mme. Bernice de Pasquali, as Lucia; Dadone, as Henry Ashton; Corallo, as Edgar; Olinto Lombardi, as Raymond.

Thursday matinee, "Carmen," with Alice Gentle, as the bewitching cigarette girl, Rodolfi as Don Jose, Aineto as the toreador, Reggiani, as Micaela, and Lombardi as Zuniga—an all-star cast—will be presented.

Thursday night, there will be a repetition of "La Boheme," with Zotti as Mimi, Regiani as Musetta, Vogliotti as the poet, Aineto as Marcel, Lombardi in his favorite role of Colline, and Silva, as Schaunnard.

Friday night will be offered "The Love Tales of Hoffman" with Vogliotti as the poet, Albright as Nicalaus, Reggiani in the roles of Olympia, Giuletta and Antonia, and Dadone as Copertutto, Dr. Miracle and Coppelius.

Saturday afternoon, "Madame Butterfly" will be given with Zotti as Cio-Cio-San, Albright as Suzuki, Ingar as Pinkerton, Dadone as Sharpless and Neri as Goro.

Saturday evening the company will say farewell in the big double bill, "The Secret of Suzanne," with Alice Nielsen as the Countess Gil, Aineto as the Count and Neri as Sante, to be followed by "Cavalleria Rusticana," with Alice Gentle as Santuzza, Albright as Lola, Ingar as Turiddu and Silva as Alfio.

This is one of the most varied weeks of opera ever scheduled in Los Angeles.

Grand Opera Concert.

This afternoon at 3 o'clock at Clune's Auditorium a concert programme will be given by the principals of the La Scala company, whose vocal efforts have been enjoyed by grand opera patrons during the past week. Gems from famous operas will be given, including the quartette from "Rigoletto," to be sung by Albright, Schinetti, Ingar and Silva; the trio from "Il Trovatore," with Zotti, Ingar and Silva. Ray Hastings will preside at the organ. The prologue from "Pagliacci" will be given by Mr. Silva, and Gounod's "Ave Maria" by Miss Claude Albright. Maestro Hediger is to be the piano soloist and accompanist; Mario Rodolfi, tenor, will be heard in selections, and Rosina Zotti will sing an aria from the opera "La Villi." This is the only concert to be given by the opera organization while playing in Los Angeles. The entire programme is under the direction of Maestro Hediger.

Gabrilowitsch Recitals.

Virtuosi, teachers, students and music lovers are looking forward with keen anticipation to the piano recital of Gabrilowitsch Thursday evening.

Clara Clemmons, who is to appear with him at the Saturday matinee, possesses a voice of beauty and is a musician of rare attainments. She is, by the way the daughter of Mark Twain. She became the wife of Gabrilowitsch about five years ago.

Immediately following the death of Mark Twain the pianist went abroad with his wife, where they were heard in joint recitals and became quite the vogue.

Following is the programme for Thursday evening:

1.	(a) Rondo in G major, Op. 51	Beethoven
	(b) Sonata in E minor	Haydn
	(c) Chromatic Fantasie	Bach
2.	Sonata in B minor	Liszt
3.	(a) Nocturne in G major	Chopin
	(b) Mazurka in B minor	Chopin
	(c) Valse in E minor	Chopin
4.	Melodie in E minor, Op. 8	Gabrilowitsch
	Caprice-Burlesque, Op. 3	Gabrilowitsch
5.	(a) "To the Sea"	MacDowell
	(b) "Witches' Dance"	MacDowell
6.	Intermezzo, Op. 9	Richard Strauss
7.	Etude de Concert, Op. 24 ("The Waves")	Moszkowski

"Pop" Concert.

Variety was the main asset of the programme given by the Symphony Orchestra under Adolf Tandler's baton recently at Trinity Auditorium. Orchestral numbers, including two by a local composer, which proved exceedingly pleasing; a series of Grieg songs given by Marie B. Tiffany, sweet-voiced local soprano, and a concerto for clarinet, almost as rarely performed as compositions of that character are written, made up the selections.

If the singer pictured in the Serenade of Alexander Karnbach, the local composer and a member of the orchestra, was a trifle melancholy, his song was none the less well received, and it was a very melodious and captivating one. The capricious Miniature, which for all the world reminded one of a harlequin's capers, won very marked and well-deserved appreciation, and it was repeated.

Mrs. Tiffany's voice is well adapted to the style of Grieg, and her delightfully clear enunciation adds much to the sweetness and lyric beauty of her tonal work. Her "In a Boat" was charmingly rendered, and she gave "Solveig's Lied" with quiet reserve that suits its mood. For encore she sang "The Way of the World" by the same composer.

Antonio Raimondi's work in the Weber concerto, which like all compositions of this character cannot be otherwise than ungrateful because of the limited color scheme of the solo instrument, was to be greatly commended. He showed fine technical accuracy and purity of intonation.

The orchestra showed itself to the best advantage in the two Liadow numbers—wondrously rich in their instrumentation and marvelous suggestiveness of vast snow-clad mystery of Russia.

The next popular concert of the Symphony Orchestra, to be given under the direction of Adolf Tandler, February 12 at Trinity Auditorium, will have as it soloist the young and gifted local pianist, Ida Selby. She will play the Grieg Piano Concerto in A Minor. Miss Selby was forced to return home from her study abroad by the outbreak of the war. She gave a very successful recital here about a year ago. This will be her first appearance with the local orchestra.

Fanning in New York.

Cecil Fanning, the young American baritone who won many friends in this city during the past summer when he appeared as a soloist at the music festival, recently won marked success in his recital at Aeolian Hall in New York. His accompanist and instructor, H. B. Turpin, also received a high degree of credit for his playing and interpretation.

Says the Evening Post: "Mr. Fanning's programme was far from the beaten track, and even included names unknown here. The Schubert group, three songs from the "Scheene Muellerin" cycle, was delightful from every point of view, as sung and played yesterday."

In summing up, the article says: "It is no wonder that Mr. Fanning and Mr. Turpin are in such great demand throughout the country. They

Mary Pickford in her great success, "Tess of the Storm Country," will be the offering at the New Garrick for the week beginning today. The opportunities to display her lovable nature and her great personality are unbounded in this masterpiece of Grace Miller White.

Alhambra.

"A Soldier's Oath," with William Farnum in the role of a dashing, handsome soldier of fortune, is the feature that starts a week's engagement at the Alhambra, Miller's Hill-street theater, tomorrow. The role assigned Mr. Farnum in this romantic drama is a congenial one and in its he is said to give the best and most versatile performance of his entire career. Charming Dorothy Bernard, as the wife, has a particularly pleasing role, and a well-balance company give the two stars excellent support. The story is a sympathetic tale of love and adventure.

The added feature is the latest of the exciting "Girl and the Game" railroad stories.

Palace of Pictures.

Marguerite Clark in "The Prince and the Pauper" will be seen at the Palace of Pictures during the coming week. In the adaptation of this celebrated romance Marguerite Clark stars in the dual title role, in which her remarkable interpretation of the contrasting characters will rank with the greatest histrionic feats of the screen. Faithfully preserving the delicious satire and the thrilling story of Mark Twain's tale, the production delineates with astonishing realism the adventures of the weary little prince who longed to play beggar for a day, and of the ambitious little beggar who yearned to be a prince, both of whom, through their remarkable resemblance to each other, suddenly find their hearts' desires gratified in a totally unexpected and intensely dramatic manner.

MEN AND EVENTS.

A remarkable record of longevity is to be found in some of the rural parishes of France. In the village of St. Thomas de la Fliche there have been only fourteen parish priests in 300 years. The parish of St. German du Val, in Paris, has had only three pastors in 100 years, while that of Givry en Argonne has had but five in 130 years.

J. W. Anderson, 65 years old, a farmer of Anderson township, Arkansas, has had his first ride on a train when he and his two daughters went to Dutton, Washington county, to visit friends. Mr. Anderson went to that county from Missouri forty-five years ago, making the trip in a covered wagon. He says he never has taken a drink of intoxicants, a chew of tobacco, never having smoked or been guilty of swearing. As to playing cards, he says he does not know one from the other.

After twenty years of courtship, G. M. Peterson and Miss Rose Neupert of North Judson, Ind., have been married. During all these years Mr. Peterson paid calls at the Neupert home on Tuesday, Thursday, Saturday and Sunday evenings.

After nearly two score years' service in the office of the City Clerk of Brooklyn, N. Y., Charles B. Morton has been put on the retired list. He is 83 years old.

Eugene Sandow, world's famous athlete, has been shot in London Tower as a German spy, according to an unconfirmed report.

John H. Havlin, Cincinnati capitalist, has announced his practical retirement from the theatrical business. He has been a power in the theatrical world and erected one of the finest hotels in Cincinnati, which bears his name.

W. A. Rogers and Miss Anna Garnes Bock were married at St. Charles, Mo., recently. Each has but one arm, the groom having lost his right in an accident and the bride being minus her right.

Franklin D. Wood of New York named his own father as co-respondent in a suit for divorce brought to trial in the Supreme Court. It was alleged that the young man's father eloped with his bride on the very night of the wedding and took her to Chicago.

Who are Messengers.

lacks the touch of mastery that relates one theme to the universal, the one woman to all women. Everything that the great writers create is like the sublime allegory of Job, which is every man's argument of faith in answer to every man's doubt.

This simplicity of form is impalpable to all save the genius. As if the breath of mountains touched your cheeks, as if the urge of rivers moved in you, as if the breadth and bliss of skies enraptured you and held your spirit pulsing in their thrall, so come perceptions to these wondrous forms. They are the great nakedness—divinity uncovered and disclosed, the revelation and unveiling that our eyes cannot discern, the energy that outstrips the brain, that all of life beyond our contemplation which, through the mystery of love, finds sight and voice somewhere in the heart. Oh, whisperings from out that unseen world, surcharging every master's work, somewhere in your heights there flies the gift of tongues, the stir of mighty wings—Jesus saying, "I have meat to eat that ye know not of;" Ibsen turning in revolt from a staggering, sense-struck, sensation-seeking world that would not be saved and hurling his "Master Builder" from the shining steeple up there in the sun to fall as broken clay among the dead things at his feet.

In approaching the world of letters and of drama the intelligent reader must discriminate between sick-mindedness and inspiration, between intimation and revelation, between imagination and realization.

First of all, it is important to choose between what is merely colorful and what is unctuous. The tragedy of those who lie and steal and cheat is not so much in the fact that they do these things as it is that they are insulted if you do not credit them with the purest motives and the highest characters. These exotic spohists of literature demand that their hectic subtleties be accepted as the shining truth of heaven. Ralph Hitchins hurls a creature like Bella Donna on the stage and cries, "Behold, I have unveiled woman!" That is false; he has only drawn one of these sick futurist agonies of a woman misconceived.

So, then, the fact that Oscar Wilde finds in his ultimate humiliation a last opportunity to dramatize a distorted personality will not deceive you into the acceptance that "De Profundis" is the cry of a broken and contrite heart. The flaming words of d'Annunzio, with the treachery of their perfumed splendor, will not deceive you into accepting this flowered emptiness as possessing the substance of a burning message.

On the other hand, the fact that Baudelaire was never so steeped in the fumes of an opiate that he did not remain the superlative artist will not blind you to the rarified forms of his expression, nor yet persuade you to accept for soundness or strength those visions which came to him with the hideous clarity of insomnia and broken nerves.

In the wizardry and the black magic of Poe's inventions in short stories you may seem to find the dregs of his bitter cup, but the song of sweetness which ascended from the deathless spirit of posey incarnate within him you will not decry.

You will not be blinded by equations of personality for which there is no accounting. Hence you will not neglect the sweet sanity of Robert Louis Stevenson, though it came from a broken body, nor will you doubt the inspired vigor and the breadth of vision of Walt Whitman, although he became so subjective that his deep contemplation ended in physical paralysis.

All of us know the joy of those first intimations that come to a man or a woman between the ages of 18 and 28, when we feel that we know what our lives are to mean to the world and when we seem to recognize the portions of truth it has been given us to express. Some of us know how these intimations are followed in later years by a glory of revelation that seems forever beyond the hope of personal experience. Such intimations we find in the early works of all the writers of promise. J. M. Barrie has thrown the charm of this silver veil over everything he does. We find it in Galsworthy's "The Little Dream." In fiction we find it abounding in such books as Will Levington Comfort's "She Buildeth Her House," and in "Rutledge Rides Alone," by the same author.

This becomes revelation in writers of more maturity. Two kinds of revelation leave the author himself unconscious. One is the sort discovered in the books of Marie Corelli, which seem clearly to be voices within a voice, probably leaving the writer an unknowing instrument. The other is where a man chooses a fine, bold form and there seems to be an inrush of wisdom and power for its fulfillment that is often quite beyond his own personal attainment, as may be the case in Charles Rann Kennedy's "The Idol Breakers."

As for imagination as opposed to realization, we see it in Dante and Milton. Realization we have abundantly, and with precious simplicity in the gospel of St. John, when he says, "Let not your hearts be troubled; ye believe in God, believe also in me." Kant in his consuming intellectualism may present with flawless logic his pronouncement of the allness of truth (of which there innumerable and sadly limited imitations,) and St. Paul may present the architectural grandeur of matchless theology, but John says, "In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God," and all the fabric of our philosophies may not stand against this essence of realization. Some books possess all of these qualities to a degree, as in "Fenris the Wolf," and in "The Sunken Bell." These books encompass the pure philosophy of the immortal.

And so the world's dreamers marshal in a shining host their happy hopes for men, until Shakespeare's "King Lear" brings us to the breaking up of the world,, and Ibsen, in "When We Dead Awaken," challenges us to step with faith from the mountain top of the visible out upon the heights of infinity.

IN THE LIMELIGHT.

President Wilson has announced his intention to appoint a white man as Recorder of Deeds for the District of Columbia, because the appointment of a colored man would precipitate a bitter race fight in the Senate, resulting in bitter feeling and no benefit to anybody. The office carries a $5000 salary and has been held by a colored man for nearly twenty years.

Joseph Johnson, who is expected to be appointed postmaster of New York, was the manager of the saloon operated in connected with Bishop Patton's celebrated "subway tavern."

Frank J. Sprague, electrical inventor and a member of the Naval Consulting Board, the group of inventors of which Thomas A. Edison is chairman, is now aboard the battleship New York and will watch carefully the target practice and maneuvers in which the New York will take part. Mr. Sprague was graduated from Annapolis and was the head of his class in the subjects of electricity and ship construction. He built the first trolley lines in the country, and is the inventor of the multiple-unit system of electrical traction used on elevated roads and subways, whereby motors in several cars of a train receive electricity and supply it to the wheels.

Fred K. Landis, one of the founders of the Progressive party and the nominee for Lieutenant-Governor of Indiana in 1912, and who was chosen to place Hiram Johnson in nomination for Vice-President, has asked to be enrolled as a Republican.

Senator William Alden Smith of Michigan, one of the many candidates for the Republican nomination for President, began as a newsboy. He started his legislative career as a page in the Michigan House of Representatives.

Petitions requesting that the names of President Wilson and Vice-President Marshall be placed on the ballot to be voted on for renomination in the Indiana primary, March 7, have been filed with the Secretary of State. Joseph P. Tumulty, secretary to the President, telephoned from Washington to James H. Fry, giving him authority to file the petition in behalf of President Wilson.

Maj.-Gen. William C. Gorgas, who waged successful war against the yellow fever scourge in Panama, has been presented with the gold medal of the Geographic Society of Chicago for his distinguished service to humanity. The gold medal has been bestowed on only two other men, Capt. Roald Amundsen when he reached the south pole, and Maj.-Gen. George W. Goethals, builder of the Panama Canal.

Sergt. R. Upson has been appointed by Adjt.-Gen. Hough to represent the Ohio National Guard as field observer with the French armies along the western battle front in Europe. He is a member of Battery B, First Battalion of Field Artillery, O.N.G., and was winner of last year's international balloon race. He will leave for Europe soon after the middle of January and expenses of his trip are to be paid by friends of the Ohio National Guard.

ART AND ARTISTS.

BY ANTONY ANDERSON.

For Oh, This World.

For oh, this world and the wrong it does!
  They are safe in heaven with their backs to it,
The Michaels and Rafaels, you hum and buzz
  Round the works of, you of the little wit!
Do their eyes contract to the earth's old scope,
  Now that they see God face to face,
And have all attained to be poets, I hope?
  'Tis their holiday now, in any case.

Much they reck of your praise and you!
  But the wronged great souls—can they be quit
Of the world where all their work is to do,
  Where you style them, you of the little wit,
Old Master this and Early the other,
  Not dreaming that Old and New are fellows,
That a younger succeeds to an elder brother,
  Da Vincis derive in good time from Dellos.

—[Robert Browning.

As consistency is the hobgoblin of little minds, and as it has nothing to do with great minds, it behooves me to breathe freely and easily in this brief resume of "Old Pictures Seen Anew," for it deals with about fifty canvases already commented on in this column. These pictures are by "the" ten—or is it eleven?—American painters, sometimes known as the expressionists, sometimes as the New York independents. With them are exhibited two paintings by a man from New Mexico, J. H. Sharpe, who is not at all New Yorky in his methods, but who follows fine and safe traditions of drawing.

The works of the ten were shown for a year in the fine arts section of the fair in San Diego, and a year ago I wrote at some length about them. They are now to be seen in the gallery at Exposition Park, where they will remain for some time. If you did not see them in San Diego go and look at them now; or if you did see them, go and revive your pleasure—or discontent, for much of modern art compels us to take our pleasures sadly.

But at any rate you will like to renew your impressions of George Bellows's superbly animated painting called "New York," and the one called "Men of the Docks." Both are worth your careful study, for both are done in the big way, the way art takes when it tries to interpret life earnestly. If you find, as you probably will, that Bellows handles light in spots, and not in its beautiful outdoor diffusion, you will agree with me that here is where he falls down, and falls hard. But the artist gives us so much that we can afford to forgive what he hasn't got. As for his portrait, "Little Girl in White," we will forget the dead pastiness of the flesh for the sake of the quiet reserve of the rest of the picture. It's an imitation of Whistler, of course—but what are the modern if not imitative, despite their loud boast of originality?

Robert Henri's six portraits, four being Irish children, two Indians, are also very vital, though some of their passages have been painted by formula. Apparently Henri finds very little individuality in mouths and eyes, the most individual and expressive parts of the human countenance. He makes them alike in his men, women and children, painting them dexterously and fluently, far too cleverly. Cleverness, indeed, is this painter's besetting sin, a too close concern with paint for its own sake. Yet the expressionists cannot see this beam in their own eyes, so intent are they on searching for the mote in their brother's. Henri's subjects are very much alive, though the life is apt to seem rather hectic. The blood is not kept decently under the skin.

A comparison of Robert Henri's work with that of J. H. Sharpe will show you in what way and why the expressionists have the advantage. You will see that they make things live, breathe and move. They have many faults, but they have the supreme merit of life. Sharpe's Indians are impaccably drawn, are nobly and even poetically felt and expressed, but they seem a trifle tame beside Henri's. I think it was a mistake to show Sharpe's pictures with those of the New York men, not because they are inferior, but because they are in some ways superior, because they possess a quiet distinction whose accents are lost in the general clamor of the others. Sharpe is not dead, but quiet. And nowadays it is a crime to be quiet.

In his two canvases, "Landscape with Figures" and "Children Playing," Maurice B. Prendergast attempted to record the fleeting impression, the impression that he who runs may have. He tried to paint the unpaintable, and, of course, failed; but at least he gave us two very agreeable pieces of decoration, for the figures form a pattern of color against their background.

The six little canvases from the brush of Guy Pene Du Bois, editor of Arts and Decoration, all have passages that are consummately well done, and I permit him the painter's instinct to a marked degree, but I feel that every one of them might have been much bettered if he had painted on it two hours instead of one, if he had been guided by knowledge as well as inspiration. No musician improvises all the time—many musicians do it never—so why should a painter? Is painting a trivial and inferior art, unworthy of serious study?

Ernest Lawson's "Boat House in Winter" has caught the time o' year admirably, the air is cold and full of tang, and the values seem true until you walk away from them, when they simply refuse to "carry." I was reminded of Redfield when I first looked at the picture, but not when I had crossed the room, for then the middle distance had disappeared entirely. Lawson's "Cloud Shadows" is rich in color, tense in expression, but the clouds themselves are muddy.

Two things that are beautiful in color are Childe Hassam's "Moonrise at Sunset" and "In Brittany." In both, of course, the figures are stiff, as is almost always the case with Hassam's figures, but the color compensates. "Moonrise at Sunset" has a loveliness, a lyrical note that makes it a veritable poem in paint.

The one good picture by George Luks is "Women and Macaw," thoroughly masculine in expression. His portrait of "The Theologian," too, has strength, the head being well modeled, but the brick-red shadow on the face remains absolutely unexplained, for the prelate wears pontificial robes of a creamy white. Hot reds, by the way, seem to be favorite colors with Luks, while with William Glackens they are violent blues. "Girl in Blue Dress," by Glackens, is an interesting study of color, and has vividness of effect, but is marred by the weak handling of the face, where the brushwork is very fuzzy.

John Sloan's pictures of New York are better than his landscapes, and Carl Springchorn's "Gods at Play" is to me a more understandable canvas than it was a year ago—though I do not think the artist has caught the opaline gleams and glooms of a swimming pool that he aimed for.

The Print Makers.

The second annual exhibition of the Print Makers is now on at the Kanst gallery, and proves to be even more interesting than the flourishing little club's first show. Exactly why I call it a "little club" I cannot say, unless it be that for the most part its work is small in square inches. But the club is not small in membership—which numbers fifteen or twenty—and it certainly is not small in the quality of its output, which ranks with that of any other club of print makers.

A multitude of impressions is covered by the word "print," and in the case of the Print Makers of Southern California no prints of any sort seem to have been neglected. The club shows us etchings in color and in monochrome, monotypes in color and in monochrome, drypoints, woodblocks and aquatints, and a few of the members, full of energy and ambition, appear to have tried their hands at every one of these mediums. Not the least energetic is the club's president, Benjamin Chambers Brown, whose color etchings from the San Francisco fair are very charming in tone, whose monochrome etchings are finely drawn and sometimes simply and forcefully suggestive, and who has an aquatint and a wood-block imprint to his credit.

Harry Lewis Bailey, too, has tried various things with success, among them being an atmospheric and poetic etching, "The Forest Ranger," a strong study of "Eads Bridge" and a very attractive monotype in color, "Two Dogs." Walter Barron Currier's two monotypes, "Sycamore Shadows" and "The Wind," are both good; Bessie E. Hazens "Monterey Oaks" is poetically conceived, and Katherine Pratt's "Marshland" has a feeling of bigness in composition.

Among the makers of wood-blocks Hilda Mutton ranks high for the mischievous airiness of her fancy, the humor of her conceptions, as well as for the cleanness of her technique. Her "Vanity" and her "Autumn" have all these qualities. Quiet and beautiful tonal qualities, as well as attractive decorative worth, are found in the monotypes of Esther Mabel Crawford and Bessie E. Hazen, Miss Crawford being adequately represented by "Old Ipswich Houses," and Miss Hazen by "Administration Building, Normal." Another attractive wood-block is Edna Blumve's "Flowers of the Field," a brown-toned print whose figure of a woman has much grace of lines. A figure study by Katherine Dukes is also interesting.

Nell Brooker Mayhew's etchings are all in color. Some of them are large in size, and all of them are broadly handled, with a sense for the brush rather than the needle. They have much of the beauty of freely-handled mezzotint, the color being superimposed instead of inherent. The poetic quality of her talent is well expressed in such imprints as "Evening Comes," "California Winter" and in the charming "Mists of Spring."

Hanna Thompson and Arthur B. Dodge etch in monochrome, and the imprints of both are small, but attractive. Miss Thompson, in "The Bathers' Stair" and "St. Ignatius," suggests much more than she actually tells, and Dodge, in his two small prints, gives pleasure through the sureness of his touch, a sureness attained in the apprenticeship of pen and ink drawing. Howell Brown's little etchings are in color, and have a fine simplicity.

The work of the Print Makers remains on view until next Saturday.

Portraits and Places.

Fifty pictures of people and places, the work of two friends who are new to Los Angeles picture lovers, are being exhibited in the Friday Morning Club through the month of January. The artists are Luvena Buchanan and Edward A. Vysekal, both from Chicago.

Miss Buchanan's work, especially one or two of her portraits, gives strong evidence that she was once a pupil in the Art Institute—her "Lady in Gray," indeed, and "The Student," are advanced studies painted with that sure knowledge and understanding, that thoughtful precision of method, that careful search for planes that are marks of the well-equipped student. Such work is thoroughly satisfying to the lover of paint, because it offers such a fine opportunity for seeing "how it was done." It is not inspirational, but it is good to look at.

A later portrait by Miss Buchanan is that of "Miss Morris," almost as naive and lovely as a work by one of the Florentines, and very much in the same manner. Miss Morris's white hat—preposterously large in crown, as modern hats are apt to be—has a green ribbon that makes a delightful accent in the scheme of white and gray and pink, and the strip of silken Chinese drapery above it gives still further life to the attractive picture. Mr. Vysekal has painted the same lady, though full length instead of head and bust, in "Arrangement in Black," but his study is not so charming as Miss Buchanan's, the drawing of the hands being neglected and the color being a trifle heavy and painty.

Indeed, Mr. Vysekal does not often escape the charge of paintiness, though he has a vital color sense that makes his pictures good to look at. In the finest of his pictures, however, "Easter Morn," he does get away from it. Here, too, the composition is well though out, making for great rhythm and harmony. From a beautiful building that looks like a Greek temple, but is probably a Christian Science church, people are pouring in two streams to right and left, the costumes of the women making spots of color as they flutter in the April wind. The Bright Side of Sunshine Land—People and Their Doings—A Hundred Happy Affairs.

DEBUTANTE'S LETTER.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 21.

Molly dear:—What, another letter from Annapolis! Dear me, this is getting serious. And you saw him for seven hours all told, didn't you? Two at the first ball, two at the second and two more when he came to ... And mamma won't let you answer the letters, but dear, sentimental Aunt Florence writes in your stead. A very pretty arrangement. It just shows that the chaperon idea still has [illegible]. I know three other girls, no less chaperoned, whose little heart affairs have died a natural death after the first exchange of letters. I should not hesitate to recommend mamma's plan in future. But, of course, you would have to insure an Aunt Florence in the offing.

I see you are to have a golf course at Annapolis. Of course, you will take golf quite seriously now. Then you will be able to challenge Collins again when you come down here. But as he is a mere civilian you have doubtless lost interest in that quarter.

I am simply heartbroken, for we were all to have been at Coronado this week, and the storm washed the railroad away. We had refused all our invitations in town, of course, and are now poor, neglected darlings, with nothing to do but think covetously. Really, those wet days were lovely, just the same. Molly and I dressed sensibly and went out in the rain, letting it pelt against our complexions. It did more good than a year of face cream. If only some of these denatured complexions would just try it once they would realize what a difference it makes.

We helped entertain Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree last night. I think he has played handsome Shakespeare parts for something like thirty years. He still has the adorable voice. He handed us a lot of stuff about believing that the future of the world lies in the hands of women, which we duly applauded. But, you see, he might just as well have been a California politician and done with it.

Aren't we having a dose of music lately? Los Angeles means to be elevated and cultured at all costs. Not only the opera, but all of the women's clubs feel that their reputations need a musical section, which is responsible for a highly classical programme in the top altitudes every few days.

I don't suppose it will do us any real harm, although I have just been reading the British Medical Journal, which says that musicians are feeble-minded. I don't call that nice, do you? I am sure I haven't known any that were actually feeble-minded. Only a bit silly on a few points, you know. And that might happen to any one.

Certainly there was nothing feeble-minded about Alice Gentle's Carmen. Talk about being sophisticated! Most of the girls were taking hints, I can tell you. We were also gazing at Anna Baldwin's ermine cloak and diamonds, and the new styles in hairdressing. The mater was tremendously impressed with Mrs. Miner's coiffure, which is quite a personal style of her own and very becoming to her. She wears it high, with a distinguished air, no matter what the mode. But a good many dames were fashionable, to their cost. That flat, low-dip style and the neck knot are trying to a face that tries to go to three dances, six dinner parties, two teas, four bride luncheons and three dressmaker's sessions a week. Since the bored type has gone out it is really painful to see them looking so vivacious. Effervescent ennui is a tragic sight.

There were quite a lot of bachelors at the opera, but they spent most of their time smoking in the corridors. It was rather fun how we all strolled in the corridors between the acts. Mrs. Brackenridge, with a merry Pasadena crowd, looked quite annoyed because the curtain went up once before she had finished telling one of her stories. Mrs. Alvin Frank was looking round in a very charming gown. All the same, on wet nights we mostly wore our second best. Even a limousine cannot be relied upon to protect one's latest confection when one is shivering under an inadequate awning in a blinding rain, waiting for it after the performance.

We had Mary Shaw at the Friday Morning Club to lunch, and she gave us such a delicious number of little glimpses behind the scenes. She says comedy nearly always engenders discord in the company. They can play heavy tragedy and love each other to distraction, but in comedy the audience has no idea how many deadly animosities lay behind the scenes. The hero generally complains that the heroine hugs him too frantically. "Gee, it's ridiculous. I'll bet she never embraced a real man in her life." And everyone is always accusing everybody else of spoiling their lines and stealing their laughs.

Mary Shaw isn't a bit like she looks. She is a most refined, domesticated woman, with distinctly high ideals. But she certainly looks much more like some of these blase parts she plays. No one would give her credit for being as sentimental as she really is.

Speaking of appearances, isn't the patrician face rare? The type seems to be dying out altogether. And when you do see a really distinguished, refined-looking physiognomy it nearly always turns out to belong to someone who isn't like that at all. Most of our real highbrows would never be accused of such a thing on their looks, would they?

Did I tell you about Esther's experiment with draped white chiffon in lieu of underwear? She read somewhere that some prominent beauty never wore ordinary undergarments, but just draped her upper deck in soft white chiffon. The effect was excellent until she began to dance. Then it stuck closer to the point where it was invisible and to all intents and purposes she hadn't any on at all. And it was quite a long time before any one gave her a hint of the state of affairs. It was altogether too dreadfully Venusy for modern times, even if we aren't so very much at the top—and she is contemplating moving to another city or changing her name.

Mrs. McAllister declares she has found the secret of slimness. She says she can reduce five or six pounds a week by keeping strictly to a red meat diet, and that red meat is very exhilarating. Don't you remember, father always said that a beefsteak made him feel ferocious? Anyway, Mrs. McAllister only weighs 130 pounds now, and she was 180 and it's a very little while ago. All the same, I never heard of a plump placid vegetarian, did you?

Lots of love, dear.

Your affectionate

BETTY.

THE WEEK.

Parties, Receptions, Dinners, Weddings and the Like.

LOS ANGELES yielded willingly to the lyrical mood the last week, and attended grand opera almost en masse. The splendor of jewels and the fascinating trail and swish and flutter of perfectly-gowned women has been a pageant delightful to be part of and brilliant to see.

Thursday night tuneful "La Boheme" brought out fully as fashionable an ensemble of musical lovers as the brilliant first night, among those noted in the loges being Mr. and Mrs. George J. Denis and Mr. and Mrs. Hancock Banning, who were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Francis Sartori; Dr. and Mrs. Bertnard Smith and a party of friends; Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Woolwine, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Weeks Banks, and fascinating Miss Sara Robinson of Nashville. Mr. and Mrs. John Barnes Miller had several guests, and the Stuart O'Melvenys, Donald O'Melveny, Dr. and Mrs. Walter Jarvis Barlow, Clinton K. Judy and hosts of others entertained or were being entertained.

The holders of seats represent largely a repetition of the names for the two weeks, though on Monday night the following gave parties; James Slauson and Mrs. Kate S. Vosburg, who had Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Francis Sartori, Miss Rosemary Sartori, Mr. and Mrs. James Calhoun Drake, Mr. and Mrs. Sayre Macneil, Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. Connell and Clinton K. Judy.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Perry Story and their party, numbering Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Schweppe, Mr. and Mrs. Carroll H. Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh F. Stewart and Mr. and Mrs. James Rathwell Page.

With Mr. and Mrs. Hans Jevne were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Jevne, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hughes Braly, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Henneberger, Jr., and Mrs. E. Boyce.

Capt. and Mrs. Randolph Huntington Miner, Mrs. Mary Wilcox Longstreet and Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. O'Melveny accepted the hospitality of Mrs. John F. Francis, going after the opera to the home of the hostess on South Bonnie Brae street for supper. Mrs. Francis is giving a second party for this week, having bidden Mr. and Mrs. James Calhoun Drake, Mr. and Mrs. Sayre Macneil and Mr. and Mrs. Stuart O'Melveny.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Clark, Jr., Thomas Bruen Brown and Dr. and Mrs. Bertnard Smith had one box, and the Allan Balches were hosts to Dr. and Mrs. Ernest A. Bryant, and Dr. and Mrs. Hill Hastings.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Laughlin, Jr., with Mr. and Mrs. S. Cobb Coleman of Chicago, and Dr. and Mrs. Titian Coffey.

Mr. and Mrs. Secundo Guasti and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene McLaughlin.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Allan Hancock, Mrs. Fred H. Elijah, Dr. Visscher and Mr. and Mrs. A. Muller. The Geoffrey Holterhoffs, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Stoddard Jess, Dr. and Mrs. Norman Bridge, Baron Alfred von den Ropp, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Baker, M. S. Hellman, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Huntington, Louis Vetter, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lawrence Doheny, Mr. and Mrs. Erasmus Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Isador Dockweiler, Charles Wakefield Cadman, Dr. and Mrs. Granville MacGowan, Mrs. E. R. Brainerd, Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Russell McDonald Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Hollingsworth, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Jones, Mrs. John Percival Jones, Mr. and Mrs. E. Avery McCarthy, Mrs. Wesley Clark, Dr. and Mrs. J. J. A. Van Kaathoven, Mr. and Mrs. Loren D. Sale, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Storrow and innumerable others.

Society did pause for the bi-monthly dinner dance at the Los Angeles Country Club. Mrs. Hancock Banning, Mrs. Nathaniel F. Wilshire, Mrs. E. Avery McCarthy and Mrs. Guy Cochran did the honors—quite sufficient to insure a particularly brilliant party.

Miss Eleanor Banning was honor guest of Miss Rosemary Sartori, others at table being Miss Lucile Ballard, Miss Louise Hunt, Miss Helen Jones and Messrs. Thomas B. Brown, Jack Macfarland, John L. Garner, Lovett and David Brant.

Mr. and Mrs. Sartori were also dinner hosts, covers being laid for Dr. and Mrs. Walter Jarvis Barlow, Mr. and Mrs. Sydney I. Wailes, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Overton, Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Farquhar, Dr. and Mrs. Bertnard Smith and Clinton K. Judy.

Dr. and Mrs. Thomas R. McNab presided over one table, with Dr. and Mrs. Ralph R. Williams guests.

With Dr. and Mrs. Shelley, H. Tolhurst, were Dr. and Mrs. John R. Hanes.

Mr. and Mrs. Boyle Workman had with them Miss Eleanor Workman, Miss Jane Richardson, Miss Francis Beveridge, William K. Crawford, Frank Simpson, Jr., and Joseph Banning, Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Flint, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Robert I. Rogers were guests of Dr. and Mrs. Guy Cochran, while Dr. and Mrs. Titian Coffey had as guests, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Laughlin, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. S. Cobb Coleman of Chicago.

Mrs. W. A. Clark, Jr., entertained twelve. Others entering with zest into the thoroughly informal, merry occasion were Mr. and Mrs. John Crombie Niven, Mr. and Mrs. Leo St. Clair Chandler, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Rowan, Mrs. James Soutter Porter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Flint, and the John Barnes Millers.

Mrs. M. F. Le Roy and her daughter, Miss Dora, of Iowa, who will leave within the next fortnight for San Diego, and home by the way of New Orleans, have been the most entertained visitors recently. Mrs. Le Roy is a sister of Mrs. Stephen C. Hubbell, and has legions of friends here by reason of other happy visits. A. R. Le Roy and Miss Alma, younger daughter of Mrs. M. F. Le Roy, are expected shortly to join their mother and sister, the party to travel east together.

Mrs. J. Ross Clark gave a dinner for Mrs. and Miss Le Roy on the evening of Tuesday, others at table being Mrs. Hubbell, Mrs. E. F. C. Klokke, Miss Helen Klokke, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Clark, and Mr. and Mrs. Clark. Prima donna rosebuds nestling in a bed of maidenhair centered the handsomely appointed board.

Mrs. LeRoy shared honors with Mrs. Adna R. Chaffee on Wednesday at one of the largest luncheons of the week, presided over by Mrs. E. P. Clark at the Clark Hotel. Scotch heather and French marigolds in dainty Dresden holders, Dresden candelabra and filmy tulle, two-toned bows in the dominating scheme created a rarely beautiful board around which were seated, in addition to the honorees, Miss Dora LeRoy, Mrs. E. Brooks Solano, Mrs. Stephen C. Hubbell, Mrs. James H. Adams, Mrs. I. N. Van Nuys, Mrs. C. C. Parker, Mrs. Godfrey Holterhoff, Jr., Mrs. J. Ross Clark, Mrs. Dean Mason, Mrs. Kate Slauson Vosberg, Mrs. Charles Modini Wood, Mrs. Robert Burdette, Mrs. C. C. Carpenter, Mrs. E. F. C. Klokke, Mrs. Fred A. Wann, Mrs. W. H. Perry, Mrs. Charles Prager and the latter's sister, Mrs. Howe, who is visiting here from the East; Mrs. G. W. Wells, Mrs. M. B. Hazeltine, Mrs. William Hamilton Toaz (formerly Miss Edith Herron,) Miss Lucy Clark and Mrs. Clark.

Mrs. Solano is planning a luncheon for Wednesday, and Mrs. Hubbell has within the past few weeks contributed several dinners and luncheons for her house guests at her home, No. 1000 South Arapahoe.

In Spring Blossoms.

Mrs. John Percival Jones entertained at dinner on the evening of Friday at her beautiful West Adams-street home in honor of Mrs. John Storrs of Paris, whose literary ability is recognized abroad and in this country under the name of Mme. De Villa Chabrolles Storrs, and her American husband, a sculptor of note, and Count Eugene d'Harcourt, also of Paris. The guests at the smart function were the Hancock Bannings, Mr. and Mrs. Lucien N. Brunswig, Dr. and Mrs. William A. Edwards, Dr. and Mrs. J. J. A. Van Kaathoven, Capt. and Mrs. Randolph Huntington Miner, Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Farquhar, Baron von Alfred von den Ropp, William K. Crawford and Mr. Hoblitzell of Pasadena.

Pink roses and delicate heather formed the beautiful decorations.

A more congenial atmosphere could not be found in which to entertain these prominent visitors than in the Jones home, Mrs. Jones being the mother of Mrs. Frederick MacMonnies, wife of the celebrated sculptor. The MacMonnies are now in New York, where they will remain at least until summer, and it is highly probable they will then come to the Pacific Coast and Los Angeles. Mrs. Farquhar, who had planned to be in Gotham by now to join her sister, Mrs. MacMonnies, has postponed indefinitely her eastern trip.

Back from New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Carlton Lee arrived Friday morning from New York, where they went December 20 to visit many relatives and friends. Mrs. Lee is the niece of ex-Senator W. A. Clark. Mrs. Joseph K. Clark was in New York simultaneously with her niece, and came to Los Angeles with the Lees.

For the Near Future.

Mrs. Wheaton A. Gray of Kingsley drive will give a dinner bridge on Wednesday evening—just one of several such affairs which bring delight to her friends.

Oriental Huntington.

In a setting of ancient splendor and modern elegance occidental beauty in oriental costume will parade at the Hotel Huntington Wednesday night. It will be an oriental pageant in the form of a supper-dance in which the hundreds of Huntington and Maryland Hotel guests and other hundreds of Los Angeles and Pasadena society people will participate. Some of the rarest and oldest curios and decorations and sweetest incense that could be obtained from the Far East will be used in the great dining hall to make a rich oriental setting. All the lands of the East—China, Persia, India, Japan, Arabia, Turkey, Morocco, Egypt will be represented in elaborate costumes, and there will be many surprises when the unmasking comes. Silks and gems and clinging draperies and flowing robes will be lavishly used, as there is keen rivalry for the honor of best representing each country. It is the aim of the Huntington to make this ball in the house of a thousand nooks, the softest-toned and yet most brilliant of its kind ever given on the Coast that the world, as registered at the hotel, may see what can be achieved here. All the guests are to be in oriental disguise.

A king and queen will reign for the night—Edward Hess, Pasadena society man, being the former, and Miss Edith Vaughn of the Huntington the latter—and as their guest and the surprise of the whole mystic affair they will have the reincarnated "Veiled Prophet of Khorassan." The marche oriental, at 10:30 o'clock, will be led by six incense-bearing negro boys of exactly the same chocolate tint, followed by the king, queen, their mysterious guest and court, and this is the programme: Incense dance, Miss Bernadine Shelt; Egyptian dance, Miss McNaughton; oriental song, Miss Margaret Jarman; Russian dance, Miss Ruth Stevenson; desert dance, Miss Alice Maison; Persian dance, Miss Yvonne Sinard; Persian dance, Edward Hess, Miss Sinard; Arabian fantasy, Miss Charlotte Wilson; dance, "The Lotus Pool," Miss Edith Vaughn; Yogi, Mr. Hess, with song accompaniment, "Le Nil," by Miss Jarman; dagger dance, Miss Sinard; Turkish dance, Miss Helen Higgins; village dance, ensemble; Chinese dance, Miss Wilson; Kukuda dance, Mr. Hess, Miss Stevenson; Chinese temple dance, Miss Maison; Chinese wedding dance, Mr. Hess, Miss Wilson and ensemble.

Miss Vaughn's danse "The Lotus Pool," is described as remarkably fascinating and "different." Mr. Hess will make his debut as an oriental dancer. Both are assisting in putting on the pageant, which is managed by Lewis Thibodeaux, and is nonprofessional.

To Return North.

Mrs. George Black, than whom there has been no more charmingly attractive visitor the entire season, is leaving shortly to join her husband, the Governor of the Yukon, in Vancouver. While in Los Angeles, Mrs. Black has been the houseguest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Munger of No. 1922 Hobart boulevard, and has spoken frequently at various clubs and philanthropic organizations. Her time has been filled to overflowing with social compliments.

Brought Down Big Game.

Miss Grace Mathis, whose picture is among the group of faces on the society page, is a very capable, popular young lady who has but recently had the good fortune of bringing down with her own rifle a splendid black bear. Miss Mathis, who is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. E. N. Mathis of South Pasadena, has just returned from Alaska, where she was lavishly entertained by friends who enjoy a hunt, and it was while in the north her prowess as a hunter was achieved.

Dinner and Bridge.

To Mr. and Mrs. E. Avery McCarthy is society indebted for one of the smaller, though all the more delightful events of the week, when these popular hosts gave a dinner the evening of Thursday, with covers for Mr. and Mrs. Harold S. Cook, Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. Connell, Mr. and Mrs. William S. Hook, Jr., and one or two others. Spring blossoms beautified the resplendent board.

Informal Bridge Tea.

A congenial group of society matrons enjoyed gracious hospitality as guests of Mrs. J. J. A. Van Kaathoven on Wednesday, Mrs. Fahey of Boston and Mrs. Van Kaathoven's mother, Mrs. W. W. Belknap, sharing honors. Bridge was played, with high tea later, the service being laid among the fragrance of spring flowers, and places marked for Mrs. John Crombie Niven, Mrs. Nathaniel P. Wilshire, Mrs. Carroll H. Allen, Mrs. Belknap, Mrs. Daniel McFarland, Mrs. Walter P. Leeds, Mrs. Fahey, Miss Louise G. Burke and the hostess.

For Wednesday.

One of the smart events of the season will be the auction bridge party on next Wednesday afternoon at the Sierra Madre Club to be given by Mrs. Harry Hammond Beall of the Prince Rupert apartments. It will be one of the larger affairs of the year at the club with fifteen tables of the younger Los Angeles and Pasadena society set competing.

To Represent His Club.

Dr. Joseph Homer of the Sierra Madre Club has been selected by the Entertainment Committee to represent that organization at the Spanish ball, to take place at the Hotel del Coronado on next Saturday evening. This is in keeping with the club's policy of sending official representatives to all the more important social events of the season in Southern California.

Mrs. Howe to Entertain.

Invitations have been issued by Mrs. Robert I. Howe of No. 1216 Lake street for a tea the afternoon of February 4 at Hotel Alexandria. Mrs. Howe will include the men in her list of guests.

The Frank Dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Frank (formerly Miss Adelia Hellman) dispensed charming hospitality to several dinner guests Friday evening at their beautiful Hobart boulevard home, built for them since their wedding but two seasons ago. Spring blossoms formed a veritable bed which ran the entire center of the table, and seated were Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Adler, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Hellman, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Stern, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Stern, Mr. and Mrs. G. Harris, Mr. and Mrs. S. Aronson and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Steinlein.

The Franks will give a series of affairs throughout the season, this being but the initiatory event.

Harris-McKnight Wedding.

Lines were spoken by Rev. J. P. McKnight last Friday at high noon which united in marriage the attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Harris of San Diego, Miss Adela Harris, and his son, Harold McKnight.

The First Christian Church of San Diego, where the ceremony was conducted, was elegant in its simplicity. Potted plants, hundreds of spicy Enchantress carnations and fluffy bows of tulle adorned the altar and pews.

Miss Harris entered on the arm of her father and was attired in a white broadcloth with trimmings of Georgette crepe. A white hat with a bird of paradise, and a shower bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley, completed this exquisite attire. Her traveling costume was of dark purple, a chic tailor-made with hat and gloves to harmonize. Miss Lillian Rice of the southern city assisted as maid of honor and preceded the bride-elect to the altar. She was robed in rose taffeta, with crepe hat to match, and carried a shower bouquet of maidenhair tied with fluffy bows of tulle. There were two bridesmaids—the sisters of the bride and groom—Miss Gertrude Harris and Miss Geraldine McKnight of this city, who were dainty in green taffeta gowns, with white hats, carrying arm bouquets of pink sweet peas tied with streamers of tulle ribbon. Augustus Topp of this city, a fraternity brother, was best man, and the ushers' duties were performed by Roger Topp and John Gerner, also of Los Angeles.

Before the service a special musical programme was given by the church organist while the guests were assembling. A wedding-breakfast for members of the bridal party and relatives to the number of thirty-five followed at the family home, where the bride's table glowed with a mound of Enchantress carnations. The honeymoon will be spent at San Francisco, after which Mr. and Mrs. McKnight will be at home in this city at No. 615 South Virgil avenue, the Wilshire Vista apartments, where they will receive their friends after February 15. Mrs. McKnight, who is a graduate of the State University and was principal of the kindergartens of the San Diego schools, will be a delightful acquisition to the younger society circles of the city. The groom is a graduate of Stanford and a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon Fraternity.

For Eastern Friend.

To meet Mrs. Walter Graham Mathews, a recent arrival from St. Louis, who will make her home in this city, Mrs. Marguerite Hawkins entertained with a handsomely-appointed luncheon Tuesday afternoon at her home, No. 1424 West Twenty-ninth street. A wicker basket of Enchantress carnations and ferns tied in tulle bows centered the table, while individual favors were golden baskets with butterfly bows of tulle filled with sweetmeats. Pink cards, gold-monogrammed, marked covers for Mrs. Hawkins, Mrs. Graham, Mrs. G. W. Saurret, Mrs. Harry S. de Venney, Mrs. Charles L. Mills and Miss Carmelita Hare.

At the Sierra Madre Club.

Despite the rain, over 100 guests gathered in the cheerful ladies' dining-room of the Sierra Madre Club Tuesday for an evening's diversion at progressive auction. The room was gay with many spring blossoms. Handsome prizes were presented to the high-score winners, games continuing until midnight, after which refreshments were served. The next event of the tourney is scheduled for February 15.

Many reservations are now coming in for the next formal dinner-dance to be given by this club the evening of January 29, when dinner will be served from 6:30 to 8 o'clock.

Hostesses at the Symphony.

At Friday afternoon's Symphony Mrs. Robert J. Burdette, one of the most loyal of the Symphony supporters and patrons, had a party of friends, among whom was Mrs. James Foley, who with her gifted poet-husband is a visitor at Sunnycrest, Mrs. Burdette's Pasadena home.

Miss Rose Marie Mullen entertained a smart party of guests, including Mrs. Fred Elijah, now of Long Beach and formerly a resident of New York City; Mrs. J. K. Kays, Mrs. Philip Forve, Mrs. Harry Andrews, Mrs. Edward Bailly of San Francisco, Mrs. William G. Cross and Mrs. Secundo Guasti.

Mrs. Henry Pascal Burke, who was Miss Margaret Mahan until her marriage just before Christmas, is one of the younger matrons who faithfully attend the concerts; in fact, one of her wedding gifts was season tickets for the Symphony, and she always takes friends along to enjoy the music with her.

Mrs. Clara Baldwin Stocker and Mrs. Robert Northam were of a party that enjoyed the concert.

Won Honors.

Ranking among the most pleasant of the past week's social and artistic happenings was the reception musicale given by Mrs. J. T. Newkirk on Saturday evening, participated in by many local musicians. Mrs. Ralph Deming won an ovation with her splendid solo work, supported at the piano by Miss Wilhelmina Rector. Others contributing to the programme were Miss Marjorie Pickell, Miss Elvia Goetz, Miss Olive Elder, Miss Lauraine Elder, Miss Kathryn Marshall, Mrs. Maria Thresher-Webb, Mrs. Armond Mercier, Mrs. Frederick B. Bower, Mrs. N. C. Robinson, Messrs. Jack Stockman and Z. Earl Meeker of Riverside. Mrs. M. Hennion Robinson was accompanist. A dainty collation was served.

Home from Visit.

Mrs. Gertrude Allyn Long has returned to her home, No. 248 Monterey road, from visits to San Diego and Ventura.

Shown California Beauties.

Mrs. Moore of the "Daddy Long-Legs" company, Miss Kathleen O'Brennan of the "Irish Times" and Mrs. E. James Owenhouse furnished a trio of visitors who on Tuesday were taken by the George H. Rectors on a long motoring trip to scenic points of interest. Mrs. Earl T. Osborne was also of the party.

Off for Honolulu.

With the intention of spending the next seven or eight months in touring China and Japan, Mrs. Josephine Jack, accompanied by her son, Harry N., will leave on Wednesday on the Great Northern for Honolulu, their first port of call. They will later continue their journeyings whither fancy dictates.

Was Much Entertained.

Mrs. J. C. Doyle is receiving a genuinely cordial welcome home after a trip of several months, spent for the major part in San Francisco, where she was constantly entertained at numerous social affairs. Mrs. Doyle is at the Darby, where she arrived Tuesday.

California Calls Them Back.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Riggin, formerly of Los Angeles, but for the past eight years residents of Maryland, near Baltimore, are here for the winter, house guests of Mr. Riggin's sister and niece, Mrs. Isabelle R. and Mrs. Pearl Thornton of No. 714 South Ardmore avenue. They usually come every alternate year.

Childhood Pleasures.

All pink and white to match the sweet childish guests were the decorations for the birthday party yesterday afternoon of dainty little Henrietta Gans, who, having attained the very important age of 9 years, assumed the dignity of hostess for many of her playmates. The happy affair was given at the parental J. J. Gans home, No. 2734 West Ninth street, and the table, in the form of a horseshoe, was centered in a bed of pink and white flowers arranged in French baskets, to which were attached by ribbons fascinating kiddie place cards. Individual pink candles of diminutive size burned at each cover, where were seated Mildred Brick, Marjorie Morris, Henriette Lindenstadt, Sigmunda Marks, Bernice Heber, Betty Squires, Wilhelmina Marks, Blanche Goodman, Lenore Brick, Theresa Karger, Bernice Cohn, Lucile Lindenstadt, Beatrice Raganza, Janet Marks, Beryl Reilinger, Lenore Cherness, Bertha Richbart, Myra R. Reynaud, Sydney Rice, Jr., Phillip Frankel, Julius Goldwater, Clifford Gans, Harold Morris, Max Skaloski, Charles Offer, Teddy Zuckerman and David Frankel. All manner of amusing games and dancing sped the hours too fast.

SOCIETY.

bert Burne (the latter of Sioux City, Iowa,) enjoyed the opera as guests of Mr. Videau.

To Escape Eastern Blasts.

Mrs. Homer A. Boushey of Chicago and her two little sons, Homer and Gregory, have arrived here to spend the winter at the Beverly Hills Hotel.

Connoisseur of Art Coming.

Charles L. Freer, the noted millionaire art collector of Detroit, who was one of the art jurors of the Panama-Pacific Exposition, will arrive in Southern California next month, and will, according to advices received, remain for most of the winter at Arrowhead. While there enjoying the solitude of the mountains, he intends to write a book on ancient Chinese art, a subject in which he is most versatile and considered an authority.

Mr. Freer is a philanthropist as well as an art collector. He is to erect a building on the Smithsonian grounds at Washington to house the art collection he is to give that institution. Here in a temple dedicated to art will repose the collection of canvases now in Mr. Freer's Ferry-avenue mansion, as well as his oriental porcelains and other objects of art. Mr. Freer long has been noted as one of the greatest collectors of paintings by Whistler in the world. Other works, notably of the Flemish school, likewise have attracted his fancy, and, while by no means as large or costly as the Frick collection, his gallery is regarded as a representative one. Both in its collection and the plan for its permanent gift to the nation, Mr. Freer has had the co-operation of many noted connoisseurs, among them Charles Moore, director of the Detroit Art Museum.

Joins Daughter Here.

At her home, No. 2286 West Twenty-second street, Mrs. H. H. Rose is entertaining her mother, Mrs. L. C. Klein, who has arrived from Racine, Wis., to spend the winter.

For Mrs. Duncan.

Miss George Anton Diehl, No. 1621 Electric avenue, South Pasadena, will give a tea and musical tomorrow afternoon in honor of her guest, Mrs. Russell Duncan, who formerly lived in London and whose superb soprano voice has delighted many audiences in England, Scotland, Canada and this country.

Mrs. Duncan is an American by birth but her education in voice and dramatic action has been with celebrated masters of France and Italy, including Vannini, Vanucini, Beer, Giraudet and de Boicelin. She had the unusual advantage of being coached in the operas of Gounod, Delibes, Abroise Thomas and Theodore Dubois by the authors themselves.

In England she sang extensively in oratorio and has received a large number of flattering press notices there. Guests at tomorrow's affair will have an opportunity to hear her.

Miss Smoller to Dance.

Among the well-known Angelenos who are going to Coronado for the Spanish ball is Miss Dorothy Smoller, the well-known dancer, who is to give special exhibition dancing with her sister, Miss Helen, as well as solo work. Miss Smoller recently appeared for Mrs. William H. Crocker of San Francisco, who gave a garden fete at "New Place" in Hillsborough, with Ignace Paderewski as presiding musical genius.

Miss Smoller also won laurels at the Greek Theater, Hotel St. Francis and the Palace. Following the Coronado event she plans to go to New York.

To Return from East.

Mrs. A. L. Swobdi-Meade is to return within a few days to her Los Angeles home, following an extensive eastern trip, spent mostly in New York and its environs.

Wed Twenty Years.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Hughes of No. 3258 Emmett street were dinner hosts on Wednesday evening, to observe the china wedding or twentieth anniversary of their marriage. Pink and white tones prevailed in the pretty decorations, and covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Mower, Mr. and Mrs. T. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Smith, Miss Gervais, Miss Isabelle Davis, Messrs. Ben Spindler, G. Barbanes, S. Knudsen and Mr. and Mrs. Hughes. Music contributed by Miss Davis, Mr. Spindler and Jack Hughes gave pleasure to the occasion, and games were played.

At the Athletic Club.

All social things in the coming month at the Los Angeles Athletic Club focus on the formal dinner-dance which will be given there on February 16, the first large affair, as it happens, of 1916. It will in effect be the inaugural ball of the Mayor of Rowansburg and his cabinet of ten social aides, who have a busy finger in the Athletic Club's social pie.

There was a notable increase in the dinner giving at the club during the week just closed, due largely to the presence in Los Angeles of grand opera. Among those who entertained at dinner preceding the opera were Mrs. Homer Laughlin, who gave a dinner for six on Monday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Moultrie, who had guests on Tuesday evening.

Large dinners were given by H. O. Davis, who entertained for thirty-five associates at dinner in the blue room on Wednesday evening, and on Thursday evening the officers of the Union Oil Company gave a dinner in honor of E. W. Clark. Covers were laid for thirty. To the Ladies' Annex came many entertainers during the week. Mrs. Frederick C. on Menlo avenue. Softly-shaded lights and a wealth of enchantress carnations gave an appropriate touch of color to the handsomely-appointed musicroom, where, as might be expected, with a hostess of such musical attainments, a delightful programme was rendered. The piano solos of Mrs. Charles Howard Pendleton were particularly enjoyed, and tiny Ruth Wilson astonished her hearers with a technique quite remarkable in a maid of 6 years. Dainty refreshments were served, and many handsome additions to the wedding chest were given the happy honoree. The guest list included Mmes. Cornelius Pendleton, Charles Howard Pendleton, Calvert Wilson, W. B. Scarborough, Paul Cowles, W. M. Henry and the Misses Helen Jones, Wilhelmina Chancellor, Albertine Pendleton, Lucy Powers and Flossie Taylor.

Musicale Evening.

Fully a hundred guests enjoyed a brilliant musicale at the Franz Bischoff home in South Pasadena on Thursday evening, followed by an inspection of the art treasures in the artist's studio.

Mrs. Minnie B. Haag and daughter, Miss Pauline, accompanied by Mrs. Gertrude McCully and niece, Miss Verna Grisier, all of Iowa, arrived yesterday to join Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Five Hundred Party.

Bright red flowers and prettily-covered lights lent an effective glow to the surroundings for the Five Hundred party given the 15th inst. by Mr. and Mrs. Edgar M. Smith of No. 2943 Brighton avenue, invitations having been extended to Messrs. and Mmes. J. H. Byerley, A. L. Blumberg, J. C. Belding, A. H. Hellikson, Owen Pauff, C. H. Pease, W. A. Potter, E. J. Potter, L. E. Shaw, Don Walter, Karl Schumacher, Neal Vickrey, A. G. Strobel, F. P. Jones, William Ball, Mrs. Hortense Dorr, Mrs. Adair and Mrs. Sweitzer. A two-course luncheon was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith are to entertain next month with several parties in honor of Mr. and Mrs. George Mechem, old-time friends from Michigan.

Easterner Much Honored.

To meet pretty Miss Betty Palmer of New York, her brother, Dr. Edwin O. Palmer, and Mrs. Palmer, gave one of the handsomest dinners of the week at the Hollywood Hotel on Thursday evening, with covers for twenty-four guests. The board, sparkling with crystal and silver, was centered in a mass of glowing pink roses.

A second affair planned as a welcome to Miss Palmer will be given Saturday, with a matinee party at the Orpheum, followed by tea at the Alexandria Hotel.

Baile Espanol.

Six days from today, at 9 o'clock in the evening, under the flare of blue flood lights, the much heralded Spanish ball will be presented at Hotel del Coronado. Twenty-five dashing Hidalgos will enter the ballroom from the especially-built staircase, singing of the delights and dangers of adventures found in garden gay and ballroom. The dancing set, who will give Las Sevillanas, and which is composed of members of the society set, together with many prominent easterners now at the hotel, will make their entrance into the ballroom with the Hidalgos, jingling tambourines and clicking castanets. All lights in the room will be out and under the glare of the blue flood light, figures will be indistinctly outlined throughout the room. Immediately following the opening aria of "Carmen," which will be rendered by the chorus, the younger set will give their Las Sevillanas, followed immediately by the entrance of Signor Aubrey Scotta, the noted baritone from the Metropolitan Operahouse of New York City, who will sing the famous Toreador song from "Carmen," under the glare of the spotlight, while the dancers and chorus are seated around on the floor of the circular ballroom. Following Signor Scotta, Miss Cornelia Strothbar and A. Courtney Campbell, Jr., will give El Bolero de Madrid, La Malaguena y el Torero and El Jaleo de Jerez, followed by Miss Dorothy Smoller, who will give Las Soleares, a dance of Spanish origin, which she learned in Manila.

The ball will be formally opened for dancing by the entrance of the duenna, Mrs. O. S. Risch of New York City, and William Ramsey Heberhart, who comes as Count Coronado.

Later in the evening, from a Spanish balcony, to the strains of guitars, Senora Lolita (Mrs. L. L. Rowan) will sing Spanish love songs.

OUT-OF-TOWN SOCIETY

Pasadena.

SURPASSING in splendor any function ever given in the Southland, is what has been planned by the management of the Hotel Huntington for the oriental ball to be given at this castle-like hostelry next Wednesday evening. More than sixteen hundred guests are expected and a marvelous programme has already been arranged which includes the most notable artists of the country. As a large number of the smartest eastern guests will have arrived, they and the prominent society folk of Los Angeles, Pasadena and other near-by cities are expected to appear in wonderful costumes, which will turn the hotel into a little bit of the Orient itself. The Spanish week at the Maryland and Huntington was a marked success and carried out a programme which was a "seven days' wonder." Beginning at the Huntington, the last three days were devoted to the Maryland, ending with a dinner dance there last night. It also marked the first "the dansant" of the season there on Friday afternoon. Pretty tables with attractive tea guests sipping the delicious brew were inspiration enough for the Ann Dare troubadors, who were the principal entertainers throughout the week to serenade. Constantino, the noted tenor, delighted a vast throng at the dance on Thursday evening.

And then there was the Leap Year ball at the Hotel Green Wednesday night, which attracted a large number of smart folk including no end of charming debutantes. Miss Frances Miller, the prettiest guest there, presided at a delightful dinner party, which was about the wealthiest aggregation obtainable in the Crown City. They included Crawford May, Eric Kobbe, Craney Gartz, Lionel Armstrong, John Keys, Frances Drake, Don Fullerton, Albert Buttolph, John J. Buttolph, R. Turner and Misses Lolita Magie, Agnes Knight, Dorothy Cogan, Esther Bartlett, Miss Frances Miller and Mrs. Harold Johnston. Her favors were corsage bouquets of violets and forget-me-nots for the men and dainty boxes of cigarettes for the girls. Mr. and Mrs. Bradbury F. Cushing, who entertained a large number of guests, gave for favors vanity cases for the men and cigarette cases for the women.

Invitations have been issued by Mrs. J. D. Mersereau of No. 449 North Madison for the marriage of her daughter, Miss Irene, to Robert Poindexter of Los Angeles, a son of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Poindexter of No. 354 South Normandie avenue. The ceremony will take place at the Mersereau home Saturday evening, February 5, at 8:30 o'clock. The members of the bridal party have not been selected yet, but the wedding, which is to be a quiet one, will have very charming but quiet appointments. Since announcement of the engagement was made, numerous social functions have been given for which Miss Mersereau was the motif.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Caunt of No. 1315 Oakland avenue gave the first of a series of dinner parties last Thursday evening at which their neighbors were guests. At this affair covers were laid for ten and the dinner table was centered with Cecile Brunner roses and violets, which accentuated the pale rose and lavender color scheme, which was carried out in all the appointments. The guests at the first dinner included Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Henry, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wallace, Judge and Mrs. G. A. Gibbs and Mr. and Mrs. C. Y. Knight.

Of more than usual interest was the announcement of the engagement of Miss Mabel Seibert and George Herbert Loughery, son of Commissioner Loughery, which was made at an exquisitely-appointed luncheon at the home of Mrs. Amelia Seibert, Miss Seibert's mother, of Oak Knoll last Wednesday afternoon. Covers were laid for fourteen of the most intimate friends of the bride-to-be, and little plate holders, hand-painted in rose and lavender, concealed the engagement secret, the two names being written in gold on their inner leaf. While no date has been set for the wedding it will probably take place in the spring.

Arrangements are being completed to make the charity ball to be held at the Maryland on February 3 one of the most successful and brilliant charity affairs ever held here. Mrs. Robert Ladd Gifford of Oak Knoll has charge of arrangements for the boxes with Mmes. Arthur A. Libby, William A. Brackenridge and A. S. Halsted completing the personnel of the committee. The decorations are being arranged by Mrs. Harrison J. Drummond and are to be of a wonderfully-lovely character.

Senator and Mrs. Frank Stiles of Altadena entertained members of the New York Five Hundred Club Monday evening. Prizes were won by Miss Lillian Krueger and Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Richardson. Tables were placed for thirty-two players.

Miss Grace Dickinson, daughter of Mrs. Lilla Dickinson of No. 1646 North Fair Oaks avenue, and Roy W. Harris of Pomona were married several evenings ago at the bride's home, with Rev. George M. Morrison, pastor of Pilgrim Congregational Church, officiating. Miss Helen Dickinson, sister of the bride, was her only attendant. The ceremony was witnessed only by the immediate members of the two families.

Mrs. S. Webster French of No. 675 Oakland avenue entertained with a most distinctive musicale several days ago for seventy of her friends. The programme was charmingly rendered by Mrs. Marie Carter McGee, soprano, with Miss Helen Root at the piano as accompanist. The programme included groups of French, German and English songs.

Mrs. W. N. Van Nuys of North Raymond avenue and her sister, Miss Cornelia E. Hill, entertained recently with a tea of charming appointments for their house guest, Miss Bertha Hill of Indianapolis. The rooms were fragrant with pink carnations and violets. The guests included Miss Hill, Mrs. Alvick Pearson, Mrs. J. H. Hill, Miss Esther Miller, Mrs. R. E. Crocker, Mrs. I. J. Reynolds, Miss Howell, Mrs. A. T. White, Miss Swain, Mrs. Peter Orban, Mrs. H. L. Mouat, Mrs. J. E. Coggeshell, Mrs. Leroy D. Ely, Mrs. Henry Newby, Mrs. H. C. Holt, Miss Edith Reynolds, Mrs. H. I. Stuart, Mrs. H. M. Sears, Mrs. D. W. Herlihy, Mrs. C. M. F. Stone, Mrs. Orcelia K. Hines, Mrs. A. L. Hadley, Mrs. Carpenter, Mrs. Porter Parmelee, Mrs. C. D. Newlin, Miss Newlin, Mrs. Hery S. Patten and Mrs. J. H. Coffin.

Whittier.

THE wedding of Miss Louise Birge, daughter of Mrs. H. H. Birge, last Friday, came as a surprise to the many friends of that popular young lady. The wedding occurred at Sunnyside, Cal., at the parsonage home of the officiating clergyman, Rev. Granville Williams, a former pastor here. Mr. James Erwin De La Vergne, the groom, has been a Whittier resident for about a year. Huntington Park.

A JOLLY party of the younger set "charivaried" Mr. and Mrs. George Richards of No. 2914 Baldwin street Thursday evening, which was the first day of the happy couple's "at home" since their marriage here last Wednesday evening at the home of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. William West of East Slauson avenue. An entire street car was necessary to carry the many friends, who, when they arrived, startled their "victims" with every uncanny noise that imagination could invent. The evening was spent in rollicking games, and most delicious refreshments were served. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Allen, Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Corey, Mr. and Mrs. Podmore, Sr., and Ray Podmore, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Benson of Bell, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Clark, Misses Ina B. Fry, Ruby and Coral Mosley, Julia Everett, Barbara, Camilla and Maybelle West, Grace Snodgrass, Hazel Seibert and Messrs. Bob and George Leonard, Dennis Webster and Claude Moseley.

A pretty birthday party for one of the younger of the social set was pleasantly and surprisingly arranged for Miss Louise Parker of South Pacific boulevard at the home of her parents Wednesday evening by a goodly number of the recipient's friends, who came with a birthday cake having just seventeen telltale candles upon it. After her recovery from the surprise, a frolicking evening started in earnest, and it was at a late hour when the young celebrators started for home. Those who joined in the happy time were Misses Frances Lane, Margery Lake, Virginia Fiske, Cayle Hodgson, Marion Sinclair, Lucille Abrams, Ethel Wagner, Fleta Abrams, Elizabeth Plasch and Messrs. Jack Sinclair, Russel and Albert Allen and Lester Craflous.

One of the liveliest social affairs of the week was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Morehouse on South Middleton street Friday evening, when a number of the hosts' former Pasadena friends arrived for a 6 o'clock dinner and an evening of five hundred. The jolly party did not break up until time for the very last car home, and then only with regrets. The guests present were Mr. and Mrs. James Stuart, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Syvertson, Mr. and Mrs. John Sprague and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Pomeroy of Pasadena and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Thayer of Los Angeles.

"The fairy story play, "Bonnybell, or Cinderella's Cousin," which was given Tuesday evening by a number of Huntington Park's promising young girls, was enjoyed by an appreciative gathering of parents and friends. A great deal of thought and work had been expended on the costumes, and the many dances were entered into with considerable zest by the young performers. Those who took part, under the direction of Mmes. Alice Strawser and Ellen Webster, were Misses Nell Jones, Ramona Hultquist, Frances and Edna Lane, Nellie Webster, Grace Ford, Helen Hunt, Ruth Johnson, Wilma Boss, Marjorie Leonard, Gayle Hudson, Mercedes Preston, Dorris Ford, Josilyn McCaffrey, Marie Leonard, Evelyn Rush, Grace Strawser, Betty Fiske, Winifred Barrett, Catherine Emerick and Constance Tarr.

Favors were hand-made handkerchiefs and guests brought many dainty gifts. Many games were played and musical numbers were rendered by Misses Fern and Mildred Hughey of Hollywood and Miss Wendella Pritchard of Sherman.

Venice.

ONE of the prettiest luncheons of the season was given recently by Mrs. Charles Thatcher of No. 339 Lion canal, welcoming Mrs. Thomas Wilde back to Venice after her six months' residence in Sacramento. Barthel, Mrs. Wilde and Mrs. Thatcher.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. James Alexander Loudon, Mrs. John R. Westbrook presided at the meeting of the Bay Cities Chapter, U.D.C., on Thursday. "Kentucky," the beautiful Southern State, which has been the inspiration for much poetry and song, was the subject for discussion. Mrs. Leigh read a paper telling of the resources and wonders of her native State. This was followed by a vocal solo and dance by little Sarah Louise Mayer. Mrs. Mayer, by request, gave a description of her family ancestral home, which dates back 126 years. Mrs. Pointer told of the part Kentucky took in the Civil War, reading an extract from "The Confederate Veteran," a southern newspaper. Mrs. Johnson's contribution was an article written by an old gentleman, which told of Kentucky's part in the Battle of Shiloh. On Friday, the 28th, the chapter will celebrate the birthdays of Gen. Warning to Users of Hair Removers

Don't Experiment with So-called Superfluous Hair Removers.

If you use a simple toilet preparation and it proves to be worthless you only lose money. It is a very serious matter, however, when you use a doubtful hair remover, because it will either result in permanent disfigurement or cost you many dollars and take months or possibly years to gain control of the growth after it has been stimulated by the use of such preparations.

It is a waste of time to use pastes and rub-on preparations which merely remove hair from the surface of the skin. To rob hair of its life-sustaining force, you must devitalize it by attacking it under the skin as well as on the skin. Nothing but DeMiracle, the original liquid depilatory, can accomplish this result.

Imitations of DeMiracle are as worthless as pastes and rub-on preparations because they lack certain ingredients that DeMiracle alone contains which give it the power to rob hair of its vitality. Remember, DeMiracle is the only depilatory that has a binding guarantee in each package which entitles you to your money if it fails. Insist on the genuine DeMiracle and you will get the original liquid hair remover. Others are worthless imitations—refuse them.

DeMiracle is sold in $1.00 and $2.00 bottles. If your dealer will not supply you order direct from us. The truth about the treatment of superfluous hair mailed in plain sealed envelope on request. DeMiracle Chemical Co., Dept. 5, Park Ave. and 129th St., New York.

Although the illness of the aged pioneer prevented any celebration of the event, the eighty-fifth birthday anniversary of Jotham Bixby, called the "father of Long Beach," Thursday, was the occasion of the sending of many congratulations to the recent sufferer from paralysis, scores making inquiries regarding the health of the patient, which has improved since the first of the week. The relatives of the "father of Long Beach" had been planning a party to commemorate the anniversary of his birth, but were forced to give up their plans when the host was stricken.

Just One Application and the Hairs Vanish

(Modes of Today)

A harmless, yet very effective, treatment is here given for the quick removal of hairy growths: Mix enough powdered delatone and water to cover the undesirable hairs, apply paste and after 2 or 3 minutes remove, wash the skin and the hairs have vanished. One application usually is sufficient, but to be certain of results, buy the delatone in an original package.

A DELIGHTFUL innovation in society circles here was the dinner given Tuesday evening by Mrs. E. J. Gartley at her home, No. 544 Rudolph avenue, complimentary to the school teachers, in whose rooms her three little girls are pupils, the teachers from whose rooms they have been promoted and the musical director. Girls from 6 to 16 years will be charmed with the advance styles for spring. There's style and originality in every line, and prices are moderate in the extreme.

Another line of chambray in blue and white and pink and white, made empire style with dainty white guimps, for girls of the same age, is marked..................$2.50

The New Woolens

Those who cannot find their ideal in this lot of newly arrived woolens must indeed be difficult to please. There's newness at every turn and each line, each piece seems even handsomer than the last.

Black and white effects promise to be the popular craze. They are shown in shepherd checks combined with brown or green or other colors; then there are little plaid effects and black barred off with white, forming half-inch checks. Hair lines, pencil and chalk lines in the same combinations are numerous.

Mixed Vigoureux with the lustre of broadcloth, canvas weaves, melange Panamas and French twills, each in the popular heather colors, are beautiful beyond compare. However, you should come and see these new woolens, then you would know. 48 to 56 inches wide, $1.75 to $2.50 yard.

A Special Serge $1.25

A strictly all wool French serge 48 inches wide in all staple colors, a cloth suitable for suits or dresses that we doubt if you'll match at anything near the price during the coming season. We ask you to see this serge, to compare it—$1.25 yard. Second Floor.

9x12 Wilton Rugs $47.50

The room size rugs we offer tomorrow are desirable in every way—not passe colors or discontinued designs. They are rugs that sell ordinarily at $60.00 and $65.00. The lot at this price, however, is limited and there is but one of a kind. Take advantage of the event—$47.50 for the 9x12 size. Fourth Floor.

Forerunners of the Spring Hat Styles

We hesitate to describe the Spring Hat fashions for the obvious reason that they cannot be judged by printed words. They must be seen, and tried on to be appreciated.

There's the modified poke built extra high, of many style braids and straws, and toques, too, in great variety are especially becoming to women of middle age. Silk tops is one of the features of the newer arrivals and ribbons, flowers and fruits are the chief trimming ideas. The various rose shades and soft browns are much admired. The showing is most interesting.

Don't fail to see this week's arrivals in Sport Hats for spring.

We make a specialty of mourning hats and veils.

hot suppers at the various homes of the young folks whose hospitable parents had opened their doors and provided warmth and cheer for a number of the rainy nights. One of the most brilliant of the more formal events of the week was the musicale arranged by Mr. and Mrs. William Thompson at their attractive home, No. 136 South Jackson street, on Friday evening. Fuller and Mrs. Laura Lowinsky were among the guests who enjoyed an evening of rare pleasure which was concluded with the serving of delectable refreshments after a varied musical programme had been given.

An attractive dinner party given during the week occurred on Monday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Wilson. In anticipation of the evening's diversion the home had been attractively decorated with a profusion of bougainvillea, and finding places at the hospitable board besides the genial host and hostess were Mr. and Mrs. C. The home of the D. T. Oggs was the scene of one of the happiest parties of the month when they recently entertained a number of friends as a gracious compliment to Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Wood on the occasion of their thirty-second wedding anniversary. The rooms were beautifully decorated with quantities of cut flowers and greenery, narcissus and Chinese lilies carrying out a color scheme of green and yellow daintily interspersed with ferns fronds and mountain brakes. An elaborate supper was served to the guests of honor, Mrs. B. Brooks, Miss Hazel Woods, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Chase, Mrs. Scott and Messrs. Glen Wood and Dale Wood. Concluding the attractive repast the guests repaired to the living-room where about thirty other guests arrived to extend heartiest felicitations to the honored guests of the delightful evening. Evans, No. 113 South Orange avenue, when she will receive in honor of her house guest, Mrs. B. F. Logan of Louisville, Ky., who has been been spending the winter in Southern California as a guest at the Evans home.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Maxwell are extending them a hearty welcome on their return from an extended visit in the East and Middle West. The Maxwells are domiciled at No. 216 South Central avenue, and will be the object of much social attention on the part of their many friends during the weeks of social activity that are scheduled for the remainder of the winter.

Tomorrow the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Hewes will be opened to the members of the Auction Bridge and Luncheon Club which is one of the most popular and exclusive organizations of the city. Concluding luncheon the guests are anticipating great pleasure in a number of enthusiastic games of bridge which will be the principle diversion of the afternoon.

Honoring Miss Elizabeth Edmunds, Miss Agnes Tupper, Miss Harriett Connor and Miss Evelyn Albright, Miss Inez Harrison was the charming young hostess at a delightful party given Wednesday afternoon at the home of her parents on South Kenwood street. The party was given in recognition of the natal days of the lovely young honorees all of whom are entering a new birth year. It was also the occasion of a parting courtesy to Miss Albright who leaves for Los Angeles shortly to make her future home. Games and music filled the afternoon hours with pleasure, and at its close delicious refreshments were served the guests by Mrs. M. P. Harrison, Mrs. D. T. Ogg and Miss Harrison to the following: Miss Arline McMasters, Miss Margaret West, Miss Evelyn Albright, Miss Edmunds, Miss Martha Eilers, Miss Alice Hetrick, Miss Tarrietta Connor, Miss Agnes Tupper, Miss Olive Taylor, Miss Virginia Bollman and Miss Inez Harrison.

gathering was enjoyed on a recent Wednesday at the charming home of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Miller. All the felicities of such a reunion, which included visiting eastern relatives and friends, were enjoyed. Those entertained by the Millers were Mrs. Frances Freeman and Mrs. J. L. Renshaw of Winfield, Iowa; Mr. and Mrs. Chester Baxter and baby of Huntington Beach and Mr. M. H. Freeman and Mrs. E. H. Renshaw of Santa Ana. The party also included Miss Florecen Miller and Miss Lucile Miller.

A roof garden party in honor of the class teacher, Miss Minnie Johnson, was given on Thursday by the pupils of the seventh and eighth grades of the Tustin grammar school. A delightfully-sheltered spot on the roof of the building, where potted plants and flowers were used to make the place particularly inviting, was chosen for the luncheon, which was served at noon. The delicious repast was served in cafeteria fashion, and hot biscuits and butter were a feature of the spread. The affair was in honor of Miss Johnson's birthday, and a handsomely ornamented birthday cake centered the festive board.

Santa Monica.

MRS. WILLIAM T. DAVIES, who is leaving this week for her new home in Pasadena, was the honoree of a pretty affair given by Mrs. Harry Shoemaker and Mrs. T. J. Craig at the home of Mrs. Craig. The rooms were artistically decorated with bowls filled with delicate masses of violets, and violets and ferns centered the table where a three-course luncheon was served. The afternoon was given over to a charming impromptu musicale. Mrs. W. F. Barnum and Mrs. Shoemaker delighted with several vocal numbers accompanied on the piano by Mrs. M. Smith and Mrs. Davies. Several readings and an original poem were read by Mrs. J. A. Balsley in her own inimitable way. Mrs. Davies was given a shower of handkerchiefs as a parting gift from her many friends. The expressions of regret were many, as all were loath to let Mrs. Davies drop out of their midst and take up her residence elsewhere. Among those present were Mmes. W. F. Barnum, Frank Wise, Mabel Smith, Dewitt Creveling, W. E. Gillham, D. G. Stephens, George Hutton, J. A. Balsley, J. S. Duckles, Nichols, and Lobingier, and Misses Nellie St. Clair, Jessica Wilson, the honoree and hostesses.

A delightful party was given by Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Mason, No. 804 Wilshire boulevard, in honor of their little daughter Irene's eleventh birthday. Eleven friends, one for each year, passed a happy afternoon playing games and telling stories before the blazing fireplace. The rooms and luncheon table were fragrant with violets and sweetpeas. Dainty refreshments were served.

Saturday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Beamer took place the pretty wedding of Miss Cressy Barkalow and Mr. Arthur Bashforth. The Rev. C. D. Hicks of the First Methodist Church performed the ceremony. The house was beautifully decorated in the color scheme of soft shades of pink and green, using pink carnations and delicate rosebuds combined with smilax and ferns. The bride was attractive in a suit of dark blue cloth with hat to match. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Bashforth left for Los Angeles, where they will be at home to their many friends after February 15, in their bungalow, No. 824 West Fifty-fifth street. The bride has been a nurse at the Loamshire Sanatorium for the past year. Mr. Bashforth, although his business is now in Los Angeles, has been a resident in Santa Monica for several years.

One of the many attractive affairs given in Santa Monica this week was a daintily appointed luncheon served by Mrs. John Reeves, No. 1257 Ninth street, as a compliment to her house guests, Mrs. Clarence Crane and Mrs. A. D. Clark. Among the invited guests were Mrs. Michael P. Reeves, Miss Anna Skehill, Miss Anna Lynch, Miss Ellen Lynch, Miss Katherine Daily and Miss Ella Daily.

Mrs. Mary Sheckles, at her residence, No. 623 Santa Monica boulevard, informally entertained her family and a few friends recently, in celebration of her fortieth year as a resident in Santa Monica. After the serving of a sumptuous dinner toasts were given to Mrs. Sheckles and she was congratulated upon her loyalty to Santa Monica. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Sheckles, Miss Cecil Sheckles, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Sheckles and children, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Harris Hall and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Valiant, Mr. and Mrs. William Wyler, and Mr. and Mrs. James G. Sprecher and son.

A pretty wedding took place at the W. J. Davenport home Friday night, which united the lives of their attractive daughter, Ioan, and Cecil Warren Bunker, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Bunker of No. 1435 Fourth street, Santa Monica. Rev. Hicks of the First Methodist church officiated, using the lovely ring service. The ceremony was performed at 9 o'clock, followed by a gay little supper. Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Bunker, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Davenport, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Davenport, Mrs. Graham, Miss Laura Bunker, Earl Bunker, Allan Bunker, Evelyn and Kenneth Davenport, Maude Graham, the Rev. Hicks, and Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Davenport. The bride carried an armful of rosebuds and looked very sweet in her simple frock of white. Both Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Bunker have lived in Santa Monica four years. They will be at home to their many friends in a pretty bungalow on United States Island.

Santa Ana.

A ROSE motif prevailed throughout the appointments and menu at a charming announcement luncheon given by Mrs. D. L. Anderson on Saturday, where the betrothal of her daughter, Miss Helen Anderson, to Arthur Case Munson, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Munson of Los Robles avenue, Pasadena, was made known to a number of intimate friends. A crystal basket massed with pink roses and maidenhair ferns and encircled with crystal candelabra, rose shaded, centered the table, and the rose motif was seen in nut baskets and the rose-fashioned ices beneath which were found the envelopes containing the announcement. Honored guests at the luncheon were Mrs. Anderson's mother, Mrs. William McCulloch, and her sister, Miss Mary McCulloch, from the East. The hostess's son, David Anderson, assisted his mother in entertaining the feminine guests. Place cards marked covers for the Misses Mary Collins, Marie Briggs, Florence Crozier, Katherine Irvine, Kassa Bailey, Mrs. W. H. Malone, Mrs. Robert Mize and Mrs. John Newcomber of Santa Ana, and out-of-town guests, Miss Rose Michod, Mrs. Charles H. Griffin and Miss Gira Williams of Los Angeles and Miss Myra Shaw of Sierra Madre.

The Misses Mary and Bernice Shrewsbury, who leave this week to make their future home in Los Angeles, were complimented with a farewell dinner given by a number of their girl friends with whom they have been intimate during a long residence in this city. The dinner was spread at the home of Miss Hattie Whidden on South Main street, Saturday evening, with stately poisettias and scarlet geraniums lending splendid color to the handsomely appointed table and brilliantly lighted rooms. Those at the table besides the Misses Shrewsbury and Miss Whidden were Misses Mary and Alice Gall, Rosamond Norman, Mary Wood, Robbie Jones, Edith Ward, Leslie Smith, Minnie Crissman, Esther Patterson, Bessie Hill, Suzanne Claycomb, Mane Brightwell, Lulu Ott, Inez Cloyes, Mary Smart, Bessie Lewis, Stella Daniels, Blanche Plumb, Mrs. Herbert Rankin, Mrs. Louis Tillotson.

Miss Eva Lopez made a winsome bride at a morning wedding solemnized Sunday morning, when she became the wife of Solomon Gonzales at the Spanish Methodist Church. Rev. R. R. Raymond, assisted by Rev. A. C. Gonzales, officiated at the impressive ceremony and the bridal party was preceded by little Misses Faustinita Salazar and Ruth Gonzales, the ring and flower bearers. Mr. and Mrs. J N. Aikens accompanied the bride and groom to the altar. The bride was charming in her wedding gown of silk crepe de chine and filmy veil caught with orange blossoms. Her bouquet was of white carnations and ferns, and the church was adorned with date palms, masses of lilies and festoons of smilax. After a wedding dinner served at James's, Mr. and Mrs. Gonzales left on a honeymoon trip to San Diego. They will be at home after February 1.

A charming winter party was given Saturday afternoon at the homes of Mrs. E. F. Roberts and Mrs. W. L. Deimling in North Broadway, marking the second anniversary of the organization of the music classes for juveniles, presided over by Miss Ruth Frackleton of Los Angeles. The juveniles of the class planned the interesting little programme as hostesses. Those paticipating in the musical programme were Gwendolyn Tubbs, Fern Flood, Velma Miller, Beth Jordan, Margery Kittle, Persana Deimling, Ninette Rowland, Josephine, Miles and Constance Crookshank, Eleanor Embree, Helen Bowers, Mabel Roberts, Marjorie and Harlan Kittle and Marie Gregg. The daintiest of refreshments were served in the living-room, where Mrs. Carl Kittle and Mrs. John Clifford Page poured tea. The delicate motif of refreshment and decoration was pink and green, developed with roses, carnations and ferns.

The beautiful new country home of Mrs. J. S. Wassar was the scene of a most delightful surprise on a recent Wednesday afternoon, when a number of Santa Ana society women invaded the charming country place. Conversation, needlework and delicate refreshments taken by the visitors rounded out the happy hours. Those in the surprising party were Mmes. O. M. Robbins, H. H. Reeves, Max Reinhaus, Theodore Winbigler, George Balderston and Mrs. W. L. Tubbs, with her house guest, Mrs. Von Allsdale of Hastings, Iowa.

At a charmingly informal afternoon with Mrs. M. T. Mathews of East Fourth street as hostess, a number of young women of this city joined in a Kensington party, listening to interesting music and diverted by the telling of fortunes. Those enjoying Mrs. Mathews's hosiptality, which was concluded by the serving of a dainty collation on a table adorned with baskets of carnations and ferns, were Mrs. A. L. Cotant, Mrs. Frank Wakeham, the Misses Pauline Parsons, Margaret Wakeham, Margaret Ore and Katherine Cubbin.

Mrs. C. V. Davis was hostess at a pretty violet luncheon at her North Broadway home on Wednesday. Five prettily appointed and daintily decorated small tables were spread for the guests and the luncheon was served amid house decorations of carnations and violets. Auction bridge whiled away the afternoon hours, Mrs. Charles Kelley and Mrs. Addie Collins winning the handsome bridge trophies.

Mr. Claude Thaxter of Gardena, formerly of Azusa, has been enjoying the past week visiting with numerous friends here.

Mrs. Elmer Hayden and daughter, Mrs. R. C. Belt, of San Bernardino, have been the guests during the past two weeks of Mrs. Hayden's son and family, Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Hayden of South Alameda avenue.

Mrs. John W. Calvert was the gracious hostess to the ladies of the Azusa Embroidery Club at her home on San Gabriel avenue Wednesday afternoon. After a delicious 1 o'clock luncheon had been served by the hostess several new members were received and a very pleasant afternoon of informal diversions was greatly enjoyed by all the ladies.

Mrs. Richard Poor of Duarte spent a delightful time last week as the guest of her sister, Mrs. Isabell Beardslee of Citrus avenue.

Alhambra.

THIS year the social calendar seems to be overflowing with all sorts of delightful functions for the pleasure and enjoyment of both young and old. Many talented musicians are planning numerous affairs for the coming season.

One of the prettiest affairs of the week was the auction bridge party Thursday afternoon, given by Mrs. Ralph Clapp, at her attractive home, No. 31 Hampton Court. The rooms were beautifully decorated with cut flowers and Christmas greens were also in evidence. At the conclusion of the games prizes were awarded to Mrs. Frank Fowler and Mrs. E. L. McCormick, after which a dainty repast was served. Those who enjoyed Mrs. Clapp's hospitality were: Mmes. Clarence Van Graham, W. H. Hanscome, Fred Turner, Gertrude Smucker, W. A. Sipprell, Frank Fowler, W. O. Peck, Romain Angell, George Wallace, Charles Games, E. L. McCormick and H. B. Gurlie of San Diego.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Farrell were pleasantly surprised recently at their home on Alhambra road by a number of friends who helped them celebrate their seventh wedding anniversary. The guests brought appropriate games and delightful refreshments. The affair was cleverly arranged and a pleasant informal evening was spent by those present. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Holly Carlton, Mr. and Mrs. Rowland, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Sutton, Mrs. W. E. Moeller and the Misses Ruth Gibbons, Rea, Madeline and Georgia Moeller.

Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Moore entertained with a dinner party of six couples Thursday evening in honor of their twenty-eighth wedding anniversary. The evening was devoted to cards and music. Mr. and Mrs. Moore were the recipients of many beautiful and useful gifts.

Friday night the auditorium of the High School was filled to its uttermost capacity, when the Alhambra camp, Woodmen of the World, gave a most delightful musical. Miss Bessie Chapin, a concert violinist of note, and a pupil of Prof. Marteau, head of the Royal Conservatory of Berlin, rendered one of her most pleasant and difficult repertoires, which created a very favorable comment on her wonderful work. Assisting Miss Chapin were singers and Spanish dancers, who gave a most delightful programme of the music and folk dances of old Spain, which were met with hearty appreciation by those present. The occasion was an important social event, many prominent women of the city being patronesses. Among them were Mrs. H. H. Hammond, Mrs. Clarence Van Graham, Mrs. Frank Ogilvie Wood, Mrs. Ross Hickox, Mrs. C. A. Lovell, Mrs. R. T. Merchant, Mrs. Henry Skinner, Mrs. William Mead Orr, Mrs. Walter Campbell, Mrs. T. R. Owen, Mrs. I. C. Lewis, Miss Constance Lister and Miss Margie Halstead.

Mrs. F. L. Moore delightfully entertained the members of the Marguerite Sewing Club at her pretty home, No. 611 North Marguerita street, last Tuesday with a dainty 1 o'clock luncheon. The table was charmingly decorated with pink roses, covers being laid for twelve. Needlework and music was the diversion of the afternoon.

At the conclusion of their regular monthly meeting at the clubhouse recently the members of the Dos Robles Tennis Club were invited to the lovely home of Mrs. H. K. Collins on North Electric street, where they enjoyed a delicious tamale supper given in honor of the retiring secretary of the club, Maj. Hugh Collins.

Casa Verdugo-North Glendale.

SOCIETY has been enjoying a week of delightful informality and planning a series of affairs that are to mark the social calendar of the last of the month and the first part of February. It is whispered that one of the best known and best loved of the matrons is planning a sumptuous supper dance that will exceed in loveliness of appointment and detail any similar event that has delighted the gay smart set during the winter, and all are frankly on the qui vive for details of the event, which is to take place this month.

Among the charming social courtesies of the month none gave more pleasure than the entertainment provided by Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Grigsby at their home, No. 1236 West Thirty-ninth street, when their guests for the evening included Mr. and Mrs. Hardin H. Darnley, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hood, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Le Grand and Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Martin.

Quite the event of the week among the members of the younger social contingent was the party given on Thursday evening by Miss Harriett Green at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Ardmore Green. The house was exquisitely decorated in a color scheme of pink and green, carnations and Cecile Brunner roses, combined with quantities of feathery fern being used throughout the rooms. Supper was announced at 6:30 o'clock and the merry assemblage of guests found their places by means of cleverly-decorated cards all bearing some original verse suited to the individual guest. During the repast Miss Gladys Bowen sang a number of charming selections, graciously responding to the encores of her enthusiastic friends. At the conclusion of the elaborate menu the young folks spent the evening with songs and music, and the last couple of hours of the merry evening were given to dancing, for which excellent music was provided. About thirty guests from Pasadena, Los Angeles and Glendale attended the affair, which was one of the happiest of recent similar events on the social calendar of the younger set.

The home of Mrs. Edith P. Wilson was the scene of one of the most elaborate musicales of the month when, on Wednesday evening, a number of songs for which the words were written by Mr. Phil Felton of this city and set to music by Mrs. Jessie Alston were given their first hearing. Among the distinguished guests present were Mrs. Theda Overmeyer, Miss Viola Yorba, who sang the compositions delightfully, accompanied by Miss Janet Wilson at the piano, and Mr. Earl Watt, with the violin. All of the musicians gave other numbers most happily during the evening and the occasion was one of the most notable among the musical set of this section.

Gardena.

THE social section of the Woman's Club held a very delightful social evening in the clubrooms on Saturday evening of last week. Mrs. William Firmin and Miss Loretta Bathrick were the charming and ef-

BURNING ITCHING PIMPLES ON BACK

Of Shoulders and Neck. Large and Hard. Walked Floor Most of the Time. In Ten Days

HEALED BY CUTICURA SOAP AND OINTMENT

"My trouble began with pimples on the back of my shoulders and neck. I paid no attention to them until they began itching and when I rubbed them they would get sore and burn. The pimples were large and hard, and would peel off. The burning and itching were so bad that I walked the floor most of the time, and almost cried. I could not let my clothing touch me and I lost sleep because the pimples were so sore.

"I sent for a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and it helped so I bought more. It was about ten days before I was healed." (Signed) Miss E. M. Spinks, 1726 39th St., Denver, Colo., July 7, 1915.

ficient hostesses for the occasion. The first part of the evening was spent in playing five hundred, and later dancing was enjoyed. Dainty refreshments were served to the goodly number who had ventured out in the storm.

Mrs. H. F. Stanley of Point Firmin, was the guest of her cousins, the Mmes. C. V. Crellin and C. D. Holbrook of Magnolia street for a few days last week.

John Grant Blindbury was a business visitor in Santa Ana during the greater part of last week.

Mrs. R. S. Brown returned a week ago from an extended visit with her sister, Dr. M. E. Keyte of Nogales, Ariz. She reports conditions as being exceedingly unpleasant on account of the lawless acts of Mexican bandits. During her sojourn there a troop of Carranza's soldiers fired upon the United States troops, killing one of them.

Not the least of affairs held in Gardena was the installation and banquet of the local Masons, which was held Tuesday night in Bathrick's Hall. This was an open affair and was pleasurably participated in by the wives, families and sweethearts of the members. Dana Reed Weller of Los Angeles, Past Grand Master of the State of California, was the installing officer, and C. E. Spencer, inspector of this district, the master of ceremonies.

Montebello.

MISS SALLIE GALLOWAY was the charming hostess at a delightful dance given recently at her home on Washington avenue. A part of the evening's entertainment was three fancy dances by the Misses Newton of Los Angeles. Among those present were the Misses Wilda Rees, Jean Stokes, Francis Klingburg, Mae Hartly of Whittier, the Misses Newton of Los Angeles, Miss Elsie Savage of San Francisco, Mrs. Stella Orr of Los Angeles, the Misses Margaret Olds, Ruth Mulford, Elva Hichborn, Ethel McCrea, Charlotte Parker, the Messrs. H. M. Stanfield, Arthur Richards, Parcy Parker and Archie Malin of Montebello.

Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Hichborn recently entertained at a charming party in honor of Miss Elsie Savage of San Francisco. The evening was delightfully spent in dancing, cards and music, after which delectable refreshments were served. Those present besides the guest of honor were Dr. E. R. Brownson, Mr. J. Brownson of Los Angeles, Mr. Franklin Hichborn of Santa Clara, the Misses Carol Bird, Margaret Olds, Ruth Mulford, the Messrs. H. M. Stanfield and Arthur Richards.

Mr. W. H. Jerian of Montebello and Mrs. Clara E. Kane of Los Angeles were quietly married in Los Angeles Tuesday afternoon. On account of the floods the planned honeymoon to San Diego has been postponed. The couple are welcoming their friends at their home on Fifth street and Los Angeles avenue, in Montebello.

Dr. and Mrs. Henry Bogue and family of Los Angeles were week-end guests at the home of Mrs. Nellie Bogue.

La Crescenta.

A NUMBER of charming week-end parties have marked the social activity of the present week and the copious tears shed by nature have in no way interfered with the pleasures enjoyed by the busy social contingent. Notable among the week's activities was the entertainment offered to the members of the La Crescenta Club at the attractive home of Mrs. A. C. Cobb on New York avenue, on Thursday afternoon. The affair was one of the most largely attended of the month, and at the conclusion of the splendid programme offered a delicious buffet luncheon was enjoyed by the gay coterie of guests.

Happily domiciled at Hotel La Crescenta are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lee Woolwine of Los Angeles, who are accompanied by their children, Miss Elizabeth Woolwine and James Woolwine.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Brown of Los Angeles avenue are entertaining their son, Mr. Sidney Brown of San Francisco, who will spend some time with his parents and friends in this vicinity.

Accompanied by her little daughter, Dorothy Anne, Mrs. Harvey Bissel is again at home at attractive Hi-Np Ranch, where they are receiving a warm welcome on the part of their many friends.

Redlands.

REDLANDS society is all agog over the announcement that Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Burrage are really to spend the winter here again and that they have left their home in Boston for Redlands. For two or three winters they have planned to come to their beautiful home here, it being the most pretentious of those in the Heights section, but something has always prevented. Several days ago a retinue of servants arrived and they have been hard at work getting the winter home ready for opening. The Burrages left Boston on Thursday and are expected to arrive here the first of the week. Society is more than interested, for the Burrages are lavish entertainers and there is no doubt but there will be many affairs at the beautiful home to add to the gaiety of the season. The score of guestrooms in the house have been prepared and there is every indication that the family will entertain on a grand scale. The tennis courts, swimming pool and the polo grounds have also been prepared for the visit. The Burrages have not spent the winter in Redlands for about six years. Last year one of the sons died in Boston and this prevented them from coming.

The most interesting event of the week for local society did not take place in Redlands but at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Wetmore in Piedmont, the exclusive suburb of San Francisco. There the marriage of Miss Philena Wetmore and Herbert Hubbard, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Hubbard of the Terrace, took place on Tuesday evening. It was a beautiful ceremony and united two of the very wealthy families of the State. Wetmore is one of the big grape growers of the State and has immense business interests in San Francisco, being president of several big concerns. Mr. Hubbard is a retired mining man, the owner of a great amount of property here and president of the Citizens' National Bank. Herbert Hubbard has about seventy acres of oranges near Crafton, one of the finest groves in the south. Accompanied by his sister, Miss Mabel Hubbard, he drove to Oakland in a new automobile, a wedding present, last week. Mrs. Hubbard was prevented from going north on Monday for the wedding by the rains. The young people will be gone for some time on their honeymoon and when they return to Redlands will make their home on Bow C near the Country Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Ashel Cunningham and Prof. and Mrs. A. Harvey Collins attended the banquet of the Indiana University Alumni in Los Angeles. Mr. Cunningham, football coach at the university, was one of the star players for Indiana University a few years ago. Prof. Collins, registrar of the university and head of the history department, is also a graduate of the school.

Miss Emily Claflin of Brown's Mills in the Pines, (N. J.,) and Philadelphia, entertained a number of her Redlands friends at a musicale and tea at the Wissahickon Inn to meet her friends, Mrs. Howard Yeomans of Cleveland, O., Mrs. Edward Graham, Miss Charlottee Billings and Mrs. Shaw assisted Miss Claflin in serving. Miss Sallie Cutler delighted the audience with folk songs and Mrs. Shaw gave "Ninon" (Tolstoi.) The guests were Mrs. J. B. V. Prince, Brooklyn; Mrs. George Godfrey, Mrs. William Collinge, Mrs. E. Stauffen, Jr., Mrs. S. R. Hemingway, Mrs. George Wilder, Mrs. Nathan Cutler, Mrs. A. C. Cameron, Mrs. E. Mrs. Frederick Peters and daughter, Miss Elizabeth, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Kimberley at Kimberley Crest. Mrs. Kimberley is an aunt of Mrs. Peters.

The G.A.R. and the W.R.C. held a joint installation this week that was one of the most enjoyable affairs of the season. A birthday dinner was served in honor of Rev. Milo Smith, S. E. Field, J. G. Wood and William Rucher. Two immense birthday cakes, made by Mrs. Rucher, and decorated with flags, adorned the big tables. The room was decorated with flags for the affair.

Moneta.

MR. AND MRS. E. M. HICKS, Mr. J. D. Green and Mrs. Hamlir were delegates to the Southern California convention of Baptists held at Pasadena, from Monday to Thursday of a week ago.

Mrs. C. M. Daley, who has been visiting her father, Mr. B. Fanning, left Monday for her home in San Diego. The train was stalled at Santa Ana by the storm, and she stopped off with Mrs. Frank Long.

The "Baracas" of the Methodist Church were hosts to the "Philathea" girls at a taffy pull at the home of their Sunday-school teacher, Mr. P. P. Headrick of Western avenue boulevard on Thursday evening of last week. These youthful revelers enjoyed themselves immensely, pulling taffy, playing games and singing songs. About twenty-five were present.

The Cresslyn L. Tilleys of Olive street have been enjoying the past week visiting friends and relatives in and about Los Angeles.

Tropico.

COMPLIMENTING their house guest, Miss Constance Bower, of San Diego, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Litten entertained with a card party at their home, No. 721 Moore avenue, Saturday evening. Five hundred was enjoyed until a late hour when a midnight lunch was served. Mrs. Litten was graciously assisted by her mother, Mrs. E. C. Stevenson. Mrs. E. B. Hall scored for first prize and Mrs. Phelps captured the booby prize. The guests who thus honored Miss Bower were: Mr. and Mrs. J. Fox, Mrs. S. B. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. P. S. Fox, Dr. and Mrs. Phelps and Mrs. E. C. Stevenson.

Mrs. R. H. Hanna of Tennessee, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Earl V. Coleman of Blanche avenue, for several weeks, will leave shortly for Hollywood, where she will be the guest of her sister Mrs. J. F. Hood. "Frank" writes: "Please prescribe for me. I have fever and constant headaches, dizziness, my eyes are yellow and dull. I urinate often, but very little at a time, and it is of an offensive odor. I can't sleep and have pains in my back."

Answer: Your trouble is with your kidneys. You need something to liven them up and a tonic to make them strong. You will find just what you require in balmwort tablets. I always recommend them for diseases kidneys and they seldom fail to give excellent results.

"Rex" asks: "I cough constantly. How may I overcome this? Sometimes my throat and chest are sore and I have severe colds and hoarseness."

Answer: The best thing I can prescribe as a cough medicine and to drive the inflammation out of the system, is a simple syrup made of 2½ ozs. concentrated essence mentho-laxene and one pint of pure sugar syrup. This preparation taken regularly should break up a cough and cold and rid the system of inflammation. This is a most economical and effective cough and cold remedy for every member of the family.

"Friend" asks: "What can I take to clean my blood and make it pure? I am constipated and my complexion is bad."

Answer: Your system requires a good blood purifier and laxative. I always recommend three-grain sulpherb tablets (not sulphur.) They are laxative; aid digestion, and purify and tone the blood.

MUZZLING THE DOGS.

BY EUGENE BROWN.

Because I sometimes drive one of Henry Ford's road beetles the major accuses me of being a puny peace protagonist—whatever that is. I think he means a man who would rather run than fight; but he's a liar, anyhow.

I explained to the major that Henry believed in preparedness because he always gave away a tire pump and a monkey wrench with one of his tin cockroaches. The major admitted the truth of my assertion, but insisted that he didn't give much else with his gas wagon and, as related to the principle of preparedness, it was about the same as if Uncle Sam should equip a company of Boy Scouts with a safety razor.

That will give you a line on the major's general attitude. He developed a gruffness and a cocklebur mannerism while acting as chairman of the Alexangelus mahogany board of strategy, but at heart he is a man of peace. When tired of shaking the box we often discuss peace possibilities. The discussion grows into controversy—after the usual manner of peace conventions—and, after we have both exploded, the major goes home and conscientiously beats up his wife—not because he hates her, but to preserve his self-respect.

However, the major and I have at last evolved a peace platform that we can both stand upon—for the moment. We want the government to take out a peace insurance policy. Their charters permitting, there are half a dozen insurance companies, each with much more than a hundred million dollars of assets, that would be glad to issue peace policies to the nation for that amount. Under the terms of agreement the companies would have to furnish the fighting in the case of invasion, or pay any indemnity adjudged in case we are in the wrong.

As the major and I have it figured out there are a great many persons and interests in the world whose desires, ambitions, profits and reputations are improved by war. War means to them personal advancement or corporation prosperity. If these conditions were opened to them through peace rather than war they would welcome the change, for at heart they are the sunniest souls that ever scuttled a ship. It is easier to make the steel beam for a bridge than to weld a 42-centimeter gun, but there is more money in the creation of the ponderous machinery of death.

That is a part of the trouble.

In the chancellories of the world are whispered the names of a dozen or more financiers, manufacturers or warriors without whose tacit connivance war would be impossible—that is a real, enduring war.

Our plan is to combine these agencies of war into agencies of peace.

Gee! Isn't that simple?

The major and I would form them into the Amity Assurance Association for the purpose of guaranteeing peace to any nation—at a handsome premium. They would issue peace insurance policies to all countries at rates to be determined in joint conference of the parties at interest. The United States could afford to pay $100,000,000 a year for a full-term policy covering hazard of war. The peace association could have a nominal capital of $1,000,000,000, the stock to be prorated among the various war interests. For sentimental reasons the general offices of the company would be at The Hague. On its part the association would protect itself by policing the earth. It would have a standing army of 100,000 men to be appointed from the various countries subscribing. The men should be paid not less than $50 a month and there should be medals for deeds of heroism—especially in saving life. An efficient navy would be drawn from the different nations under the same plan and the vessels not taken would revert to their respective governments to be converted as far as possible into merchantmen, liners, hospital ships, tenders and the like. The peace association would invest its capital and assets in the securities and industries of the various civilized countries—encouraging the arts and agencies of peace rather than war. A supreme court of international arbitration should be maintained to pass upon boundary disputes, questions of indemnity, tariff controversies, differences arising in international commerce and certain matters touching national honor. The peace association should complete the judgments of this court to the extent of its power and responsibility.

In order to insure the permanence of our project the major and I have extended the idea a little. We would make the rulers of all the nations into an honorary board of directors of the big league. But they would be more than that. We would have them form a secret fraternity with authority to construct their own ritual and cermonials. It would be the supreme lodge of masters of the universe. They would meet once every year in one of the various capitals and be shown a good time. These annual gatherings of various orders and interests are great for developing the get-together spirit. Even the Democratic party has been able to fraternize in national convention. This supreme lodge of the rulers would be the best kind of peace insurance. If it was known that the next meeting would be in Paris and that King Alfonso was to be given the third degree there would be a gladsome turnout of the crowned boys. The good-natured controversies over the election of officers and the selec tion of the next convention city are matters of happy rivalry and joyous interest. Who wouldn't want to be Grand Geezer of the world or Supreme Skogi of the universe? Think of the mixed emotions of the work team in learning that they would have to put a heavyweight like Taft through the degrees at the next session!

The major and I have only given an outline of our plan, with a few of its ramifications. The details of it could easily be worked out by a commission of statesmen and diplomats in eight or ten years.

Meanwhile the major is developing a moving-picture scenario, which will thoroughly illustrate the idea. It will show how easily wars are caused—and cured. It will begin with the conversion of Col. DuPont by Billy Sunday and wind up with the installation of the Mikado as Grand Geezer of the world at the supreme lodge session in Constantinople.

And neither Bryan nor Henry Ford will be in it.

If the alarm clock doesn't go off we may be able to put it over.

BITS OF VERSE.

A Sea Lyric.

There is no music that man has heard,
  Like the voice of the minstrel sea,
Whose major and minor chords are fraught
  With infinite mystery—
For the sea is a harp, and the winds of God
  Play over his rhythmic breast,
And bear on the sweep of their mighty wings,
  The song of a vast unrest.

There is no passion that man has sung,
  Like the love of the deep-souled sea,
Whose tide responds to the moon's soft light
  With marvelous melody—
For the sea is a harp, and the winds of God
  Play over his rhythmic breast,
And bear on the sweep of their mighty wings
  The song of a vast unrest.

There is no sorrow that man has known,
  Like the grief of the wordless main,
Whose Titan bosom forever throbs
  With an untranslated pain—
For the sea is a harp, and the winds of God
  Play over his rhythmic breast,
And bear on the sweep of their mighty wings
  The song of a vast unrest.

THE UNCHLOROFORMED.

Louis Manz, veteran mail carrier of Wilmaukee, has retired from the service of Uncle Sam at the age of 80 years. He has been a Milwaukee carrier for fifty consecutive years, and claims to be the oldest carrier in point of service in the United States. During his half-century of service he estimates that he has walked 157,424 miles, or more than six times around the earth. Mr. Manz is a Civil War veteran and entered the postal service April 16, 1865.

Declaring that their longevity was due entirely to the fact that they had never used liquor or tobacco, Stephen and John Tunstall of Scranton, Pa., believed to be the oldest twins in the country, today celebrated their ninety-third birthday.

Sumner I. Kimball, general superintendent of the life-saving service, who retired on January 15 by provision of the law which merged the life-saving and revenue cutter services into the new coast guard, received a letter from President Wilson congratulating him on his service of more than fifty years in the cause of humanity. Mr. Kimball is known among mariners as the father of the life-saving service. He retires on three-quarters pay at the age of 81.

"A man is never too old to marry, and old men should marry young women," is the way D. D. Davis of Plymouth, N. C., puts it. Mr. Davis, who has been married three times and is the father of forty-one children, has taken as his fourth wife a 39-year-old woman.

ACTIVE WOMEN.

Queen Elizabeth of Belgium, holds a degree of Doctor of Medicine.

Mrs. George W. Lepp, wife of a prominent American living in Paris, has contributed 10,000,000 cigarettes and 240,000 pounds of tobacco to the smokers of the French army.

Miss Lyda B. Conley, who has just been admitted to practice before the United States Supreme Court, is the first Indian woman ever admitted to the bar of the highest court in the United States.

Miss Rose G. Murray is said to have the distinction of handling more books during a year than any other woman in the world. She is responsible for the physical health of the 10,000,000 or so books in all the New York City libraries.

Mrs. Alice Curtice Moyer-Wing, field secretary for the Missouri Equal Franchise Association, is planning to reach the remote sections of her State in the Ozark Mountains on horseback in her campaign for votes for women. Mrs. Wing is a native Missourian and has been one of the most ardent workers for suffrage in that State.

Mme. Juliette Adam, the famous French prophetess, who foretold the present war, now sees victory for the allies.

Thankful for Relief Remedy Brought Her.

Says Fruitola and Traxo Possesses All the Merit That Is Claimed for It.

Mrs. S. S. Cole

After completing the necessary treatment, Mrs. S. S. Cole, Lampasas, Texas, was so well pleased with the results that she wrote the Pinus laboratories as follows: "Fruitola and Traxo are all you claim. It removed a quantity of gall-stones and I feel sure it saved my life. I am well now and thankful to you for the great good your medicine has done me."

Fruitola is a powerful lubricant for the intestinal organs and one dose is usually sufficient to clearly demonstrate its efficacy. It softens the congested masses, disintegrates the hardened particles that occasion so much suffering and expels the accumulated waste to the great relief of the patient. Following a dose of Fruitola, Traxo should be taken three or four times a day in order to rebuild and restore the system that has become weakened and run down from constant suffering. It is a splendid tonic, acting on the liver and stomach most beneficially.

Fruitola and Traxo are prepared in the Pinus Laboratories at Monticello, Ill., and arrangements have been made to supply them through representative druggists. In Los Angeles they can be obtained at The Owl Drug Co.'s Stores.

Plans Violin Recital.

Of much interest to local followers of music will be the coming concert of Christiaan Timmner, a noted violinist of Holland, who has just settled in this city. This recital is to be given February 4 at Trinity Auditorium.

Mr. Timmner was educated in Amsterdam, Rotterdam, Brussels and Berlin, receiving instruction of such masters as Henri Wieniawski, Joseph Joachim and other famed European masters. He became concert master and assistant conductor of the Amsterdam Concertgeban Orchestra. He was concert master of that organization and co-artist with Eugene Ysaye in the rendition of the Bach Double Concerto.

His wife is a gifted violoncello virtuoso.

Matinee Musical Club.

Gloria Mayne Windsor greatly delighted her hearers with her unique and typical programme of American Indian songs, given Thursday afternoon before the Matinee Musical Club. The compositions were by Troyer, who has selected Mrs. Mayne Windsor as the exponent of his work before the public. They included the following Zuni Indian songs: "Sunrise Call" or "Echo Song;" "Coming of Montezuma," "Indian Fire Drill Song," "Zuni Lover's Wooing Song," "Invocation to the Sun God," "Hunting Song of the Cliff Dwellers." Mrs. Mayne Windsor also will have the Air of Lenore from "Le Tasse," by Godard, in French, and "Gli angui d'Inferno," from the "Magic Flute," in Italian. Theodore Gordohn, Mrs. Harry Underwood, Mrs. Fred Jungquist, Mrs. Roy Moore and John Putnam also were greatly enjoyed in musical selections. Mary Shaw, the noted actress, and Willard Newall were guests of honor and spoke on various phases of the drama, furnishing clever entertainment.

At the next programme, which will be under the direction of Mrs. William Whiley Johnson, a trio composed of Miss Mae Gates, violiniste; Miss Dana Bartlett, 'cellist, and Morten Mason, pianist, will play Mr. Mason's own compositions. Mrs. Adelema Trobben Lebegott will sing Mr. Edward Lebegott's three soprano songs. Three piano selections composed by Mr. Charles Pemberton are to be played by Miss Adelaide Stowbridge. Constance Balfour, the well known local singer, will give songs by Mrs. William Whiley Johnson, accompanied by the Gordohn Quintette.

Schubert Club.

At the next meeting of the Schubert Club, Wednesday, at the Hotel Alexandria, the programme "Finland and Her Music" will be presented. Miss Jeanette Birdsall will render a number of piano selections never before given in Los Angeles. Finnish songs will be given by Aurelia Wharry of Pasadena. A number of readings from the ancient epic, "The Kalevala," will be given by Mrs. Ella Bacon Balsley.

This week the club members enjoyed "Songs for Children," composed by Mrs. William Duffield and rendered by her in a very pleasing manner. Readings and stories for children were also given by Miss Berenice Jackson. A 'cello solo was offered by Miss Marjorie A. Carver, accompanied by Mrs. Howard.

Spanish Programme.

A Spanish programme was given by Bessie I. Chapin, violiniste, last Friday evening in the Alhambra High School auditorium. She was assisted by Nell Lockwood, in songs of Spain, and Norma Gould, dancer, and Sollie Heilbronner, accompanist.

Recital at Long Beach.

Mrs. Jane Catherwood appeared in recital at Long Beach last Thursday evening. She was assisted by Thomas Govan, baritone, and Venita Consigny MacLellan, accompanist. Mrs. Catherwood also sang a programme at the Hotel Green, Friday evening, and announces a series of three miniature programmes to be given at the twilight hour in the Blanchard Building, during February. Mrs. Jane Catherwood will hold her monthly reception and musicale at the Regent on Thursday evening. Among those to appear on the programme are Theodore Gordohn's Quintette, Elsa Cross, pianiste; Miss Helen T. Nappe, soprano, and Thomas Govan, baritone.

Opera Programme.

Ray Hastings, organist of Temple Baptist Church, will give a special recital of opera selections this evening at 7 o'clock. Following is the programme: Prelude to "Faust" (Gounod,) song of the Sacristan, "Tosca" (Puccini;) Prelude to "La Traviata" (Verdi,) Gavotte, "Mignon" (Thomas;) intermezzo, "Cavalleria Rusticana" (Mascagni;) Grand Fantasia, "Carmen" (Bizet.)

Lecture on "Lucia."

Dr. Clement Burbank Shaw will present a lecture on "Lucia de Lammermoor" next Friday evening in Symphony Hall, Blanchard Building. The analysis will be illustrated by records of the best vocal artists. Thomas Askin, baritone, and other soloists, assisted by Miss Ethel Summe of Chicago, at the piano, will assist.

Since she became clerk in the Probate Court at Topeka, Kan., Mrs. Mary Chapin has officiated at forty weddings and substituted "protect" for "obey" in the marriage ceremonies she performs.

Skirticoat.

Just from New York—and, yes, just to it—is that extremely novel garment which I shall call the skirticoat. It is coat and skirt combined, and yet, to look at it, you would declare it to be a regulation suit, one garment checked in black and white, the other all black. Cleverly and insidiously are these garments joined in a secret wedlock. Only visible when your attention is especially attracted is the welding of the two.

Advance Styles.

In the suit and dress department of one of the stores on upper Broadway I was shown some of the advance modes of spring, which had just arrived. One particularly attractive dress was of dark blue taffeta and chiffon, the characteristic feature being the upstanding collar, which had the effect of a small circular cape around the shoulders. In fact, the cape has broken out in many of the gowns as well as in coats and cloaks. Taffeta in dark and reasonable shades appears in many of the newest garments. A suit of black pliant taffeta was distinguished by a novel jacket in medium length, the fastening down the front being really no fastening at all, the buttons usually expected being absent and the fullness falling from the bust being confined by a sash with metallic ornaments. Nearly all skirts were extremely full and in many cases they were in several tiers either ruffled or puffed one flounce upon another. Some are heavily corded to add to the bouffancy and others there were which actually wore hoops. However, the hoop skirt, so long declared imminent, has not actually made its onslaught.

Becomingness and style are indispensable nowadays for motor coats.

Lots of dresses show the new bustle feature in the shape of bouffant draperies.

The prettiest sporting suits for the southern season are of velveteen in pastel colors.

Overcollars of white silk or dove-gray broadcloth are seen in some of the many serge suits.

White flannel is novel and delightful for a morning dress intended to wear in the South.

A pretty white sport suit has a deep border, cuffs and shawl collar of rose-colored corduroy.

Still the saucy little turbans and toques come. They are seen now among the spring models.

Effective corsage bouquets are made of velvet roses with black net leaves, edged with chenille.

ACTIVE WOMEN.

Miss Adele M. Stewart of the office of the Comptroller of the Currency at Washington, is a woman for whom problems in finance have no terrors. She has been 22 years in the service, and studied law at night in order to fit herself for her work. Her knowledge of banking and experience in handling difficult situations have done their share many a time in setting upon its feet more than one banking institution which has been tottering perilously near the brink.

Miss Margaret Wilson, daughter of President Wilson, presided at the recent meeting in Washington of the American Civic Association. The social center movement she described as a plan to make each school building the meeting and voting place of citizens associated in one nonpartisan nonexclusive organization to promote in direct ways the life and happiness of the neighborhood. The idea that it was proposed to make the schools social centers for public amusement, she said, was a misconception.

Prof. Emily G. Balch of Wellesley College told the American Sociological Society that one of the effects of war on the status of women would be to make them "a drug on the market." "It may be that in more primitive times," she said, "that such a situation would be a cause of polygamy. In our day it will mean a vast overplus of women. A second and conflicting effect is that women, being more necessary, become more important instead of less. A third effect will be a great increase of unmarried women. Another result is that there is forming under our eyes a new sex—international."

Miss Pressley Smith, organizer of the National Union for Suffrage of Edinburgh, Scotland, has been appointed assistant secretary in the British Legation at Christiania, Norway. This is the first time in history that a woman has been appointed in the diplomatic service of Britain.

Mrs. Timothy T. Lew, who has received the degree of master of arts from the teachers' college of Columbia University, is a well-known Chinese educator, who was sent to Columbia by the Chinese government. She possesses eight diplomas and degrees from American institutions of learning. She is shortly to return to China, where she will have supervision over the kindergartens of five provinces.

G. G. Torbert of Milton, Del., recently presented for payment a check that he had kept in his possession since July, 1901. He explained to the bank that he had never needed the money and was therefore in no hurry to get it.

Hair Often Ruined By Washing With Soap

Soap should be used very carefully, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is just ordinary mulsified cocoanut oil (which is pure and greaseless,) and is better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoonfuls will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil at any pharmacy, it's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.

THE HELPING HAND.

"How far that little candle throws his beams!
So shines a good deed in a naughty world."

Americans in Switzerland have contributed $6000 for the erection of three homes for the Swiss soldiers who are guarding the long boundary line under rigorous mountain conditions. The homes are adaptable to be moved as the needs of the soldiers may require. The first home was named George Washington, the second Abraham Lincoln, and the third Woodrow Wilson. The last named will bear the following inscription written by the President:

"This home was erected by citizens of the United States as an evidence of their admiration for the Swiss republic, of their gratitude for its hospitality and protection and of cordial and sincere friendship which has always existed between that ancient republic and government, and the people of the United States of America, a friendship based upon common principles of life, common ideals and common aspirations."

James B. Duke and George W. Watts of Durham, N. C., have pledged a total of $78,000 toward the support of the superannuated clergymen of the South. Mr. Duke's pledge of $10,000 goes to the Methodist clergymen.

The gift of Mr. Watts amounts to $68,000 and goes to benefit the Presbyterians of the South. It is pledged on the basis that the southern Presbyterians subscribe double that amount for their clergymen who are too old to fill pulpits.

Dr. Henry H. Sweets, Louisville, Ky., secretary of the board, reports that plans already made assure the fulfillment of the terms. The additional money will swell the fund to $536,000. This is next to the largest gift ever made for superannuated preachers of any denomination in the South, the late H. T. Inman of Atlanta having contributed $100,000 about six years ago.

As a New Year's gift to the destitute in Belgium, and Northern France, the Rockefeller foundation contributed $200,000. The investigation made revealed the need of shoes and clothing for more than 3,000,000 persons in the war-stricken countries. The boys in Belgium and Northern France need 100,000 pair of shoes, 400,000 shirts, 200,000 jerseys or sweaters, 200,000 combination or union suits, 200,000 pairs of trousers, 200,000 coats, 100,000 capes or overcoats, 400,000 pairs of woolen stockings and 100,000 hats or caps.

The commission says there is a crying need for more than 100,000 blankets.

John Marriage, wealthy, and owner of the Eagle Canyon ranch in Kiowa county, Southwestern Kansas, has announced his intention to make his ranch a national home for boys where they can develop themselves into useful citizens. The ranch contains 6000 acres of good agricultural and grazing land. Marriage plans to place needy, deserving youths under the tutelage of competent instructors that they may learn any kind of trade desired.

For years Marriage has been anxious to provide an institution for the boys of the present day that was lacking when he was a youth. It was because of the many reversals that beset his path when he was a boy and a young man, and which he overcame by persistent effort, that he decided to aid young men.

Marriage's plans, when materialized, will make the Kansas ranch an institution of learning. New buildings, in which the boys can study the different trades, will be erected and some twelve or more instructors will be engaged.

Cattle raising and farming will be in the forefront, as Marriage possesses some fine cattle. He has erected a brick school building for the use of the children of the men and women he employs on his ranch. Last winter this school had an enrollment of thirty-two.

About seventeen years ago Marriage went from Iowa to Kansas with about $25,000, which he had earned and saved. He invested it in land, began raising cattle and bought more land from time to time until he owned the 6000 acres. A few years ago he erected a four-story house containing thirty-two rooms, because, he said, he believed some day he would have it full of boys who were looking for a start in life.

Every man, woman, boy and girl in the employ of the John B. Stetson Company of Philadelphia, received a cash bonus at the distribution of Christmas gifts by the company, in the vast auditorium at its factory.

It was the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the business by John B. Stetson, the eighteenth year in which gifts were distributed among the employees, and the first year in which every person on the company's pay roll received some recognition in cash for his or her services. Other presents given to the employees were twenty-one tons of turkeys, forty-eight gold watches, fifty chains, a $5000 life insurance policy and shares of stock in the Stetson Company, and in its building and loan association.

The will of the late John F. Fournier of Southampton, L. I., bequeaths the bulk of his estate, valued at about $30,000, to the Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church, of No. 156 Fifth avenue, Manhattan, the New York City society of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and the Society of Inner Mission and Rescue Work, of No. 74 Broadway, Manhattan.

Mr. Fournier requested that the bequest to the Board of Foreign Missions be used in evangelization work in China, Japan and India, and the bequest to the New York society of the Methodist Episcopal Church for the purpose of aiding those suffering from public calamity, such as fire, shipwreck or floods.

MEN AND EVENTS.

Mr. C. C. Conway, vice-president of a Boston (Mass.) piano house, has received from Ferdinand Dumontier, a young Belgian in the trenches of Northern France, a ring made of aluminum from a German shell. In it are embodied the tricolors of Belgium. The yellow is copper, also taken from a shell; ebonite from a discarded wireless outfit furnished the black, while the red, which is fiber, also was from the wireless apparatus. Two weeks were devoted to making the ring. The friendship between Conway and the Belgian began three years ago when Mr. Conway met three young Belgians at the exposition at Brussels. Dumontier has been in the trenches since last March.

Montgomery, Ga., doctors are puzzled over the phenomenal growth of Harry Connelly, a 14-year-old boy. Harry's longitude is 6 feet 5 inches and he weighs 200 pounds. For three months his growth has been so rapid that he has outgrown a suit of clothes every week. He was a slender boy of normal size when he suddenly started to become a beanstalk.

The 4-year-old twins of Postmaster Waugh of Ewing, Neb., were visiting in the country seventeen miles from home. When their visit was ended the postmaster phoned for their return by parcel post, and in that way they were brought safely home. The twins weigh thirty-seven and thirty-eight pounds, respectively, and their safe transit home cost the trifling sums of only 23 and 24 cents on each, a total of 47 cents.

John Ross Stuart, a New York man, was sued in the Supreme Court for divorce. His wife in her petition alleged that since their marriage in 1911 her husband has been "uniformly unkind and cruel." One of the charges of cruelty is that he insisted on having a red-haired child.

Mrs. Anna Shriver of St. Louis had black hair. She wanted auburn. She dyed her hair, then she died. Lead poisoning, said the Coroner.

The flower expert at the experimental green house of the Agricultural Department has brought into being a new flower, baptized the "Edith Bolling Pink." The carnation blends white and deepest pink and has a delightful fragrance.

RECIPE to STOP DANDRUFF

This Home Made Mixture Stops Dandruff and Falling Hair and Aids Its Growth.

To a half pint of water add:
Bay Rum ....1 oz.
Barbo Compound ....a small box
Glycerine ....1-4 oz.

These are all simple ingredients that you can buy from any druggist at very little cost, and mix them yourself. Apply to the scalp once a day for two weeks, then once every other week until all the mixture is used. A half pint should be enough to rid the head of dandruff and kill the dandruff germs. It stops the hair from falling out and relieves itching and scalp diseases.

Although it is not dye, it acts upon the hair roots and will darken streaked, faded, gray hair in ten or fifteen days. It promotes the growth of the hair and makes harsh hair soft and glossy.

To Keep Skin in Fine Condition in Winter

It would be much better for the skin if little cream, powder or rouge were used during the winter term. These things which clog the pores, tend to aid wind and weather in roughening and coarsening the skin. Ordinary mercolized wax will do more for the complexion, and without encouraging the skin to chap, crack or become harsh and leathery. It is the ideal application for the season, as it not only keeps the pores clean, but daily removes particles of scarf skin which have been spoiled by winds or temperature. By constantly keeping the complexion clear, white and soft, it does more toward perpetuating a youthful countenance than any of the arts or artifices commonly employed. One ounce of mercolized wax, obtainable at any drug store, will completely renovate the worst complexion. It is applied at night like cold cream and washed off in the morning.

To keep the skin from wrinkling, or to overcome such condition, there's nothing better than a face bath made by dissolving 1 ounce of powdered saxolite in ½ pint witch hazel.

TODAY'S BEAUTY TALK.

You can make a delightful shampoo with very little effort and for a very trifling cost if you get from your druggist a package of canthrox and dissolve a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water. Your shampoo is now ready. Just pour a little at a time on the scalp and rub briskly. This creates an abundance of thick, white lather that thoroughly dissolves and removes all dandruff, excess oil and dirt. After rinsing, the hair dries quickly, with a fluffiness that makes it seem heavier than it is, and takes on a rich luster and a softness that make arranging it a pleasure.

Easy Way to Keep Your Hair in Curl.

If you have trouble keeping your hair in curl, you'll do well to try plain liquid silmerine. Apply a little at night with a clean tooth brush, drawing this down the full length of the hair from root to tip. The hair will dry in the prettiest waves and curls that you can arrange, and the effect will appear altogether natural. Instead of that dull, dried-out look which the heated iron gives, the hair will be bright, lustrous and beautiful.

Liquid silmerine is of course perfectly harmless to hair and scalp, and is neither greasy nor gummy. If you will get a few ounces from your druggist you will find it quite inexpensive to use.

DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

Look Young; Gray Hair Changed to an Even Dark Shade by Q-Ban—No Dye.

Do this: Apply like a shampoo Q-Ban Hair Color Restorer to hair and scalp, and dry hair in sunlight. A few applications like this turn all your gray, faded, dry or gray-streaked hair to an even beautiful dark shade. Q-Ban also makes scalp and entire head of hair healthy, so hair is left soft, fluffy, lustrous, wavy, thick, charming and fascinating, without even a trace of gray hair showing, making you look young again. Insist on having Q-Ban, as it is harmless—no dye—but guaranteed to darken gray hair or money returned. Ask for Q-Ban Hair Color Restorer. Only 50 cents for a big 7-oz. bottle at McKay & Monkman Drug Stores, Los Angeles, Cal. Out-of-town folks supplied by mail.—[Advertisement.

Simple Way to End Dandruff

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need,) apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

MEN AND EVENTS.

"Billy" Sunday has just completed a seven weeks' evangelistic campaign in Syracuse, N. Y., for which he received $23,155. In his last seven campaigns, which include Syracuse, Omaha, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Scranton, Wilkesbarre and Columbus, O., the number of "trail hitters" is given as 153,428, and the money paid Sunday $204,241.

It wasn't until last January that news of the war filtered through to trappers in the South Indian Lake district, 250 miles northwest of Fort Churchill, Can. Now S. P. Clenaghan has arrived at Edmonton, Alberta, from that timbered country, and enlisted for service with the allies. He was more than two months making the journey on foot.

A dollar day sale has just been held in Massillon, O., and one of the features was the offer of a justice of the peace to marry all couples for $1. Among those to take advantage of this offer was Peter Zorgare, a Civil War veteran, aged 72, and Miss Verdi Kittinger, aged 27.

To walk from a Northern Canadian town to New York State, 250 miles, with his 10-months-old child on his back, was the remarkable experience of Joseph Danzko, who arrived in South Bethelem, Pa., from the metropolis last week. The man recently buried his wife and started out for South Bethlehem to find work, minus funds for railroad fare. He carried the child Indian style, walking to Suspension Bridge, N. Y., where he got aid and came by train. In his long journey afoot the man gave the child all necessary attention and sustained its life by feeding it with crackers and water.

Petro di Pedro, 20, No. 496 Fulton street, Syracuse, N. Y., student at Prescott night school, was sitting languidly on his desk towards the close of school last night, putting on a new pair of gloves he had just bought. Principal Tilroe, who was standing near him, noticed the gloves were unusually large.

"You have exceedingly large hands, Petro," said Mr. Tilroe.

"Oh, that's nothing. I have got six fingers on each hand and six toes on each foot. See, my shoes have patches for my extra little toes and I have gloves made with an extra little finger in them."

The extra fingers and toes are well formed and Petro is most dextrous. He is the best penman in his class. He is an employee of the Syracuse Lighting Company and can do more stunts with wires than the most expert lineman.

"I'm glad I've got those fingers," he said. "I can do lots of things other people can't do and I believe those extra little toes enable me to walk better."

OVER THE SEA.

Sir John A. Simon, British Secretary of State for Home Affairs, whose voluntary retirement is announced, has enjoyed a rapid and brilliant career after a remarkable success at the bar. He entered Parliament in 1906 and joined the ministry first as Solicitor-General and afterward as Attorney-General. When the coalition government was formed last May he refused the great prize of the post of Lord High Chancellor, made vacant by Viscount Haldane's retirement, because he preferred a political career and became a home secretary.

Gov. Hattori of Hyogo Prefecture, who was among those awarded honors at the coronation of the Emperor of Japan, has held his post since 1900, a unique distinction among his gubernatorial confreres. The happy relations which he enjoys with all official and private classes in Hyogo Prefecture have caused him to repeatedly decline offers of promotion, by which he might have held a seat in the Cabinet and exercised diplomatic abilities in higher and more stormy spheres. He was born in 1851 and is a graduate of an American college, Rutgers, from which he received the degree in the seventies of bachelor of commerce. He was nominated a membr of the House of Peers in 1903.

Camille de Coppet, the newly-elected President of Switzerland, is a former Minister of Justice, and until his election was Vice-President of the Swiss republic. He comes from the French canton. His predecessor, Dr. Giuseppe Motta, came from an Italian canton, while Dr. Motta's predecessor was from a German canton, thus making a steady succession of presidents from the German, Italian and French elements in the community.

The Dowager Countess of Minto, reported engaged to Earl Kitchener of Khartoum, has been a widow for almost two years, her husband, the late Earl of Minto, having died on February 28, 1914. He was Viceroy of India in succession to Lord Curzon of Kedleston. Earl Minto went to India from Canada, where he was Governor-General for six years. The Countess of Minto is the daughter of the late Gen. Charles Grey, and a first cousin of the present Earl Grey. She is considered one of the most talented noblewomen in England, and in her younger days was famous for her beauty. She has five children, the eldest born in 1884.

Premier Radoslavoff, said to be the real power behind the Bulgarian throne, is described as a quiet, thoughtful man, who long ago became convinced that Bulgaria could become a power through Bulgaria alone, and he has remained true to this conviction for more than thirty years. He is a north Bulgarian and was born at Lovatz in 1854. He first attended school in Bohemia and finally studied law at Heidelberg and Vienna. Upon his return home he became a judge. at the age of 30 Radslavoff was chosen Minister of Justice under the premiership of Karaveloff. Within two years after the defeat which his country sustained in the second Balkan war, Bulgaria again raised her head under the statesmanship of Radoslavoff and took her place among the nations. To an embittered people he restored self-respect, and he awakened in them new powers of regeneration.

"IN THE SPIRIT OF THE TIMES."

BY JAMES W. FOLEY.

Congress, after Walt Whitman.

Now beginneth again the Session.
With oratory.
Its multitude of Patriots crying to the galleries.
Its endless speech and voluminous Record.
Its Congressmen, chafing to destroy the enemies of the Nation with eloquent phrases.
Its Senators, long haired and short haired, full of dignified expression and suppression.
Its packages of garden seeds, clogging the mails of the land with potential radishes.
Its franked speeches kindling a million kitchen fires in the rural districts.
Its Bills swarming like locusts.
Its tender sympathy for the Common People.
Welkin-ringing the Oratory—wonderful, patriotic, torrential, majestic.
Days upon Days.
Weeks upon Weeks.
Months upon Months.
Congressmen and Senators, statesmen all, saving the land in the time of its Trial.
Saving to themselves also the Postoffices.
So it shall go on through the Winter and into the Spring.
Then the delegates.
The Conventions.
The Campaign.
Theodore charging up and down and crosswise, leaving a trail of blood and splinters of bone.
Woodrow delighting the Academicians with pure English.
William J. B. with the Iron Cross and the Cross of Gold and the Double Cross, seeking to affix the latter Cross to Woodrow.
Then the Election.
Salt Creek thronged with innumerable crafts.
The Faithful hungry for loaves and fishes.
The Country saved again to the Common People.
And the Humble Taxpayer,
Laboring in the Fields,
Trading in the Marts,
Sticking Revenue Stamps,
Clogging his system with glue,
After all the Real Savior of the Republic!

The Philosopher.

Along the ways of argyment he sort o' liked to roam,
But always b'lieved in keepin' Heaven purity nigh to home!

The Interrupted Prayer.

I sat in my pew
And he sat just in front;
Where I laid down my hat
Underneath, as my wont;
And when he knelt to pray,
My heart went pit-a-pat,
For his two feet someway
He had thrust in my hat.

When I laid my hat there
It was not in my mind
That he might somehow kneel
With both feet straight behind;
But he did, as I say,
I saw sole, heel and spat,
When he knelt down to pray
With both feet in my hat.

I am prayerful myself,
I am that way inclined,
But to things of the flesh
I can hardly be blind,
And the prayer in my book
Grew somehow stale and flat
When I happened to look
At his feet in my hat.

'Twas a stylish new hat
That I kept with much care,
It was edged 'round with silk
And it gave me an air
Of distinction and dash,
And I thought as I sat
That it cost too much cash
To have feet in my hat.

And the Rector intoned
Things I needed to hear,
But I sat there and groaned
With an unheeding ear,
For, say, how can a prayer
Be but idle and flat
When a sinner's in front
With his feet in your hat.

And the prayer said: "Now, Lord,
Guide our footsteps aright."
To which I could subscribe
With the whole of my might,
So I added a clause
That I deemed to be pat:
"Please, Lord, will you guide
His feet out of my hat?"

And I knew for the truth
That you miss half the power
Of the finest of prayer,
Of its richness and dower,
And the Rector's appeal
Seems both idle and flat
When a sinner's in front
With his feet in your hat.

A Thought for Today.

That the world may be a little brighter because I have put into it today some simple friendliness, cheerful effort and kindly sympathy.

BITS OF VERSE.

The Purpose of Life.

Courage, brave soul! the ledgy pathway yonder,
O'er windy slopes, will lead to meadows sweet;
Turn not aside, nor let thy glances wander
To find a smoother turfage for thy feet.

True to thine aim, still journey on undaunted,
Led by the stars that beckon overhead:
With mind intent, thy footsteps, firmly planted,
Shall crush to even line the stones they tread.

The birds that circle o'er the sedgy hollows,
The coming tides, that backward sweep and roll,
Each has its purpose, and in wisdom follows
The devious ways that bring it to its goal.

Theirs to renew the quest with every morning,
But thine to mount serener heights than they;
To seek the truth, all baser pleasures scorning,
Holding thy course where honor points the way.

Nor rest thee there; the gain is won for others;
Thy firmer poise must steady those who fall;
To higher levels lift thy weaker brothers;
God gave thy powers because He needs them all.

THE RELIGIOUS RAMBLER.

"Big Business" of Religion the Theme at Garden City—All [illegible] tions and Religions of North America Represented in [illegible] ference of Experts—They Have Charted the Earth—[illegible] the Fields Occupied and Unoccupied by the Churches.

MORE significant and comprehensive than any other religious gathering which assembles on this continent is the annual "foreign missions conference of North America," which met last week in Garden City, Long Island. It stands for the "big business" of religion, since the various denominations are represented by outstanding leaders who come from all over the continent; and the work they consider covers literally the whole earth.

The most impressive meeting of the conference was one held to consider, with the help of a great map of the Eastern Hemisphere, "the unoccupied fields of the non-Christian world." Dr. Charles R. Watson of Philadelphia was in charge of this, and Dr. Robert E. Speer of New York was the principal speaker, although addresses were made also by men representing Turkey, India, Africa, China, Korea and South America. One entire evening was devoted to the Pan-American conference, to be held next month in Panama.

The experts upon foreign missions of all churches are sent to this conference, which exerts a large influence upon the policies of all the denominations. It considers a great range of subjects, from the preparation of a special cable code for this largest of all international operations to the providing for the spiritual needs of the Anglo-American communities "east of Suez."

"Where the best is like the worst,
And there ain't no Ten Commandments,
And a man can raise a thirst."

It has introduced a scientific scheme of preparation for missionary workers, and, at the other end, it considers homes and pensions for retired missionaries.

HARD HIT BY THE WAR.

Drastic effects of the war have been felt in the world's out of the way places, as this conference reported. Perhaps the religious representatives of the Teutonic powers have been hardest hit, for their missionaries in India and Africa have been obliged to quit and return home. Similarly, missionaries of the allied nations in the Ottoman empire have been sent out of the country.

In all these cases the fellow-missionaries of the "enemy nations" have proved the reality of the religious tie by rallying to the help of the missions which have lost their leaders and their income. Even more notably have the American missions had to bear the added burden of the work of repatriated missionaries. The need for this has been one reason for the increased contributions of the American churches to the cause of missions. Nearly all the boards report their best year's receipts.

While from Germany comes news of foreign mission gifts from soldiers in the trenches, yet German missions have, broadly speaking, been put out of business. The Lutheran churches in America have assumed large responsibility for continuing the German enterprises. After the war, it was said, German missions in British possessions will have to be staffed by Americans. The famous London Missionary Society has been forced, by a deficit of $125,000, to close out its great mission at Calcutta.

BATTLES BOOST THE BIBLE.

One entire session of the conference was given over to missions and the war. Because of the [illegible] nature of the relations [illegible] leaders of united [illegible] North America and the [illegible] warring nations, most of the [illegible] and thrilling statements [illegible] subject at Garden City [illegible] quoted. America will be [illegible] learn, after the war, of the [illegible] country has had in impartial [illegible] to the spiritual needs of the [illegible] of all the nations engaged [illegible] war, and of the persistence of [illegible] national Christians' relations [illegible] of the political cleavages.

Straws which tell the [illegible] things are the statements [illegible] thoritatively at Garden City that [illegible] circulation of Bibles in Germany [illegible] ing the past year has jumped [illegible] 1,500,000 to 3,000,000 copies. [illegible] larly, the British report [illegible] precedented demand for the [illegible] tures, and say that nearly every [illegible] dier carries with him a khaki-[illegible] New Testament. As for the Am[illegible] Bible Society, it has broken [illegible] records.

Forty-three thousand copies of [illegible] of John R. Mott's religious [illegible] have during the past year been [illegible] ed in German and sent to the tr[illegible] to meet the demands of [illegible] men for religious literature.

One of the touching addresses [illegible] the conference was by a Belgian [illegible] pressing sympathy for the [illegible] the German missions. As for [illegible] own nation, "Don't pity us; pity [illegible] selves. For you have only [illegible] rich out of the war," meaning [illegible] Americans are missing the [illegible] lessons which adversity is [illegible] the European nations.

NEW TRENDS IN MISSIONS.

A vigorous debate occupied one [illegible] sion at the Garden City conference over the proposal to incorporate [illegible] organization and to centralize [illegible] trol. The tendency to unification [illegible] the work of all the churches [illegible] clearer exemplification than the [illegible] ing importance and power of this [illegible] ference. A few years ago it was [illegible] ly a conference with no au[illegible] Now it maintains in New York [illegible] ternational, interdenominational [illegible] sionary headquarters, with the [illegible] est missionary library in the [illegible] It is setting out to gather [illegible] quinquennially. It spends every [illegible] $70,000, most of which sum is [illegible] tributed by the Rockefeller fund [illegible] er debate, and a modification [illegible] plan, designed to prevent con[illegible] tion of power, and to safeguard [illegible] representation of all the denomina[illegible] tions, the new form of organization was adopted.

Women were present in [illegible] numbers this year, and while [illegible] took little part in the discussion [illegible] is recognized that they are [illegible] a place of larger importance in [illegible] general missionary councils.

The World's Sunday-school [illegible] tion was also related more [illegible] ly to the foreign mission boards [illegible] conference selecting twelve of [illegible] thirty-six members of the [illegible] body, six members being [illegible] the Sunday-school Council [illegible] nominations.

Considering that something [illegible] than $18,000,000 is spent annually [illegible] these boards of foreign missions [illegible] that they direct the work of [illegible] than ten thousand representatives [illegible] non-Christian lands, the conference [illegible] likely to occupy a place of increasing magnitude in the minds of the [illegible] can churches.

Life.

Life is a gift to be used every day,
Not to be smothered and hidden away;
It isn't a thing to be stored in the chest
Where you gather your keepsakes and treasure your best;
It isn't a joy to be sipped now and then
And promptly put back in a dark place again.

Life is a gift that the humblest may boast of
And one that the humblest may well make the most of.
Get out and live in each hour of the day
Wear it and use it, as much as you may;
Don't keep it in niches and corners and grooves,
You'll find that in service its beauty improves.

Higher Up.

Higher up tomorrow, farther on today;
The potter's wheel is turning, and we are clay.
Perfection drawing nearer, loveliness in time.
No rifts within the lute and no roughness in the rhyme.

On every stair of suffering a little nearer God;
On every age of torture more light within the clod;
New roads through barren spaces, new routes o'er unknown seas;
No discord in the measure, no broken harmonies.

Not this day or the next one, or many yet to rise,
But every day a braver, bright beauty in the skies,
And every hour some progress, and every age some flight
To that supreme perfection of mortal love and light.

Live in the Work.

We must live in our work, to do it well;
We must dwell in its spirit and bow to its spell;
We must love it and know it to make it count,
We must feel it and trust it before we mount;
We must get from it comfort and pleasure and rest,
We must live in our work if we'd do it the best.

And, ah, there is something to gain from it all—
In spite of the shadows and sorrows that fall;
Something of beauty and cheer and content
Out of the struggle, if over it bent
We live in it largely and draw from its heat
The joy and the gladness, the fervor and sweet.

We must live in our work, we must know what it means
To give our whole souls to it—whether it's jeans
Or velvets or satins in which we must toil,
Whether the shop or the mill or the soil,
Whether the green country lane or the mart—
We do the work best when we give it our heart.

might be worth listening to if they what they were talking. But they (Remember? David Starr Jordan the Chautauqua crowds back in 1913. "There will never be another big war. The nations in Europe are wasting money in building armament. The bankers will never let them go to war." And unabashed by the war in Europe, this great authority on fish goes right on arguing that this is the last war, and it would be folly for the United States to "waste" money in guns that he—already many times a forsworn prophet—knows will never have occasion to use.)

They don't know the difference between preparedness and militarism. They don't even know what constitutes preparedness. (Remember? While Bryan was Secretary of State he said: "If a national danger arises, the President will call for a million volunteers at sunrise and by sundown the call will be answered.")

They don't know the first thing about the military history of the United States. Perhaps they've read school text-books and learned that the Yankee patriot left the plow in the furrow, reached his trusty rifle down from over the fireplace, and went out to lick the overwhelming hordes of the dastardly and confident enemy. (Remember? About a year ago Mr. Carnegie, whose $10,000,000 peace endowment fund, liberally distributed, is furnishing inspiration to many pacifists, said: "The invader would be met by a million farmers with shotguns and driven out of the land.")

Pacifists—these anti-preparedists—don't know that during the Revolutionary War "patriots" were given bounties to enlist. The same in the war of 1812; that both bounties and conscription were used in the Civil War; and that in every war but one, those with organized Indian tribes included, the United States has had to put from about 25 to 200 per cent. more troops in the field than the enemy; that we have never fought but one first-class power, and then both times Great Britain had her hands full of trouble in Europe. We didn't win the war of 1812, but had our national Capitol burned and luckily got off with the Treaty of Ghent, which was merely an agreement to quit fighting—and we were mighty glad to get it.

Comes now Frederic Louis Huidekoper with a big book stuffed with facts, and every fact verified, exposing the record of military shame, incompetence and bungling that extends from the war of the revolution to the present hour. Our soldiers have been brave—except once in a while the militia ran away, the regulars never—our generals have been capable. But Congress has ever been parsimonious, and refused, not only adequately to prepare, but to give aid generously to armies taking the field.

Pacifists will say that it is all irrelevant; that with "love" we can overcome all our enemies; which Mr. Huidekoper shows in "The Military Unpreparedness of the United States" (The Macmillan Company) is about the only way we could overcome them. Certainly at the present time we have little else to do it with. On December 8 of last year, 1915, the chief of coast artillery confessed to the House Committee on Military Affairs (quoted by Mr. Huidekoper) that we have so little ammunition that the guns of the fortifications of the United States would expend every bit of ammunition in forty-five minutes. And the way war is fought these days guns are fired the limit of their capacity for weeks at a time—yes, for months. We have but four machine guns to each regiment. The French have found it necessary to have forty.

Congress has appropriated millions for the "pork barrel" at every session; but during the whole history of the United States has appropriated for military purposes—including the cost of conducting every war since the revolution—less than $8,000,000,000; which, judging by the latest experiences in Europe, is just about the indemnity an invading army would levy on New York City.

Mr. Huidekoper has written a big book—big both ways. Because it is the only complete record of its kind, because every statement in it is verified and the source named, every man and woman who presumes to talk for or against preparedness should read it.

No doubt Mr. Huidekoper will be bombarded by pacifists' pamphlets (printed at the expense of the Carnegie endowment peace fund—a lobby fund, just as iniquitous in principle and more traitorous in practice than a similar fund would be if established for propaganda by the armament trust,) because he says every able-bodied citizen owes a duty to the land in which he lives and should be trained to take the field; but modifies that premise with the plan for a large regular army from which men would pass into the reserves.

Vive la France!

Of all the correspondents that have—and have pretended—jeopardized their lives on the battle lines of Europe to get stirring stuff for those of us who prefer to watch our wars by proxy, and some of these proxies wield epic pens, too, our favorite is E. Alexander Powell. Those who read "Fighting in Flanders," or will read "Vive la France!" (Charles Scribner's Sons) can have no trouble in understanding why this is so, though they may not, as we do, consider Mr. Powell pre-eminent.

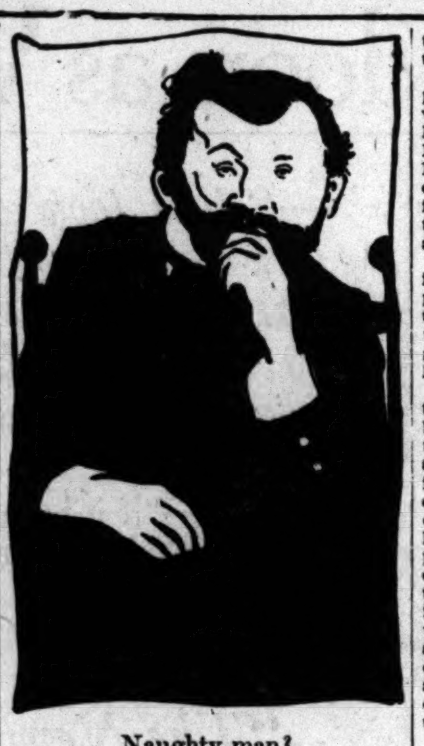
With pen, camera and passes he gets into the most interesting places in Europe. He sees a little humor, a great deal of the epochal tragedy; and sometimes brutally, but justifiably, with searing descriptions, burns upon the smug reader's mind something of what war at close range is really like.

The chapter on "Fighting in Champagne" is, so far as we may judge, the most thrilling and vivid that has been written on the present war. Following a terrific bombardment of the German trenches by three thousand guns concentrated on a front of only fifteen miles for three days and two nights, the infantry was assembled for the charge.

We have been told that in this war personal bravery does not count, that the fighting is all done by machinery, that there are no thrills. But here is a paragraph from an eyewitness, experienced in war scenes, whose writings have been characterized by sobriety and restraint: "Above the roar of the artillery the whistles of the officers shrilled loud and clear. The bugles pealed the charge. 'En avants, mes enfants!' screamed the officers; 'En avant! Vaincre ou mourir!' and over the tops of the trenches, with a roar like an angry sea breaking on a rock-bound coast, surged a fifteen-mile-long human wave tipped with glistening steel. As the blue billows of men burst into the open, hoarsely cheering, the French batteries which had been shelling the German first-line trenches ceased firing with an abruptness that was startling. In the comparative quiet thus suddenly created could be plainly heard the orders of the officers and the cheering of the men, some of whom shouted 'Vive la France!' while others sang snatches of the 'Marseillaise' and the 'Carmagnole.' Though every foot of ground over which they were advancing had been systematically flooded with shell, though the German trenches had been pounded until they were little more than heaps of dirt and debris, the German artillery was still on the job, and the ranks of the advancing French were swept by a hurricane of fire." Then follow some details of the charge and in what condition were the German trenches and men found—a charge wherein the French lost close to 110,000 men, took 21,000 prisoners and cost the Germans about 140,000 men.

Mr. Powell is one of the few correspondents to see campaigning in the Vosges, where in some places the French have penetrated German territory, and in one place the first-line trenches of the opposing armies are but some six yards apart! Also in the chapter "On the British Battle-Line" he gives a description of the first encounter with the German gas fumes—the horror of which seem to have been greatly minimized by the censor in news dispatches. "The Conflict in the Clouds" gives a definite, comprehensive account of the workings of the French aeroplane fleet, how reprisals are conducted, photographs of the enemies' cities and fortifications are secured from the clouds. The same clearness and definite description is in "The Red Badge of Mercy," telling of the hospital work and the scientific care of the wounded.

"Vive la France!" is a worthy company to "Fighting in Flanders"—which, by the way, is easily the best of the correspondent's reports of the German invasion.



Naughty man?

Stanislaw Przybyszewski—(Pre-bee-sheff-ski)—author of "Homo Sapiens" (Alfred A. Knopf) which the chief agent of the Society for the Suppression of Vice in New York is trying to suppress. We submit that anybody who can get a naughty thrill out of it will have to be endowed with the imaginative qualities of the late Anthony Comstock.

"Forty Years of 'Spy'."

"Forty Years of 'Spy'" (Brentano's) is not a war book. It is the reminiscences of Leslie Ward, for forty years a prominent cartoonist and portrait painter of London, known most widely through his work in "Vanity Fair."

In his time Mr. Ward has tracked, stalked, lured to his studio, or spied upon, practically every prominent politician, churchman, soldier, sailor or visitor of London, has caught, emphasized and fastened with color, their characteristics—flung their foibles and idiosyncrasies to a gleeful public.

In all that time he has done none of his caricaturing from portraits or photographs, but insisted upon studying his subject—or victim—first hand; and being humorous rather than malignant, has declined to lay stress on physical deformities which lend themselves only to a brutal form of fun.

On his mother's side were many artists, and his father was a member of the Royal Academy. From childhood Mr. Ward was busy with a pencil and took to caricature as a puppy to a bone. As a youngster he worked with Pellegrini, succeeding to that amusing and renowned cartoonist's place on "Vanity Fair."

The book's interest is greatly increased by a hundred and more caricatures and portraits, many of them men well known to Americans. But the greatest enjoyment, both from text and illustrations, will be to those familiar with London life.

Whistler, George DuMaurier, Charles Dana Gibson, Mark Twain, Cardinal Newman, Disraeli, Gladstone, Lord Haldon, Charles Dickens, Anthony Trollope, Sir John Tenniel, are a few of the more prominent of whom Mr. Ward makes mention, tells an anecdote, or relates under what circumstances he made their caricature and something of how the subject felt about it. Most of the subjects were very sensitive.

BOOKS OF FICTION.

"Then I'll Come Back to You."

When "Once to Every Man" appeared, the leading second-rate novelists—Rex Beach, Jack London, Zane Grey et al.—had to give way a little and make room for the newcomer, Larry Evans.

Mr. Evans has proceeded to reinforce his position among the second-rate novelists with "Then I'll Come Back to You" (The H. K. Fly Company.) He chooses the "Big North Woods"—novelists discovered the Big North Woods after all the cowpunchers on the Big Western Plains had been roped into the movies—for his setting, and recites the old, old story in much the old, old way about the hero, heroine and villain.

Steve, as a child, comes out of the woods, ignorant and exceedingly ungrammatical, precocious, sensitive and ambitious. He tells the little rich girl who likes him, but whose father laughs at him, that he is going away to "make good," and "then I'll come back to you."

He does—and with an elaborate reputation (which second-rate novelists always bang away on when the hero is about to come into action as the orchestra for a second-rate melodrama heralds the leading man's entrance with a dissonant flourish of bassoons) for fighting ability and success in getting timber out of a forest for lumber companies. The girl's father employs him on a huge contract which, of course, nobody—not even the father—thinks can be filled on time because of the immense difficulties to overcome. The villain, of course, works to make him fail; and to give the story that suspense so dear to readers of second-rate novels, Steve and the girl—though desperately in love—can't possibly come to an understanding until the last chapter.

Mr. Evans's "big scenes," the fight with Harrigan for instance, and the rivermen's work in general, would perhaps be more impressive if writers like Stewart Edward White had not shown something of how well such scenes and themes can be handled.

"White Tiger."

In Henry Milner Rideout's "White Tiger" (Duffield & Co.) the young engineer, who tells the story with no discredit to his own bravery, is sent by an eccentric uncle into the Dutch East Indies to lay the ghost of a "white tiger" haunting his tin mine and frightening coolies from work.

Watched over and sustained by the same amazingly omniscient luck that has sustained and guarded many of Mr. Rideout's heroes, the engineer discovers why the mine is hoodooed, makes friends with the Chinese hoodooer, is assailed by a gang of evil-faced coolies and rescued by a beautiful young lady whom he has never seen before. He marries the lady and another clap-trap story is finished off for the market.

"The Law-Breakers."

Ridgwell Cullum at least gives full measure. He writes to entertain, and to entertain only those who like intricate plots. But he is no shoddy workman. He does write clap-trap, but he writes it like an artist.

"The Law-Breakers" (George W. Jacobs & Co.) has his favorite backgrounds the wilds of Alaska and the secluded valleys of Canada where whisky-runners make life troublesome for the police. Against these law-breakers is pitted the infallible inspector of the Northwestern police, and said inspector gets the surprise of his young life. Also the whisky-runners.

"The Law-Breakers" is a goodly sized novel, and nearly as full of mystery as the opening paragraphs of a Sherlock Holmes tale; with plenty of excitement, husky villains and "primitive" impulses and courage in it. Get to "The Law-Breakers" you good people who think the second-rate novelists with the best press agents write the most thrilling stories.

"An Auto Biography."

With marks of lash and spur on his hard-driven comedy, Edward Peple forces an automobile to tell its own story in "An Auto Biography" (Moffat, Yard & Co.)

The machine is, of course, born in Detroit, but does not acknowledge any parental responsibility to Mr. Ford. Passing through various tests until qualified for the salesman's persuasive disquistions, it is purchased for a honeymoon trip by a young man who knows nothing of machines. Indeed, Billy is as ignorant of a machine as some well-meaning husbands are of women, and the auto's delicate sensibilities are outraged while he addresses his more tender attention to the fair bride beside him. But the auto's long-suffering patience is rewarded in the end by a friend who finally teaches Billy something of the art in making a machine respect its owner.

"An Auto Biography" is in effect a protest against cruelty to machines; and in view of the horseless-age, might be adopted by the S. P. C. A. as campaign literature to replace the obsolete "Black Beauty."

"Burkesses Amy."

Julie M. Lippmann has also discovered that in our great American cities there are slums; and in these slums live the "dearest" boys and girls—so bright and intelligent that Jane Addams and Lillian Wald and Jacob Riis must have been fooling us all these many years with their reports. (Vide: "Michael O'Halloran," "T. Tembarom," "Doodles," etc.) And so we have "Burkesses Amy" (Henry Holt & Co.), another sentimental romance along conventional lines to titillate sympathetic hearts and moisten lachrymose eyes with tears of happiness over the bewilderingly beautiful ending.

Amy is a spoiled and wealthy maiden. Her grandfather owns much tenement property. Her father, a sociologist, goes into the slums to live and study conditions, She goes with him.

Amy meets the hero in the manner most generally employed by our lady novelists; that is, she is assisted from annoyance on the street by a gallant young fellow, whom, of course, she loves and eventually marries. He is ambitious. Walks miles to and from school to save car fare.

But sentimental readers don't like slum-born heroes as well as some other kind of borned ones. The author obviates that defect very cleverly.

Behold! Enter Lady Denslow. Mark that "Lady:" Britisher, aristocrat—always popular with sentimental readers and lady novelists, particularly those of American extraction.

Amy is looking at a photograph. She drops it in agitation. Lady Denslow sees it and gasps dramatically: "My son—at sixteen" (sic.) Thus Amy's husband is the lost Lord Denslow, who was carried away as a child and is now heir to the title.

Great cheering in the slum quarter for Lord and Lady Denslow—"the house fairly rocked and thundered with it" (sic.) Modest Amy doesn't care for the title: "I'm content just to be John's wife" (sic.)

"The Wonder Girl."

If Mrs. Anna E. Satterlee had been a little more specifically descriptive in her descriptions, our local boosters might be inspired to purchase enormous editions of "The Wonder Girl: A Tourist Tale of California" (Sherman, French & Co.) and distribute copies throughout the East. She has made both home and tourist life in Southern California appear attractive with a slight plot involving a party of merry tourists who come visiting and sight-seeing; and tells of the parties, pleasure-excursions and gaiety revolving around Carol Wilton, the "wonder girl," her friend Ruby, and the old fashioned Aunt Lucinda who has quite a unique dialect all her own. Westlake Park, San Gabriel, the Alligator Farm and La Brea Pits are among the places mentioned.

"Gorham's Gold."

Virtue is pretty badly mauled around and beaten up in "Gorham's Gold" (Richard G. Badger,) but only for the purpose of making the triumphs more sweet and impressive.

The beautiful, idealistic girl is forced into marriage with Gorham, Alaskan millionaire, who, finding her something of a bore, goes out nights and finds some women who like to be "kept."

The attempts at description of his orgies are, in a left-handed way, very entertaining. The effort to be shockinglessly realistic in writing of something of which she obviously knows nothing, must have severely strained the not by any means robust authorship of Eldee Keesing. If Mrs. Keesing would hie herself to a copy of Artzibashef's "The Millionaire" she might possibly get a few pointers.

The partner whom Gorham tried to murder and left for dead in an icy snow bed in a far-off desolate region of Alaska, fails to pass in his checks. After many years he comes back and shatters with a blow of vengeance the crool manacles of matrimony binding the sweet, idealistic wife. And she, after perfunctorily wearing weeds out of respect to Mother Grundy tumbles, with all of Gorham's gold, into the arms of her boyhood sweetheart, who has been sticking around close to her through the long, long, lonesome years waiting for some such thing to happen.

"Broken Shackles."

John Oxenham has been at it again. This is his thirty-third offense that we know of. With the facility of long experience, the dexterity of long practice, he has been able to write "Broken Shackles" (John Lane Company,) a novel of ordinary length, without troubling himself to forge a theme.

The Franco-Prussian War furnishes the scenic effects for the first part, which relates how France might have raised the siege of Paris, but didn't. The hero, wounded, reported dead, is befriended by a German sergeant, who takes said hero into his home in Germany after the war is over. The sergeant is killed in an accident, and the hero marries his sister and comes into possession of goodly estates.

Said hero was married before, but his wife left him without a divorce, and thinking him dead, marries again. A renegade Frenchman, many years later, recognizes said hero; and said hero, fearful of blackmail and before the villain voices a threat, kills him. An innocent man is accused of the crime. Said hero gives himself up, but the German chief-of-police (differing from Javert in "Les Miserables") says to said hero: "That's all right. The fellow was only a roughneck. Beat it home to your wife and kids and live happy ever after"—or words to that effect.

"A Man's Hearth."

"A Man's Hearth," by Eleanor M. Ingram (J. B. Lippincott Company) hasn't the smooth dexterity of construction and well-rounded development that is most satisfying, but parts may, with a slight stretch of courtesy, be called really good. However, the most appealing, dramatic and distinctive character, Masterson, is somewhat neglected for a variation of the shop-worn theme of the rich young man, Adriance, who gives up wealth, marries the girl he wants, and incognito "makes good" in his father's plant.

Masterson's wife, maligning him as a wild sport, tries to entangle Adriance in a promise of marriage against the day when she shall be divorced; but he, awakening to shame over his infatuation for the wife of a friend, transfers his affection to her maid. With benefit of clergy, they take up an idyllic life in the proverbial cottage.

Mrs. Masterson, unable to get into spending relations with the Adriance millions as she had planned, resourcefully puts another string to her bow and seduces Adriance, Sr., into wedlock, after he secures the divorce for her and the custody of the child.

Masterson, though largely in the background, is a compelling character; there is much pathetic, without being weak, about him and his reserved attitude, even while aware of his wife's machinations, his final outburst after kidnaping the child, assist in making the novel worthy of attention.

BERTHA A. RICH.

Bertha A. Rich, a Los Angeles writer, whose name has frequently appeared in prominent magazines, has in the February number of the American Magazine a story called "Her House in Order," which, for simplicity and yet sheer originality of treatment, is no less striking than unusual. It is in the form of a letter from one sister to another, telling of their mother's death and funeral. It is not tragic; it is scarcely sad, yet shows the tenderest of feeling and a mood of repressed grief relieved by light touches of amusement. Mrs. Rich is rapidly coming to the front and her work is in great demand. Her vein is original and refreshing.

THESPIAN MEMORIES.

OLD BOSTON MUSEUM DAYS. By Kate Ryan. Little, Brown & Co., Boston.

THE BOSTON MUSEUM was established at a day when many timid, pious souls conceived that the theater was directly under the auspices of the devil, and it endured for a half century to a time when the theater had justly come into its own as an institution of pre-eminent value and propriety.

As a very young girl, Kate Ryan was enticed by histrionic allurement and pertinaciously exacted the privilege of "being tried out" on those historic boards where had trod or were to tread such men as Mansfield, McCullough, the elder Booth, Charles Barron and William Warren, who was said to have studied some 700 roles; where Dion Boucicault laid down the laws of dramatic interpretation, and James R. Pitman stood in the wings like a faithful sentinel with the prompt book under his nose.

Great days, those. Epochal days. And in her discursive recollections, very sketchy but covering many points, Kate Ryan has conveyed much of the good fellowship and family spirit pervading that memorable house—a house that maintained a stock company for nearly fifty years! The author began with the company in 1873 and remained until the end, 1903.

The museum was founded by Moses Kimball, and the genesis of the "Great White Way" likely enough was in the "white globe lights in front of the Boston Museum"—the first attempt at "brilliant" advertisement.

Many of the favorites of that day have faded from common remembrance; but they did their work and did it well, for in the Boston Museum one $8000 "star" and ten $20 supporters did not make a company. As the author points out, conditions prevailing then are not possible now. The actors at the museum were as a family; they were not hopping around the country on one-night stands, ending a season every few weeks and being reorganized, and prevented from maintaining and enjoying home life.

"Old Boston Museum Days" tells a bigger story than the author perhaps fancies; it is more than her remembrances, more than amusing anecdotes. It preserves an intimate glimpse—not intended as anything more than a glimpse—of a remarkable period in the history of the American stage.

OUT-OF-DOOR AUTHOR.

Eleanor M. Ingram, whose new novel, "A Man's Hearth," is one of Lippincott's fall publications, is very modern in her tastes. She is one of the splendid type of girls who are equally at home in out-of-door sport and games and in the social whirl. These modern Dianas would make our grandmothers look frail and anemic by comparison.

AN AMBASSADOR AIN'T A JOB; BUT A RICH BUSINESS MAN

Zapp's Conclusion to Birsky's Question Touches on Expensive Diplomacy and Colonel House.

By MONTAGUE GLASS.

Illustrations by BRIGGS.

"IT'S a quincidence, anyway," said Barnett Zapp, the waist manufacturer, in Wasserbauer's restaurant, as he wiped from his eyebrows the circumstantial evidence of a charlotte russe.

"What's a quincidence?" Louis Birsky the realestater asked.

"That he should send him to Europe a couple of days before they come back from their honeymoon," Birsky said. "Which it's either a quincidence or she says to him: 'Maybe you like to have that feller hanging around the house all the time, but me not.' And Mr. Wilson says: 'Aber the feller is doch an old friend of mine,' and she says: 'What do you mean, an old friend? Bryan is also an old friend of yours—Col. Harvey, too, and Dudley P. Malone and Charles K. Murphy and Gott weiss wer nach—and if you are going to have all that crowd sticking around the place, y'understand, instead of the White House, Washington, I might just so well be running the Palmer House, Chicago, or the Yates House, Sarahcuse.' 'Well, what could I do?' Mr. Wilson says. 'Send him to Mexico,' she says. 'I already sent him to Mexico.' 'Then send him to Europe.' 'I sent him to Europe, too,' says Mr. Wilson nebich. 'Then send him there again,' and so Mr. Wilson rings him up from Hot Springs, Virginia, and after the girl tells him when through talking to please deposit one cent internal revenue tax in the quarter slot, he says to Col. House is he doing anything next Saturday, and if not be a good feller and take a run over to Europe and see what Mr. Page and Mr. Gerard and this here Sharp is up to over there."

"What are you talking nonsense, Zapp?" Birsky exclaimed. "Mrs. Wilson didn't got nothing to do with Col. House going to Europe."

"Didn't she?" Zapp said. "Then why did Mr. Wilson send him there?"

"Ain't you yourself just now telling me that Col. House is an old friend from Mr. Wilson, and he wants to find out what them fellers is up to over there?" Birsky said. "Furthermore, he's got a lot of confidence in Col. House on account he used to was a prominent banker in Houston, Tex."

"Sure, I know, Birsky," Zapp continued, "but if I would got a couple big concerns in Chicago which is getting pretty shaky on me, and I want to send out there some one he should look after my interests, y'understand, would I get an old friend to go for me, supposing even he is the prominentest banker in a larger town as Houston and much nearer New York—say, for example, Hoboken? No, Birsky; I would send to Chicago a perfect stranger, which all his life made a specialty of bankruptcy law, because while I am satisfied that any friend of President Wilson is a decent, respectable feller, y'understand, and that Houston, Tex., is a good live town for its size, understand me, the place where a Houston banker would do the least harm y'understand, is in a bank in Houston, Tex."

"What harm could Col. House do in Europe?" Birsky asked.

"I don't know," Zapp replied, "but if the Kaiser of Germany would send an old friend of his which was for years a prominent banker in Bingen on the Rhine to see what could be done with the King of Bulgaria, yunderstand, Bulgaria would now be as neutral as Toronto, Can. What the Kaiser done was to send to Bulgaria a feller which worked a lifetime as an Ambassador in every country in Europe, and while in all probability he didn't know a paying teller from a safe deposit vault, and wasn't no more intimate with the Kaiser than you are with President Wilson, Zapp, he swung Bulgaria right into line, and that's what we should do with England and Germany and France."

"But we already got Ambassadors in England, Germany and France," Birsky protested.

"Sure, I know," Zapp said. "In England we got an Ambassador, also an old friend of President Wilson, which used to was a prominent printer and publisher in Garden City, L. I., and in France we got an old friend of Mr. Wilson, which used to was one of the biggest pig iron manufacturers in Ellyria, O."

"Well, how did them fellers get appointed Ambassadors?" Birsky asked.

"I don't know," Zapp replied, "unless it was that when Mr. Wilson got his position as President he took all his old friends in the business directory, from Architectural Iron Works to Yarns, Domestic and Imported, and fixed them up with jobs alphabetically. For instance, old friends up to and including Hotel Supplies and House Furnishings gets postmaster jobs, and he appoints judges and custom house collectors from Insurance Brokers and Interior Decorators, and when he reached the P's he had ambassadors' jobs to hand out, so he puts a Printer and Publisher in London and a Pig Iron manufacturer in Paris, and probably you would find an old friend of Mr. Wilson in the Plumbing Supply business is Ambassador to Sweden, and another old friend in the Pants business Ambassador to Norway, and so on from Paints and Painters' Supplies through Pickles down to Portable Houses."

"Well, after all," Birsky said, "it ain't such a Kunst to be an ambassador. All an ambassador does is what he is told."

"And they couldn't even do that," Zapp continued. "That's why, according to some people, President Wilson is sending Col. House to make them fellers stay on the job, on account Col. House being a banker, naturally a printer or a pig iron manufacturer looks up to such a feller, which all them bankers is connected one with the other in bankers' associations, and if that Ohio pig iron manufacturer gets fresh with Col. House, understand me, the next time the pig iron trade becomes a little quiet and the manufacturer goes round to see the President of the Kosciusko Bank in Ellyria, O., and tells him that business could be better and it could be worse, understand me, and would like to renew on the fifteen-hundred-dollar note that comes due next Wednesday, y'understand, the president of the bank asks him does he know a friend of his by the name House used to was a banker in Houston, Tex., and the pig iron manufacturer says yes, he met him in Paris, y'understand, and the president of the bank says so House told him, and the fact is that money ain't as easy as in former times and would like the pig iron manufacturer to clean up."

"Aber if the feller is so short for money as all that," Birsky inquired, "why don't he stay at home and attend to business instead of going to be an ambassador?"

"Well, I'll tell you," Zapp explained; "it ain't when a feller goes to be an ambassador that he's short of money. It's when he comes back. Ambassadors don't get no salary to speak about,, and the expenses is terrible."

"Then what do they want to be ambassadors for?" Birsky demanded.

"Because it's a big honor to be an ambassador," Zapp said. "Supposing a feller would be the biggest manufacturer of pig iron in the State of Ohio, and if he meets once in six months a couple Congressmen oder a judge, he's doing immense, y'understand; whereas, when he becomes an ambassador, Birsky, it is nothing for that feller to see kings and queens a hundred times every night of the year."

"And probably the best he holds is tens and deuces," Birsky said. "Is it any wonder he comes home broke?"

"I am speaking from real kings and queens, Birsky, which it costs just so much money to see real kings and queens every night, as though they would be kings full of queens in a table stakes game," Zapp went on.

"Well, if it's necessary in their business for ambassadors to spend so much money," Birsky asked, "why don't the government allow them an expense account?"

"That's what everybody says," Zapp replied. "The Ambassadors' Association puts it up to Congress lots of times that their expenses should be paid, and the Congressmen say where do they come in that they should give ambassadors money to spend in Berlin oder London. United States Congressmen ain't running for Congress in Berlin oder London, and the way they figure, if an ambassador in Paris buys six quarters ice cream and a couple cases beer every afternoon of his life, the money might just so well be paid over to the cashier of the Honest Ballot Association for all the good it does, because nine times out of ten all that a Congressman goes to Congress for is to get elected to Congress again."

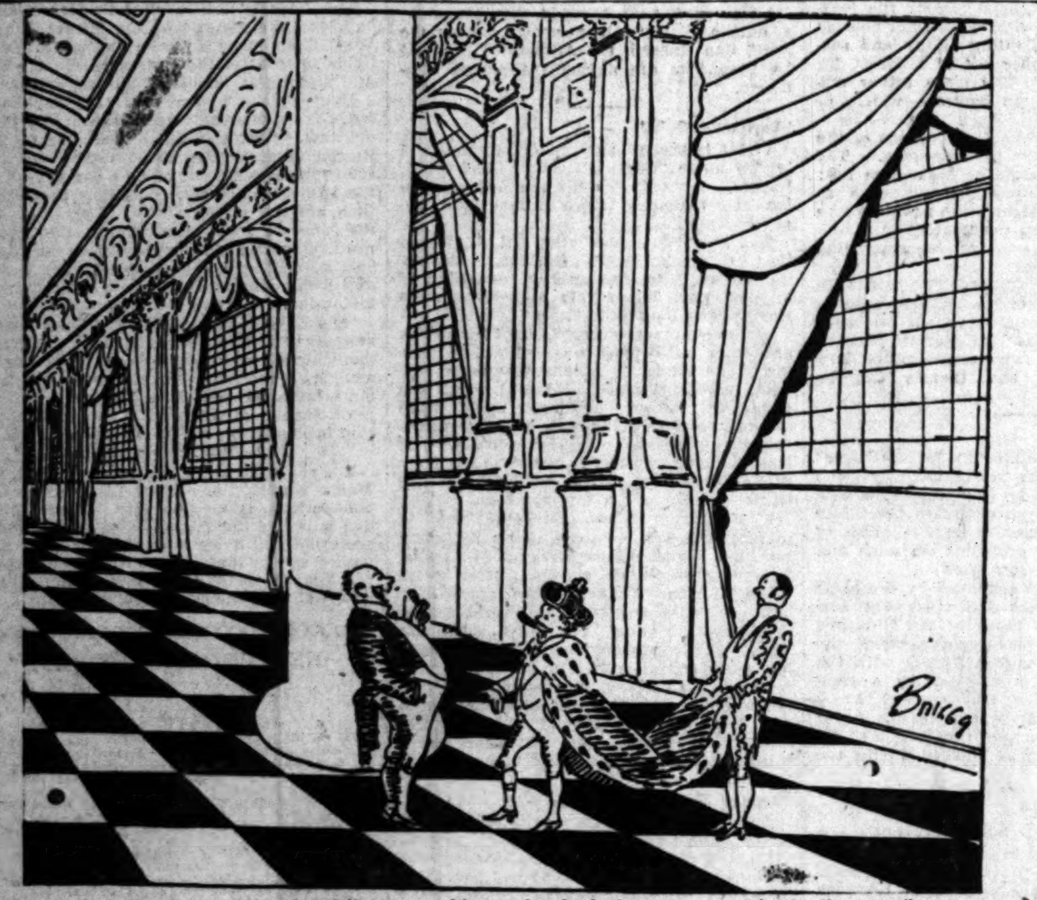
"Well, you can't blame those fellers that they want to hold their jobs," Birsky said.

"A feller which is so anxious to hold his job that he couldn't show results to the people he is working for," Zapp said, "would better be without a job; it don't make no difference if he's a Congressman oder a shipping clerk."

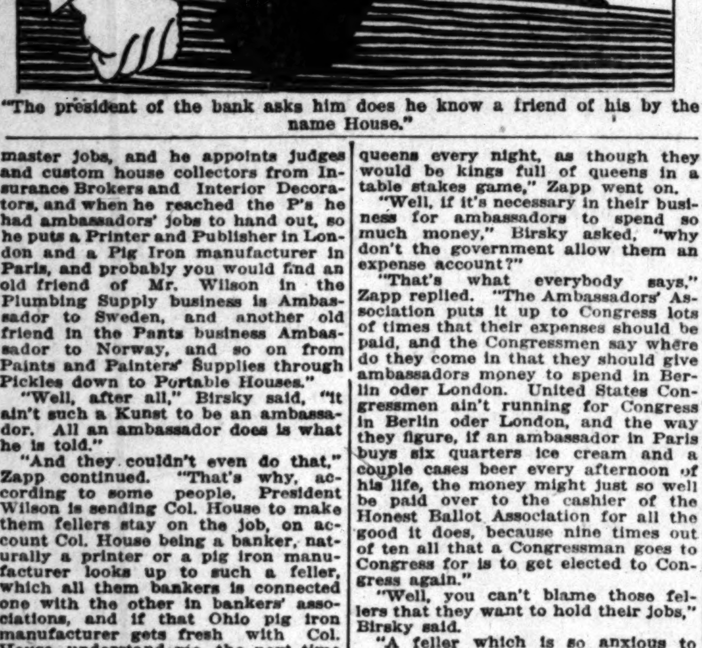
"How about an ambassador?" Birsky asked.

"An ambassador ain't a job," Zapp said. "It's an expensive pleasure trip for a rich business man."

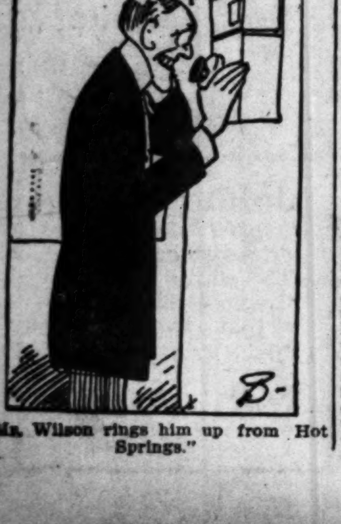
(Copyright, 1916, by the Tribune Association (New York Tribune.))



"It is nothing for that feller to see kings a hundred times every night in the year."



"The president of the bank asks him does he know a friend of his by the name House."



"Mr. Wilson rings him up from Hot Springs."

MRS. MASSON,

the noted palmist of London, England, may be consulted at 322 SOUTH SPRING STREET, by those desiring CAREFUL, CONSCIENTIOUS AND SCIENTIFIC HAND READINGS, FROM ONE OF THE FOREMOST PALMISTS OF THE DAY.

The earnest student and thinker will soon learn in his investigations along psychological lines that that which pertains to occult phenomena proper can readily be distinguished from crude and oft-exposed SLEIGHT-OF-HAND TRICKS, the most common of which is the telling of the subject name, age, etc., AFTER HE HIMSELF HAS WRITTEN THAT information.

PALMISTRY HONESTLY PRACTICED WILL NOT tell your name, but it WILL give you information of considerably greater value in everyday life.

Your vocation, your present line of work, matters of health and domestic life, financial conditions and ways and means of climbing out of a rut of ill luck into wide paths of success and prosperity can all be told you through scientific palmistry, WITHOUT A SINGLE QUESTION, WRITTEN OR VERBAL.

MRS. MASSON DOES NOT APPEAL TO IGNORANT SUPERSTITION, BUT TO THE FINEST INTELLIGENCE.

MINING—

YOU CAN ALWAYS MAKE MONEY IF YOU GET in right. Owner of high grade gold property, immense showings and possibilities, is just starting to organize company to develop and operate same. Property will be deeded to company and company will own property all paid for right at the start. $150,000 already refused for four-fifths interest. Property well known, strictest investigation solicited. Biggest surface showings and richest ore ever found in Arizona; you can get in nothing at Oatman that will compare with this. Owner wants a few good people with one to five hundred dollars each to assist in organization and will take them in at less than 5 per cent. of Oatman prices, and a fraction of real worth. I want good people who want to get interested in a good mining proposition on a basis where they can make money quickly. If you want to get in one to five hundred dollars, own an interest in the property and grow with us, see me at once. D. W. HALL, 634 Citizens National Bank Bldg., Fifth and Spring.

AN INVESTMENT—A REAL MINING PROPOSITION. Not a "wild-cat" scheme. 6 per cent. gold bonds, guaranteed, with a chance to participate in a rich distribution of profits. Most rigid investigation invited. Adjoining property, same vein, same grade of ore, now being developed. Made its stockholders 18 per cent. clear of all expenses past year. Value of ore and width of vein increasing with depth. Present width of ore body 80 feet. Every dollar you invest in these bonds will be used to develop and equip the property. Each bond carries equal amount of stock, participating in all profits. Bonds $100 to $500 each. All data and information at my residence. Best bank references. E. S. HUBBARD, 1549 Wilcox Ave., Phone 57483.

MARTIAL RANKS OF KNIGHTS REVIEWED.

STATE GRAND COMMANDER UPON OFFICIAL VISIT.

Great Audience Sees Notable Gathering of Masons as Templars go Through Their Best Paces and Then Trip the Light Fantastic Toe with a Host of Friends.

To the strains of martial music and with sabers flashing, Knights Templars of thirteen Southern California Commanderies passed in review before Right Eminent Sir Perry W. Weidner, Grand Commander of California, last night at Shrine Auditorium while an audience that filled every seat in the vast building and overflowed into the halls, applauded the spectacle.

The occasion was the official visit of the Grand Commander. The auditorium was decorated with American flags and patriotic bunting tastefully blended with banners bearing the Templar ensignia. Knights and their ladies, in gala costume, arrived early and the auditorium was comfortably filled almost an hour before the official review.

Following inspection by the Grand Commander, a welcome was extended to all by Motley Flint, chairman of the executive committee. In a brief address, after declaring the review the most notable of its kind in the annals of Southern California commanderies and stating that never before in the history of the State have so many eminent Masons participated in an occasion of the sort, Mr. Flint spoke of the Thirty-third Triennial Conclave and Grand Encampment of the Knights Templars, which is to be held here June 17 to 24 next.

At the conclusion of the review there was a grand ball in which the Knights and their ladies and invited guests participated. Music was furnished by two Templar bands.

Commanderies from Los Angeles, San Bernardino, Riverside, Pasadena, Santa Ana, Pomona, Long Beach, Redlands, Alhambra, Covina, Whittier and Glendale took part in the review.

The programme last night was the second Knights Templars event of the week. On Thursday evening Los Angeles Commandery, No. 9, Knights Templars, gave a reception to the roll of honor members of the Commandery, consisting of those who have been in the organization here thirty years or more. Grand Commander Weidner was present and made an address, as did Eminent Commander Frank L. Miller, and Past Commanders Freeman C. Teed and C. L. Logan. The Chanters from Al Malaikah Temple furnished the music and the reception closed with a buffet luncheon for over 500 persons.

JITNEY HEROINE.

Girl Drives Small Car from Imperial Valley to San Diego Through the Floods—Takes Four Days to Make Trip Across Devastated Country.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN DIEGO, Jan. 22.—Smiling and as fresh as if she had just driven a block or two, Miss Helen Tulloch, stage driver for the United Stages Company, arrived here this afternoon from El Centro in her small car with several passengers, after a four days' trip, fording streams, building roads and hunting new roads.

Miss Tulloch, who is 18 years old, left El Centro Wednesday at 11 o'clock with her passengers, who included Tom Moore of the stage company, three Hindus and another man. The party reached Jacumba the first night, where Miss Tulloch slept in her car, while the men slept on the floor of the little hotel. There they found a river about four feet deep and a mile wide obstructing the road, so the party had to wait for the water to recede.

The next night they slept luxuriously at the Boulevard Hotel, but the next day they had to spend in building a new road from Boulevard to Dulzura. This they did with logs and boards. They came over the old Cottonwood grade, a perilous grade, and then from Jamul to National City again encountered work, as every few feet the machine sank in quicksand and had to be jacked up.

Miss Tulloch commends her Hindu passengers as being model passengers who did most of the heavy work over the road, though she drove all the way. As for herself she says she enjoyed the trip.

The plucky young girl drove a jitney here until the jitneys were put out of business, and since then has been running the Imperial Valley stage.

REPEAT FLOOD WARNINGS IN THE ARKANSAS VALLEY

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

LITTLE ROCK (Ark.) Jan. 22.—Flood warnings for both the Arkansas and White River valleys were repeated tonight by the local government weather bureau on reports that the two streams, already past flood stage, were continuing to rise rapidly. The Arkansas tonight was two feet above flood stage at Fort Smith. Thus far the damage has been confined to the flooding of pasture lands and hundreds of workers have renewed their efforts to strengthen the levees against an overflow in the thickly-inhabited sections.

BRIGHT PERFORMANCE.

COMPANY ENTERS INTO SPIRIT OF "LUCIA" WITH ZEST.

By Edwin F. Schallert.

The only really dull thing about the performance of the opera, "Lucia di Lammermoor," last night at Clune's Auditorium, given by the La Scala Company, was the story. For some of us, too, the music is shop worn, but we were in the minority by far.

The audience welcomed the strains of the Sextette and the pyrotechnics of the "Mad Scene" almost as if they were being heard for the first time. There was perceptible even a ripple of expectancy as the orchestra led the way for the famous (though a trifle faded) measures of the "Chi mi frena," which is a part of the repertoire of every phonograph from Klondike to Cape Town and Budapest to San Francisco.

The main honors of the evening went very naturally to Bernice de Pasquali. Her "Mad Scene" was rendered with all that grace and brilliance that show the authority of her style, born of natural artistry and experience. It was the greatest stage rendition of the famed solo heard in this city since the days when old Hazard's Pavilion echoed to the silver tones of Sembrich.

In the Sextette, it took just a minute or two in the initial rendition for the participants to find their proper level in the blending of voices, the difference in timbres being somewhat pronounced. The repetition in answer to the volley of applause, went with a smoothness that lent some of that glowing warmth to the number which it doubtless had in the days of yore.

The rather heroic role of Edgardo seemed quite suited to the needs of Corallo as a whole, who was previously heard in "Carmen." In its higher register his voice is possessed of much power and breadth as well as purity. A little throatiness shows up in the lower register. The second scene of the third act was entirely and deservedly his, with the arias, "Fra a me Ricovero" and "Tu Che a Dio Spiagasti," that is, except for the impromptu pantomime show in the mausoleum, in which the stage hands participated.

The flowers were again conspicuous by their presence just after the "Mad Scene." However, it is well-nigh impossible to break the action in "Lucia," because it was shattered long ago by Donizetti.

The orchestra under Mario Hediger entered thoroughly into the spirit of the work. They are giving an immensely improved account of themselves, as contrasted with the opening of the week. In fact, as evident yesterday at "La Boheme," Friday night at "Carmen" and last night at "Lucia" the entire organization is getting into very excellent shape. This week promises fine enjoyment to the followers of the lyrico-dramatic in this city.

This afternoon a concert will be given by various members of the company at 3 o'clock.

BODY ARRIVES TODAY.

Eighteenth Victim of Mexican Massacre Will be Given Last Rites.

The body of Thomas Johnson, one of the eighteen victims of the Mexican massacre at Santa Isabel, Mex., will arrive in Los Angeles at 2 o'clock this afternoon on the first through train from El Paso since the storm. The body will be taken to the undertaking establishment of Edwards, Gamish & Heath to await arrangements for the funeral.

Mrs. F. P. Box of No. 1211 West Eleventh street, wife of a police officer of this city, is convinced that the body is that of her father, whom she has never seen. Through correspondence with others who knew him she believes she has made certain of its identity. She has known for years that her father was in Mexico and, through the aid of Lieut. Henry Flipper, a mining engineer of El Paso, who knew Mr. Johnson's family in Tombstone, Ariz., the identity was fixed. Mrs. Box sent a check to provide for the expense of bringing the body here and will provide for the funeral in the firm belief that it was her father who was one of the victims of Mexican bandits.

CARE OF THE NEEDY.

Supplies and Money Raised for San Gabriel River's Victims.

Relief in the way of money, clothing and supplies has been found for the forty or more families that were rendered homeless or suffered loss of their goods in the flood of the San Gabriel River. On the Cudahy ranch alone $100 in money was raised, and the Huntington Park Chamber of Commerce, the Bell Improvement Association and the Cudahy Improvement Association have collected supplies for the needy. A committee of which Michael Downey is the head has been appointed by the Cudahy association to take charge of the relief work. It was reported from the district last night that enough for the immediate needs of the flood sufferers has been raised and their comforts looked after.

NO FLOOD AT BELL.

Improvement League Points Out that Water was Not Near.

Because of undesired publicity given the town during the recent high water in this section, the Improvement League of Bell yesterday gave out a statement of conditions there during the floods and showing the water was not at any time in or very near the town. Various conditions were described as "at Bell" which were two miles east of there. The town was high and dry during the entire period of high water. This same thing was true during the flood period of two years ago.

APARTMENTS TRADED.

Pico Street Property Exchanged for Altadena Tract—West Twenty-third-street Holding Transferred to Riverside Man. Cash in Both Deals.

Two important exchanges of apartment-house properties in this city are reported by Raymond D. Frisbie, who acted as broker in both transactions.

One deal involved the transfer of the Sinaloa apartments at No. 2308 West Pico street by D. A. Peters to A. C. Addison of Altadena, at a given valuation of $30,000. Mr. Addison gave in trade a clear ranch holding on the Altadena foothill boulevard, stated to be worth $14,000. adjusting the difference by cash and mortgage.

The other exchange involved the transfer of the Carolina apartments at No. 1467 West Twenty-third street by W. P. Doherty to J. A. Clark of Riverside. The apartment-house went in at a stated valuation of $22,000. Mr. Clark gave as part consideration a ten-acre ranch at Riverside.

LARGEST WAREHOUSE ON COAST PROJECTED HERE.

Six-story Fireproof Structure, Containing Twelve Acres of Floor Space, to be Built in Local Shipping District. Prominent Los Angeles Men in Corporation Back of the Enterprise.

IN A HEARING before Commissioner Loveland, set for tomorrow in this city, the recently-organized Panama-Pacific Warehouse Corporation will petition the State Railroad Commission to authorize the issuance of $450,000 in bonds and a like amount in stock for the purpose of financing a mammoth warehouse in the shipping district of Los Angeles. The petitioners affirm that they have assurances that their bond issue will be underwritten in Chicago. It is their wish that the stock be subscribed in this city.

The project, which has previously been mentioned in The Times, is backed by prominent local capitalists. The officers of the corporation are A. B. Cass, president; R. H. Raphael, first vice-president; C. L. Bisbee, second vice-president; F. H. Brooks, treasurer; G. B. Ocheltree, secretary; Carl E. McStay, assistant secretary, and Frank James, general counsel.

Plans for the projected building have been drawn by the architectural and engineering firm of Moores & Dunford of Chicago, specialists in warehouse construction and designers of some of the largest structures of this type in the country. C. H. Moores, head of this firm, arrived in Los Angeles during the past week, and will explain the structural side of the enterprise in person at tomorrow's hearing. The architects have opened local offices at 503 Trust and Savings Building, these being in charge of W. C. Cook.

The structure as projected will be the largest of its kind west of Chicago, with the possible exception of the gigantic municipal warehouse which the city of Los Angeles is building on outer harbor dock No. 1 at San Pedro. Six stories in height, it is to cover a ground area of 200x400 feet, containing a total storage space of approximately 500,000 square feet, or twelve acres. The building will be of reinforced concrete and brick construction and absolutely fireproof.

The location, according to those in charge of the project, will comprise a site of 125,000 square feet between Seventh and Ninth streets and within a short distance of the projected new Central Market on East Seventh street. Trackage from all the transcontinental railways entering Los Angeles will be available.

STEEL LOADING SHEDS.

The space outside of the 80,000 square feet actually covered by the warehouse will be utilized for steel sheds to be used in loading and unloading freight. The facilities will be such that fourteen cars at a time can be placed alongside the loading platforms.

"The warehouse we expect to build will be the largest and most complete in the West," said a member of the corporation yesterday. "It will be one of the chain of warehouses comprised within what is known as the 'Moores & Dunford System.' We propose to affiliate with the American Warehouse Association and to make our building the receiving center on the Pacific Coast for the whole transcontinental system.

"We will install the newest system of unloading devices, spiral chutes, elevators, conveyors and other freight-handling appliances. No warehouse in the United States will have a more modern equipment. Our building will be a general merchandise storage warehouse, with exceptional provision for the handling of sugar, coffee, rice and other staples that arrive in large consignments.

"We are stating in our petition before the State Railway Commission our intention to expend between $400,000 and $450,000 in the construction of the building and as much more in land, a truck and transfer organization and general equipment. We want to start construction about May 1. The contract has already been tentatively awarded to Stone & Webster of Boston."

TO DAKOTA MAN.

W. J. Cowhig, a recent arrival from Edgemont, S. D., purchased a seven-room bungalow at No. 625 North Ardmore during the past week. The sale was made through R. E. Ford, manager of the house and lot department of the Janss Investment Company, at a reported consideration of $4900 cash.

INCOME IMPROVEMENTS.

Several New Flat and Apartment-house Projects for Local Sites.

A three-story frame apartment-house containing thirty rooms is to be started this week on Sunset boulevard near Benton Way by A. J. Van Rossem. The contract was let several days ago. The building will cost about $10,000. A two-story frame apartment-house of fourteen rooms is to be started at once by Catherine T. Bell at No. 416 South Rampart boulevard. The cost of this improvement is given at $11,000.

The contract was let during the past week for a flat building of Colonial design to be erected by A. H. Coffman at the northwest corner of Kenwood avenue and Twenty-seventh street. Plans have just been completed for a flat projected by William Tifal, of Monrovia, for a site at No. 833 West Forty-first street. A flat of eighteen rooms is to be started at once by C. C. Pitzer at the corner of Forty-first place and Menlo avenue. Victor Johnson has had plans prepared for a flat he will build at San Pedro.

Quick Work.

FARM LANDS SELL RAPIDLY.

TWO-HUNDRED-ACRE VAN NUYS TRACT CLOSED OUT.

Big Transaction Completed in Sixty Days—Acreage Sold Largely for Cash—The Buyers and Their Plans — Five - thousand - dollar Home to be Built at Once.

The Lemay-Bevis-Kunert Co. of Van Nuys yesterday wound up the sale of the last acre of the 200-acre tract which two months ago they took over from the Van Nuys Boulevard Land Co. Messrs. G. A. Lemay, Charles Bevis and A. A. Kunert are the men who put over this transaction and it was completed in the shortest time on record, the whole property being sold, largely for cash, in sixty days —showing how fast the Lankershim-Van Nuys lands are going. The speculative demand makes certain an advance in prices. The deals here noted involve about $90,000.

The largest of the sales was all cash. Albert Shumacher of Los Angeles bought 68.93 acres at the corner of Seventh street and San Fernando avenue, comprising the south twenty acres of lot 259 and all of lot 269. Mr. Shumacher was born and raised in Los Angeles. He is thoroughly familiar with land values, having made most of his money dealing in Southern California properties. William Shumacher, Supervisor of Orange county, is a brother. Mr. Shumacher will set out walnuts on the entire sixty-eight acres, and will build a $5000 home on the corner of Seventh and San Fernando at once.

The other sales were made to Van Nuys residents. J. C. Lennox purchased thirty acres, lot 570; George Alcock, twenty acres, lot 577. These pieces will be planted to alfalfa.

Samuel Martin bought the north thirty acres of lot 579, which will be set out to walnuts. Mr. Martin has demonstrated that walnuts can be grown near Van Nuys successfully, having taken off a fair crop last fall from his five-year-old grove at the corner of Fourth and Castro.

F. L. Hamilton bought the north twenty acres of lot 259, and will plant Phillips and Tuscan Cling peaches.

All of these properties are well located, and the developments proposed by the purchasers will be of notable value. Other important sales near Van Nuys will soon be announced.

Lots and Lands.

TWO VALUABLE SITES TRADED.

HALF MILLION DOLLARS IN EXCHANGES REPORTED.

Large Corner at Sixteenth and Hill Brings High Consideration, Both Acreage and Cash Entering into Deal—Mendocino Man Buys Alameda Site.

Two real estate transactions involving property in Los Angeles and elsewhere of an aggregate valuation of approximately $450,000, together with cash considerations to the amount of $50,000, were reported yesterday by local brokers.

One of the deals was closed through the exchange department of W. J. Pearson & Co. and involved the transfer by Black Brothers to C. Q. Stanton of a lot 100x104 feet in size at the corner of Sixteenth and Hill streets. The consideration is given at $105,000, of which $80,000 is stated to have been represented by 800 acres of land near Corcoran, in Tulare county, and $25,000 by cash.

The other transaction was the transfer by J. W. Allen to Theodore Hale of Mendocino county of a two-story brick building on Alameda street near Sixth at a given valuation of $130,000. For the property Mr. Allen is declared to have received a Northern California ranch valued at $107,000 and $23,000 cash. The Harry H. Culver Company represented both sides in the deal.

Growing Business.

PLANT IS MODERN.

Citrus Packing-house of Oil Company at Whittier Will Take Care of Pack from Six Hundred Acres of Lemons.

One of the most up-to-date citrus packing plants in Southern California is that under construction for the Murphy Oil Company at Whittier. The plant, which is on the county road a short distance in the midst of State School, stands in the midst of an eight-acre tract amply supplied with railway switching facilities.

The building is a single story in height and 162x253 feet in size. Its foundation is of reinforced concrete and its walls of hollow tile. The exterior is faced with white stucco. Alfred W. Rea and Charles E. Garstang of this city drew the plans.

The structure contains eighteen large lemon storage rooms separated by hollow tile partitions. The basement is given over to a box factory. One of the unique features of the project is an incinerator in which will be burned all diseased and decayed fruit. There will be receiving and shipping platforms on two sides.

The plant will be used by the Murphy interests for their own pack. The company recently sold most of its undeveloped lands in the East Whittier district to various purchasers and leased practically all of its existing oil wells to the Standard Oil Company for a term of years. It has 600 acres of planted lemon lands near the new packing plant, and of these 100 acres are in full-bearing.

BIG PROJECTS FOR VERNON.

General Petroleum Company to Enlarge Facilities.

Will Spend Quarter Million in New Improvements.

Bids Now Being Taken for Can Corporation Plant.

Additions and extensions to be made to its present $500,000 plant at Vernon during the present year will cost the General Petroleum Company approximately $250,000, according to an announcement made yesterday by representatives of that corporation. The work is to be started at once.

The company yesterday completed the purchase of an eight-acre plot of ground immediately adjoining its present site at Santa Fe avenue and Jefferson street, and it is on this newly acquired land that the expansion will be carried out. The land was bought from Swift & Company for a reported consideration of $50,000. W. H. Daum represented both sides in the transaction.

The new facilities of the big oil concern will include refineries, stills and numerous storage tanks. The latest facilities for loading and unloading of the various products of the plant will be provided.

Mr. Daum, who also recently negotiated the sale of a five-acre site at Vernon to the American Can Company, stated yesterday that a number of Los Angeles contractors were now bidding for the construction of that corporation's projected plant in the manufacturing suburb. Work on the factory, he declared, would be started within the next few weeks. C. D. Gordon, local representative of the corporation, verified the announcement.

"Bids," said Mr. Gordon, "are now being taken by our architect, C. G. Preiss of San Francisco, and our engineer, N. M. Loney of New York City. Six buildings will be erected at the start. All will be of the most substantial type of factory construction.

"Our main factory building will be 115x155 feet in size and of steel, b and concrete. A two-story concrete and brick building 75x180 feet in dimensions will house our tin plate and lithographing departments. We will have a warehouse covering a ground area of 112x153 feet. Our office building will be of brick and 95x35 feet in size. The other structures to be built at this time will be a large fireproof garage and reinforced concrete boiler and engine house."

This elegant hotel, situated on the summit of beautiful Mt. Washington in the heart of the most picturesque surroundings in Southern California, is considered one of the most popular hostelries on the Pacific Coast. The location is ideal, being only 20 minutes' car ride from the downtown business district, while a beautiful city-owned street with only per cent. grade, affords an entirely accessible approach for automobiles.

There are 65 rooms with a large percentage of private baths. Elegant lobby, ballroom, reception parlors, library, billiard room, dining-room, kitchen, etc., all on the first floor.

The furnishings, which are complete in every respect, comprise the most costly hotel equipment to be found in Los Angeles.

The spacious grounds include tennis courts, croquet grounds, beautiful gardens, etc.

Since the hotel was first opened it has always enjoyed a very high class and profitable patronage, which at this season of the year has taxed its capacity.

We are in a position to make a most unusually attractive proposition to experienced parties on the leasing of this superb property.

We are confident that under proper management, it will continue to be as it always has been, a consistent money-maker. Every reasonable assistance and absolute co-operation on the part of the owners is assured to any person who is experienced in handling a proposition of this character.

We believe this is the most attractive hotel proposition offered today and one that should be investigated at once.

20 OR 30 PER CENT. INVESTMENT.
A GREAT BUNGALOW COURT OR FLAT LOT. 60x155.
NEAR CORNER W. SEVENTH & HOOVER.
$1900 UNDER VALUE.
$3100 cash, or half cash, will buy an elegant large 60x155-foot lot, located only one block from corner W. Seventh and Hoover sts. and car line, two blocks from Bryson apartments, Hershey Arms Hotel, and other high-class Westlake-Wilshire improvements. Right in the midst of things and ripe for flat building or bungalow court; either would pay a handsome return on investment, and both are in evidence close by to prove this statement. A six three-room bungalow-court on a 50x145 ft. lot near by rents for $148 per month. A similar improvement on this 60-ft. and deeper lot can be made under $5850 making the total cost of lot and court under $9000. Rentals at $150 a month would yield you about 20 per cent. net on total cost. Or, if you borrowed $4500 thereon at 7 per cent., your net return would be about 30 per cent. on your investment. With such a showing you could, if desired, undoubtedly sell at a very handsome profit, particularly as you are obtaining a lot for 60 per cent. of its actual value. The lots adjoining this one either side are held at $5000 each, and this is an absolute sacrifice at the price quoted.

THE PARTNERSHIP OF THE HEN AND THE ORANGE.

Will be backed by the FONTANA LAND COMPANY by selling

TEN YOUNG ORANGE GROVES WITHOUT ANY CASH PAYMENT to the first ten applicants who have capital enough ($2000 to $3000) to build a dwelling and hen houses and embark in the poultry business.

These groves, 1, 2 and 3 years old, any variety or assortment, oranges, lemons or grapefruit, with gravity water rights, well located, will be sold at list prices, and may be paid for the third, fourth, fifth and sixth years.

INVESTIGATE and you will find the HEN gives the answer to these problems:
1. How to make a living while the trees are growing large enough to bear.
2. How to keep up and build up the fertility of the soil in the groves.

THE FONTANA POULTRY ASSOCIATION (cooperative) provides feeds and materials for Fontana poultrymen at wholesale prices, ships and sells their products to best advantage. Is headed by a successful, practical poultryman who knows the methods that produce financial success and who will be on hand to advise and guide its members.

FOR SALE—COUNTRY LANDS.

INVESTORS.

THIS MUST HAVE QUICK ACTION.

A partnership failure and disagreement compels the sale at once of a large tract of excellent land at a price heretofore unheard of.

EIGHT DOLLARS ($8.00) PER ACRE.

It is located on a main line railroad, is level, has excellent soil and an abundance of water. Adjoins good small town. City 12,000, only 20 miles. The land will sell or trade in 80 to 160-acre parcels at $45 per acre. Improved land in same district is now selling at $125 per acre. I want financial assistance in this purchase from several responsible parties. Quick action is absolutely necessary and money must be ready to place in escrow by February 1.

This is a fair and square proposition and there are no strings to it. For personal interview and details
Address BW, box 515, TIMES BRANCH OFFICE.

FOR SALE—OR EXCHANGE—

NINE YEARS' EXPERIENCE.

I have had nine years' experience in this city handling nothing but apartment-houses and hotels, and therefore know the history of every one west of Main st. Do you realize what this means to a propective buyer? I have taken an option on what I consider the two best buys in Los Angeles; rent on these houses has been $7.25 per room, I can get you a new lease for $5.50 per room, and sell you the furniture for about 50 cents on the dollar. They are making money today. It won't take much of your time to have me call in auto and show them to you, so why not call me over the phone for engagement? You would be satisfied to have either of these places as your home.

FOR EXCHANGE—

INCOME PROPERTY.

CLOSE-IN INCOME PROPERTY IN THE LIVE DISTRICT (BY THAT WE MEAN THAT DISTRICT BOUNDED BY SIXTH, PICO, MAIN AND FIGUEROA,) IS SELDOM OFFERED IN EXCHANGE BECAUSE OWNERS IN THAT DISTRICT REALIZE THE FUTURE IN STORE FOR THEIR HOLDINGS. THIS ESPECIALLY CONCERNS CORNERS WHICH OF ALL CLASSES OF PROPERTY IN THE DISTRICT ABOVE REFERRED TO IS THE HARDEST TO SECURE AT A REASONABLE PRICE, EVEN IN CASH TRANSACTIONS.

WE HAVE A CHOICE CORNER IN THIS DISTRICT IMPROVED WITH FOUR-STORY BRICK BUILDING PAYING GOOD INCOME WHICH WE CAN EXCHANGE.

THE PRICE, $100,000, IS REASONABLE.

THE MORTGAGE, $35,000, IS NOT A TOP-HEAVY LOAD TO CARRY, AND THE FACT THAT WE CAN ACCEPT CLEAR CITY PROPERTY FOR THE EQUITY WITHOUT A CASH DIFFERENCE IS INDEED VERY UNUSUAL.

SEE ME FOR FULL PARTICULARS.

HIGHEST PRICES REACHED IN CHICAGO

LAST YEAR'S WHEAT CROP IN EXCELLENT DEMAND.

Assertions are Coming in from Liverpool that the Maximum Advance in that City is Yet to be Reached—Under Heavy Profit Taking the Close is Unsettled.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Jan. 22.—Highest prices yet for the 1915 crop were reached here today in wheat, largely because of assertions from Liverpool that the maximum advance there was still to come. Under heavy profit-taking sales, however, Chicago prices closed unsettled, ¼ off to ⅜ up with May at 1.32⅝@1.32¾ and July at 1.25⅝. Corn showed a net loss of ⅛@⅜ to ⅝@¾ and oats off ⅛@¼ to ½. Provisions finished irregular, varying from 15 decline to a raise of 35. In the wheat trade, at the start, there were rapid price changes. The outcome was a small net loss in the July option, whereas May wound up at a little advance. Expected large arrivals Monday had a depressing influence on corn. Oats sympathized with corn but held up better. Higher prices on hogs gave for the most part only temporary strength to provisions. Buying orders became exhausted and the close was weak.

TWO HOURS' SESSION IS RATHERISH DULL.

LEADING SHARES RELEGATED TO COMPARATIVE OBSCURITY.

Market in Wall Street is Altogether Irregular and Inconclusive. Alcohols, Corn Products and Other Kindred Issues Seem to Engage All the Attention of Speculators.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—Trading in today's two-hour session was dull, irregular and altogether inconclusive. Leading stocks were relegated to comparative obscurity, their places being taken by such specialties as United States industrial alcohol, corn products and other kindred issues. Alcohol stock rose and fell between 169, its previous high record, and 160, closing at 162, a net loss of 4 points. United States Steel was under further pressure and Bethlehem Steel closed at 472, a loss of 12 points. War shares as a class were moderately higher. Stocks of no special designation rose 1 to 2 points, but representative shares, particularly rails, were inclined to sag. New York Central was the active feature of the railroad group. St. Paul also yielded a point, but with Central, made up some of its losses before the close. Total sales of stocks amounted to 190,000 shares. Demand for copper showed no abatement. The Lehigh Valley Railroad issued its December statement, showing a gain in revenues of $357,000. Some of the larger transportation systems are expected to issue December statements the coming week. Bonds were steady in today's limited market. Total sales, par value, aggregated $1,995,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call during the week.

COMMERCIAL.

According to Dan Talmage & Company, New York rice authorities, there is more activity in rice circles and the opening of the year has confirmed the expectations of holders who looked for a revival of business. Prices are well maintained on all grades. Honduras and Japans are exhibiting a hardening tendency and Blue Rose is steadily growing firmer, due undoubtedly to the renewed foreign inquiry, as Rangoons have advanced to the parity of the lower grades of this style. Advices from the South along the Atlantic Coast report a little improvement, but a decided movement is not expected until the latter half of the present month. What little Carolina is left will no doubt be in demand as soon as the trade realizes the scarcity of attractive Honduras styles. At New Orleans the strong statistical position of Honduras becomes more apparent from day to day, evidenced by the fact that offerings of Rough of this variety are almost nil. Honduras grades are slowly but surely advancing. Japans and broken rices are in very light supply and bringing full prices. Blue Rose, on account of strong export inquiry, is holding its own remarkably well. In the interior, Southwest Louisiana, Texas and Arkansas, the mills report renewed interest and are holding prices very firm. Very little rough transactions are reported and evidently the farmers are holding out for full association minimums. Locally there is nothing new to report.

Transportation facilities to this city have now been completely restored and the supply of vegetables is once more normal. A few sacks of Lompoc potatoes arrived in Los Angeles yesterday and the same were at once placed on the market at $2.35 a hundred.

The only active commodity on the Produce Exchange Saturday was chees, 25 drums of California selling at 16½ cents a pound. Butter and cheese, 25 drums of California selling cisco but eggs took a sudden jump of 5 cents a dozen. Receipts of the chief staples totaled 214 cases of eggs, 45,000 pounds of butter and 6750 pounds of cheese. Other arrivals were 2010 sacks of potatoes, 12 sacks of beans and 666 boxes of apples.

New York Cotton Market.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—Small buying by Liverpool and week-end covering by some of the recent sellers imparted a firm tone to the market. The dullness of southern spot markets and the failure of expected weakness to develop in that quarter, has been chiefly responsible for the covering movement of the past few days, and with the elimination of this short interest the market will likely prove more vulnerable to selling pressure. One cannot evade the acute conditions prevailing in the export division with exports from August 1, 1915, to date being 630,000 bales smaller than the corresponding date last year, and the volume of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance to foreign ports does not indicate any free movement in the near future. Liverpool cotton cables due 4 up on March and May, and 4½ up on July, came ½ better than due on March and May and 1 lower than due on July. Moderate business in spot cotton; prices firm; sales, 3000; receipts, 13,000; American, 1600; middlings, 8.21; futures opened steady.

Big profits can be made in Oatman stocks. On December 3rd, Big Jim at 25 cents per share. We advised immediate purchase. On January sold up to $1.30 per share and who followed our advice made a profit of 520 per cent. in 11 days. We advise immediate purchase of at the market. Lucky Boy is capitalized for only $100,000 and its property comprises 200 acres in the heart of the richest part of the district. It is about 1000 feet from the Big Jim and Tom Reed. The property is well equipped with new machinery and is being actively developed, with good indications. In our opinion the Lucky Boy property is one of the most promising in the district.
Lucky Boy is listed on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange and is one of the most active traders in the entire Oatman list. The market is around 16 cents per share. We consider this a very low price for the stock and advise immediate purchase. Call or write for full information and Free Market Letter.

Five Men.

HUNS SWEEP THE CROSS-COUNTRY.

Score Five Men Ahead of the First Tiger.

Bill Annin Pulls Ligament in His Ankle.

Adkinson Makes Remarkable Time for Course.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CLAREMONT, Jan. 22.—Pomona won a sweeping victory over Occidental this afternoon in the first annual intercollegiate cross country run when five huns crossed the line before the first Oxy man made his appearance. Adkinson, after running a marvelous race, finished the four miles in 21 minutes and 13 2-5 seconds, while Walter Sturges followed him to the tape in 22 minutes flat. Orcutt, D. Sturges and Walden all finished less than two minutes behind the winners, giving the Huns a clean sweep.

ANNIN HURT.

Occidental received a hard blow toward the end of the race when Annin, captain of the track team, dropped out with a torn ligament in his right ankle. This is the first time in his life that Annin has ever met with such an accident as this and it is feared that it may prove a serious drawback to him during the coming track season. Annin was running sixth when the accident happened.

Adkinson, the winner, is the hero of the hour at Pomona tonight. Just how remarkable his record is can be understood when it is realized that his average time of 10 minutes 36 2-5 seconds for each two miles, is a mark considered fairly fast even in a track race over such a distance. Adkinson was never pressed throughout the race, and there is no telling how much faster he might have gone if there had been someone competing with him capable of giving him a rub. The Huns are already regarding him as a second Fischer, and are expecting him to develop into one of the greatest middle distance men the South has ever seen.

"WALT" WINS.

"Walt" and "Det" Sturges ran side by side for most of the distance, but the younger member of the family finally pulled ahead for the finish. Orcutt also managed to pass the Pomona track captain before the finish was reached. Walden placed closely behind, giving the Huns a perfect score of 15 points. Occidental had 43 points charged against her.

The Huns took the lead from the very start of the race. By the time the long climb up College avenue was finished the five Sage Hens were well in the lead, and this lead was increased on the stretch along the Foothill boulevard. The Huns kept increasing the distance between them and the first Tiger the farther the race went, and at the finish Adkinson was almost half a mile ahead of Huddleston, the first Oxy man to cross the line.

COMPETITION.

The only real race of the day developed between Walden and Huddleston for fifth place and the flying Hun soon left his competitor behind. The men finished in the following order: Adkinson (P.,) 21m 13 2-5s; W. Sturges (P.,) 22m; Orcutt (P.,) 22m 24s; D. Sturges (P.,) 22m 40s; Walden (P.,) 22m 58s; Huddleston (O.,) 23m 8s; Pitchard (O.,) 23m 46s; Gerry (P.,) 24m 9s; Hills (O.,) 25m 22s; Eldred (O.,) 25m 59s; Mier (O.,) 26m 19s.

Among the exhibitors will be found the Doane, a new locally-designed low-down type, which is creating much interest among merchants; the equally new Golden West Quad, a four-wheel drive and steer truck designed and built at Sacramento; a full line of Kelley-Springfield trucks; the Moreland line, using distillate for fuel; the Denby, Moore, Dart, Reo, G. M. C., Metz, Hewitt-Ludlow, and others.

Excursions from all towns in this vicinity will carry prospective buyers to the show. Dealers are enthusiastic and if this show proves successful a similar exhibition may be held annually.

ALTADENA IS LION OF DAY.

Licks San Gabriel on Both of the Counts.

Virginians and Annandale Divide Honors.

George Cline Taken in Camp by Bud Story.

BY ALMA WHITAKER.

The Altadena team licked the San Gabriel team on the San Gabriel links yesterday, 3 points to 2 on both counts.

And the Virginia team licked Annandale 3 to 2 on scratch, but lost the handicaps 3 to 2 on the Virginia course.

San Gabriel's dejection was complete, and Altadena was radiantly jubilant. Bill Bacon and Elmer Ralph were the only men to win for San Gabriel, both by large margins. Two of the other matches went to the 19th hole.

HERE THEY ARE.

San Gabriel's team was composed of Bacon, Cline, Ralph, Shoales and Jergins. Altadena of Story, Volk, Guyer, Newby and Smith.

A. C. Volk played Bill Bacon and only lost the handicap by 1 up, for Bill did not quite realize the amount of skill that went with that handicap. But the scratch went to Bacon by the goodly margin of 6 and 5.

Bud Story, the Altadena captain, beat George Cline 1 up at the 19th on scratch and 3 and 2 on handicap.

Elmer Ralph, who has never yet lost a match and is obviously a player to be watched with interest, who drives a mighty ball and has a nice tecnique with approach shots, beat Henry Newby 8 and 6, and 5 and 4.

THIRD TIME.

Lee Guyer again wins for his team technique with approach shots, beat Bill Shoales 3 and 2, and 5 and 4. And they regard Bill Shoales as one of their really good players out there, with a drive that equaled and sometimes surpassed Hugo Johnstone's.

But perhaps Clark Smith's defeat of Jergins was the most pathetic spectacle—1 up at the 19th on scratch, 3 and 2 on handicap. From the 19th tee they fared much the same, but the intensity of the waiting gallery awed Jergins and he dubbed a baby approach shot very much like a society debutante who is trying to arrange a side curl with one hand and play with the other.

WANTS TO BAN NEGRO SCRAPS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 22.—No Sunday fights or fights between negroes and whites will be tolerated in New Orleans if Mayor Behrman has his way. He refused to grant Tommy Burns, former heavyweight champion, a permit today to stage a sparring exhibition between Fred Fulton, Minnesota giant, and Harry Wills, local negro heavyweight, with a big reputation.

"It was not the purpose of the law granting promoters the right to stage fights to allow Sunday battles and I will refuse permits to any. I do not want white men to fight negroes here," said Mayor Behrman.

As a result, the projected battle has been declared off. Ministers here endorsed Behrman's stand and said Sunday fights would mean the repeal of the law granting the right to twenty-round battles.

POLO SEASON IS ON AGAIN.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SANTA BARBARA, Jan. 22.—The polo season opened at the Leadbetter Field this afternoon. The players in the first game of the season were: Charles Dabney, Charles Dabney, Jr., Edgar Park, Arthur Ogilby, Fred Baxter, Dr. E. J. Boeseke, Felton Elkins and F. W. Leadbetter. Sides were chosen on the field and the 1916 polo season started with a small crowd on the side lines. The game will be played once or twice each week on the Leadbetter field for the next month.

Santa Barbara's polo club will open its big field in Montecito about the middle of next month with a gymkhana and a polo game between a picked Santa Barbara team and a visiting team not yet decided upon.

The Well Fortified

The successful, up-to-date Motor Car must be WELL FORTIFIED.

Ample capital, tremendous buying power, and enormous output, making possible minimum profits—these are chief essentials. To these must be added a strong agency.

What is behind your car—the car you're expecting to buy? The Reo Motor Car Company of Lansing, Mich., is one of the four strongest automobile manufacturers in the United States.

This makes possible not only the smallest margin of profit, consequently the greatest value at the price, but greatest efficiency of manufacture and unexcelled service.

The local Reo Agency, with its numerous branches in California, with its more than 100 service stations, together with the Earle C. Anthony, Inc., Copyrighted Service System, rounds out the best fortified car in the United States sold under $2000.

Better look into this. It is a straight tip.

AUTO CLUB IS GREAT BENEFIT.

Great Motoring Organization Serves Public.

Temporary Signs Mark Routes Open to Autos.

Touring Information Bureau Sets New Record.

With practically every highway in Southern California closed to travel for a period of twenty-four hours or longer, the telephone switchboard at the headquarters of the Automobile Club of Southern California hung up a record for the number of phone calls on road information answered last week during the storm.

More than two calls a minute, or approximately 1200 calls a day for five days, were handled in the touring information bureau alone, and the scout cars were busy securing data until far into the nights.

It was a record-breaking week for the Automobile Club. Every highway washed out by the rains has had substitutes marked for it with temporary route signs placed by the club even while the storm was at its height. Trucks and cars representing the organization battled with the floods in many places, and one car spent a bad three hours in Soledad Canyon.

NEW ROUTES.

Today motorists starting out on their regular Sunday tours will be confronted by a unique situation. Their usual routes will probably be closed, and they will be forced to follow new by-paths which pass through some of Southern California's best scenery. New territories will be opened to travel.

The Telegraph road, leading to Pomona, Riverside, San Bernardino, Long Beach and Santa Ana, will be more traveled today and tomorrow than it has been in a whole year. Many motorists will learn for the first time that there is a Telegraph road, and in following the Auto Club's "temporary route" signs they will find for the first time that Southern California's wonderful highway system is a reality and not a myth.

In a situation such as developed last week, when almost all roads were closed, motorists came face to face with the fact that there must be an automobile organization to handle matters which arise and require centralized action.

GOOD WORK.

Approximately 10,000 motorists would have been marooned in Los Angeles for two days at least without any immediate accurate information on highway conditions if other motorists were not maintaining a touring bureau which was actively engaged in securing data and relaying it to the club headquarters, where it automatically became available for all.

An automobile club to give service of this kind must be given the support of the majority of automobile owners in the community. While this organization has earned a reputation for "doing things," there is opportunity for greater support in its work, and members have been asked to ask their friends to also become members.

DADDY HARRIS HANSHUE NOW.

Although the sky was overcast, the wind had the velocity of an eight-cylinder touring car and the rain descended in torrents, last Monday, Harris M. Hanshue, the Apperson branch manager, smiled as he never had smiled before. It was not because seven cars had been sold the previous week that joy illuminated Hansue's face either, but that on that day Mrs. Hanshue had presented him with an eight-pound baby girl, and mother and daughter were enjoying excellent health. Little Miss Hanshue has been named Harmony Patricia.

TO CULTIVATE ELSINORE DUCKS.

Lake Elsinore is to be made the finest public shooting preserve in California next season if the plans of Elsinore garagemen and hotel proprietors carry through. It is planned to feed the ducks. The hotel and garagemen are to organise for this purpose.

E. C. Crossman has been asked to take up the matter of feeding the ducks on Lake Elsinore with the boosters and sportsmen of that place, and many local duck-shooting enthusiasts have taken an active interest in the project at this early date.

SAN FERNANDO WINS ITS FOURTH VICTORY.

San Fernando High School's basketball team won its fourth league game last Thursday by defeating Van Nuys, 64-26. So far they have not been beaten and seem to stand a good chance of landing the cup.

Coach Millen has taught his boys a hard, fighting game which takes opponents by surprise.

HUDDLESTON WINS.

The second annual Echo Park Playground cross-country run was won yesterday by Capt. Huddleston, the 14-year-old leader of a four-man team. Besides winning first place in the race around the park, a distance of more than a mile, in 6m. 59⅘s., the team championship also went to young Huddleston.

GOTCH'S SUCCESS DUE TO SPEED AND SCIENCE.

World's Greatest Exponent of Catch-as-catch-can Style of Wrestling Studied All the Fine Points and then Chose His Game — Claims Toe Hold is not the Best of Mat Devices.

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS.

FRANK GOTCH, as all admit, is the world's greatest exponent of the catch-as-catch-can version of the wrestling game.

During his prime he ranged on the mat as Jeffries did in the ring while champion. He is to wrestling what Ty Cobb is to baseball, Willie Hoppe to billiards, Alfred de Oro to pool, and Eddie Mahan to football.

How few, however, while recognising his ability, can even guess at the real secret of his success.

That he beat all comers, defeated wrestlers in every known language, is an accepted fact.

The average man lets it go at that, and dismisses the subject from his overwrought mind. That an American won the championship honestly and retired with the honor is something calculated to satisfy the average citizen.

In popular conception Gotch is a huge bone-breaker—true, not as large as some, but of superior fiber. To the general way of thinking he simply went in and beat his man. Gotch is a big man, all right, tipping the beam at 206 pounds in his Holeproofs when in condition, and yet he has been tremendously outweighed in a majority of his matches.

Yesterday we asked him the real secret of his success.

He summed it up in three words, "Speed and science."

Whereupon Old Avoirdupois, so generally accepted as the prime factor in mat matches, curled up in a back seat.

Most of us had assumed that only the large and spacious gents could be successful in the grappling game. When the sporting pages printed a picture of a plentiful and capacious foreigner nearly everybody took it for granted that he must be a terrific wrestler, and that it would be extremely difficult to rock him on his foundations. Gotch early got away from this idea. He is a big man. He can pick a yearling calf up by the hoofs and throw it over his biggest barn. But despite his heft he looked comparatively puny when he steamed up alongside some of his massive opponents and threw out the grappling irons.

Therefore he decided that the surest way to beat these abominable Turks and other invading guys was to outthink, outspeed and outgeneral them. He thought out moves and grips which were new to wrestling, among them being the toe hold, which is a scientific method of twisting an opponent's leg off at the knee unless he capitulates.

"Contrary to general belief, speed and science are greater assets in wrestling than weight and strength," said Gotch. "In fact, they play almost as great a part in the mat game as in boxing or fencing. Of course, a man must have a certain degree of strength to make his science avail, but a fast man has every essential advantage over a slow but heavy opponent.

"Finding I was frequently outclassed in poundage and physical prowess, I figured that this disadvantage could be more than offset by speed and skill. A small but active dog can almost worry a bear to death. In a way I applied the same principle to wrestling. I made wrestling a study, and figured out every possible advantage that could be taken.

"I soon saw where speed would be a great factor; a factor which many of the big men had overlooked. Endowed from boyhood with a robust body, I devoted more attention to developing speed than to developing my muscles. Exercise with heavy weights would have increased the size of my muscles, but reduced their elasticity and diminish my speed. So I did but little work with the weights."

In other words, Gotch thought about two generations ahead of the average grappler, and it was this, plus his natural ability, which made him monarch of the mat.

Formerly, wrestling was confined to the Graeco-Roman style, which permitted of no holds below the waist. When the limit of skill had been reached in the Graeco-Roman school, variations were sought, and finally the grapplers of Lancanshire, Eng., evolved a rough-and-ready style of wrestling, which in time became known as catch-as-catch-can, and which permitted of gripping an opponent either above or below the waist. However, it remained in rather a crude state for a long time, few effective new holds being perfected.

When Gotch entered the game he saw that the catch-as-catch-can style of wrestling held undeveloped possibilities. He figured that there were even more effective holds to be made below the waist than above, and after much scientific research and experimenting brought forth the deadly toe hold. When a gent with a strong grip secures a toe hold on an opponent said opponent is doomed to almost immediate defeat.

However, Gotch denies that the toe hold is his best card. He claims to have beaten a majority of his men with a "crotch."

"I found that the half-Nelson was practically useless against a bulky opponent," said Gotch. "It was like putting a yoke on an ox. He simply would walk away with me. In my quest for a new system of attack I evolved the toe hold. However, I do not use it as frequently as generally believed. It is more of a strategical asset.

"True, the toe hold is a deadly contrivance when properly executed. Because of my reputation for using it I found that most of my opponents were continually on the defensive against it. This sooner or later left them open to the crotch hold, which, to my way of thinking, is the most effective one in use. Never, as nearly as I can recall, has an opponent broken one of my crotch holds. It is with this that I have won a majority of my battles.

"Of course, I have beaten a number of men with the toe grip, but aside from its moral effect on the enemy it has not played as important a part in my victories as is generally believed."

Time and again it has been written that Gotch owes his success with the toe hold to the tremendous gripping power of his hand.

In reply to this the Iowa farmer extended his justly-celebrated right mit. It did not resembled a ham in the least. In fact, it was surprisingly small and well-formed for a man of his size, and who did manual labor in his youth, such as milking cows. Neither did it display outward evidence of great strength.

Gotch explained the seeming phenomenon.

"As wrestlers go, I have no unusual gripping power in my hands," said he. "Rather, I have the stamina to hang on, once I get hold."

To speak succinctly, he does not win by tearing the other guy asunder as you or I would break a wishbone, but by out-lasting, out-gaming and out-thinking him.

Gotch doesn't think much of George Hackenschmidt, and does not hesitate to brand him as an athlete with a wide stratum of saffron running his full length.

He made clear his title to the championship of the world by defeating Hackenschmidt in 1909. Hack curled up and quit at the end of one hour and three minutes.

"Had Farmer Burns, who was handling me in that match, allowed me to cut loose, there never would have been any excuse for a return engagement," explained Gotch. "Burns held me on the defensive for the first hour. He wanted me to play safe. Right down in my heart, after we had gripped for the first time, I felt that I could beat Hack, and beat him quickly. But they kept holding me back. In the end, Hackenschmidt quit cold. He was never a real champion. Why? Because he was yellow."

No Chance Taken.

RELIABLE MEN OFFER EXCELLENT USED CARS.

ONE of the biggest problems which the motor car dealer has to face, the second-hand car, is adjusting itself in Southern California in a very favorable way. In a short time the laws of supply and demand will settle the market of any product to a firm basis, and such is becoming the case with the second-hand car.

Few motorists realise, until they have looked into the situation with the utmost care, the number of good second-hand buys on the Los Angeles market at present.

The second-hand car, if bought from a reputable dealer and backed by this dealer's guarantee and efficient service department, is a safe proposition. The old-time notion that the buyer of a second-hand car is certain to get the worst of the deal, is gradually being overcome, through an efficient educational campaign on the part of the leading dealers of Southern California.

The man who values his business reputation will not sell a second-hand car until he knows it is in good condition, and he will not try to tell the purchaser that he is getting a good car if he is selling one that has about outlived its usefulness.

A special session of the Kansas Legislature may be called to decide upon a State-wide bond issue for road construction.

FOX HUNTING LOCAL SPORT.

FOX hunting, the king of all outdoor sports, within thirty minutes' distance of the center of the city and almost at the edge of the city limits, is receiving the attention of sportsmen visitors here from the East.

Yesterday Attorney Andrew Park, aided by his pack of foxhounds, captured one of the most-handsomely-marked foxes ever taken in this State and brought his tally for fox hunting up to forty foxes. In speaking of the facilities for fox hunting here Mr Park said:

"I am 60 years of age and have hunted foxes for more than forty years, from the coast of Georgia to the Pacific, and nowhere in America is there better sport than right at our door. The hills are literally alive with foxes.

"Early yesterday morning, with a party of friends, we started a fox within fifty feet of my lodge, where my kennels are located, in the Benedict Canyon north of the Beverly Hills Hotel. The pack chased the fox a distance of probably fifty miles, up and down the canyon, the death occurring within 100 yards of the starting point.

INTEREST SHOWN.

"I have been repeatedly asked to trap foxes for eastern estates, where the animal is almost extinct, and have had letters from all parts of the country asking about the fox-hunting conditions here. Eastern men are taking up land in the canyons north of the city for the purpose of having a place to follow the hounds. This city is the only place in the world that I know of where one can step off a trolley car and find a multitude of foxes."

Mr. Park has a kennel of sixteen hounds, five old dogs and the remainder yearlings, all excellent hunters. With this pack the hunters go out and when a fox is found the dogs are unleashed and the hunt is on. The California fox is one of the most artful in the world and it generally requires from two to three hours to run him down. While not so large as the eastern red fox, the marking is similar and the animal has more evasive tricks than his eastern brother. He has one point in common with all other foxes, however, and that is he always returns to his lair when capture seems certain, and the death generally occurs within a short distance of the starting point.

The fox pack owned by Mr. Park is also well adapted to hunt coyotes, and when more strenuous sport than fox hunting is desired the party goes farther afield, knowing that an entire day will be consumed in the chase.

MOTOR CARS SAVE THOUSANDS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

POMONA, Jan. 21.—During the first three days of the week it was abundantly demonstrated to the people of this community that the automobile is a wonderful institution of modern times. Within five hours after the storm started the city streetcar lines were out of commission and the jitney bus was then master of all it surveyed.

Conservatively estimated, the jitneys hauled 1000 local passengers a day for three days. The fare was 25 cents anywhere in the city while the water was high and 10 cents a ride after the flood had subsided. There was general satisfaction because of the fact that the jitney drivers did not take advantage of their opportunity and spring the prices on their patrons. People who were prejudiced against the jitneys gladly jumped into them when confronted with the prospect of wading home, and hundreds have been converted to the jitney idea as a result.

Throughout the three days of riding through the mud and water that covered the streets not one passenger was injured. One driver claims to have taken in 116 fares between 6 a.m. and 9 p.m. on Tuesday. The fares averaged two-bits a throw. He hauled thirty-two telephone girls that day. Many of the jitney drivers claimed to have averaged as much as $30 a day during the storm. Runabouts were used. Some of them stalled in the water, with flooded carburetors, but in such cases relief cars were ordered by phone and were soon on the job.

ROADSTER IS NOW A FAMILY AUTO.

Among the innovations in automobile construction, 1916 has brought out some unique ideas in roadster construction, which promise to be permanently adopted. Among the new designs is what is popularly termed "family roadsters." These have a seating arrangement designed primarily to meet the requirements of the small family.

Among other cars, which have made use of this new idea, is the Oldsmobile light four roadster, which virtually has the capacity of a touring car, as five passengers can be seated comfortably in an emergency.

The front seat is designed to carry three passengers and the car has an overflow capacity of two passengers, having an extra large luggage compartment covered by a pair of hinged doors, which, when opened up, transform the rear section into two well-upholstered seats, which are quite commodious and not uncomfortable; the top can either be let down or the rear curtain rolled up out of the way, so that the rear passengers are not isolated.

New York City boasts 8000 places where ten pins can be rolled.

CONTEST BOARD TO PICK CHAMP.

The contest board of the American Automobile Association has tentatively decided to select the master driver and master car in the 1916 speedway and road racing circuit, thus following the example set by Motor Age during the past several seasons of selecting the champion driver and car for road racing and also for speedway racing. Plans are yet chaotic, but the suggestion has been made to award the driver so distinguished with a gold medal, carrying his profile on the front and a suitable inscription on the back and further to give him $500 in gold. The complete details of the award will be worked out by the contest board.

The MORELAND is the only truck ever produced that successfully operates with distillate; and distillate is the cheapest possible fuel.

The famous Moreland Gasifier, which makes possible the use of distillate instead of expensive gasoline, can not be had nor used on on any other than the Moreland Distillate Truck.

All MORELANDS are distillate trucks; all distillate trucks are MORELANDS.

HARD GOING.

Storms Lock Motor Traffic Between Santa Barbara and San Luis. Local Man Drives Last Car Known to Make Run North.

On account of the heavy rains all automobile traffic between Santa Barbara and San Luis was suspended last week.

The last car known to have made the trip north from Santa Barbara was a Saxon six driven by L. G. Thompson of Los Angeles.

The Gaviota road was reported impassable on account of the soft fills in the State highway between Goleta and Gaviota. Every one who knew of Thompson's intention to drive the Saxon north advised him against the attempt, nevertheless he left Santa Barbara in a heavy downpour.

The south side of San Marcos has many grades cut in the clay or adobe and in such places the wheels would spin without getting traction. Even tire chains could not present it.

Near the summit there are two fords that came near stopping the trip. The water came within two or three inches of the floor boards.

Going down the north side was almost as bad as the climb to the summit, as a very low rate of speed had to be maintained and the car allowed to slide down one hill after another with the brakes set.

Between the grade and Santa Inez many soft spots of adobe had to be negotiated.

Betwen Los Olivos and Los Alamos Thompson came near meeting his Waterloo on a slippery adobe hill with no ruts to help guide the car. The car slid off the road and hung over the bank. Thompson walked two miles in the mud to a ranch. Four hours' work the next morning put the car back on the road.

At Santa Maria high water has so weakened the new bridge that it has been closed. The ford is impassable.

South of San Luis two temporary bridges on detours around new bridge construction are out. North of that place the new Cuesta grade has been closed on account of slides.

The old grade on the south side is open, but the Santa Margarita side of the grade has given way in several places and is dangerous, but passable.

Officials of the St. Louis & San Francisco Railroad, the headquarters of which are at Springfield, Mo., are combining with other main-line roads in Missouri in an effort to determine what effect the general use of motor cars has had on passenger receipts.

A sharp rapping resembling a loose piston slap when the throttle is suddenly opened may be due to weak rings, or more especially, a weak top ring.

WORM'S EYE VIEW GIVEN.

A worm's eye view of an Oakland model "32" is afforded visitors to the showroom of Hawley, King & Co. The new six-cylinder car that has been attracting so much attention is being demonstrated in a way out of the ordinary. A five-passenger touring car is laid flat on one side and the bottom of the crank case removed so that the interested observer may see the working parts in motion.

To increase interest in winter motoring and winter buying of cars, the members of the Automobile Trades' Association of Colorado are sending out 60,000 attractive mountain driving stickers on their mail.

EASTERNERS OUT FOR THE WINTER.

Joseph D. Jones of Butte, Mont., arrived in Los Angeles last week just before the storm tore up the roads. Mr. Jones had just finished a trip in his Cole eight from his home, having come here to spend the winter.

"You surely have our country beaten on climate and good roads," said Jones. "It's great to find a place where the roads are minus chuckholes and one can drive comfortably without blankets and a stove. On our trip here we made 2172 miles, over some very bad going, but without mishaps or trouble of any sort.

In addition to Mr. Jones and his party, Ed F. Harris, manager of the Cole Motor Company, reports the arrival of the following parties and their Cole cars from the East by train:

Albert Rochester and family, Great Falls, Mont.; H. N. Norton and family, Jersey City, N. J.; W. J. Turner and family, Lincoln, Neb.; Mr. and Mrs. James R. Hodek, Chicago, Ill.; E. H. Henning and party, Chicago, Ill., and William B. Woodwick and family, Kansas City, Mo.

TRUCKS SHINE IN GOLD FIELDS.

Operating a motor truck between Kingman and the Oatman and Gold Roads district, the only method of getting supplies into these mining camps, is no easy proposition, writes F. O. Nelson who operates a fleet of G.M.C. trucks between these points. Only a few miles of bad roads exist on the route but these few miles, according to Nelson, are probably the worst any motor truck is called upon to negotiate day after day. One of the steepest grades in Arizona and perhaps the most treacherous in the country extends from Gold Roads to the summit of the range between Kingman and the Colorado River.

Chicago Speedway Derby to be Staged During Republican National Convention—Amateur Drivers Representing Many Clubs Get Sanction.

The date of the Chicago speedway 300-mile race, originally set for June 17, has been changed to June 10 in order that the second annual motor derby will fall during the week of the Republican National Convention.

The first race on that speedway will be held May 20, when the amateur drivers' contest will be run. The rules for the contest have been confirmed by Chairman R. Kennerdall of the A.A.A. contest board and entry blanks set out.

The promoters aim to make the amateur race an interclub affair and have the cars and drivers fly the colors of the Chicago Automobile Club, the Chicago Athletic Association, the Illinois Athletic Club, the Chicago Motor Club, the South Shore Country Club and other organizations of the city that are interested in motoring.

G. A. URQUHART, manager of the White company's branch at San Francisco, arrived in Los Angeles Friday evening in a White 4-45 roadster after an exciting and strenuous trip from the northern city. They left San Francisco Sunday morning at 7 o'clock and made good time to Visalia through heavy rains. The road between Visalia and Bakersfield was practically impassable on account of the heavy adobe encountered; however, after riding all night and plowing through the mud they arrived at Bakersfield Monday morning.

Five hours later there was four feet of water going over the highway just out of Bakersfield and they decided to wait over until the storm ceased. They were advised that every road north and south of Bakersfield was closed for all kinds of traffic.

HELP FELLOW TOURER PLAN.

Is Southern California discourteous to eastern motoring visitors?

There were 25,000 automobiles in Southern California during 1915, each bearing the license plate of another State. They were visitors here, and a large number of them sought information at the headquarters of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

Some of them, according to President Fred L. Baker, reported that they had met with a whole lot of selfishness among local motor fans while out on the long boulevards, and they wanted to know why people of the far West should be thoughtless or selfish when their reputation in other matters is one of the large generosity and kindness.

PERHAPS WRONG.

President Baker not only denies that Southern California motorists in general, are thoughtless, but indicates why eastern visitors might gain this impression erroneously.

"It has long been the policy of the members of the Automobile Club to give aid wherever needed while out on the highways," he pointed out yesterday, "and this courtesy has extended to the general motoring public.

"However, it must be remembered that Southern California itself is about as large as five New England States put together, and its boulevards cover hundreds of miles. Out here the motorist thinks nothing of covering 200 or 300 miles a day, while in the greater part of the East that would be impossible.

"Our here it is a country of great open spaces, where good time can be made without outside interference, and automobilists are apt to hurry along so as to cover a greater number of miles than at first planned.

TOO MUCH SPEED.

"This is true on the coast road to San Diego. There is no doubt that the criticism expressed by one eastern gentleman at the Automobile Club, that his stalled car had been passed by at least twenty machines between here and San Diego without a single offer of help until he stood in the middle of the road, is too often true.

"Motorists are apt to adopt a policy of 'letting the other fellow do it,' while they hurry along to their destination. In the East motoring in many sections is very confined. There are many towns at short distances from each other. Motorists do not hurry there, and they stop often to help the other fellow.

"It is from these eastern visitors that the majority of the criticisms come. There will be thousands more of them here this spring—probably a great many more than were here last year—and I would suggest that all of Southern California motordom make a resolution to help the other fellow, particularly if there is a foreign license plate on his car.

"A policy of unusual courtesy here this year will soon call for comment in the East, and will reflect particular credit upon this section of the country. Already Southern California is the greatest motoring mecca in America."

AJAX DIVIDEND.

The directors of the Ajax Rubber Company have declared a quarterly dividend of $1.25 a share, placing the stock on a 10 per cent. basis, or $5 per share annually. The Ajax Rubber Company was formed a few weeks ago to acquire the assets, business and good will of the Ajax-Grieb Rubber Company, as a going concern. The company acquired has been in business more than ten years. Net earnings for the last four fiscal years ending August 31, 1915, averaged $432,445.84 annually, equivalent to over 14 per cent. of the par value of the $3,000,000 stock of the Ajax Rubber Company.

PAIGE
The Fairfield "SIX-46" $1295 f.o.b. DETROIT

Here are the facts—

Established by thousands of American People

FIRST and foremost, let us remind you that the Paige Fairfield "Six-46" is a tried and proven success.

It isn't necessary for us to "claim" that this handsome seven passenger car will render unfailing service day in and day out.

It isn't necessary for us to "claim" that it is staunchly built — mechanically efficient — superbly designed.

All of these things have been definitely established by thousands of American people who own the "Fairfield"—people who have selected it in preference to all other light Sixes on the market.

When you buy a Paige "Six-46" today, you are buying a car that has passed the experimental stage. You are buying a car of known quality—known ability.

In a word, the "Six-46" is an eminently safe automobile investment.

It is a good car—not merely because we say so—but because its owners have conclusively established this goodness in the gruelling tests of more than a year's actual road work.

Other "Light Six" makers are now introducing 1916 models. Some of these makers feature new designs—new power plants—new engineering theories.

In the course of time, these innovations may prove thoroughly practical in every way.

But until that time comes—until these cars have been thoroughly "tried out" in actual service—the prudent man will be inclined to buy the car with a tangible record of accomplishment behind it.

As it stands today, the Paige "Six-46" is a thoroughly finished product.

By carefully studying the combined experience of owners, we have been able to proceed intelligently in perfecting this car until it has been brought up to the current day—the current hour—of six cylinder elegance and luxury.

In our opinion, no more efficient six cylinder power plant can be produced and every feature of the car throughout is in keeping with the high mechanical standards.

Above all, the Paige "Six-46" is a "sensible" car.

While there has been considerable talk about excessively high speed motors, we flatly refuse to support any such propaganda.

Paige motors are built to endure, and we believe that it is impossible to reconcile excessively high speed with minimum wear and tear on working parts.

It is our policy in the Paige factory to build safely and sanely. The cars that we market are established successes—not experiments.

On this basis, we enjoy—and shall continue to enjoy—the absolute confidence of Paige owners and Paige distributors the world over.

NEW JOB FOR BASEBALL MAN.

Andy Ferguson, for years assistant secretary of the Los Angeles club, has accepted a place with the San Francisco team and will move to that city about March 1. His position will be that of private secretary to Henry Berry.

Ferguson has been connected with the local club so long that he has come to be regarded as a landmark by the fans. His information regarding the inside of the business end of baseball makes him a valuable man.

He will be succeeded here by Percy McFadden, son of Ward McFadden, Boots Weber, business manager of the Angels, having made the appointment yesterday.

HAD CHANCE TO COLLECT.

Were it not for the fact that the first Franklin sedan of the new series to arrive in Los Angeles was sold immediately, Ralph C. Hamlin could enrich himself to the extent of $100. Hamlin, who now is visiting the Franklin factory, at Syracuse, N. Y., was asked if he had sold the sedan and upon saying he had, was told that the Seattle dealer is offering $100 bonus to obtain one of these cars. The factory is unable to supply him immediately as the output is promised far in advance.

The past year was the most remarkable in the history of the Franklin company. At the close of 1914, the company had enjoyed its best year up to that date. That year 2490 cars were sold.

But 1915 showed an increase of 66 per cent. The total sales were 4128. There were not enough cars to meet the demand. In order to approach nearer to supplying the market for the air-cooled car, large additions have been made to the factory and it is the intention to produce 7000 cars during 1916.

Front-drive Freak.

CHRISTIE RACER PIONEER IN MODERN CONSTRUCTION.

Builder of Car Famous Throughout the World as Speed Creation was Pace Setter for Latter-day Automobile Engineers — Carburetor Changed, but Other Equipment Remains the Same Throughout.

In 1906 Waltr Christie of New York City, built the famous front drive racing car that has for the past five years belonged to Barney Oldfield. It represented his best efforts in that it was the last of three special cars which he had built and raced for several years previous.

With the very beginning of automobile racing in this country Christie had conceived the idea of the front drive car and saw in it numerous advantages which if properly worked out would give wonderful results in speed, balance and control.

He had money and the courage of his convictions, consequently, it was not long before he completed his first car which by its performance showed great possibilities with further improvement of detail in design.

IN FIRST VANDERBILT.

The second car was better in every way and Christie entered it in the first Vanderbilt Cup Race over the Long Island course. He drove the car himself and those who saw that race will never forget his wild bursts of speed on the straightaways and his sensational slides in the turns. A rear-end collision with Lancia's Fiat put Christie out of the running; but he had made a good showing and was encouraged to build his third racing car which was finished in 1907 and in the following winter shipped to Daytona Beach, Florida to take part in the straightaway record trials.

With George Robertson driving, the car made the mile in 29 seconds, coasting the last quarter after the motor ceased due to a lack of lubrication and from that day until last July when Oldfield drove it two miles in 1:04 on the Chicago speedway, the car never had a chance to show its speed on a really fast course.

When one stops to consider that except for the Stanley steamer, the Christie is the only American-made car that has traveled better than two miles a minute, there is good cause to wonder at this car's remarkable ability for sped; especially in consideration of the fact that in all these years the motor has not been altered in any way or its equipment changed except in the matter of carburetors. Despite the fact that for nearly ten years it has seen hard service in exhibition work on all the dirt tracks in the country, the Christie is today the fastest American automobile. Not once since it was built, has any other car even attempted to challenge its clai mto supremacy. For ten years it has remained an undisputed champion.

The excellence of the motor's design, giving as it does high efficiency at slow engine speed, is particularly responsible for the car's performance, together with the fact that the front axle being the crankshaft, the bulk of the weight is over the driving wheels thereby reducing to a minimum, losses in traction and transmission of power. Freakish and impractical as this arrangement may seem, this design is really based upon sound mechanical principle and the combination of motor and front axle in one unit, makes possible the delivering of nearly 100 per cent. of the motor's power at the drive wheels.

Steering as he did with the same wheels that drove the car, Christie was obliged to design a universal joint which would be strong enough to take the tremendous strain of the motor and yet be sensitive enough to answer to the touch of the steering device. The car has always handled beautifully and at no time have the universals given the slightest trouble. In this respect we see in Christie the earliest exponent of a principle further developed and successfully applied to commercial vehicles of the four-wheel drive and steer type, and now approved by the government to meet the requirements of army truck work.

AHEAD OF TIME.

In the design of the motor itself, however, is found the most conclusive evidence that Christie was a man far ahead of his time. The value of some of his ideas has only been appreciated by engineers in the last year. They are now incorporated in design of a dozen different automobile motors. In the first place his was a motor of the V-type with cylinders set at forty-five degrees and exactly opposite each other. This necessitated a connecting rod design which would allow both rods to turn on the same bearing and to accomplish this purpose Christie originated the hinged rod, which ever since that time has been used extensively, particularly in the double cylinder motor cycle motors so common today.

In Christie's cam shaft and valve design are evidences of his farsightedness. His cam shaft is on top—one of the first on record, his valves squarely in the head seating in the cylinder itself without cages. The cams, both exhaust and intake, show a curve that for lift, duration of opening and quickness of action can hardly be improved upon today for a motor of the slow-speed type.

DOUBLE IGNITION.

The fact that there are two spark plugs to each cylinder proves that Christie appreciated the value of double ignition for a motor of large bore and he had a double system with magneto for one set of plugs and battery for the other; the latter to be used in starting. His carburetor originally was of the Fiat single jet type with spiral controlled mushroom valve. This was a good instrument in its time, but hardly up to present day efficiency. This was recently replaced by one of Harry A. Miller's latest carburetors of the multiple jet type.

Throughout the whole motor, the little details of construction show the careful thought and wise planning of the inventor and designer. No part was neglected.

Speed trials innumerable have been made on tracks, speedway and straightaway courses since this car was built. Hundreds of racing cars turned out by able designers have come and gone. Speed creations that were new when the front drive freak was already a veteran, have long since been forgotten. Still there stands the old Christie just as it was ten years ago ready at a moment's notice to go out and better its past performances.

CALIFORNIANS NEGLECT BOOSTS FOR NATIONAL PARKS.

By Clarence A. English,
Distributor of the King "Eight."

An indictment against Southern California motorists for not boosting California's great national parks might be brought by the eastern touring public.

Throughout the East, he states, there is generally manifested a blank ignorance that there is a national park in this State other than the Yosemite.

That thousands of additional visitors would be attracted west by the knowledge that such great scenic centers as the Sequoia National Park, in Tulare county, and the Grant National Park, are contiguous to Southern California's good road system, is his contention, and there is something in it.

If familiarity breeds contempt, there is little contempt in California for its natural wonders, since Californians are notoriously unfamiliar with the great reserves just as they are unfamiliar with the histories of the missions and of their locations.

Visit the parks first, he says, and then go about boosting for them. Every time you meet an eastern tourist out here, holler at him and ask if he has been to the parks yet.

When I was at the auto show in New York I asked several motorists who had been to California if they had toured to the big parks. Each one confessed in turn that he had not. I asked them why and they said they didn't know about any of them except Yosemite. It is possible, it seems to me, to spread the news that there are a few things of this kind out here by becoming familiar with them ourselves.

The big trees at Santa Cruz should be boosted. Every California motorist should be a National Park booster.

Everyone knows that Southern California has a wonderful system of highways, but everyone does not know that it has Sequoia and Grant National parks.

Soft pedal the highway business for a little while this spring if necessary, and toot away on that park question and additional thousands of easterners will come out here to see what all the noise is about. When they get here they'll want to stay.

POPULAR MODELS.

Percy Rockefeller purchased the new eight-cylinder coupe, which was shown for the first time at the New York show. The car is finished in rich Burgundy with a silver line stripe and upholstered in a striped Burgundy velour. This new enclosed type is strictly a coupe, being enclosed entirely in glass. It differs from the popular Victoria type in that the top cannot be lowered. This is proving a record year for Cadillac enclosed models. Word was received from the East that Mrs. Ogden Armour has purchased a Cadillac eight limousine and a similar type was delivered recently to Mrs. Whitelaw Ried.

AUTOMOBILISTS ADVISED TO TAKE SETTING-UPS.

Drivers and Passengers in Modern Motor Cars Get Little Exercise—Many Simple Forms of Physical Development Suggested—Benefits of the Auto are Doubled Through Muscle Action.

BY HOWARD ANGUS.

THIS is an age of motor cars and consequently not of feet or of hands. Nobody thinks of walking anywhere any more. There is only one vehicle of transportation from home to the office, from the office to the restaurant, from the restaurant to the theater. It is the automobile. If it's not one's own, it's a friend's, or jitney bus. Everybody rides everywhere; nobody walks.

The result is mighty little exercise. An expert in waist lines will tell you that they are increasing in proportion to the number of automobiles that are sold and not in proportion to the number of beers taken a day at all. In time, lazy automobilists get the shapes of Japanese wrestlers.

So the question naturally arises what is the automobilist going to do for exercise? The answer is so easy that it is a shame to give it. The question is one of those easy ones that can be answered in a half-dozen ways.

The first one is when you go out motoring on Sunday or Saturday afternoon with the family go to some place where you can get exercise. Don't make it just a sight-seeing trip in which you have fresh air blown in your face and scenery hurried by you.

EASY THEN.

A little later in the year a trip to the beach would be ideal. A half hour spent in the breakers will give the whole family enough exercise. Swimming has the reputation of bringing more muscles into play than any other form of sport. The breakers add to it the fun of fighting them and the excitement that comes from an occasional ducking. Then there is also added the cold bath, which the doctors or somebody else advised for you in the morning, on rising, and which you never have taken. In fact, swimming for half an hour with an automobile ride before and after can hardly be beaten. That is one advantage of Southern California that those faraway from the ocean cannot enjoy. It is one that very few people take advantage of. As a general rule everybody motors down to the beach, sits around all afternoon in the public square eating peanuts and hearing the band play, going home that night to take the weekly bath in a tub.

Just at present it wouldn't be a bad idea to have a golf links as the point of destiny in the auto ride. There is really no excuse why people should not golf now. If one belongs to a country club, he can take the family there for a game. He can go out to the municipal links if he does not belong to one of the clubs. And golf is another remarkable exercise. There is the walking for the legs, and on very stroke the arm, back, chest and leg muscles are brought into play. Another beauty of the game of golf is that it is not a violent or sustained exercise. There is plenty of relaxation. Very few overdo on the links.

But supposing you don't play golf and have a very bitter prejudice against it. Then why not have your trip to and from a picnic in the mountains or somewhere else?

GOOD STUFF.

A good idea would be to go back to the days when you were young. It wasn't so many years ago that father use to hitch up old Dobbin while mother prepared a cold lunch and the whole family was off for a day in the woods or at some resort. In the days of the horse there was always some definite place to be reached. It might be a picnic grounds or just gathering poppies in the hills. But the ride was always to and from somewhere.

And going back to the childhood days, it might be well to pick up again some of the old kid sports. There are such games as one-o-cat, ring-around-the-rosy, and baseball with one of those soft indoor pills. Try this and see if you are as spry as you use to be. Try this stuff and see if the blood doesn't race more freely and the shoulders go back instinctively.

At present one might go out to see the damaged roads, leave the machine at a safe place and hike along the washouts. There is exercise in throwing stones in the water and walking.

Now of course Harry Williams wouldn't do any of these things. As a matter of fact the baseball expert owns a Ford and rides to work in the "Dove of Peace" every morning. It is then that Harry takes most of his exercise. While driving along in the bumps, Williams presents a pretty picture going through his daily calisthenics. He will be seen to violently twist his head from side to side as if looking for a motor cop or a chicken. In that way he exercises the muscles of the neck. He will twist his body into innumerable attitudes, having one muscle pulling against the other. He will be pulling on the steering wheel with one set of muscles and pushing against it with another. His is the setting of one muscle against the other. Sometimes it looks as if his arms were shaking from cold or fright, but it's really muscle dance. While driving he will shake one leg and then the other. So Williams takes his daily exercise right in the car. By working one muscle against the other he can take as much exercise in one minute as the ordinary person, exercising one muscle at a time can do in two. And you can imagine how the Whittier folks stop in their fields to watch the twisting scribe go by. It furnishes the chief topic of conversation in Whittier.

While talking on the subject of baseball the other night, Williams suddenly grabbed the arms of his chair and began lifting himself up and down.

GRABBED OFF.

"You see I take my exercise while I'm doing something else. Here I am talking to you on baseball and exercising my arms by making them lift my body up and down. In order to do that I have to hold my legs out straight in front of me; that exercises the muscles of my legs. It's more or less hard work, so it builds up my lungs by the deep breathing required. And it is all done while I work."

Indeed the exercises a motorist can take are as numerous as the different boulevards that he can travel. All he has to do is keep his eyes open. Exercises are popping out all along the route. Al Waddell's favorite form of physical torture is cranking a car. He is opposed to self starters and keeps in condition by twisting the stem of a big Auburn, when his arm is not under wraps from a kicking motor.

One good idea would be to use the tires on his car as long as possible. In time they would become threadbare and subject to blow outs. By patching up some five or six blowouts on a trip, one gets enough exercise to last a week. It also exercises one's lungs, because he is sure to waste a great deal of breath on the subject.

Every motorist, however, should take some kind of setting up exercises to counteract the natural bending of the shoulders that comes from driving and riding in an automobile. Unless men do something to pull the chest out, it will sag while driving. We will eventually be a round shouldered and narrow-lunged bunch. That is we successful business men, some of the idle rich and mortgagers of our homes will be. The man who does not own an automobile has as much cause to worry about getting rounded shoulder from riding in an automobile as a fish has of getting scared because it can't walk.

AUTO CLUB'S SUNDAY AFTERNOON TOUR NO. 5.

ALTHOUGH many bridges have been damaged by the storm, the Automobile Club of Southern California is giving motorists a Sunday afternoon tour today of exceptional interest, and one which keeps cars over pavement for the entire distance.

Leave Los Angeles over East Seventh street and Stephenson avenue to Telegraph Road, following the Auto Club signs to the Rivera-Downey road and thence into Downey. Proceed over the Downey-Clearwater road through Clearwater and Artesia and thence into Long Beach by Cherry avenue. On Ocean avenue turn right and follow the highway through Naples and Seal Beach to Westminster and on to Santa Ana by Fifth street.

Returning to Los Angeles, come out on Fifth street to the Garden Grove road and turn right, passing through Garden Grove and to the intersection with Center street out of Anaheim. Turn left on Center street and turn left again to Buena Park. Then turn right through Fullerton and continue on to Whittier over the old San Diego coast road. Passing through Whittier, turn left on the Whittier-Downey road to Telegraph road and back to Los Angeles.

Although this route is in excellent condition, motorists following it will be able to see much of the damage done by the storm, and passing as it does along the shore of the Pacific and through the foothills, it will be found entirely representative of Southern California scenery.

Further information on tours should be secured at the headquarters of the Auto Club of Southern California or at any of its branch offices.

Nifty.

FASHION SHOW.

Local Traffic Officers Shade Eyes as Anthony Makes Debut with Passionate Twin-six Creation—Snow-white Blended with Vermillion and Checkers.

A rather vivid reflection of the prevailing New York fashions in motor car dress appeared last week in the shape of a twelve-cylinder Packard ordered by Earl C. Anthony, local Packard distributor, for his personal use.

The roadster is snow-white from stem to stern, save for head-lights and sidelamps of vivid vermilion, top-boot, wire wheels and tail lamp of the same shade and a double line of checkerboard along the upper edge of the body and door panel. The effect is extremely nifty, and one that caused even the blase traffic cops to turn their heads when Anthony first piloted it up Broadway.

The lighter weight of the "Twin-Six" roadsters makes them even more phenomenal hill performers than the new Packard touring cars. Anthony's car will negotiate Grand avenue hill without a hint of a run on high gear, and pulls Fourth street hill from Hill to Grand without a suspicion of effort.

Earle C. Anthony,

At wheel of his private car, a Packard Twin-Six roadster finished in white and vermilion with checkerboard trimmings.

SALT LAKE WILL TRAIN AT MODESTO.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SALT LAKE, Jan. 22. — Directors of the Salt Lake club in the Pacific Coast League have accepted an offer from civic organizations at Modesto, Cal., to do their spring training in that city. Several other Coast cities had offered inducements to the club, but a cash guarantee of $1000 from Modesto turned the decision in the latter city's favor.

Manager Blankenship also announced tonight that he would ask his men to report for training by March 13. Catcher Danny Murray, former Northwestern Leaguer, forwarded his signed contract to Bee headquarters today.

New Ford Starter.

The California Sales Company recently appointed a regular Stewart Warner service station and authorized agents for all Stewar Warner products have just received a shipment of the new Stewart starter for Ford cars.

No other accessory ever met with such phenomenal success as has the Stewart Starter for Ford Cars.

Ford owners since they equipped their cars with this Stewart Starter have done away with the worst trouble of driving a car—that of cranking the engine by hand, a laborious and heartrending job at any time, but more especially so in rain and mud—snow and slush. All cranking by hand is now entirely eliminated. You now sit in the car and merely press a pedal with your foot, and instantly your engine starts.

It is now possible for wives and daughters to thoroughly enjoy driving a Ford car—without the danger of getting stalled and having to get out and crank their motor by hand.

The Stewart Starter for Ford Cars uses compressed air. Engineering authorities acknowledge that compressed air is the most satisfactory principle upon which a starter should be built.

The Stewart Starter is "always on the job." It always turns the engine over in all weathers—on a cold day as well as a hot day. Cold weather does not put it out of business. Below zero weather, when you want it most, it is right there every time

The Stewart Starter turns the engine over exactly as you would spin it by hand. It is mounted in the same place, and applies its power to the crank shaft at the same point as you would with a crank handle—the proper place to start an engine.

A pressure of 200 lbs. is automatically maintained in the tank at all times.

The Ford Starter weighs only 40 lbs., and this weight is evenly carried in the center of the car. It doesn't destroy the "balance" or running qualities of the car. It doesn't make the steering hard. It doesn't strain one side of the car as do most electric starters, which weigh three times as much, and where the weight is mostly placed on one side of the car.

The Stewart Starter was built with the idea that once on your car it could be forgotten. It will outlast your car. There is nothing to replenish. To install it you do not have to change any part on your Ford Car. The installation is simple. Every part is made to fit without cutting or changing any part of your Ford.

In addition to starting your engine, the Stewart Starter also supplies air for your tires. No more back-breaking job of pumping your tires with a hand pump. Part of the Stewart Starter equipment is a hose connection and air gauge. To inflate your tires you merely connect the hose with the air supply tank and your tires are blown up in a few seconds while you stand and look on.

Saves buying a power tire pump. Saves you money on your tires by always keeping them fully inflated. Properly inflated tires make your car ride easier, and makes the tires last longer.

Buy a Stewart Starter TODAY—get immediate relief from the last bugbear of driving a car, that of having to crank your car by hand. The Stewart Starter on your Ford Car places it, from the standpoint of convenience and ease in operation, in the class of the highest priced automobiles

The fact that the output of the Olds Motor Works was quadrupled by the demand for the Oldsmobile Light Four shows that the motoring public is realizing that excess cylinders is not necessary to secure sufficient power for any purpose or emergency. Greater efficiency than that furnished by the Olds light four is not possible.

The price of this car is greater than that of some cars, 'tis true, but even a superficial examination of the motor, the finish of the car, the quality of construction all the way through will convince anyone that it is the greatest automobile value offered.

We invite comparison by demonstration.

TRIBUTE PAID TO J. N. WILLYS.

Probably the most notable tribute the banking industry has ever paid an automobile manufacturer was accorded recently to John North Willys, when he was guest of honor at a dinner given by Elisha Walker, of William Salomon & Co., New York.

The dinner given in his honor was attended by many of the most prominent bankers in the United States. Mr. Walker, the host, made an informal speech in which he explained that the sole purpose of the dinner was to give the bankers present a chance to meet one of the real giants in the automobile industry.

HUNTING ANTIQUE.

Willing to Trade Latest Model Auto for Oldest One Lunger Now in Service—Campaign to be Carried Throughout the Country.

Bekins and Speers, Haynes distributors for Southern California, announced yesterday that the Haynes company is out with a unique plan to secure the oldest car of their make that is in service. The owner turning in the earliest of Haynes models will receive in exchange a new 1916 "Light Twelve."

The plan is to have owners of old Haynes cars send their names and a description of their car to the factory at Kokomo, Ind. When the campaign ends the owner with the oldest car in service will be given the "Light Twelve" in trade for his ancient car. The purpose of this plan is to secure the relic for display purposes. The factory has been advised that a number of the old one-cylinder cars of the nineties are still in use in some parts of the country. The results of this novel campaign will be watched with interest.

What Makes the Auburn
The Most for the Money
Six 38--$1175

THERE is as much difference between cars as between houses. One extreme is the monster of masonry where wealth barricades itself at a cost all out of proportion to the home-comforts obtained. Even more common is the other extreme, the cramped quarters that are no more than walls and roof, thrown together as cheaply as possible.

Between these two extremes are the homes of the happy and contented; substantial, roomy and refined. The Auburn car is the out-door home of this type; adequate to all needs, roomy, comfortable and refined.

Here is the ideal family car, the happy medium between the superfluous monsters of exorbitant cost, and the cramped and skimped cars that are built to meet a price only. The Auburn gives you dignity, convenience and pride of ownership, without the extravagant car's first cost but with the cheap car's low maintenance cost.

You can do no better than to consider carefully the Auburn before you buy—sixteen years of success warrants your serious attention to this beautiful but sturdy and economical car. That experienced car owners appreciate the truth of Auburn's claim, "The Most for the Money," is proven by the increase of fifty per cent. in Auburn sales for this season.

For the new Auburn cars for 1916 offer truly wonderful values. Value first, because the Auburn is not an "experiment." Every constructional feature is absolutely successful and reliable. Value, because it is thoroughly modern and complete in every essential, from its basic strength and safety to the most minute detail.

In looks, the Auburn never suffers in comparison with even the finest creations imported from Europe. And as for the quiet, graceful and never faltering way it performs, only a ride can fully convince you of its marvelous efficiency, ease of control and comfort—no jerks, jolts, bounces or nerve racking sensations that tire the pasengers and make "work" of motoring.

Our claim, "The Most for the Money," is an unequivocal one—won't you let us prove it for you? We are positive we can save you money and give you a car that will wear longer, give better service and more pleasure. You can get all the facts (we believe they will surprise you) and study them in the privacy of your own home—simply write us for a free copy of our new book entitled "More Than A Catalog." We will send it without the slightest obligation.

Even if you are not now in the market for a new car—you are interested in the progress in the automobile industry and we'll send you "More Than A Catalog" upon request.

Local Talent.

GIRL ATHLETE CHAMPION WITH AUTO AND HORSE.

LOS ANGELES is the home of the world's all 'round champion woman athlete. This young woman excels in every branch of sport followed by women and some others at which men show yellow.

Miss Jane Bernoudy is as much at home on a bucking broncho as in the water or behind the wheel of her Hupmobile touring car. She is undisputed world's champion with the rope, can handle a rifle like a sharpshooter and is a strong contender for honors on the tennis court in the fastest company.

REAL CHAMPION.

The girl athlete, who is now starring in films produced out at Universal City, has entertained hundreds of thousands of admirers on two continents with her fancy roping and riding. She has appeared in rodeos all over the West and was the star of a wild west show which invaded England a few seasons back. For a time she performed feats with the rope, horse and rifle in the Sells Floto circus.

At the Los Angeles rodeo three years ago, Miss Bernoudy made her last public appearance in cowgirl competition in this city. She competed in the rodeos all over the West that season, then settled down to become a motion picture star. She says that she is still settling.

ALL ROUND STAR.

Expert with the rifle, revolver, rope and in the saddle, the girl athlete had little trouble in getting an engagement with a local picture concern to do "western stuff." She had read of the fabulous salaries paid in the profession and decided to get some of that easy money. For several months her salary was twenty-five dollars a month; but she was too game to quit.

After a time she was given a chance to work in some real parts, after she had gone from one company to another several times and at last ended up with the Universal, where she is recognized as a clever character actress and star of the western type. During her spare time she has kept up her athletic work and added to her string of athletic accomplishments.

She learned to drive a car and bought a Hupmobile. She is now one of the best women drivers in the country. She is a clever swimmer and with the oars, can pull away from many men. She has [illegible] cleverness with the rope and [illegible] spin a 90-foot rope and [illegible] fancy roping which has won [illegible] throughout the world and the [illegible] puted title of world's [illegible]

FRENCH SPEED KING NOW MEXICAN MAJOR.

GASTON MORRIS has at last been located. The fat Frenchman, who for several seasons has been prominently present at every motor-car race held in this country, is now driving Gen. Obregon's motor car and has the rank of major in the Mexican army. Gaston secured a few days' furlough last week and journeyed from Chihuahua to Juarez for the purpose of looking over the ponies at close range. It was at Juarez that Gaston was discovered by Joe Waddell, a camera operator working in Mexico for the Universal Film Company.

games that Joe Lacey was able to defeat Joe Amestoy. The score was 15-21, 21-12, 21-12. It was only after another three games just as gruelling and perhaps more spectacular that Dick Retzer was able to eliminate Stan Mitchell. The score was 21-19, 14-21, 21-15.

EARLY START.

The Lacey-Amestoy match preceded the Mitchell-Retzer match by several hours. It began at noon and many well-known business men about town went without their dinner to be present at the little affair.

The match started by Joe Amestoy acting like a wild man and shooting in beautiful kills that Joe Lacey couldn't get even by sliding on his fat stomach. Of late Lacey has taken on a copious layer of flesh and looks like the champion wrestler of Japan when he waddles onto the court.

The game was marked by long rallies and few kills on the part of Mr. Lacey, who is usually a dead shot for the corners while lying flat. So Joe Amestoy won by the score of 21 to 15.

Then both gentlemen, just to show that there was no hard feeling on either side, got sick and rolled around on their stomachs. Lacey tried drinking soda water but that only made him feel all the fuzzier.

The second match went to Champ Lacey, 21 to 12. Both of the boys were very tired and blurry about the eyes. Whenever either missed the ball, he would sit down and wait for the other fellow to get it. Neither would pick it up and throw to the other one even if he was sitting on it.

Ed Caley, who was refereeing, and who had a date, tried to hurry the match along. Whenever he called for action, one or the other of the contestants would roll a pair of innocent and pathetic eyes at Ed and ask sadly, "What's the score?" So Ed gave up in disgust.

LACEY OFF.

Lacey was plainly off his game, but there were many in the gallery who thought he was trying to torture his good friend Amestoy. The latter certainly did a powerful lot of running around, wobbling and puffing.

"Never be merciful" is known to be a Lacey motto on the court. Finally Lacey won and put his arms around Amestoy's neck and gave it a twist just to show that he was still friendly and devilish.

The match between Dick Retzer and Stan Mitchell was one of those slam-bang affairs where the ball was hit with might and main. Stan Mitchell is supposed to be a husky but he looked like a man in the last stages of thinness in comparison with burly Dick Retzer. The match was featured by the numerous kills by both parties and the ox-like endurance of Retzer.

DICK PULLS OUT.

In the first game Stan Mitchell had him, 19 to 10, yet Retzer by a series of clever serves and kills pulled out 21 to 19. It was a tremendous rally and a real exhibition of bulldog tenacity.

In the second game Mitchell took all kinds of chances and tried for a kill on nearly every shot. It came near being point or miss every time he swung. Some of his kills were wonders, coming from the back court as well as the front. He had a cross court kill to the right corner that left the ball absolutely dead in the corner. He won that game 21 to 14.

In the third game Retzer came back. Mitchell started out by killing and Retzer ended by doing the same thing. Mitchell was especially deadly on his back court underhand. But Retzer and lumber-camp build finally carried the day. He won the deciding match, 21 to 15.

Stan Mitchell brought applause from the gallery several times by his true sportsmanship. Once a ball hit him when nobody but he knew it. Even if the ball had not hit him it could not have possibly got to the back court for a Retzer point. Yet he gave what was a sure point away. Points were hard to get then, too. That's what he should do, yes. But how many would do it?

In Class B Mig McGuire defeated Morris Calderwalder in two sets, 21-10, 21-15. The match followed the fierce Retzer-Mitchell affair and paled before it. The B match looked slow and loggy.

In class C, Pete Condee won from W. A. Robertson in three hard matches, 11-21, 21-11, 21-5. George Retzer, the wrestler, won his match from E. M. Burnham, 21-10, 17-21 21-16. At the end of it he had enough noise left to root for brother Dick.

There will be two good matches at the club this noon. Wes Ruggles and Ed Caley will play for the title in Class A. Noley Allen and Art Goodwin will play their match in the semifinals of Class B. It is generally admitted that the winner of the Allen-Goodwin affair will be Class B champion.

ARCHIMEDES DID IT.

Archimedes is the father of easy riding in an automobile. Archimedes doesn't know it, and most people who are enjoying the comforts of easy riding haven't the least idea of it. But when he discovered the principle of the lever he solved the problem, which presented itself to engineers a couple of thousand years later, of making it possible for a heavy vehicle to travel at a great speed over indifferent roads without any discomfort to those in the vehicle. The modern application of the ancient Greek's discovery is the cantilever spring.

This Saxon "Six" Proves what a Quality Car Should Cost

A short time ago price—to many men—set the standard of a car's quality. But not any longer.
The coming of the Saxon "Six" has altered old-time ideas of what a high-grade car should cost.
For in this Saxon "Six"—at $785—you note feature after feature formerly found only in the costly car.
It will surprise you with its finished perfection in detail and equipment.

Class car standards you now find

In Saxon "Six" you find lightness—together with uncommon strength and ruggedness. Won through the use of drop forgings instead of castings—finer steel—and skilled engineering.
You find unusual power—on minimum consumption of gasoline. You find matchless speed, flexibility, acceleration, quietness and coolness.
You find noteworthy beauty—the newest type of yacht-line design.
You find roominess and comfort. The wheelbase is 112 inches. Five passengers have plenty of space.
You find real operative economy. Both in fuel and tire costs Saxon "Six" lowers usual standards.
You find Timken axles and full Timken bearings throughout the chassis.
There's no need to argue their superiority.
You find helical bevel driving gears.
You find a silent, efficient two-unit electric starting and lighting system.
You find an exquisite, lustrous body finish—linoleum covered, aluminum bound running boards and floor boards—and many further improvements.
We doubt if any car within several hundred dollars in price can compare in value with Saxon "Six." If not, then $785 is the proper price for a quality car. Let the nearest Saxon dealer show you the new series Saxon "Six."

ASCOT SPEEDWAY BEING GIVEN PAVED SURFACE.

Contract Let for Crowning Famous Circuit with Composition of Concrete and Asphalt, Making it the Fastest Mile Racing Course — Five Feet Added to Heighth of Banks on the Turns.

BY AL G. WADDELL.

LOS ANGELES is to have a speedway of the first water. The contract has been let for the paving of the entire mile circle which was once the world-famous Ascot Park race track.

The surface is to be a composition of asphalt and concrete. This is claimed to give one of the fastest racing surfaces ever developed.

HIGH BANKS.

The turns are to be banked five feet higher on the outside and the designing engineer claims that the course will stand miles at less than forty seconds with no danger to the driver.

George R. Bentel was to have gone East a week ago in the interest of the Speedway and the coming Corona race, but was held over by the rains. It was the day before he left that the directors of the Ascot Speedway Association decided to pave the complete course and gave Bentel authority to spend $16,000 for the work in addition to what has already been spent on the old track.

Bentel left for the East yesterday and will get busy with the stars of the racing game immediately upon his arrival in Chicago. Burman is on his way back to Los Angeles from Detroit, where he went to get his Peugeot, and he has entered both the Ascot race scheduled for February 22 and the Corona classic.

RICK HEARD FROM.

Eddie Rickenbacher is now in Indianapolis and he wired yesterday that it was almost certain that he and Aitken would be out within a short time with the Maxwell cars.

"Howdy" Wilcox is a possibility, as is also Eddie O'Donnell.

Frank Lowry is to meet Bentel in Chicago, where Lowry has been working in the interests of the Ascot meet for the past two weeks and has already lined up a number of the biggest stars of the speed game.

ARIZONA ADMITTED TO THE CONFERENCE.

COLLEGES ARE GIVEN RIGHT TO PLAY WITH "WILDCATS."

Whittier Anxious to Have Basketball Become an Intercollegiate Sport, but no Definite Action is Taken—A.A.U. Officials will Continue to Run Meets.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CLAREMONT, Jan. 22.—Not only was Claremont the scene of the first intercollegiate cross-country run here this afternoon, but it also entertained the members of the executive board of the Southern California College Conference, which held its regular meeting just before the race was started.

The meeting was held in private, no outsiders being permitted to be present, but many matters of interest to the conference were transacted, according to one of the members.

ARIZONA.

The most important action taken was in regard to Arizona, a prospective member of the conference. The desert institution has expressed a desire to meet the various teams of the south in football and track, but does not feel justified in taking out a full-fledged membership in the conference because it is so far away from things. Consequently, the management of the Tucson school presented a letter to the conference, asking for affiliated membership.

The conference officials acted favorably upon the matter and have invited the athletes of the University of Arizona to the conference track meet to be held in March. They will compete under the same conditions as the conference members, all freshmen being barred.

RIGHT IS GIVEN.

Besides this, action was taken in regard to conference teams scheduling games with Arizona and it was voted that any conference college could arrange for a game with the "wild cats" without formal permission from the conference. As far as the scheduling of football games is concerned, Arizona is to be considered as a regular member of the conference hereafter.

The question of the adoption of intercollegiate basketball came up for discussion during the meeting. Whittier is very anxious to have basketball taken under the wing of the association, and of having an annual series of games between the conference colleges. No definite action was taken, but many opinions were expressed very favorable to basketball as an intercollegiate sport, and next season may see it back on the schedules of the conference.

CONTINUED.

The conference also decided to run all of their track meets under officials furnished by the A.A.U. This system was adopted last year, and it proved so successful that it was unanimously agreed to continue it for another year. Accordingly, President Weaver will select the officials for the conference track meets this coming spring.

These were the only actions taken by the conference this afternoon, aside from officially awarding the football trophy to Occidental. Several matters came up for discussion, but were tabled until a later meeting.

ALUMNI CHALLENGE MANUAL ARTS FIVE.

The Manual Arts basketball team is not to be allowed to rest on its laurels now that the season is over and it is calmly in second place along with Poly. The Manual alumni basketball players have issued a challenge that calls for a series of games for a cup. There is a very confident ring in the way the alumni talk. The members of the challengers are Nolan Allen and Ray Acker, forwards; George Blewett, center; Henderson and Lewis, guards.

Allen is now a member of the Los Angeles Athletic Club heavyweights. Acker is one of the stars for the lightweights. Blewett has just stopped winning honors at Manual. Henderson plays guard for U.S.C. and Lewis is a retired athlete.

OXY TIGERS WILL HOLD A LUNCHEON.

All former Occidental students will meet at luncheon next Saturday at the Hotel Clark under the auspices of Occidental "O" Club in interest of the million dollar campaign about to be waged by the Tigers for an endowment fund.

Members of the Alumni Association and the Associated Woman's Club and Monogram Society intend to join in their efforts toward helping Oxy in her big venture.

Missouri now has about 76,000 licensed cars, a gain of 30,000 over last year, and the State license department has ordered 100,000 licenses for distribution next year.

GRIGGS SIGNED BY THE TIGERS.

Art Griggs, utility star of the late Brooklyn Federals, has signed a contract to play with Vernon, according to a statement made last night by Hamilton Patterson.

Griggs, while he played utility roles for Brooklyn, is more at home at first base, and may be given a chance to fight it out with Gleichmann for that position. Patterson, however, has not decided in which capacity he will use him.

Griggs was in the American League more than four years before going to the Feds, being first with St. Louis and later with Cleveland. He was with the Browns during the gruelling race of 1908, when St. Louis beat Cleveland out of the flag by beating the Naps in the final game.

"On the field, Griggs is a double of La Joie," said Pete Daley. "He fields in the same graceful manner, and at the plate might easily be mistaken for the famous Frenchman. Griggs should be a great asset to the Tigers."

SEVERAL BEES ARE RELEASED.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SALT LAKE (Utah) Jan. 22.—Manager Cliff Blankenship of the Bees, today sent outright releases to Pitcher Howard Gregory and outfielder Elmer Zacher. Both men asked to be made free agents. Zacher expects to land with an A.A. club in the East while Gregory informed Blankenship that he has leased a ranch in California and that he expects to become a farmer. Zacher was purchased from the Oaks last spring while Gregory came to Salt Lake with the Sacramento Mission franchise.

The Salt Lake manager today received the signed contracts of Pitcher "Jack" Kililay and Catcher Johnny Vann. The latter was purchased from the Terre Haute club.

Altadena Wins

When Smith holed a nice long putt for a three, Altadena whooped.

Yet Jergins had scintillated with seven 4's in the first half, thus pride goeth before a fall.

CLOSE.

Down at the Virginia, the home team trembled on the balance of a scratch and handicap win, for the last couple were A. C. Sellery and Paul F. Delis, the latter carrying the match to the 20th hole and winning it, thus saving the handicap for Annandale.

W. W. Campbell beat W. K. Jewett of Annandale 1 up at the 19th on both counts, an exciting and keenly contested match all the way.

Braly continued his victorious career and defeated A. M. Goodhue of Virginia 4 and 2 and 4 and 3.

E. N. Wright beat Dr. Foote of Virginia 1 up at the 19th hole on both counts.

F. Hicks of Virginia beat F. D. Taum 2 and 1, and 3 and 2.

The Virginia team is due at Coronado today.

At the Los Angeles Country Club George H. Schnider won the Class A sweepstake with 1 up—1—2 up. And the Rev. C. T. Murphy added another trophy to his initial glory of last week with 10 down—9—1 down.

CARTER AND ORTEGA IN THE MAIN EVENT.

Kid Carter and Battling Ortega will meet in the main event of the Vernon Athletic Club's bouts next Tuesday night.

Both men have met before and are dissatisfied with the decisions given them. It is said that their go will be in the nature of a "grudge battle."

In addition to the above clash there will be a semi-final and five curtain-raising bouts.

Good Work.

MOTOR TRUCKS PERFORM SERVICE DURING STORM.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

HIGHLAND, Jan. 22.—A wonderful demonstration of the value of the automobile truck in modern business and living was given during the storm of the week, which tied up railroad traffic in all parts of the San Bernardino Valley and in Southern California. Many communities, and considerable property, were served by the trucks and they were invaluable in repairing the damage and getting aid to the outlying districts in distress.

Several of the big trucks are used in the repair work for the Southern California Edison Company, which furnishes power to the valley. The storm damaged the mountain power houses so that they were out of commission for several days. The trucks, loaded with men and repair material, were rushed from the district headquarters in Redlands and were the first to get through the storm-swept countries and repair the transmission lines so the valley towns could have power.

Automobile trucks assisted in saving several of the homes at East Highlands that were threatened by the floods and the fleet of trucks of the Loma Linda Sanatorium saved many people there and a great amount of the household goods from the houses that were flooded. The trucks were also used all over the county in hauling loads of sand, timbers, rocks and other material which was used in forming banks to keep the water from washing away the approaches to the bridges left standing after the first storm.

The State Hospital for the Insane at Patton was without power for a time, but plenty of food was supplied to the big institution through the use of motor trucks. There are over 2000 persons fed there every day and the trucks were kept busy. It was necessary to depend on the trucks in all parts of the county in getting supplies from place to place as the railroads and electric lines were out of commission except within the cities for two or three days in most places.

For several days the trucks brought the Los Angeles papers to the valley.

Roads Fixed.

tween Los Angeles and Bakersfield in about five hours.

As far as Saugus the paved highway is intact and this should be a popular drive for the motorist today.

It is possible to reach Pomona by the Telegraph Route, marked by the temporary route signs of the Auto Club. It is also possible to reach Pomona over the Valley boulevard. The detour around the Bassett bridge over the San Gabriel, now under construction, was thrown open yesterday and the average driver can pilot his car through the river bed.

Once on the other side of the San Gabriel, the highways are practically all open.

The streets of Pomona were damaged as much, if not more, than any other arteries in the Southland. Huge gulfs were washed out and the pavement undermined in many places. Notwithstanding the great amount of damage done, autos are now able to get all over the city of Pomona and motor traffic has been resumed all over the Citrus Belt district.

There are occasional detours necessary in touring throughout Redlands, Riverside, San Bernardino, Pomona and Corona, but it is nothing like was first reported.

The race course at Corona, over which the Corona Grand Prix is to be run March 17, was damaged to a certain extent, but not seriously. The filling at the edges of the course was washed away in several places, but for a very small amount the entire damage done at Corona can be repaired within a few days.

Los Angeles county suffered the greatest highway damage in Southern California with the exception of the mountain roads of San Bernardino county. Los Angeles county officials were out at work as soon as the rain ceased and plans were laid for reconstruction within twenty-four hours after the storm had subsided.

The bridge over the San Gabriel on the Foothill boulevard is being rushed to completion. Detours are being constructed wherever possible around the washed-out bridges and while many bridges are being rebuilt the routes will be open to traffic.

The routes to the beaches are all open.

Over the Telegraph road it is possible to reach Orange county points and the coast route to San Diego is open to San Juan Capistrano. A short distance below that point the road is reported washed out and impassable.

With the opening of the Valley boulevard to Pomona and all points east of the San Gabriel, it is possible to reach San Diego by way of Escondido.

E. W. Johannes, driving a Studebaker six for the Reliable Auto Line, drove the first car through between Los Angeles and San Diego yesterday. He drove by way of Escondido and plowed through the San Gabriel River bed at a point just below the Valley-boulevard bridge.

Many private individuals in Los Angeles and other counties took up the highway work as soon as the rains ceased and these public-spirited citizens, together with the county authorities, have opened up seemingly impassable roads in a remarkably short time.

When a Franklin touring car went out on an inspection tour Friday and yesterday, covering practically every route open in Los Angeles county, many ranchers and persons living along damaged highways were discovered at work, helping to repair damage and doing work that will open up the road and stand until the county can get to work with teams and men on the minor cuts and washouts along the boulevard.

Always fair weather
in a Chalmers Palanquin

The elegant closed car equipment changes the regular seven-passenger Chalmers into a handsome limousine.

It changes the damp exposure of open-car motoring into the protection, warmth and finish of a stateroom.

The fog and wind and rain are as effective against the air-tight windows as against a steel wall.

Seven passengers can "sit around" in a Palanquin with room to spare.

And this magic combination costs but $350 in addition to the price of the regular Chalmers.

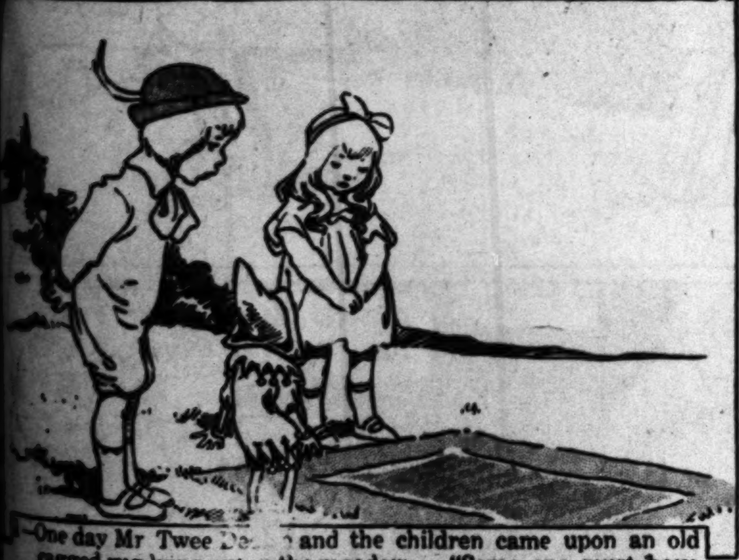
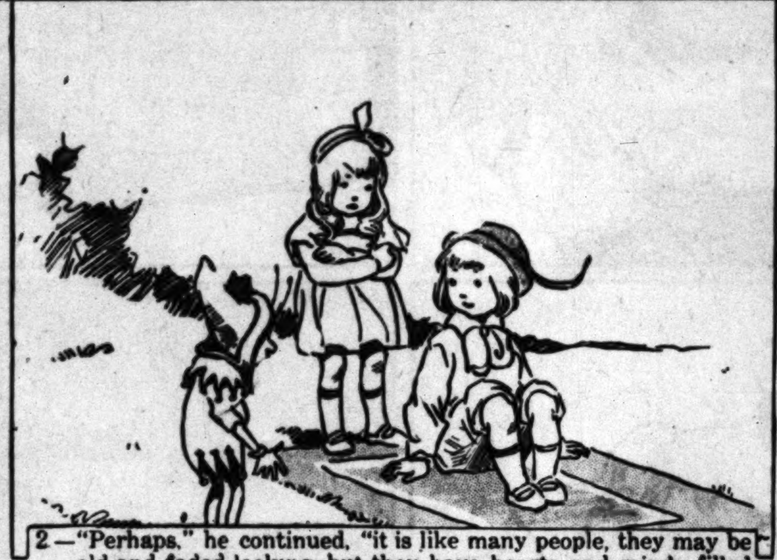
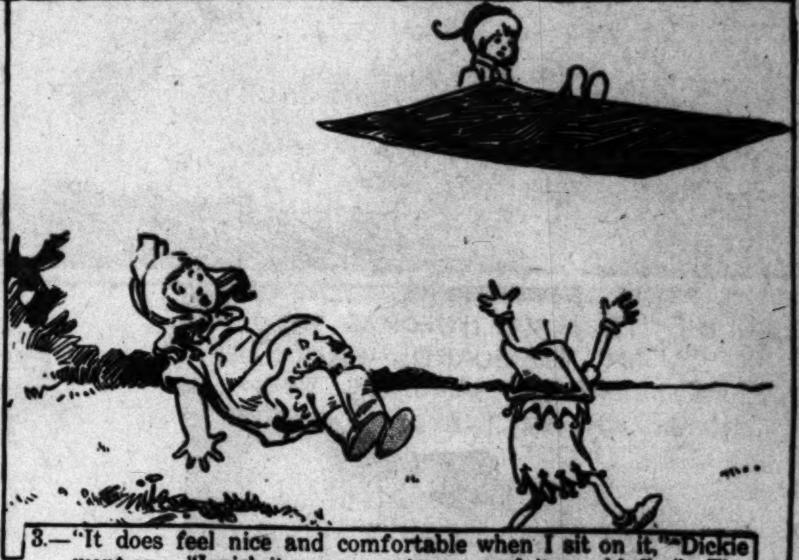
MR. TWEE DEEDLE.



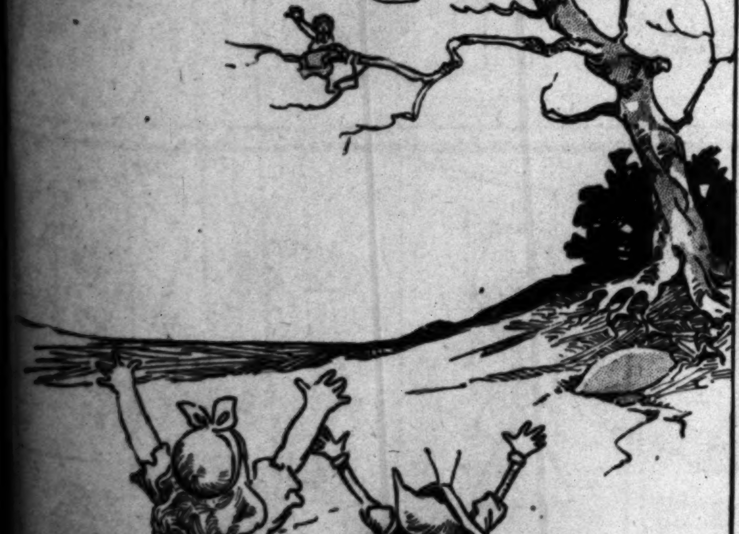
—One day Mr Twee Deedle and the children came upon an old ragged rug lying out in the meadow "Some one must have lost it," exclaimed Dolly "It doesn't seem to be worth much," Dickie said "It's so old and faded" "You are judging merely by appearances." Mr Twee Deedle replied "Perhaps it has a value that does not show from the outside."



2.—"Perhaps," he continued, "it is like many people, they may be old and faded looking, but they have hearts and minds filled with sunshine and good thoughts." "Yes, that may be true about people." Dickie said, "but this rug hasn't any inside to be filled with sunshine or good thoughts. It's just an old worn-out rug!"



3.—"It does feel nice and comfortable when I sit on it," Dickie went on. "I wish it was a magic rug and it would fly." The words had hardly left his mouth when the rug sailed up in the air and flew slowly away. Dolly happened to be standing on the edge of the rug, so she sat down quite suddenly in the soft grass.



—The rug with Dickie upon it sailed slowly over the meadow, and as Dickie did not guide it, the rug sailed into a tall tree and became fastened on one of the branches Mr Twee Deedle and Dolly came running up and told Dickie to hold tight.

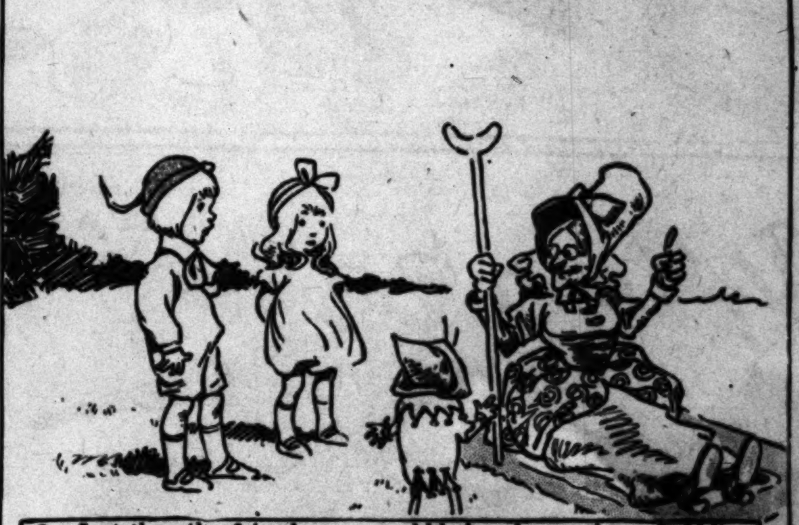
5.—Dickie rolled the rug under his arm and with the help of Mr. Twee Deedle he soon stood upon the ground again. "What you said was true!" Dickie said to Mr. Twee Deedle. "One should never form conclusions about anything until they have given it a chance to prove its worth." "I am glad to hear you say so, Dickie," Mr. Twee Deedle replied.



6.—Just then the friends saw an old lady, who was lame, hobbling across the meadow "I am going to visit my people the other side of the mountains and I will reach their house next year if I walk fast enough," she told them. So our friends gave the old lady the magic rug. "We are young and need to walk, but she is old and lame and the rug will take her anywhere without tiring her. said Dickie. So the old lady thanked them kindly and flew away upon the old, faded, wonderful rug

A CHAT ON GOSSIP.

—TO TELL ME A PIECE OF SCANDAL SHE HAD LEARNED ABOUT A PUBLIC MAN

I HAVE recently heard a chat on the group who discussed it, and their the group who discussed, and their comments and opinions interested me. The first speaker led off vigorously.

"I believe there is something of the carrion crow in each of us," she said with an intonation of disgust. "We all like to hear a bit of unsavory news about some one, and the more important he or she is, the greater our interest. A friend of mine stopped me on my way here to tell me a piece of scandal she had learned about a public man and when she talked of it she gave me the impression of some one who had just had something good to eat. She fairly smacked her lips over it."

"Well, weren't you interested to hear it?" queried another.

"That's the worst of it; I was. I never thought of putting in a protest against the story until I had heard all there was to tell. It makes me ashamed of myself."

"Probably you would have listened just as intently if it had been a good report," suggested some one soothingly.

"It wouldn't have been as interesting if it had been pleasant," put in another incisively. And at the exclamations of protest she went on:

"Suppose I come in and tell you how happily our dear friend, Mrs. John Smith, lives with her husband; how they are most congenial and have the same friends and go everywhere together. By the time I had talked about it for five minutes you would be swallowing yawns. But if I had a tale of how Mr. Smith comes home drunk Saturday nights and chases his poor wife out into the snow, or beats her with his walking stick, you would all be crazy with excitement and want to know everything that happened and almost forced me to make up details if I didn't have any that were spicy enough."

"That's true," remaked the first speaker. "The everyday matter of fact, agreeable happenings don't have many thrills about them."

"Who was that Frenchman who said there was something pleasant to us in learning of the misfortunes of our friends?" asked some one else.

"It was a nasty, cynical thing, I don't care who said it," commented another. "All the same, there's a degree of truth in it. We may not like to hear of other people's bad luck, but we want to know all about it."

"Do you suppose we could put a stop to gossip by refusing to listen to it?" wondered the gentlest member of the party.

"You would make yourself unpopular if you tried it," was the retort. "When any one has a fresh, juicy morsel of scandal or gossip to retail she feels badly treated if you refuse to listen to it. No, I'm afraid all we can do to reform society in this respect is to abstain from telling such tales ourselves."

Then the conversation drifted to other matters and in a little while I came away. But I have thought about the talk ever since and in connection with it recalled something I heard a lad say to his mother one day some time ago. She had been telling him some unpleasant news she had heard about a well known person with whom they were both slightly acquainted and the boy had fidgeted while he listened. When she stopped he broke out impetuously:

"Mother, I hope you won't be angry with me, but I can't bear to have you say such things as that. They don't sound like my mother. I suppose I'm an idiot, but you are so splendid and fine in all sorts of ways, and I love you such a lot—and somehow it's not like my ideal of you that you should repeat shady gossip. I don't mean to be impertinent or anything of the kind, but a fellow puts his mother on a sort of pedestal and he can't stand it to have her climb down and tell the stories other women might tell without making him wince. I scrooge all up inside when you do it."

I honored the mother the more that she did not reprove the lad, but took his remarks in the spirit in which they were evidently uttered. No woman lives, to my belief, who doesn't enjoy being exalted on a pedestal by those she loves, and perhaps that fact enabled the mother to accept the rebuke without offense. I have never forgotten the incident, and it linked itself naturally with the talk I have just reported, and both have been the occasion for some reflections on which I would like the opinion of the Cornerites.

The first one is, why do we gossip?

There are two or three divisions of this question and as many answers to it. It is a perfectly natural impulse which leads us to wish to be entertaining to our friends, and to achieve this we talk to them of the affairs in which we believe they will be interested. When we have higher objects in common, when we care for the same subjects along the lines of the intellect, of philanthropy, of work of any sort, our conversation turns to these. If we have few topics on which to meet, we dwell upon those which will hold our thoughts, and, unfortunately, these usually have to do with the business of our fellow man and woman.

I say unfortunately, and yet there would be nothing amiss in our liking to speak of our friends and acquaintances if it were not for the melancholy truth pronounced by one of the parties to the discussion with which I began this talk, that the pleasant gossip is rarely as exciting as that which has a touch of the scandalous about it.

The taste for the unusual and thrilling seems to be inborn. Most of us recollect the incident of the small boy who did not care to have his mother tell him a story about a good boy unless she would give him the tales of two bad boys afterwards. The nation may be happy which has no history, and so may the individual, but both are likely to be also dull. There is no zest in the account of the everyday monotonous happenings; we want something out of the common if we are to be amused or entertained.

I do not mean to say that all interesting occurrences are of necessity unpleasant. We have hot and cold shivers over the relation of deeds of heroism and of courage; our hearts beat and our eyes fill at stories of self-sacrifice, of duty performed in the face of danger, of bravery under suffering and sorrow. But these are likely to be more or less impersonal. They lack the edge that is on the histories of adventures of those we know familiarly or even by reputation. There is no cause for astonishment that we have a certain enjoyment in telling to our friends the anecdotes whose repetition will give us a momentary importance, and it is not marvelous if a person of a vivid imagination sometimes yields to the temptation of adorning and amplifying the original narrative and adding picturesque touches to make it more convincing or more absorbing.

I hesitate to give as an answer to the query as to why we gossip a satisfaction in retailing unsavory incidents about friends or strangers. I know there are scandal mongers who invent slanders sooner than have their bag of gossip empty or insipidly supplied, but I am loath to believe that the number of such story tellers is large enough to make them an item to be reckoned with in deciding why we gossip. I think the reasons I have already stated, and others of the same kind, are explanation sufficient for the state of gossip which exists, especially when you add to these the idleness of mind or of hands which leads people to talk because they have nothing better or more profitable to do.

Another reflection which was the outcome of the conversation on gossip is found in the last question I reported. Could we put a stop to gossip by [illegible] to listen to it?

This is a point on which I would [illegible] the opinion of the Cornerites. [illegible] woman of you but has her [illegible] the subject. What would be your experience among your friends if you [illegible] listen to unpleasant gossip that [illegible] brought to you?

I do not mean that you should [illegible] the talebearer unkindly. [illegible] would have no malice in her [illegible] when she came to you with an [illegible] the unhappy marriage relations of [illegible] so, of the extravagance of Mrs. [illegible] the tendency to dissipation of Mr. [illegible] or a lament upon the manner in [illegible] this or that neighbor's children were allowed to run wild, or a tale of the [illegible]lessness of a certain young girl [illegible] demeanor towards young men. If [illegible] snubbed her sharply, or even read [illegible] a lecture on the evils of gossip, she [illegible] close her lips to you, but she would [illegible] her story somewhere else, where it [illegible] have a more hospitable reception.

Nevertheless, no matter how [illegible] refused to listen to her report, even if [illegible] tried to point out to her with [illegible] tact that it would be kinder to those involved to keep quiet the details of [illegible] misdoings, I am afraid that you [illegible] only wound her, make her feel you [illegible] sympathetic and perhaps self-righteous, and have no real effect in checking [illegible] disposition to talk about her neighbors. There is no doubt that no one [illegible] be corrected when she is in possession of an interesting tale. She comes to [illegible] sympathy, for wonder, for [illegible] for rectification or rebuke, no [illegible] kindly this is administered.

So the conclusion to which I have [illegible] forced, after all my deliberations, [illegible] we cannot hope to do much [illegible] follow the example set of old by [illegible] dwellers in Jerusalem, when [illegible] kept the street clean in front of [illegible] door. If we would set ourselves steadfastly not to gossip, to repeat [illegible] hear that are not those of kindness, [illegible] to carry unpleasant comments from [illegible] person to another, never to [illegible] savory reports, we would do [illegible] wards checking gossip and [illegible] reign of kindly speech.

"I always listen politely when [illegible] brings me a piece of gossip," said [illegible] to me when I was telling her of [illegible] plexity on this matter. "I don't [illegible] the teller, but let her talk [illegible] Then I remark that it is unfortunate [illegible] stories should get about, that I [illegible] the circumstances of which she [illegible] and I change the subject, gently [illegible] cidedly. If she tries to [illegible] say that I know so little of the [illegible] I don't feel in a position to [illegible] talk of something else. The [illegible] erally works!"

What do you think of it? And [illegible] you do in like conditions?

MARION HARLAND'S HELPING HAND.

Answered Many Urgent Calls.

"WILL you say through the Corner that the quilt scraps I had to dispose of have all been given away? I exhausted all I had and then had so many urgent calls for them I put on my hat and coat and went out among my friends and obtained enough to send a generous parcel to all from whom I had letters. I had altogether eighteen letters and postcards and sent a letter and package to each one. I am keeping their addresses and if I have more pieces at any time will send them. I wish to write to Mrs. J. I have a number of articles I could spare to help her in her mountain home and I know how she is situated, for I spent a time in the mountains, in a log cabin, which, by the way, is only picturesque in the novels. I had just the most meager furnishings, lack of dishes and cooking utensils and was absolutely starved for books, papers, and pictures. In the long days and weeks of rain even the blue haze of the mountains and the blue hills were hidden in the distance and all seemed crowding down to crush the light and the life from the home. God bless Mrs. J. and others like her who are willing to dare and do for their own. I didn't mean to write such a long letter, but I often think that some one to whom the same circumstances have been known is better able to understand the needs, the privations, and also the privileges of walking in the way of peace and contentment along the road of unselfishness and service. M. H. C."

I am glad to give space to this letter, for it shows clearly the spirit I would like to see repeated again and again in the Corner. The spirit is there, and this has been clearly proved many times, but once in a while it does no harm to put it into words. The addresses asked by M. H. C. have been sent to her and those are fortunate friends who will benefit by her ministrations and letters. For the personal part of her letter I thank her.

Supplies of Magazines.

"I have a number of old magazines and can get a good many more from neighbors, who only burn them up. [Think of burning such good friends!] But I am afraid I can't pay postage on many. If they could only go by parcel post I would be glad, but I tried last year and they won't send them that way. Does any one want them enough to pay postage? If it wouldn't make this letter too long I would tell the Cornerites how to make a fireless cooker from a refrigerator of the kind where the icebox is on top, and not harm it for summer use. I live where it is hot in the summer but lovely in winter. Gas is so expensive I felt I must cut the cost, and so I invented my fireless which really does everything except fry. "MRS. W. A. F."

Perhaps there is some one who would like the magazines well enough to pay postage on them. I will gladly give room on the page to the directions for making such a fireless cooker as is described, for I am sure it would be an excellent article for those who take ice in summer and not in the cold weather and who wish to save fuel of any sort, as well as work over a hot stove. The addresses asked for have been sent.

Chickens Get the Waste.

"I am interested in what you say about the garbage pail and would like to give my own experience. When I first began housekeeping I made many mistakes, and the range was a good place to hide them from the gossiping neighbors. We could not afford many mistakes, so I learned economy. Later we came to the dignity of a furnace, with a greater capacity for garbage; a larger income, a larger family. There are just two of us now, a garden and chickens. What about the garbage pail? I have none. An old pan or kettle gets the potato parings, bacon rinds, bones, carrots, scraps of any kind that need cooking; these are boiled tender and a mash made for the chickens. Another pan, a colander, catches all the scraps that do not need cooking and are sent to the same hungry tenants. According to the big chicken ranchers hereabouts we are making 50 per cent instead of the usual 20 to 22 per cent during the molting season, as well as the high per cent the rest of the year."

This communication is unsigned, but it is none the less suggestive and helpful. I have no doubt that the garbage pail or the stove is frequently employed as a means to conceal mistakes and accidents, and the woman is fortunate who has a chicken farm which serves the same purpose and saves her money at the same time. The hint is worth bearing in mind by other dwellers on farm or ranch.

Made Young Mother Happy.

"I have been a long time in thanking you, but I hope it is better late than never. You were good enough to print my appeal for a layette a year ago and I cannot begin to tell you of the overwhelming generosity that was shown me. Things certainly were against us at that time and but for the Cornerites my little girl would have been scantily clothed indeed. She is a great big beautiful girl of 8 months now, and still wearing her Corner outfit. And her name is Jeanette Marion. It is impossible to express my unbounded gratitude and I realize as never before the great, glorious work performed by the Helping Hand. God bless the Corner! MRS. J. F. R."

I feel highly honored that my name should have been put on record, so to speak, in connection with the liberality of the Corner to the dear baby. The works of our constituency rise up to call them blessed and I am more than happy to receive this testimony to the comfort and joy brought by their efforts. More power and happiness to the baby and her mother!

Magazines for the Postage.

"I have some magazines I would be glad to send to any one who cares enough for them to pay the postage. I cannot send them just now as I am busy copying the recipes from them into my cook book and it takes some little time to do this. I will surely send them as soon as I can get the recipes done. I do not like to cut the recipes out and thus render the papers useless to others. B. D."

I am glad B. D. is thoughtful enough to copy the recipes instead of clip them. I know of few things more exasperating than to receive a magazine and find the most interesting part of a story cut out by some one who wished a direction printed on the other side.

Recipe for Nut Bread.

"Please send me the letter of Mrs. H. whose letter you headed 'Old Couple in Difficulties.' It will be my pleasure to send such reading matter as I have that may be of interest to them. Both my parents are dead, but I can imagine how I would feel if they were alive and in similar circumstances. I would like to contribute a simple recipe for nut bread: Two cups of white flour, two cups of graham flour, one-half package of raisins, one-half cup of pecans, four teaspoons of baking powder, one-third cup of sugar, half teaspoon of salt, one cup of sweet milk, two whole eggs, one tablespoon of lard. Sift all dry ingredients together, add nuts and raisins, then the lard. Last add the milk and eggs beaten together. Put into a well greased pan, place above warmer, and allow to rise for thirty minutes; bake in a moderate oven. "MRS. J. E. H."

I wish very much that I could send the address of the old couple to whom reference was made, for I can think how they would be cheered by the kindly offices of this correspondent. Unhappily she did not give the correct signature to the communication to which she refers and omitted to send the clipping which would have served as a guide to learning who they were. With the enormous number of correspondents we have in our files it is practically impossible to trace any one without the exact signature appended to the letter. I am sorry, both on account of Mrs. J. E. H. and of the old couple she wished to help. The recipe for nut bread is gratefully received.

Remedy for Ants.

"Will you please send me your remedy for ants? I have tried several of those recommended, but the ants remain numerous in my house. I had lime thrown on the ground under the house, and the house is new and everything perfectly clean and sanitary. But never before did I know ants to get into dresser drawers where there were only absolutely clean clothes. All summer I would often find dozens of ants there. Of course the cold weather will destroy them now, but I would like the remedy of which G. M. M. speaks for next summer. MRS. E. R. S."

I regret to say that I have not the address of Mrs. G. M. M., but I should think remedies enough have appeared on this page to sweep the country free of the pests. My own prophylactic is borax, mixed with red pepper. This may be mixed with wet soap and smeared on the under side of shelves. Cloves scattered about the shelves will sometimes drive ants away, since they seem to dislike strong, spicy odors. Have you followed all of these persistently? Once the ants are in the house they cannot be scattered in a day and a long siege is sometimes required before the premises are rid of them. Begin in time next spring.

Asks for Reading Matter.

"My home for another year will be in one of the lonesome places of this state, a mile or more from the nearest neighbor. Winter is here with its dreary days, and they are doubly dreary to me, for I lived in town for a number of years until the last two or three years, when I have lived on a farm in a thickly settled vicinity. My greatest pleasure after my work is done is to read a book or look over a magazine. The few books I have I have read several times, and I haven't money to buy new ones. I would like very much to exchange 'The Manxman' and 'A Chevalier of Dixie' for 'The Iron Woman,' 'The Silver Heard,' 'The Shepherd of the Hills,' 'Martin Eden,' or any other interesting book by a well known author. "F. B."

Is there not some one who would like to make such an exchange [illegible] matter, or who has, [illegible] book or so which she would [illegible] to F. B.? No, I'm afraid all we can do to reform society in this respect is to abstain from telling such tales ourselves."

Then the conversation drifted to other matters and in a little while I came away. But I have thought about the talk ever since and in connection with it recalled something I heard a lad say to his mother one day some time ago. She had been telling him some unpleasant news she had heard about a well known person with whom they were both slightly acquainted and the boy had fidgeted while he listened. When she stopped he broke out impetuously:

"Mother, I hope you won't be angry with me, but I can't bear to have you say such things as that. They don't sound like my mother. I suppose I'm an idiot, but you are so splendid and fine in all sorts of ways, and I love you such a lot—and somehow it's not like my ideal of you that you should repeat shady gossip. I don't mean to be impertinent or anything of the kind, but a fellow puts his mother on a sort of pedestal and he can't stand it to have her climb down and tell the stories other women might tell without making him wince. I scrooge all up inside when you do it."

I honored the mother the more that she did not reprove the lad, but took his remarks in the spirit in which they were evidently uttered. No woman lives, to my belief, who doesn't enjoy being exalted on a pedestal by those she loves, and perhaps that fact enabled the mother to accept the rebuke without offense. I have never forgotten the incident, and it linked itself naturally with the talk I have just reported, and both have been the occasion for some reflections on which I would like the opinion of the Cornerites.

The first one is, why do we gossip?

There are two or three divisions of this question and as many answers to it. It is a perfectly natural impulse which leads us to wish to be entertaining to our friends, and to achieve this we talk to them of the affairs in which we believe they will be interested. When we have higher objects in common, when we care for the same subjects along the lines of the intellect, of philanthropy, of work of any sort, our conversation turns to these. If we have few topics on which to meet, we dwell upon those which will hold our thoughts, and, unfortunately, these usually have to do with the business of our fellow man and woman.

I say unfortunately, and yet there would be nothing amiss in our liking to speak of our friends and acquaintances if it were not for the melancholy truth pronounced by one of the parties to the discussion with which I began this talk, that the pleasant gossip is rarely as exciting as that which has a touch of the scandalous about it.

The taste for the unusual and thrilling seems to be inborn. Most of us recollect the incident of the small boy who did not care to have his mother tell him a story about a good boy unless she would give him the tales of two bad boys afterwards. The nation may be happy which has no history, and so may the individual, but both are likely to be also dull. There is no zest in the account of the everyday monotonous happenings; we want something out of the common if we are to be amused or entertained.

I do not mean to say that all interesting occurrences are of necessity unpleasant. We have hot and cold shivers over the relation of deeds of heroism and of courage; our hearts beat and our eyes fill at stories of self-sacrifice, of duty performed in the face of danger, of bravery under suffering and sorrow. But these are likely to be more or less impersonal. They lack the edge that is on the histories of adventures of those we know familiarly or even by reputation. There is no cause for astonishment that we have a certain enjoyment in telling to our friends the anecdotes whose repetition will give us a momentary importance, and it is not marvelous if a person of a vivid imagination sometimes yields to the temptation of adorning and amplifying the original narrative and adding picturesque touches to make it more convincing or more absorbing.

I hesitate to give as an answer to the query as to why we gossip a satisfaction in retailing unsavory incidents about friends or strangers. I know there are scandal mongers who invent slanders sooner than have their bag of gossip empty or insipidly supplied, but I am loath to believe that the number of such story tellers is large enough to make them an item to be reckoned with in deciding why we gossip. I think the reasons I have already stated, and others of the same kind, are explanation sufficient for the state of gossip which exists, especially when you add to these the idleness of mind or of hands which leads people to talk because they have nothing better or more profitable to do.

Another reflection which was the outcome of the conversation on gossip is found in the last question I reported. Could we put a stop to gossip by refusing to listen to it?

This is a point on which I [illegible] the opinion of the Cornerites. [illegible] woman of you but has her [illegible] the subject. What would be your [illegible] ence among your friends if you [illegible] listen to unpleasant gossip that [illegible] brought to you?

I do not mean that you should [illegible] the talebearer unkindly. [illegible] would have no malice in her [illegible] when she came to you with an account of the unhappy marriage relations of [illegible] so, of the extravagance of Mrs. [illegible] the tendency to dissipation of Mr. [illegible] or a lament upon the manner in which this or that neighbor's children were allowed to run wild, or a tale of the [illegible] lessness of a certain young girl's demeanor towards young men. If [illegible] snubbed her sharply, or even read a lecture on the evils of gossip, she [illegible] close her lips to you, but she would [illegible] her story somewhere else, where it would have a more hospitable reception.

Nevertheless, no matter how [illegible] refused to listen to her report, [illegible] tried to point out to her with [illegible] tact that it would be kinder to those involved to keep quiet the details of [illegible] misdoings, I am afraid that you would only wound her, make her feel you [illegible] sympathetic and perhaps self-[illegible] and have no real effect in checking [illegible] disposition to talk about her neighbors. There is no doubt that no one [illegible] be corrected when she is in possession of an interesting tale. She comes to you for sympathy, for wonder, for [illegible] for rectification or rebuke, no matter how kindly this is administered.

So the conclusion to which I have [illegible] forced, after all my deliberation, [illegible] we cannot hope to do much more than follow the example set of old by the dwellers in Jerusalem, when each man kept the street clean in front of his own door. If we would set ourselves steadfastly not to gossip, to repeat no [illegible] hear that are not those of kindness, [illegible] to carry unpleasant comments from one person to another, never to spread unsavory reports, we would do much towards checking gossip and [illegible] reign of kindly speech.

"I always listen politely when some one brings me a piece of gossip," said [illegible] to me when I was telling her of my perplexity on this matter. "I don't [illegible] the teller, but let her talk [illegible] Then I remark that it is unfortunate [illegible] stories should get about, that I [illegible] the circumstances of which she [illegible] and I change the subject, gently [illegible] cidedly. If she tries to [illegible] say that I know so little of the [illegible] I don't feel in a position to discuss [illegible] talk of something else. The plan generally works!"

What do you think of it? And [illegible] you do in like conditions?

MARION HARLAND'S HELPING HAND.

Answered Many Urgent Calls.

"WILL you say through the Corner that the quilt scraps I had to dispose of have all been given away? I exhausted all I had and then had so many urgent calls for them I put on my hat and coat and went out among my friends and obtained enough to send a generous parcel to all from whom I had letters. I had altogether eighteen letters and postcards and sent a letter and package to each one. I am keeping their addresses and if I have more pieces at any time will send them. I wish to write to Mrs. J. I have a number of articles I could spare to help her in her mountain home and I knew how she is situated, for I spent a time in the mountains, in a log cabin, which, by the way, is only picturesque in the novels. I had just the most meager furnishings, lack of dishes and cooking utensils and was absolutely starved for books, papers, and pictures. In the long days and weeks of rain even the blue haze of the mountains and the blue hills were hidden in the distance and all seemed crowding down to crush the light and the life from the home. God bless Mrs. J. and others like her who are willing to dare and do for their own. I didn't mean to write such a long letter, but I often think that some one to whom the same circumstances have been known is better able to understand the needs, the privations, and also the privileges of walking in the way of peace and contentment along the road of unselfishness and service. M. H. C."

I am glad to give space to this letter, for it shows clearly the spirit I would like to see repeated again and again in the Corner. The spirit is there, and this has been clearly proved many times, but once in a while it does no harm to put it into words. The addresses asked by M. H. C. have been sent to her and those are fortunate friends who will benefit by her ministrations and letters. For the personal part of her letter I thank her.

Supplies of Magazines.

"I have a number of old magazines and can get a good many more from neighbors, who only burn them up. [Think of burning such good friends!] But I am afraid I can't pay postage on many. If they could only go by parcel post I would be glad, but I tried last year and they won't send them that way. Does any one want them enough to pay postage? If it wouldn't make this letter too long I would tell the Cornerites how to make a fireless cooker from a refrigerator of the kind where the icebox is on top, and not harm it for summer use. I live where it is hot in the summer but lovely in winter. Gas is so expensive I felt I must cut the cost, and so I invented my fireless which really does everything except fry. "MRS. W. A. F."

Perhaps there is some one who would like the magazines well enough to pay postage on them. I will gladly give room on the page to the directions for making such a fireless cooker as is described, for I am sure it would be an excellent article for those who take ice in summer and not in the cold weather and who wish to save fuel of any sort, as well as work over a hot stove. The addresses asked for have been sent.

Chickens Get the Waste.

"I am interested in what you say about the garbage pail and would like to give my own experience. When I first began housekeeping I made many mistakes, and the range was a good place to hide them from the gossiping neighbors. We could not afford many mistakes, so I learned economy. Later we came to the dignity of a furnace, with a greater capacity for garbage; a larger income, a larger family. There are just two of us now, a garden and chickens. What about the garbage pail? I have none. An old pan or kettle gets the potato parings, bacon rinds, bones, carrots, scraps of any kind that need cooking; these are boiled tender and a mash made for the chickens. Another pan, a colander, catches all the scraps that do not need cooking and are sent to the same hungry tenants. According to the big chicken ranchers hereabouts we are making 50 per cent instead of the usual 20 to 22 per cent during the molting season, as well as the high per cent the rest of the year."

This communication is unsigned, but it is none the less suggestive and helpful. I have no doubt that the garbage pail or the stove is frequently employed as a means to conceal mistakes and accidents and the woman is fortunate who has a chicken farm which serves the same purpose and saves her money at the same time. The hint is worth bearing in mind by other dwellers on farm or ranch.

Made Young Mother Happy.

"I have been a long time in thanking you, but I hope it is better late than never. You were good enough to print my appeal for a layette a year ago and I cannot begin to tell you of the overwhelming generosity that was shown me. Things certainly were against us at that time and but for the Cornerites my little girl would have been scantily clothed indeed. She is a great big beautiful girl of 8 months now, and still wearing her Corner outfit. And her name is Jeanette Marion. It is impossible to express my unbounded gratitude and I realize as never before the great, glorious work performed by the Helping Hand. God bless the Corner! MRS. J. F. R."

I feel highly honored that my name should have been put on record, so to speak, in connection with the liberality of the Corner to the dear baby. The works of our constituency rise up to call them blessed and I am more than happy to receive this testimony to the comfort and joy brought by their efforts. More power and happiness to the baby and her mother!

Magazines for the Postage.

"I have some magazines I would be glad to send to any one who cares enough for them to pay the postage. I cannot send them just now as I am busy copying the recipes from them into my cook book and it takes some little time to do this. I will surely send them as soon as I can get the recipes done. I do not like to cut the recipes out and thus render the papers useless to others. B. D."

I am glad B. D. is thoughtful enough to copy the recipes instead of clip them. I know of few things more exasperating than to receive a magazine and find the most interesting part of a story cut out by some one who wished a direction printed on the other side.

Recipe for Nut Bread.

"Please send me the letter of Mrs. H. whose letter you headed 'Old Couple in Difficulties.' It will be my pleasure to send such reading matter as I have that may be of interest to them. Both my parents are dead, but I can imagine how I would feel if they were alive and in similar circumstances. I would like to contribute a simple recipe for nut bread: Two cups of white flour, two cups of graham flour, one-half package of raisins, one-half cup of pecans, four teaspoons of baking powder, one-third cup of sugar, half teaspoon of salt, one cup of sweet milk, two whole eggs, one tablespoon of lard. Sift all dry ingredients together, add nuts and raisins, then the lard. Last add the milk and eggs beaten together. Put into a well greased pan, place above warmer, and allow to rise for thirty minutes; bake in a moderate oven. "MRS. J. E. H."

I wish very much that I could send the address of the old couple to whom reference was made, for I can think how they would be cheered by the kindly offices of this correspondent. Unhappily she did not give the correct signature to the communication to which she refers and omitted to send the clipping which would have served as a guide to learning who they were. With the enormous number of correspondents we have in our files it is practically impossible to trace any one without the exact signature appended to the letter. I am sorry, both on account of Mrs. J. E. H. and of the old couple she wished to help. The recipe for nut bread is gratefully received.

Remedy for Ants.

"Will you please send me your remedy for ants? I have tried several of those recommended, but the ants remain numerous in my house. I had lime thrown on the ground under the house, and the house is new and everything perfectly clean and sanitary. But never before did I know ants to get into dresser drawers where there were only absolutely clean clothes. All summer I would often find dozens of ants there. Of course the cold weather will destroy them now, but I would like the remedy of which G. M. M. speaks for next summer. MRS. E. R. S."

I regret to say that I have not the address of Mrs. G. M. M., but I should think remedies enough have appeared on this page to sweep the country free of the pests. My own prophylactic is borax, mixed with red pepper. This may be mixed with wet soap and smeared on the under side of shelves. Cloves scattered about the shelves will sometimes drive ants away, since they seem to dislike strong, spicy odors. Have you followed all of these persistently? Once the ants are in the house they cannot be scattered in a day and a long siege is sometimes required before the premises are rid of them. Begin in time next spring.

Asks for Reading Matter.

"My home for another year will be in one of the lonesome places of this state, a mile or more from the nearest neighbor. Winter is here with its dreary days, and they are doubly dreary to me, for I lived in town for a number of years until the last two or three years, when I have lived on a farm in a thickly settled vicinity. My greatest pleasure after my work is done is to read a book or look over a magazine. The few books I have I have read several times, and I haven't money to buy new ones. I would like very much to exchange 'The Manxman' and 'A Chevalier of Dixie' for 'The Iron Woman,' 'The Silver Hoard,' 'The Shepherd of the Hills,' 'Martin Eden,' or any other interesting book by a well known author. Unique Doilies for Luncheon Set

DESIGNED BY ELIZABETH MILLER

THE success of a luncheon depends largely upon the way the table is set. When the guests first look at the table they decide just how good a time they are going to have. It is very important that the setting of the table be not left to other hands. The words "How pretty the table looks" not only repay the hostess for her work, but they always start the conversation—a thing every hostess is glad to accomplish. An unbroken silence is most embarrassing for all present. Every hostess likes to get something out of the ordinary, either in the way of decorations or in the way of refreshments. It is for this reason that I feel certain that the unusual shape of the doilies offered on the page today will not only attract attention, but they will instill [illegible] ambitio.s woman a desire to [illegible] making a set immediately.

The plate doily is in the shape of [illegible]. As shown in the diagram, [illegible] is placed with its narrow end toward the centerpiece. [illegible] room on the plate doily for the tumbler, so that the smaller doily is used at one side, as suggested in the sketch. On it the cup and saucer are to be placed. Of course, it could be placed above the plate doily, to the right, to hold the tumbler, but by using it in this manner, the symmetry of the whole set is apt to be spoiled.

So much for the placing of the doilies. And now for the design. This is for cutwork, real or imitation. If one has the time and the ability to do the former, the resulting open effect will more than repay one for the efforts put forth. Any woman who does a reasonable amount of sewing is familiar with the buttonhole stitch. This stitch is the main idea in cutwork, so you see there is no reason to think that the task will be difficult.

First of all, stamp the design on fine heavy linen so that the finished work will show up satisfactorily. After tracing the design take a running stitch all around the motif. Then start to buttonhole over the running stitch, placing the purling on the outer line. When you reach a point where a bar is indicated, stitch across to the other side, and return on the same thread by wrapping it around and around your needle; then proceed with the buttonhole stitch until you come to the next bar, when you repeat. Do not fail to take extremely fine stitches and place them close together. When the buttonholing is finished, cut away the material carefully.

Should any embroiderer prefer not to do the real cutwork, she can follow an easier and a very satisfactory method. The double lines delineating the shape of the designs can be worked solid, while the bars can be filled in with straight, long stitches. For this purpose rather heavy twisted silk or cotton should be used. By using white for the solid work and green for the bars quite an attractive set could be made.

Pad the edge of each doily with darning cotton and buttonhole over the padding carefully.

There is very little work required to complete the set. If you go at the embroidering in a systematic manner the work will be facilitated. Resolve to finish at least one doily a day. You will not be taxing your strength, but you will be giving yourself a resolution to keep; and who knows but what you may exceed the limit! Give your friends something to talk about. Most likely they have never heard of an apron luncheon set before. But remember that it is quite as important to have your menu just as attractive as your linen. Otherwise, your effort to give pleasure to your guests will have been in vain.

[illegible] the Bargain Bolt of Ribbon

[illegible] pretty bolt of dresden ribbon [illegible] was so cheap that you just couldn't resist buying [illegible] not have proved useful so far, but [illegible] go a good distance toward [illegible] up your guest room, particularly as its rose design goes very [illegible] with the paper and rug.

[illegible] you have often made coat [illegible] of the ribbon, first covering [illegible] with scented cotton wadding and then sewing the ribbon along the edge to make a [illegible]. When the ribbon has a [illegible]-inch edge of another color, it [illegible] to run the seam in be[illegible] to form a tiny ruffle. [illegible] pincushion may be made [illegible] dressing table, and, to match, [illegible] easily construct a lingerie [illegible]. A casing is made in the top, [illegible] piece of the ribbon has been [illegible] together, while the bottom is [illegible] on a ring. A bolt of baby [illegible] is put in the bag, the end pro[illegible] through the hole. It is then [illegible] disposal of each needy guest. [illegible] bag is easily made. If the [illegible] is rather narrow, match two [illegible] and seam them together. [illegible] them and sew them along the [illegible] to form the bag. A casing at [illegible] may be threaded with nar[illegible], and the bag is finished. [illegible] friend is fond of crocheting [illegible] your leisure hours together, [illegible] a simple bag of the ribbon. [illegible] is used, long enough to slip [illegible] wrist after the raw edges [illegible] sewn together, and far [illegible] up the sides to form a bag. [illegible] which forms the handle [illegible] over the wrist, may be [illegible], and consequently less [illegible] by making two folds lengthwise [illegible] the ribbon, and holding them [illegible] with feather-stitching.

[illegible] the lamp must have its [illegible] and this is dainty and light[illegible] if made of the ribbon, shirred [illegible] or even an oval frame. [illegible] ribbon is narrow, two widths [illegible] sewed together. A tiny shade [illegible] may be made for the candle [illegible] the bedstead stand.

About Quilts and Quilting

NO ONE can deny the modern city apartment is far too small for the setting up of a quilting frame and that this may be one of the reasons why quilting is fast becoming a lost art—in cities, at least. There are still many women of leisure who with ample time and room for the quilting process are turning out very pretty modern editions of the old-time quilt patterns which caused neighborly tongues to wag and much gossip to spring in days gone by.

Mostly every one knows what a hand-quilted spread should look like, and for those who do not, it is well to say that they are very much like the more expensive kind of bedspread, with just as elaborate patterns worked out by the quilting of two pieces of fine cotton cloth, with the interlining of cotton or wool. Some of the old quilting patterns are very intricate and not easy for the amateur to undertake, for it takes an experienced hand to do even the simplest quilting designs neatly. But it is not necessary to be an adept at the "pineapple," "broken plaid," "feather" or "medallion" quilting patterns, for effective quilts may be made by using colored cottons in applique or "inlay" effect.

One may make small quilt squares which need nothing larger than a good-sized embroidery frame to hold them taut for the quilting process. If these are made about a foot square it will take probably thirty-six of these units to make a large comfort. No. 70 cotton should be used for the quiltings, which should be done with as fine and as even stitches as possible.

Some of the old quilt patterns may be duplicated in colored cottons for use with the colonial furnishings. If you are the proud possessor of a dilapidated remnant of a quilt showing one of the favorite "tea leaf," "puss-in-the-corner," "drunkard's-path," "feather-star," "basket," "log-cabin" or "tulip" designs, you might very well imitate it for the benefit of posterity.

VARIETY

"ANYTHING for variety" is a time-worn expression, but something for variety is far more important, especially when it comes to needlework. The proof of this statement is given in the apron-shaped doilies which do their share toward completing a very attractive luncheon set.

Bags With New Kinks

PERHAPS it is bags more than anything else in the realm of needlework which feel the results of heavy thinking on the part of clever and original designers. For ingenuity the little traveling sewing kit which can be made from a half yard of nine-inch ribbon probably excels. A small cylinder of cardboard is filled with cotton and covered with an end of the ribbon. This acts, of course, as a pincushion and as the center of the bag. To this one-third of the width of the ribbon is turned up in a series of small pockets to hold such necessities as hooks and eyes, buttons, needles, bodkins of thread and silk, a thimble, etc. The other two-thirds of the ribbon makes the enveloping bag and is drawn together by a narrow ribbon run through a casing at the other edge. This is a very compact and practical case for the traveler or bachelor girl.

Another bag shows a butterfly painted on silk and imprisoned behind a netting of gold lace. The shape of this bag is unique as well as the design of trimming. Two crescent-shaped disks of cardboard with the concave edge of the crescent rising slightly to a point are covered with bright satin. If the bag is to be used for a party bag, which is the most appropriate use for it, it should be made from a piece of the dance frock. To the cardboard disks is then sewed a pouch of the silk, which is shirred at the bottom into a silk tassel of the same color. The disks are covered with gold net and a gold cord is fashioned into a long loop on one side and a short loop on the other. The longer loop is then drawn through the shorter one and the bag is held flatly closed. Handkerchiefs, a bit of powder, a few hairpins, etc., will find a dainty resting place here for the girl who dances.

A small silk glove handkerchief is a bit of luxury not used by many women, but very apt to be found in the gift box of handkerchiefs. It may be put to good use, however, if it is fastened to the back of a tiny round mirror either by sewing or a bit of paste. It should be drawn up with narrow ribbon through a ribbon casing and a powder puff permanently attached outside. These make delightful favors for a luncheon for girls.

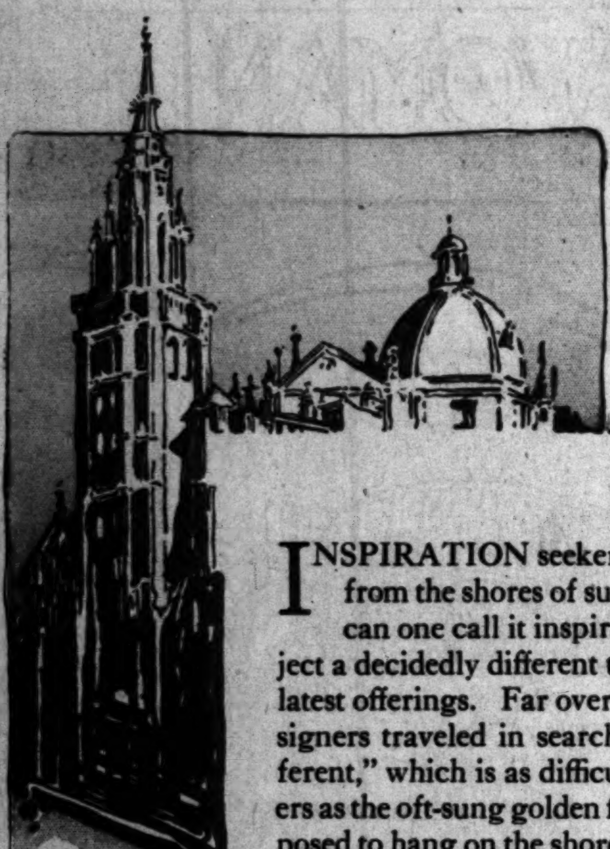
How to Transfer

PLACE a sheet of impression carbon paper between your fabric and the newspaper design, the latter on top. With a sharp pencil or a glass-pointed pen go over the outline. The design will be transferred to the material and will last until worked.

A Novel Scarf

AFTER Christmas nearly every one has a knitted scarf in her possession crocheted or knit by some one's loving hands. Perhaps there will be more than one scarf, in which case one might be turned into the clever little arrangement seen in an art needlework shop. It was originally, or, rather, might have been originally, a scarf about a yard and a half long and ten or twelve inches wide. At each end the edges were joined for a distance of four or five inches and a pleated edge crocheted along the edge to give it the effect of a cuff. The idea is that the scarf thus fixed may be slipped over the shoulders in a chilly room and the hands slipped through the joined ends, thus holding the scarf from slipping off and giving more warmth to the arms. Try it with the white wool one from Aunt Jennie; but take off the fringe first!

Spain Colors the Styles



INSPIRATION seekers have brought back from the shores of sunny Spain enough—can one call it inspiration serum?—to inject a decidedly different tone into the season's latest offerings. Far over the seas have the designers traveled in search of "something different," which is as difficult to these adventurers as the oft-sung golden fleece which was supposed to hang on the shores of the Black Sea.

And the result of the Spanish explorations has yielded this fetching frock modeled almost exactly after the famous dancing girl of old Seville, except that she has absorbed the much-talked-of feminism and discarded the mantilla of romance for a feminine version of her dancing partner's bolero. Black lace, red roses, winged love missives, low garden walls and serenades have always spelt Spain to lovers of the romantic, and hence it is that fashion may be said to have taken a romantic turn when it expresses itself in this pictured combination of black lace and the orange of Seville itself.

The short insolent skirt so characteristic of the professional Spanish dancer has been faithfully copied, even to the conical gored effect, which is quite different from the bouffant structure of the ballet costume. The black lace is applied in symmetrical rows—rather a departure from the careless hang-as-you-please attitude of the latest skirt fancies.

The bolero uses a bordering of black velvet, which, with the black lace ruffles, makes the orange of the frock even more startling.

They say that the charm of the Spanish dance lies not so much in the stamp of the foot and the glimmering eye or the rhythm of the castanets, but more in the sympathy of emotion which the spectacle creates in the spectators. What about the sympathy of emotion created in the spectators of this charming and romantic frock?
